Saturday, November 25, 1911.

In a Wisconsin circuit court the state naturalization examiner made a strenuous protest over the issue that a number of applicants for citizenship papers had saloonkeepers to testify as to competency, residence. etc., and announced that hereafter he will not recommend the granting of citizen papers on saloonkeepers' testimony.

The board of control has submitted a unanimous report exonerating Superintendent Whittier from the charges made against him. Simultaneously with the announcement of the report the superintendent tendered his resignation. While technically he is found guiltless, the finding of the board will in no wise absolve Whittier from guilt in the minds of the people of the state.

Our Washington correspondent says that Ohio has gone to the bad and voted to have the constitution changed, establishing the initiative, referendum, and the recall, and that the old "Buckeye state" is forever lost to the republicans. Not unexpected, public opinion has changed wonderfully since the last presidential election; those who were partisans then are republicans now and are determined to have a "fresh deck and a new deal."—Cass Lake Times.

Discussing the testimony of C. H. Martz before the congressional investigating committee the St. Paul dispatch observes that financiers protest to wonder why it is that there is hostility toward capital. They decry the tendency they say exists to hamper and harass big industries, particularly railroads. They preach the let alone policy and argue for a square deal. And when they have talked long enough and earnestly enough so that they seem in a fair way to make a favorable impression, something happens. This time it was the testimony of Mr. Martz. In the face of testimony such as his, it is pretty uphill work to convince the people that the big interests are downtrodden.

Ex-President Roosevelt says in the Outlook that the present policy of the government toward the big trusts is chaotic, and that while aimed at real evils, no real good can come out of it, and that until the government controls the trusts the same as it does the railroads in the interests of the people no progress will be attained. He draws attention to the examples of the standard oil and tobacco trusts, averring that their dissolution and reorganization under another form was merely a change of clothes that furnished no relief whatever to the people. Roosevelt is right in this matter. Until the government changes its tactics and instead of attempting to wipe out the trusts bodily, places check valves on them in some the same manner it has the railroads, and follows Bryan's idea of prosecuting criminally the high officials who disobey the law, there will be no cessation of overcapitalization and exorbitant prices.—Middle River Pioneer.

C. H. Martz's Testimony

C. H. Martz was called to Washington last week to testify before the Stanley steel trust investigating committee. Mr. Martz was the engineer who built the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad, of which the capture by John D. Rockefeller is being inquired into, and his testimony has attracted the attention of the whole country.

He told how he was required to make a report showing that the road cost $5,000,000, instead of $1,700,000, so that the dividends would not look too big. The admission that the Duluth, Missabe & Northern had given the Minnesota commission a highly padded valuation, caused a mild sensation in the committee room. He said Joseph B. Cotton, attorney for the railroad, had supervised the report, informing him that the original cost of the road must be padded to $3,000,000. Inflated valuation of subsequent construction had brought the total up to nearly $8,000,000. A copy of that report was submitted to the committee.

He testified, also, that he had owned forty nine shares of the company's stock; that nineteen of them were borrowed many years ago on the theory that they were wanted for purposes of hypothecation; he related how he was forced to sell his remaining stock at $30 a share on the statement that "Mr. Rockefeller did not want any employes holding stock in the road." The stock pays $200 a share each year in dividends. He says he never got his nineteen shares back nor got any money for them, but was told that he could keep his job so long as he said nothing. He needed the job and kept still.

Smallest Known Engraving

Among the relics of Sir Moses Montefore is a grain of wheat on which by the aid of a microscope can be found engraved the 386 Hebrew characters of a prayer, inscribed thereon by Bauch Mordecal of Jerusalem, together with the date of the year, Hebrew reckon-reckoning, 5,645. If all the virtues of golden grain belt beers were to be inscribed on a grain of barley, the feat would be a much greater one in minute engraving than this one from Jerusalem. If you have never tried them, you have never had that exquisite beer tang which makes friends everywhere. Order of Alex Thompson, Crookston, or of your dealer.

Canada Overplayed

The report of the grain inspector at Winnipeg shows a great loss in the yield of exportable grain in western Canada over last year. The movement of grain by water from Port Arthur and Fort Williams between September 1 and October 14 is about 2,000,000 bushels short of that shipped in 1910. Four million bushels less of Canadian grain went to Buffalo than went to that port in the same period of last year.

Though Canadians can say the United States also suffered a bad crop year, that cannot explain why, with all the booming, the census returns showed a population far below the estimates. Conditions must have been discouraging to hundreds and thousands who took advantage of the liberal land laws of western Canada. Though the Dominion boasts that farming is conducted 909 miles north of Winnipeg, there is no promise of the general extension of of agriculture more than a hundred miles beyond the Saskatchewan, a recent survey having shown the country bald and infertile. Pioneers will go anywhere. They do not always stay.

In spite of the swift growth of the cities and the breaking of new land, the glowing promises begin to dim. The whole grain growing northwest will be a long time overtaking the wealth and development of lower Ontario and may never be as rich as states in this country, one-tenth as large in area, but having infinite diversity of industry.

PLENTY OF ROOM.

No Trouble to Find a Place For Him to Rest In Sleep.

His blanket the soldier takes along on the march, but usually not his tent. Usage soon makes the ground as soft a bed as he wants. The case is pretty nearly the same with the prospector and the frontiersman. In writing of the "Highways and Byways of the Pacific Coast" Mr. Clifton Johnson tells of the practice on the ranches of the west. He was the guest of an early settler.

While we were chatting a laborer passed, shouldering a roll of blankets. The butcher had come to the door, and he pointed to the passer and said: "You see that fellow, don't you? Well, when I first reached here from the east I thought a man with a bed on his back was the funniest thing I'd ever come across.

"A rancher in this country won't take his hired man into his house. They've got to furnish their own blankets and usually sleep on the hay in the barn.

"I know a fellow who, when he'd just arrived and didn't understand the way they manage, got a job harvesting on a big wheat ranch. The help usually sleep in the straw stacks then, and it's precious little time they get to sleep anywhere. But he didn't know anything about that, and he was sitting around in the evening and finally said to the rancher, 'Where am I to sleep tonight?'

"'Why, I don't care where you sleep,' said the rancher. 'I've got 900 acres of land around here, and if you can't find a place to sleep on that I'll get my next neighbor to lend me a piece of his.'"

Blowing Up the Locks.

Would it be easy to blow up and destroy a lock canal by the malicious use of dynamite or other high explosive? The question has been debated much in connection with the Panama canal. The Engineering News calls attention to the fact that an attempt made in 1900 to wreck the Welland canal in this way produced surprisingly small results. After two weeks' examination the two men concerned selected lock 24, and each lowered a satchel containing dynamite and a fuse to the water behind the gate at each end of the lock. Both charges were exploded, but the dynamite failed to carry away the gates. Although the explosives blew a hole about a foot in diameter through each gate and loosened the hinges, the gates remained in position, holding back the water.

The Name Bismarck.

Few people know how Bismarck and his ancestors got their name. Bismarck is the name of one of those ancient castles a short distance from Stendal, on the road from Cologne to Berlin, in the center of the old marquisate of Brandenburg. The castle had this name because it defended the "marca," or the line where the river Biese formed a boundary in former times or mark of defense against intruders; hence the name of Bismarck.

A GAME OF BLUFF.

By P. B. ANDERSON

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

While sitting at a table before a cafe on the Champs d'Elysees, Paris, sipping a glass of absinth, I heard voices at a table near by. Several Frenchmen were talking, one of whom was decrying American women. I was young at the time and especially hot headed even for a young man. I had been long enough in France—I was studying medicine there—to know the result to be expected from a quarrel. Nevertheless I threw caution to the winds and, turning to the speaker, said:

"You contemptible French puppy! If I hear another word from you derogatory of my countrywomen I'll break my cane over your head!"

The man looked at me in astonishment, then said in the most polite manner:

"It will not be necessary for m'sieu to do that. It would make a scene and call the attention of the police."

Taking a card from his pocket, he laid it on my table and waited evidently for me to give him mine. Since there was nothing else for me to do I made the exchange, giving him a card on which was my address. Then the party of Frenchmen rose and went away, leaving me to recover my senses.

Unfortunately for us Americans, we have advanced far beyond other races in true chivalry, while the chivalry of barbarism remains with them. The proper thing for the Frenchman to do was to apologize at once for attacking women. Yet his code compelled him to enforce his slanderous talk by trying to kill me. I have never since been able to decide whether I was called upon to resent his remarks. It certainly was not very prudent to do so.

Within an hour one of the party I had seen at the cafe called upon me with a challenge. I was not prepared to "crawfish," so I put on a bold front. But in order to gain time I told my visitor that, having medical examinations on hand, it would be two days before I could grant his principal a meeting; he would hear from me in due time. He was a dapper little fellow with a waxed mustache and goatee. In making his exit from the room, backing out with an excess of politeness, he brought up against the door, which stood open. Unruffled, however, by the incident, he recovered his stability and took his departure. Notwithstanding the critical position I was in I could not refrain from laughing.

The examinations I had referred to were in fencing and shooting in order to discover at which I would have the best chance for my life. I repaired immediately to a shooting gallery and on account of defective vision, having to use my left hand, in fifty shots missed the target thirty times and hit the center once (by accident). Not seeing any chance with powder and ball, I repaired to the fencing academy of M. Fournier, told my story to its celebrated principal and asked him if he could put me in any condition to fight within the limit of time. He gave me a foil and fenced with me for half an hour, at the end of which time he told me there must be something the matter with my sight since my thrusts invariably fell far short of the mark. I told him that an accident had deprived me of the use of one eye, with the accompanying loss of power to adjust a focus.

In that case, he said, it would be better for me to use a pistol, since the distance of my enemy would then make no difference. When I told him that it was my right eye that was affected and unfortunately I was not left handed, he looked very grave.

On a table was a pile of circulars of the fencing academy, each bearing a half tone picture of its principal. I picked up one of them, remarking that I would keep it for the likeness, whereupon M. Fournier opened a drawer in which were a number of cabinet size photographs of himself and, selecting one, handed it to me. I asked him to put his signature on it, and he wrote:

To Dr. Alexander Germain, whose skill with the foil far exceeds mine.
GUSTAVE FOURNIER.

An idea had struck him, and the moment I read what he had written it struck me. With a grateful pressure of the hand I left him and, going to my rooms, placed his photograph in a conspicuous place on my mantel. Then I sent a message to my adversary's second that I would be happy to see him with a view to settling the preliminaries of a meeting.

All Paris knew the face of Gustave Fournier, and my visitor had not entered my room before he noticed the picture and, going to it, read the presentation inscription. He then took the seat I offered him with a different expression on his face.

"To begin," I said, looking at him savagely, "having the choice of weapons, I choose rapiers. I prefer extra size, extra length, if they can be obtained, and desire that the point and both sides of the blades be as sharp as they can be ground."

He listened to all I had to say without a remark and left me to report the terms. He returned after awhile with the statement that his principal had been misunderstood; that he had the highest regard and admiration for American women and could not consent to meet me on such an issue.

I looked much disappointed, though I felt inexpressible relieved. However, I told the gentleman that I must of course accept an apology, but warned his principal in future to be more careful of his utterances.

I took ten lessons of Fournier at $30 a lesson.

Tidings have been received here of the death, on Nov. 17. of Louis A. Rouse, at his home in Densmore, Cal., Mr. Rouse, was a resident of this place about twelve years ago and operated a barber shop here.

Frank Freund gave his moving picture show to a crowded house Saturday evening. Sunday evening in spite of warnings that he would not be allowed to show, he attempted to go on with his performance and persisted after repeated notification by the village marshal, and not until he was finally threatened with incarceration in the coop did he desist.

Rural Route Patrons Must Break Roads

Rural route patrons are required to keep open the roads that are traveled by the mail carriers if they expect proper service. The carrier has not the time nor is it his business to break roads while delivering mail during the winter. Patrons should see that the roads are broken after each blizzard, thereby complying with the rules of the postoffice department in regard to rural routes.

Resolutions of Condolence

Whereas, It has pleased the Almighty in His infinite wisdom and omnipotence to remove from our lodge a friend and brother in the death of L. A. Rouse;

Be it hereby resolved, That we, the members of St. Hilaire Lodge No. 147, I. O. O. F., fully realize the loss this lodge has sustained;

Be it further resolved, That we express our sympathy to the relatives and friends of the deceased; and lastly,

Be it resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the lodge, that they be published in the St. Hilaire Spectator, and that copies be sent to Dunsmore lodge and to Miss Maud Rouse, daughter of the deceased.

Marriage

The marriage of two well known Wylie young people occurred yesterday. The parties to the happy event were Miss Caroline Eckstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Eckstein, and Mr. Joseph Draeger, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Draeger. The wedding ceremony was performed at St. Mary's church in this city, Rev. Fr. Ambrose officiating. The wedding was a quiet affair, only a few relatives being in attendance. Mr. Draeger and his bride have gone to Warroad, where Mr. Draeger has lived for some time and in which city they will reside. Their many friends in Red Lake county are glad of the opportunity to offer congratulations and best wishes.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

Fog and Sound.

In a fog at sea the toll of a bell buoy is singularly grave and solemn, well matched by the weird note of a whistling buoy. Unfortunately the value of both is lessened in foggy weather from there being but little motion of the sea. Nothing, too, is more difficult than to distinguish in a fog the direction from which a sound comes. This is in part due doubtless to the interference offered to the straight course of the waves carrying the sound, but also probably to the absence of the normal, although unsuspected, co-ordination of eye and ear in locating the origin of sound. The assistance of the eye on sea and land is instinctively given to the ear in many different ways. In a fog the ear has only itself to trust to.—London Spectator.

Describing a Railroad.

The Pall Mall Gazette in 1890 asked its readers to name the worst railway in England. And one English kicker answered thus: "Sir—The Southeastern railway is the very worst railway in the world. The engines are asthmatic. Its lamps are trimmed by foolish virgins. Its fares are excessive. Its carriages let in the snow in winter and are furnaces in summer. Its motto is unpunctuality. Its principal station is approached through the neck of a bottle. It ruins the temper, destroys the digestion and enables one to realize the horrors of Dante's 'Inferno.' I am, sir, yours obediently, the Worm Who Turns."

English Etchings.

The title of reverend was first used in England in 1657.

Employment will be given to 18,000 men if England's plan is carried out of afforesting 150,000 acres a year.

England is getting warmer. The average temperature has risen just over a degree in the past half century.

The brewery at Burton-on-Trent, England, covers 160 acres. The yearly income is over $25,000,000. Seven hundred carloads of ale are forwarded daily.

"Got everything, pa?" asked Ham of Noah while the old man stood on the quarter deck and scanned the passenger list.

"I don't know. Several men have gone by, but I didn't think to ask any of them if they were horse thieves."

No Satisfaction.

No Piano has ever been more enthusiastically endorsed. The Artistic Case, the Easy, Responsive Action, and above all the deep, sweet, rich Tone, captivates performer and listener. The united verdict is that ∴ ∴ ∴ ∴

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

DAKOTA BUSINESS COLLEGE

Every person needs a business education and it costs no more to get it at this great Business and Shorthand Training School, under exact office conditions, than at one of the small questionable ones. The results are, however, very different. 250 D. B. C. pupils went to excellent positions in banks and offices this year—over [illegible] will do so next year. All Fargo banks and 635 others employ D. B. C. pupils as cashiers, tellers or bookkeepers. No other school offers such endorsement.

Our $50 course prepares for business life, or for position as clerk or bookkeeper. Our new $35 course in Commerce and Banking (endorsed by Bankers' Association) supplies cashiers and tellers for the Northwestern banks, and bookkeepers and credit men for the larger concerns. The shorthand course (under an expert reporter) trains court reporters and high grade stenographers. The stenographers for the U. S. District Court, N. D. Supreme Court, 3d Judicial District and the Cass Co. Court are D. B. C. pupils. Can other schools offer this proof of superior training?

The D. B. C. has built a magnificent new building (25,000 square feet of space) is seated with roll top desks, has 80 typewriters, adding machines, billers, money changers, etc. Our pupils deal with each other and with magnificently equipped offices, using aluminum money. Our courses are fascinating and practical. The Northwest has "No other school like the D. B. C." Next term begins soon. For booklet write,

NOTES from MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William Pitt

Inbreeding too much will cause pigeons to "go light."

Early maturity is the keynote in successful pig handling.

Persistency is one of the valuable qualities of a good dairy cow.

Do not allow the pullets to roost in the coops where they were raised.

The horse that slobbers when eating should have his teeth examined.

The experienced poultryman will breed only from his best winter layers.

Onions, unlike potatoes and other root crops, will not keep in a moist cellar.

Tile drainage by making the soil firm enables earlier cultivation in the spring.

Low ground drained can be cultivated earlier than high ground not drained.

Prune the currants and gooseberries as soon as the leaves fall, or early next spring.

Hard work is not so apt to injure a horse as the failure to receive proper attention afterwards.

At this season of the year with the coming of the fall rains, a dry shelter should be provided for the sheep.

"Almost every wrong act of the horse is caused by fear, excitement or mismanagement," said a great horseman.

When you build or remodel your dairy barn provide plenty of windows to admit direct sunlight during the winter.

Begin a systematic culling of the flock this month, and get rid of all unpromising birds before cold weather sets in.

A dairy barn can be kept practically free from unpleasant odors, but we never saw more than half a dozen such barns.

Pigs on growing clover or alfalfa with skim milk and shorts slop will grow about as fast as it is possible for pigs to grow.

It is just as important that every horse should have his own collar all the time as that a man should wear his own shoes.

Save the small potatoes and imperfect heads of cabbage and other waste vegetables. They will all be relished by the hens in the winter.

Work horses, that have been pushed in the fields all summer should now have the advantage of every hour possible in the fall pastures.

Corn is a good grain diet for work horses, but colts and young horses should have feed containing more protein and mineral matter.

Where a number of horses are kept in the same barn the sides of the stall should be low enough to allow them to see each other as all horses love company.

Let the same person milk the same cows every day when possible, because a strange milker always makes the animal nervous and affects the milk flow.

The first test to be given a new workman on the farm is to send him out with a team. If he handles them kindly and skillfully he is pretty sure to be a good all-round man.

If you find a workman kicking or beating a horse back him up into a corner and give him a sound lecture. Then watch him carefully and if he repeats the act send him adrift.

When a man sends his horse pell-mell down hill with a loose rein he not only jars the shoulders, springs the knees, weakens the nerves, but runs the risk of breaking his horses's knees.

Put new sand on the floor of the hen house immediately, otherwise it will not dry out thoroughly before cold weather comes but will remain damp and make the house uncomfortable throughout the winter.

There is no economy in feeding musty grain of any kind to the chickens, even if it can be had for a quarter of the price of good grain. The fowls will eat it, if other food is withheld, but it is not good for them.

In many of the big sheep states the farmers find it profitable to engage the professional shearers with a machine. They go about from farm to farm shearing the flocks singly or have several flocks brought to a central point.

Hog feeders are coming to understand that skim milk from the separator is worth much more than that obtained by deep setting, open setting or the common skim milk of the creamery. You will get better results from feeding skim milk when it is warm and fresh than if it is allowed to stand over night.

The early hatched pullets will soon be beginning to lay.

There is no advantage in having the colt make too rapid a growth.

More horses are spoiled by poor drivers than any other way.

Horses like shredded fodder, but one must learn to feed it right.

The well-sheltered paddock helps out the winter feed bin.

It is bad policy to let the milk and cream get a kitchen flavor.

Surplus young ducks will soon be in demand in the city markets.

Let the hogs turn all the "windfall apples" into high-priced pork.

Washing a separator is not a very difficult job if done soon after separating.

Grapes are apt to overbear and it is never safe to let them set all the fruit they will.

Skim milk is good for growing pigs but it is better with shorts mixed with it.

Don't put up with a "robber" cow any more than you would with a robber of any kind.

There is no variety of fowls that can be so quickly gotten upon the market as young ducks.

As the weather continues to get cooler at this time of the year, fresh bones may be had at the butcher's.

Feed just enough—have the pig's bed clean and comfortable so he will lie down and sleep, and put on fat.

Guard the fowls against exposure to dampness and draughts and they will be kept free from colds and roup.

One of the greatest secrets in the successful keeping of horses is the furnishing of plenty of pure air and light.

Cows that are expected to return a profit must have liberal rations of the kinds of foods adapted to their needs.

An important item in feeding dairy cows is to have good, tight mangers where the feed will not be soiled or wasted.

It is claimed that early sown fall wheat is benefited when pastured with sheep to keep down the rank growth.

Pedigreed scrubs are the bane of the stock breeding business, and need the attention of honest breeders of all classes of stock.

See that the chickens are not overcrowded at night, for they sometimes get hot and sweaty and when let out in the morning catch cold, which develops into roup.

If you are a beginner with sheep go slow until you have mastered the industry. As in poultrying or any other like business, experience is the safe, sure teacher.

If taken at a very early age chickens can be taught to come and go at certain times, fed in a certain way and do other things that will save time and annoyance.

The chicken does not refuse to lay eggs or get fat through perverseness of character. It is simply because the owner does not know how to bring about desired results.

A well-filled crib of well-matured corn, which generally means a good yield per acre, is much more satisfactory and to be desired than many first prizes at the fair.

The truth is the farmers of the middle west are raising better mutton than ever before and people are learning that it is about the best and cheapest meat they can buy.

This cry is never heard by the birds by her or anybody else except at the times when they were actually wanted and the way they came running was a striking lesson in training.

In counting the profits from your flock do not fail to count the value of the fat lambs killed during the twelve months for the family use and the high value of all the manure.

Shut the hens out of the nest boxes at night. They will creep in there if they can to roost. It is warmer there and they like it; but what a mess they make of the nest.

If the colts are to come out sound, lively and ready for work or market next spring they must have good feed, plenty of exercise in open air every fine day and warm quarters at night all winter.

Cattle and other live stock will derive much good early fall an winter pasture on wheat and they will not damage the crop if the pasturing is done in dry weather or when the ground is frozen.

If you would really know how an unblanketed horse feels after violent exercise in cold weather take a brisk run of a mile or so and then stand where the cold wind will strike you for half an hour.

Never buy a horse for family use where the women folk are to drive him without at least one week's trial. If he is put through all his paces and sent up against steam engines and other scarey things he will develop his good or bad faith in that time.

A pair of full grown Bull snakes will keep two or three acres of alfalfa free from the encroachments of the pocket gopher and the mole, and they are harmless with the exception of the fact that they may catch small chickens if they are given a chance.

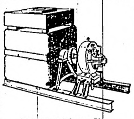
THE ELECTRICAL WORLD

ORGAN BLOWER IS NOISELESS

One of Interesting Applications of Electric Motors Is Fan for Use in Church and House.

One of the interesting applications of electric motors is the use of this power, for church, concert and house organ blowing. It has long been recognized by organists and builders that for organ blowing a centrifugal fan is far superior to feeders operated by any other method, because of the absolutely steady pressure developed, which greatly enhances the quality and purity of tone of old and modern organs.

Until recent years this type of machine could not be used because of the excessive noise of the ordinary trade fan blower, which formerly was the only machine of this character on the market.



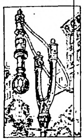
An Improved Organ Blower.

The Kinetic blower has been designed expressly for organ blowing, and has effectually overcome this difficulty, says the Popular Electricity. The machine consists of several fans mounted on one shaft, by the rotation of which the required air pressure is generated, each fan adding the pressure developed by itself to that of the preceding fan. These fans are enclosed in a case and the whole mounted on the I-beam base and direct connected or belted to an electric motor; motors in all cases being unenclosed. It can be run equally well by either direct or alternating current motors. No care is required by either blower or motor other than filling the oil cups every few weeks.

STREET LAMP-POST CARRIER

Novel Feature of Arc-Lamp Device Shown in Illustration Is Central Harp Hung Over Standard.

The novel feature of the arc-lamp carrier shown in the sketch is the central harp which permits the lamp to be hung vertically over the standard and to be swung to one side so that it may be lowered to the ground for trimming and cleaning, says the Popular Mechanics. A weather hood protects the lamp to some extent from rain and snow.



Arc-Lamp Carrier.

Silica Glass.

Such extensive use has been made during the last few years of silica glass for chemical apparatus that it was found necessary to devise a method whereby this glass might be produced in the electric furnace instead of with oxy-hydrogen blowpipe. To produce perfectly transparent silica glass from melted quartz an artifice is required, because on reaching the temperature of 600 degrees Centigrade, the quartz splits, and minute bubles of air fill the mass. This can be prevented by first raising the temperature of the quartz to a point little under 600 degrees and then surrounding it with liquid silica at a temperature of 2,000 degrees Centigrade. The liquid silica acts as a shield to prevent the entrance of air when the quartz splits up, and thus the formation of bubbles is avoided.—London Globe.

Prevent Short-Circuiting.

Short circuits, caused by hawks and other large birds settling on the towers of the Roosevelt hydroelectric transmission lines, have been stopped by means of birch-rod guards, which prevent the birds from settling on the towers near the wires.

Aid for Ushers.

In order to reduce the number of ushers in the countless moving picture theaters of New York, the managers have installed tiny incandescent lamps on the backs of the seats. These lamps burn only when the seat is vacant.

Sew Coffee Bags.

An electric machine has been made to sew up the mouths of coffee bags. As fast as the bags are filled the electric stitcher sews up the end and fastens the thread with a knot.

Camphor in Florida.

Camphor production in Florida is practical and can be made profitable. Successful experiments by the United States department of agriculture warrant this conclusion.

Polishing Metal Work.

For polishing places on metal work not easily reached an emery cord has been devised, a strong thread being coated with finely powdered emery.

USE OF THE REVOLVING FAN

Investigation Shows These Appliances Enormously Increase Bacterial Content of Air.

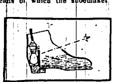
That the use of revolving fans enormously increases the number of bacteria in the air (though by what means we are not told) is shown by recent tests in France, according to the Hospital (London). Says this paper:

"The use of ventilators with revolving fans has become very common in large public buildings, especially restaurants and shops. In most cases these ventilators communicate with the outside, and they are installed, of course, with the idea of ventilating and purifying the air within by increasing the rate of exchange with the external atmosphere. But revolving fans are also frequently used, especially in hot weather, simply to produce a cooling effect by setting up a current of air inside. Drs. A. Sartory and A. Filassier have examined the bacteriological effect of these fans and ventilators upon the atmosphere within, and have communicated their results to a recent meeting of the Societe de Biologie. They find that these appliances enormously increase the bacterial content of the air. Their experiments were numerous and varied, but it will suffice to refer to one or two. Thus in a restaurant of 400 cubic meters analysis of the air before the fan was working showed 12,500 bacteria per cubic meter; after working the fan for one hour, 23,000 bacteria, and after two hours, 45,000 bacteria. In another cafe of 600 cubic meters the number of bacteria rose from 12,000 to 39,000 after the fan was working for one hour. In every instance in fact, the number of bacteria per cubic meter was doubled, or even quadrupled. As the authors point out, with these facts such appliances cannot but be regarded as dangerous and detrimental to the public health."

SEE INTERIOR OF HIS SHOE

Electric Light and Mirror Arranged So That Man Can See Into Interior Without Trouble.

The illustration shows an electric light and mirror arrangement by means of which the shoemaker can illuminate the interior of the shoe he is working upon. It comprises a casing containing an electric light bulb, adapted to be inserted in the heel of a boot or shoe, and a mirror carried by the casing in front of the light. The parts are so arranged that the light rays pass below the mirror into the toe, and the shoemaker can examine this portion of the shoe by looking into the mirror.



Shoemaker's Electric Light.

Viennese Electric Fountain.

The city of Vienna possesses what is perhaps the most remarkable electric, or electrically lighted, fountain in existence. It is situated in the Schwartzenbergplatz. Underneath the fountain, in a huge cemented chamber, are placed twenty-seven reflecting lamps, capable of producing seventy different luminous and colored effects. The light is transmitted through the waters of the fountain. The light power of the plant is estimated as equal to 900,000,000 candles.

Duluth Is Electrical.

Out of 14,000 houses in Duluth, Minn., no less than 12,000, or about 86 per cent of the total, are wired for electricity, a still more remarkable fact being that the number of houses using electricity exceeds by 2,000 the houses connected to the water supply, and by 5,000 those using gas.

Mexican Project.

Mexico has a new 53,000 horse power hydro-electric project. A great dam is being built across the Conchos river, 22 miles from Santa Rosalia, for storing water. After the water has been run through the turbines it will be used for irrigating purposes.

ELECTRICAL NOTES

There are at present 18 recognized systems of wireless telegraphy.

The telephone rate in Denmark outside of the larger cities is about $11 a year.

A new electrical office device will seal, stamp and keep a record of 150 letters a minute.

During the last year 1,200,000 miles of telegraph wire were added to that already standing.

As early as 400 B. C. the ancients had observed that iron rods had the power to avert lightning.

A machine has been invented with which the magnetic effect of the iron and steel parts of a ship upon a compass needle can be measured.

It requires 2,000,000 horse power to operate the textile mills of the United States, of which 500,000 horse power is produced by electricity.

The Madrid telephone company, though the principal one in Spain, with stations in nineteen leading cities, has only 3,795 subscribers.

Engineers declare that the waterfalls of the Alps are capable of generating enough electrical power to run all the railroads of Switzerland.

An electric motor with a number of flexible rods mounted at right angles to its shaft has been invented in Germany for beating and renovating furs.

Few steam locomotives can haul trains over more than a two per cent grade, while many electric railroads negotiate grades of nearly seven per cent with ease.

Good Jokes

HIS BIT OF EMPIRE.

It is a well known fact that some Englishmen are more inclined to talk about the Empire's fringe, of which they are ignorant, rather than about its heart, which they possibly know something of. A housewife whose husband was addicted this way turned his thoughts into more homely channels by her ready wit.

One Saturday evening he came home late smelling strongly of tobacco, and very red in the face.

"Oh," he said. "I've had a fine time. I've been to an Empire meeting. It was grand."

Then he frowned and said, impatiently:—

"What's the matter with supper? Ain't it ready yet?"

His wife, who was peeling potatoes and holding a squalling boy, rose and extended the baby to him.

"Here," she said; "take hold of your bit of the Empire while I fry these chips."

How It Is Done.

"Rollo," said the eminent statesman, speaking rather severely to his private secretary. "Rollo, it has been rather more than a week now since I have said something really brilliant. Are you aware of that?"

"Y-y-yessir," stammered the hireling.

"I'll give you three days more," continued the statesman, assuming his well-known attitude in which the right hand is thrust into the front of the shirt, as though to bring forth an important document or to scratch a hidden chigger bite—" and if I haven't uttered something exceedingly intellectual or startlingly new by that time, I shall have to employ a new press agent."

GOOD IMAGINATION.

"Vain Dauber claims to be highly imaginative and also a thinker."

"Er—yes—he imagines he thinks and thinks he imagines."

Even Then.

The wise men never speak till they
Have something well worth while to say,
And, being wise and thoughtful men,
They say but little even then.

The Puff Personal.

"You are evidently very fond of books, sir," said an old gentleman to a young man in a train car. "May I ask you whom you consider the best novelist of the day?"

"Jenkins, undoubtedly," said the young man. "There's nobody can write like Jenkins. Why, sir, the circulating libraries can't supply his novels fast enough."

At this moment another man entered the train car and addressed the young man.

"Hello, Jenkins," he said. "How are you today?"—Tit-Bits.

Unworthy of His Love.

"George Tillson and Mamie Sprague are engaged."

"For goodness sake! I always thought he had good taste."

"Well, Mamie isn't a bad looking girl."

"But look at the style of her. She doesn't hide her ears by combing her hair over them."

Try It.

"Mary," said a mother to her quick-tempered little girl, "you must not get mad and say naughty things. You should always give a soft answer."

When her little brother provoked her an hour afterward Mary clinched her little fist and said: "Mush!"—The Watchword.

He Knew the Game.

"Now, Archie," asked the schoolmistress, dilating on the virtue of politeness, "if you were seated in a tram car, every seat of which was occupied, and a lady entered, what would you do?"

"Pretend I was asleep," was the prompt reply.—Tit-Bits.

A Sure Sign.

"That woman pretends to move in the most aristocratic social circles, but I have found out one fact which strongly intimates she does nothing of the sort."

"What is it?"

"She pays all her bills."

Unreasonable.

"Did your friend have a good time on his hunting trip?"

"No; didn't enjoy himself at all. The guides got peevish about his shooting so many of them for game."

Not to His Liking.

"How did you enjoy your visit to your grandfather in the country, Rob?"

"Oh, it was fine, 'cept I had to wash my face and hands in raw water at the pump. I like it cooked best, like we have it at home."—Judge.

Explained.

"What color is that very stylish suit of Anna's?"

"Electric blue."

"That accounts for its being so stunning."

Not Consoling.

One of the boys had broken one of the school rules and no one would own up.

The teacher announced that he would thrash the whole class if some one did not tell him who had committed the offense.

All were silent, and he began with the first boy, and thrashed every one in the class until finally he reached the last one. Then he said: "Now, if you will tell me who did this I won't thrash you."

"All right, sir. I did it," was the reply.—Ideas.

WHY A BACHELOR.

Sweet Melody.

'Tis sweet, indeed, to hear the hen
Lift up her voice a peg;
For now when cost of living's high

His Economy.

The children in the Blank family were taught habits of neatness at the table by being compelled to pay a fine of one cent for every spot they put on the tablecloth. One day Harold, a boy of seven years, was discovered rubbing the overhanging part of the cloth between his fingers, and, when taken to task for it, he said:

"Why, I wust just trying to rub two spots into one."—Woman's Home Companion.

Not So Very Romantic.

"Gloriana," faltered the ardent youth, "is this the end?"

"Reginald," she answered, with a world of compassion in her soft brown eyes, "it is!"

Weary of the strain of holding the skein of flossy yarn which the maiden had been winding into a ball, Reginald dropped his exhausted arms to his sides and drew a long breath of relief.

The Reason.

"Though actors are superstitious as a rule, they are not afraid of being in haunted houses."

"They are not?"

"No; you can't scare an actor by putting him any place where the ghost walks."

Took Precautions.

Mrs. Brown—I'm thinking of giving up using fresh milk. I read an article in the paper saying all kinds of infection can be got from it."

Milkman—Don't worry, madam; our water is always well boiled first.—London Sketch.

Classifying Himself.

Eve (on seeing him for the first time)—Who are you, sir?

Adam—I'm Exhibit A, madam.

THREE OR FOUR.

"I notice that you call your wife 'Sugar.'"

"I've always called my wives 'Sugar.'"

"Umph! How many lumps have you had?"

Looking Forward.

"There'll be no prunes in heaven,"
A boarder softly sighs,
Who dreams of sins forgiven
And a mansion in the skies.

A Good Suggestion.

The horse editor was substituting for the "Answers to Correspondents" editor.

"How'll I answer this?" he demanded. "Girl wants to know how she can improve her complexion."

"Tell her to send you a sample of it," suggested the snake editor.

The Secret.

"Why do you have those glass cases with the ax, hammer, crowbar and so forth on these cars?" asked a traveler.

"Oh, those are put there in case any one wants a window open," replied the facetious man.—Red Hen.

Surprising.

"Our silly servant lit the kitchen fire with coal oil the other morning and ruined the stove."

"Did you discharge her?"

"No. We haven't found her yet."

FARM AND BEES

CHAFF HIVES FOR WINTERING

No Better Place for Caring for the Bees Than Out of Doors During Severe Cold Weather.

I know of no better method of wintering bees than to winter them out of doors providing you have the right kind of hive, and pack them properly and in season, says a writer in the Orange Judd and Farmer. I have five different styles of chaff or double-walled hives, the result of several years' experimenting, and the hive illustrated here is the one I like best of any, as it not only winters well, but it admits of all kinds of manipulation and tying up, as well as single-walled hives.

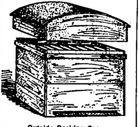
The Hive Bottom.

These hives are made as follows: Bottom board at least four inches larger each way than the hive designed to be packed in it. It would be better six or even eight inches if you can stand the extra lifting on the covers, which must be larger in proportion.

Nail the four sides to lap over the bottom, coming down flush with the under side and thus keeping any water from soaking in onto the bottom. Make them high enough so that when your inside hive is placed therein, the outside rim will be three or four inches above the inside hive.

Cover should be six inches deep at outside and deep enough in center to make slant enough to shed water. One of the secrets of successful outdoor wintering is an abundance of packing. Make cover just large enough to telescope over top of outside rim, which should have pieces nailed on one inch below top to build it up.

If you tier up much in the summer, don't hinge cover, but leave it so you can remove it and put on extra rims to raise or tier up to any desired hight. Cover the bottom with tar paper, which will retain heat and also keep out ants.



Outside Packing Case.

Make an inside bottom to fit the inside hive, and long enough to project through the entrance in outside rim and leave an alighting board two or three inches wide across the front. Make a bridge the width of your packing space to put over the passage to outside entrance, and keep out chaff, etc.

Winter Keeping of Vegetables.

The matter of keeping Irish potatoes, cabbage, onions, beets, etc., all winter for family use depends on climatic conditions. Irish potatoes, as also beets, should be guarded against freezing. Beets and carrots can stand a little of it, but are better off when kept from it.

Cabbage stored in the cellar should be wrapped separately in double thicknesses of newspaper, folding and tying it around the stem. Hang each head upside down on the side of the wall or from the beams overhead. Cabbages can stand some freezing and thawing. Onions to keep well must be put in a cool, dry, airy place.

Storing Cabbages.

Many farmers are under the impression that cabbages will keep better if stored with the root attached. F. H. Gibbs, the market-gardening expert, in a talk at the Minnesota state fair, declared this to be a mistake; the roots simply make additional weight to handle, and taking up a great deal of room unnecessarily. The proper method when storing is to cut off the roots smoothly, as when preparing the cabbage for the table, and pack in regular cabbage crates or lay on shelves, not more than two heads deep.

Gathering Fuel.

If one can possibly get the time he will do well to pick up a lot of fuel in the wood lot that cannot be had after snowfall. It pays to gather up this wood in more ways than one. It saves the wood, makes the forest look more tidy and pleasing to the owner's eye.

Pasturing Winter Wheat.

Wheat which was planted early and is now up and making a good growth may be pastured when the ground is dry or frozen, without materially affecting next season's crop yield. Keep the stock off when the ground is muddy.

Breaking and Turning Land.

Don't put off breaking and turning your land till spring, and then jump in and try to do in a week work which, if properly done, would require several months' steady grind.

Fall Plowing Benefits.

Fall plowing will make a much more compact seed-bed than will spring plowing, and crops grown thereon will be less subject to injury from drouth.

DEVICE FOR SHOCKING CORN

Three Pieces of Common Timber and an Iron Rod Can Be Converted Into Useful Implement.

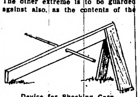
When corn is to be shocked in the field, it should be thoroughly ripe before being cut, as too early cutting affects both the yield and the quality of the grain.

The shuck on the ears should be turning yellow, if not already dry; the latter is preferable, even if the lower blades are overripe.

A frame should be provided for shocking the corn, which may be constructed as follows: Nail two pieces of one-by-six-inch material five feet long to one end of a two-by-three-inch scantling ten feet long. Bore an inch hole three or four feet from the end of the scantling to which the legs have been nailed, and insert an iron rod or something similar. Let the free end of the scantling rest on the ground; the other end is, of course, supported by the one-by-six piece. With the iron rod thrust through the hole, the device is ready for use.

The corn is placed in the four right angles formed by the scantlings and the iron rod, four or five or six bundles being placed in each of these corners with the butts set well out at the bottom. Care should be taken to avoid setting the bundles too straight and to see that the corn is evenly distributed throughout the shock.

A little negligence right here will keep one busy resetting the shock. The other extreme is to be guarded against also, as the contents of the shock will damage more or less unless the work is done so as to turn off the water.



Device for Shocking Corn.

Too much care cannot be exercised in shocking the corn; a little slovenly work in this operation will ruin the product, even if all the other conditions for a good article are met.

Failure at this point more than anything else, is responsible for the prejudice against this method of handling the corn crop. If the stalks are wet and moldy, the resulting product will be disappointing, regardless of the care which has been exercised in the previous and subsequent handling of the crop.

Much Fruit on Little Ground.

The area required for the production of fruit for the use of the average family need not be large, if good care is given. One acre devoted to the orchard and vine fruits in approximately the following number will give ample variety and quantity: Twelve apples, six each of pear, plum, peach, sour cherry, sweet cherry, quince and grape. Three hundred strawberry plants, 25 each of blackberries and red raspberries, 12 currants and 12 gooseberries.

Protecting Trees From Animals.

Trees may be protected from injury by rabbits and mice, says the North Dakota experiment station, by keeping litter away from them and painting the trunk with whitewash to which paris green has been added. They may also be protected by wire screens.

A Goal for the Farmer.

Every farmer should work out and adopt a permanent system of agriculture under which he can increase and maintain the fertility of his land, enjoy a good living, rise in social value, and wield a good influence in his community.

Telephone Wire.

The telephone wire is one of the strongest ties that binds people to the farm. It is the nerve which keeps farm folk in touch with their friends and neighbors and in touch with the outside world.

Lesson of Better Garden.

Better gardening is one of the first steps toward better farming. Make your plans to have a better garden next year. Much will be accomplished if you begin the preparation of the soil now.

Storing Celery.

If celery is to be brought into the cellar for winter storage, cut the tap root, lift it from the ground and then with a strong knife cut off the branching roots and most of the earth.

Maturity of Alfalfa.

Alfalfa does not attain maturity until the third or fourth year; therefore, do not sow it expecting to get the best results in less time.

Is the seed corn safe?

Let the wind or gasoline pump the water.

With no cellar available, roots may be stored in pits.

City people, not re-enforced from the farms, would soon run out.

When alfalfa is used properly in the rotation it is beneficial to the soil.

According to those who have used them, the machine husker is a success.

Alfalfa from northern grown seed is hardy, yet it needs winter protection.

See that the winter grain is not pastured too close. Winter killing is the result.

Alfalfa will produce more digestible nutrients per acre than any other agricultural crop.

It is cheaper to keep three or four cats around the premises than 300 or 400 rats and mice.

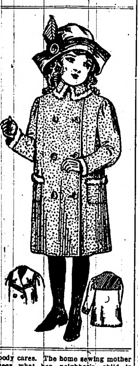
The best method of storing roots for winter use is in a cellar to which daily access may be had.

PRETTY LITTLE CLOAK

FOR CHILD OF ANY AGE BETWEEN FOUR AND SEVEN.

Distinctive Touches Call for Little Expenditure and No Great Amount of Thought in the Devising of the Garment.

What a comfort it must be to mothers who must fume and fret over the making of their own clothes to turn to the simpler needs of the children's wardrobes! There are no complications here, no tight skirts that must be cut and fitted just so, no sleepless nights spent over what one should and should not buy. The way is made clear by the clever inventors of children's complicated effects, for everyday wear, and upon materials that have stood the test of years. The makers repeat the models and nobody cares. The home sewing mother sees what her neighbor's child is wearing and copies it, and there is no bad feeling between the homes.



Our illustration displays the sort of coat that suits a child from four to seven, for when the youngest ages are considered in a style there is always a babyish touch to the article, whatever it is. The straight sacque shape of this double-breasted cloak, simple as it is, however, will suit the richest as well as the plainest materials, and also pretty touches with fur. An economical scheme is suggested in the present instance, the coat being of quite a cheap fancy coating and the bit of trimming, looking like fur or astrakan cloth.

Smarter coats may be made in either of these styles of corduroy, velveteen or plain cloth, but where money is not plentiful a reversible or mixed wool would be the best choice for a coat that must do for all occasions.

In the departments of costly things, the imported coats, hats and frocks that appeal to fat purses and that follow many of the vagaries of adult styles, there is a decided tendency toward the use of tarnished gold and silver trimmings. As many of these beautiful garments as are left over at holiday time will be much reduced then, and if none can be purchased, there is always a hint to be got from them. But it is the child around the baby age—under five—that is most often allowed the tinsel trimmings; the bigger ones cannot ape their elders in such extravagances. Yet what a fairy touch the tarnished laces and braids give dress, although, of course, everything else must accord.

Mary Dean

Irish Centerpieces.

Of all the different styles of embroidery on centerpieces, dollies and lunch cloths, Irish embroidery is the most serviceable. It will stand twice the wear and tear that any other kind will endure, and after years of use will look as fresh and well as when it was new. The work is slightly padded and stands out from the linen, the padding often being done with tiny bits of raw cotton or else filled in with darning thread. Over this the embroidery is worked in the satin stitch, sometimes having the edge of the pattern done in the outline stitch, which gives a little more firmness to the work. Edges are either hemstitched or finished with a scallop that is button-holed over a slight padding. Fringed edges are not serviceable and are no longer fashionable.

Cross-Stitch Variation.

A stitch that takes but about half the time of ordinary cross-stitch and is a rapid filler is useful when a coarse cotton or silk is used on a rather fine canvas.

Carry the thread back from right to left along the line the stitches are to occupy and make the half-stitches across it from left to right.

Two colors can be used in this way—a darker for the under straight lines and a lighter tone or contrasting shade for the half-stitches.

REMNANTS WORTH PICKING UP

Embroidery Flouncing Useful on Future Occasions Should Not Be Overlooked.

Now's the time to pick up remnants of embroidery flouncing that can be used for various things. The embroidery ruffle on the underskirt is always attractive. In either blind or eyelet work it looks well and outlasts lace.

Fine batiste can be combined with lace and the body of the goods matched and tucked bands incorporated with the embroidery to form exquisite blouses.

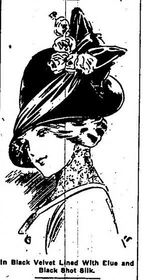
Lingerie hats for young girls, for little tots and for older women are easily fashioned of short lengths of fine embroidered flouncing. Edge the scallops with lace or face the entire brim with ruffles of net. Although we are thinking of the last rose of summer, there will be many occasions that will demand a pretty dressy hat, especially in the evenings.

Yokes can be made of flouncing, the remainder of a bodice made of tucked material. This same idea can be reversed and plain tucked yokes combined with embroidered lower portions.

For finishing combinations a narrow flouncing of fine lawn or batiste is not to be improved upon. Corset covers also can be made entirely of flouncing with straps of embroidery or lace.

As for edging bureau scarfs, making pincushions, etc., the opportunities are without number; the clever woman should be not hampered by a paucity of ideas for the use of odd pieces.

NEW WINTER MODEL



In Black Velvet Lined With Blue and Black Shot Silk.

Lace Jabots.

Lace jabots, which are very wide at the top and narrow at the bottom, are made of Irish lace, of maline lace and of immitation Venetian point. These are sold separately so they may be pinned to the plain blouse and taken off when it goes to the laundry.

CLING TO SEPARATE BLOUSE

Garment Has Many Points to Recommend It, and Will Not Easily Be Discarded.

It has been a long time since the separate white blouse was as popular as now. Paris was making them by the hundreds in September, and the American houses have followed suit. Women are possibly tired of the chiffon and satin blouse, which must be worn so many times without being freshened up. Such blouses don't wash, and few women can afford to have them cleaned after every few wearings, even if the materials would stand it—which they won't.

True, there are some suits worn at certain times that demand a blouse of the same color, and there is no diminution of this fashion; the influx of white lingerie blouses merely swells the tide of separate waists. The ornate ones upon which so much handwork is put have not been returned to favor. The woman who strives for a surface covered with lace, embroidery and various other kinds of handwork will find that she has wasted time and spoiled her blouse.

The acceptable ones are of batiste, marquisette and fine muslin of any kind, made with narrow tucks, seam beading and a band of baby Irish crochet lace down the front, which supports a graded frill of muslin and lace. The sleeves are rather large, are put in an elongated shoulder that droops a little over the arm and is tightened below the elbow to fit the arm to the wrist, where it is finished with a two-inch knife plaited frill.

Many of the blouses have buttonholed scallops as a finish to the frill, and others have an Irish picot edge, which has come into fashion for all kinds of lingerie and is acceptable because it washes well and is so little trouble to apply.

His Need.

WOMEN AS FARMERS

Outdoor Life Is Luring to Dwellers on Prairies.

Daughters of Two Men, Who Were Disabled, Prove Expert Agriculturists—Perform All Kinds of Manual Labor.

Topeka, Kan.—Many Kansas women are turning to agriculture and to a life out of doors. Within the last two years a score or more of young women have chosen the farming vocation in preference to teaching and to clerkships in stores and stenographic positions. Some of them declare that much of the work may be done by women now that modern machinery has lightened the burdens of the farmer. But the greatest benefits come, they say, from the needed exercise and the life in the open air.

Prominent among the young women of Kansas who are making a success at farming are the Misses Ruby and Olive Herd of Hodgeman county. These two sisters own a farm seven miles west of Jetmore. Preferring a life of independence, they bought the land and built a modest cottage and turned their attention to small farming, poultry raising and fruit growing. There are no Saturday half-holidays with the two Herd sisters, for they are not seen at the county seat or the local trading place on that afternoon talking politics.

These two young women were formerly school teachers. Their little home is comfortable, and it shows every evidence of refinement.

Miss Tillie Rheinschimdt, eighteen years old, has demonstrated this year that she knows how to run a farm. Her father is a well-known citizen of Sumner township, Reno county, but in the summer he was disabled by a serious accident and the burden fell upon his daughter to manage the work. Bossing a hired man and a boy, and doing a lot of the work herself, this bright Kansas girl has put in nearly 100 acres of wheat, and personally helped in the work of gathering the corn from a field of 80 acres. She proudly boasted that hers was the first field of corn gathered in Sumner township.

Probably the best record made by young women on Kansas farms this year is that of the three daughters of Rennie Griem, a Kingman county farmer. One of them was teaching school near Zenda, and the other two were attending Kingman high school. When their father was taken ill the three girls came home from their schools and sailed in to run that farm. The elder sister, the school-ma'am, prepared the ground and planted several acres of corn with her own hands, besides putting out other crops. The two high school girls rolled up their sleeves and made full hands on the farm.

The three of them plowed corn, milked cows, delivered cream, harvested wheat and oats, cut 30 acres of alfalfa three cuttings, put up a lot of prairie hay, raised corn that made 50 bushels to the acre and performed every bit of the farm work unassisted. Not a man was seen on the Griem place all summer. When their father was able to be put they pointed to granaries full of corn and wheat, the barns housing fat cattle and sleek horses, and the bank account intact. They were proud of the fact that they did not pay out a dollar to men to achieve this record.

Generally the women of Kansas who have turned from the cities to the simple life out in the country are not concerned about marriage. They are women of mature years and judgment, to whom marriage relation does not appeal unless it carries with it energy and the ability to make a living.

Says Our Music is Trashy

Dr. Brunner of Berlin Declares Ragtime Will Drive Us All Crazy—It Jars Nerve Centers.

Los Angeles, Cal.—That Ragtime music will eventually drive the American public crazy because of its effect upon the nerve centers and brain cells of the human system, and that it is mainly responsible for many business failures and cases of hopeless insanity, is the belief of Dr. Ludwig Brunner, late instructor in the Imperial academy of medical research at Berlin, who arrived here recently.

"Your ragtime air jars the nerve centers and causes an irritation of the brain cells," says the doctor. "While the roll and thump of ragtime is exhilarating to the senses and acts as a stimulant, it has the after effects of an injurious drug that will eventually stagnate the brain cells and wreck the nervous system.

"I have been in this country several months and everywhere I have visited, New York, Chicago, New Orleans and San Francisco, the little minds are crazy with ragtime.

"If something be not done the classics of the long ago will be a thing of the past entirely, and they will be singing national hymns in ragtime."

Good Eye Removed, Sees.

Carlisle, Pa.—By removing his active eye, Jacob Shields, who has been blind in the other for 17 years, has been enabled to see perfectly out of the one formerly defective.

Recently Shields suffered a sudden attack of total blindness from the strain imposed on the good eye by the blind. He was removed to a Philadelphia hospital, and there the physicians determined that his good eye, which had been affected, would have to be done away with. They discovered, however, that the blind eye was made so by a cataract. That removed the blind eye regained its sight.

Dog Has Costly Gold Teeth

Little "Mexy" Had Bad Toothache and His Owner Gave Him Brand New Set of Incisors.

Chicago.—In the future, when Mexy's playmates laugh at him for having no hair, he will open his mouth in a yawn, carelessly displaying a mouth full of gold teeth that would fill the soul of some people with envy. The set of bridgework cost $112.

At least, those were Mexy's plans when he was interviewed. Not that he was so ill-bred as to say anything about his teeth. In fact, he said nothing intelligible to the average man, for he is a Mexican dog.

He belongs to Dr. Henri Grosser, a student at the Western Dental college, and lives with Grosser and his wife at 934 La Salle avenue.

Dr. Grosser took Mexy from the refuge of the Anti-Cruelty society several weeks ago and soon afterward discovered that the dog was suffering from toothache.

An examination disclosed the presence of two abscessed incisors and several other teeth that needed attention.

The basement of the Grosser home was turned into an operating room, with Mexy as the patient and Dr. Grosser the dentist.

"Mexy seemed to know that I was doing what was best for him," Dr. Grosser said, "and, although he objected a good deal at first, he gave me no trouble after the teeth were out. It was a great relief to him, you see, for as soon as I had removed the teeth the pain stopped.

"He used to lie perfectly still when I was taking the impressions and made no trouble, even when I was fitting the new teeth in place. They are good and sound, too, and not a dog in Chicago is better able to chew bones and meat than he."

By reason of his teeth, Mexy has become one of the celebrities of the neighborhood.

KISSES RETARD A WEDDING

Osculation Nettled Kansas Justice Who Was Performing Ceremony—Bride Was 40 Years Old.

Kansas City, Kan.—William W. Shannon will be known about the courthouse in future as the kissing bridegroom. While he and Minnie I. Stockey, both of Ottawa, Kan., were being married by Justice Cass Welch in the county recorder's office, he kissed his bride five times. After every question the justice asked Mr. Shannon insisted on kissing the bride before the question was answered.

"If you don't cut out the kissing I won't go any further with this ceremony," Justice Welch told the bridegroom. "You not only violate the anti-kissing rules of this office, but interrupt a most solemn ceremony."

"Guess I can wait 32 seconds if you finish up in that time," Mr. Shannon told the justice. He kept his promise. Mr. Shannon is 39 years old and until the ceremony was a bachelor. The bride is 40 years old.

Gyroscopic Car Completed.

Minneapolis, Minn.—A gyroscope car that can run on a single track and maintain its equilibrium through the centrifugal force of a heavy revolving wheel has been completed by Professor W. E. Brooke of the college of engineering of the University of Minnesota. A small electric motor is used in starting the wheel spinning and this will not run down for several minutes. Professor Brooke will stretch a wire across the Mississippi river and run the car on it.

600 Songs Entered.

Columbia, Mo.—More than 600 entries for the Missouri state song contest have been received by W. H. Pommer, professor of music at the University of Missouri. The winner will receive $500. The committee selected to judge the songs are W. H. Pommer, William Schuyler, Carl Busch, F. W. Mueller, Charles Galloway and D. P. Gebhart. After Dr. Pommer has selected those of merit the judges will pick the winner.

New Terror for Americans

Montmartre Police Discover Counterfeits of Unusual Quality Are Spread by Anarchists.

Paris.—A new terror has been added to the many in store for the unwary American tourist who patronizes the establishments of Montmartre. The police have just discovered that a band of anarchist coiners has put in circulation over 30,000 francs' worth of bad five-franc pieces.

The leader of the syndicate is an anarchist, Maria Llopis, who was condemned to death for her complicity in the revolt in Barcelona which preceded the execution of Ferrer. The proceeds are probably for the anarchist cause.

The coins are of unusually subtle manufacture, composed of practically the same alloy as the genuine ones and such slight defects that only an expert could have detected them; hence the facility with which they were put into circulation.

They were made in Barcelona, two of the company going there every Friday, returning to Paris on Tuesday with a fresh supply, which they delivered to the other four, who hastened to change them by making small purchases.

These four are now safely under lock and key, but the two who brought the goods from Spain either received warning or stopped behind to participate in the recent outbreak, they holding anarchistic opinion like their chief.

Steals Only Teeth.

St. Louis.—Police are puzzled to know whether a thief they are anxious to find is a faddist, in need of teeth, or of a religious turn, or all of these. Patrick Fitzgerald, 110 North Twelfth street, last night reported the theft of a set of false teeth and a string of prayer beads. These articles were taken from a room in which was a sum of money and a watch. Neither of the latter was taken.

In Minnesota.

Important Happenings of the Week Briefly Told.

Winona.—The city council has engaged W. F. A. Brachlow to install an improved and modern system of municipal bookkeeping.

Brainerd.—Charles Carlson, living in Bay Lake township, took off from one and one-half acres of corn 163 bushels, or a yield of over 108½ bushels to the acre.

Clinton.—A pair of white swans, the male bird of which measured seven feet from tip to tip, and the female six and a half, were shot on Big Stone lake.

Rochester.—Rev. E. V. Du Bois, pastor of the First Methodist church of this city, has been selected to be the president of Parker college of Winnebago.

Spooner.—Four wolves attacked a pedestrian within the city limits. A club had to be used to drive them off. Wolves have been reported very numerous in this locality.

Windom. — Local chicken fanciers are making arrangements to hold a poultry show Dec. 5, 6, 7 and 8. George D. Holden of Owatonna has been engaged to judge the birds.

Elk River.—Martin Johnson, an old settler of Sherburne county, died at his home at Becker at the age of 79. He had been sick ever since last winter, when he nearly froze to death.

Two Harbors.—Owing to the freezing weather it is expected the ore shipments will be finished within another week. Logging is expected to be about 60 per cent of last winter's cut.

Brown Valley.—Brown Valley's new municipal electrical lighting plant is rapidly nearing completion. It is expected the light can be turned on early in December. The plant cost $10,000.

Luverne.—L. C. and V. C. Hodgson held their sale of full-blooded Percheron horses here. Thirty horses sold for the aggregate sum of $10,815. The highest price paid for a single horse was $900.

Mora.—The Great Northern railway, pursuant to orders from the railroad and warehouse commission, is putting in additional industrial trackage at this place. Several new warehouses will be erected.

Hastings.—In the case of Mrs. Rose Sheridan of Savage against the Dan Patch road, an action to recover damages for personal injury, the jury yesterday returned a verdict of $700 for the plaintiff.

Barnesville.—Frank Murray, C. E. Nelson and A. M. Baker of this city have bought the Davis ranch, six miles east of Donaldson in Kittson county, comprising 2,680 acres. The consideration was $40 an acre, or $107,000. A. M. Baker will take immediate charge of the place.

Bemidji.—Joel G. Winkjer, commissioner of the state food and dairy department, will be one of the speakers at a farmers' institute to be held here December 9. Institutes will be held in Beltrami county, beginning December 6. In January and March similar meetings are to be held and outside speakers brought in.

Brown Valley. — The past twelve months have seen the completion of a $20,000 new high school building, the erection of a $30,000 Catholic church, the installation of a $10,000 municipal electric light plant, the laying of over a mile of cement walks, and over $2,000 expended for industrial work in the public schools. What town of 1,100 population can beat it?

Little Falls. — Through statistics compiled by the state dairy and food department, it is learned that the production of butter in Morrison county in 1910 amounted to 1,315,364 pounds. The amount paid patrons by the creameries was $326,946.53. An average price of 30.14 cents was paid a pound for butter fat by the creameries. Morrison county has eleven creameries and 16,681 dairy cows.

St. Paul.—Supt. Whittier of the Red Wing training school was fully exonerated of any blame for conditions alleged to exist there by the report of the state board of control, all members concurring. The board found, that while it did not entirely approve of the system of punishment used, that the superintendent exhibited no malice and that the boys whipped were incorrigible and needed it. Following the publication of the report, Supt. Whittier immediately resigned, effective July 31, 1912.

Springfield.—J. J. Ray, who was appointed by the Minnesota tax commission to reassess the moneys and credits of this village, has finished his work and reports $65,000 subject to assessment, whereas the regular assessor turned in but $8,000. No difficulty was experienced, although there appears to be sentiment in favor of showing a deduction of debts from credits. The county auditor has fixed the tax rate for Springfield at 6 per cent, which is the highest it has ever been, the increase being due to a larger levy for school purposes.

Faribault.—The packing plant in this city, which has been closed two years, will resume operations about Dec. 1. The Chase interests own the property and it will be put in operation by K. D. Chase & Co. Improvements are being made at the plant and it will have a capacity of two hundred hogs daily.

Winona.—Public services of thanksgiving were held at the pro-Cathedral in this city for the recovery of Right Reverend Patrick R. Heffron, bishop of Winona, who last month at Rochester underwent an operation for a severe case of appendicitis.

Faribault.—The first big catch of rough fish here was taken out of Shields lake. Over two tons, consisting mostly of carp and buffalo, were taken. Last season Randall Bros. of Winona, took out about $20,000 worth of rough fish which were shipped to eastern markets.

Brown Valley.—The special winter short courses of the Brown Valley high school will open December 4 and continue until March 15. Agriculture, manual training, domestic science, English, farm arithmetic and accounting, and animal husbandry will be offered in daily courses.

ANSON DISCUSSES ONE PLAY

New York Captain's Move in World's Championship Ball Series Is Analyzed by Veteran.

Capt. Adrian C. Anson, writing for the Chicago Daily News, comments on the one play, if any one could be chosen, which was the deciding one in a baseball game. Capt. Larry Doyle's failure to attempt the easy double play he had in sight in the fourth inning of the final world's series ball game and his late throw home that let Baker score and kept Murphy and Davis on the bags was the real turning point of that struggle.

In this inning Baker led off with a single. On the hit and run Murphy pasted a long liner to the left field fence, Baker taking third, but Devore's fast fielding held Murphy at first. Davis hit an easy grounder into Doyle's hands and the latter, with an easy double play in sight, hesitated a moment and then threw home, but too late to catch Baker. Murphy took second on the throw to the plate, while Davis was safe at first. If Doyle had tried for a double play he could have wiped both Murphy and Davis off the bags. Then Barry would would have had no occasion to bunt, and more than likely would have been an easy out. This would have kept Ames in the game, and, though the Athletics most probably would have won out, the final score would hardly have been the crushing total of 13 to 2.

At that stage of the game, so early in the action, it would have been good policy, in Anson's opinion, to have let that one run in and make sure of getting both the other base runners.

All Doyle had to do was to throw the ball to first and get Davis, then run down Murphy between the bags.

CARLISLE HAS STAR ATHLETE

James Thorpe, Who Hails From Oklahoma, Shines on Track, Baseball and Football Teams.

The 1911 football season has brought into the limelight at Carlisle a young Indian student who promises to become one of the greatest athletes his race ever has known. He is James Thorpe, who came here from Oklahoma, in 1908, with no knowledge of athletics.

Thorpe is a baseball pitcher of great talent and also covers any of the sacks or outfield well. He can put the sixteen pound shot 43 feet, and broad jumps 22 feet 10 inches. He can run 100 yards in 10 seconds, high jump 6 feet and do the high hurdles in 15 4-5 seconds. Moreover, he is a star basket ball player, a good rifle shot, and an expert at lacrosse, tennis, handball and hockey. As football half-back, he is probably seen at his best.

Thorne, who is only twenty-two years old, is six feet tall and weighs about 178 pounds. He gave little promise of his wonderful talents until his second year, when in a dual meet against Syracuse university he won the high jump, the shot put, the high and low hurdles and took second place in the hammer throw.

HARVESTER BE SOLD ABROAD

Champion Trotting Stallion May Be Disposed of by Estate of Late August Uihlein.

The death of August Uihlein of Milwaukee in Germany recently may change the current of events in the career of The Harvester (2:01), the world's champion trotting stallion. Uihlein was the owner of The Harvester.

When alive the Wisconsin breeder refused many big offers for the stallion, saying he would not sell him for any price, but since Uihlein's death many rich men in Europe have been trying to purchase The Harvester, and it is possible that the Uihlein estate will accept an offer.

Uihlein had for many years been breeding trotting horses on a large scale, but while he owned many stallions and mares of rich lineage he never owned a great performer or great sire until he bought The Harvester and turned him over to Ed Geers to develop.

For several years it had been the custom of Uihlein to send a lot of undeveloped young horses to the sales ring, and from the various consignments to those events one came that by taking a record of 2:05½ this year gave his breeder the first and only 2:10 trotter he ever bred. This was the gelding Don Labor, by Labor Day, that raced so well this season.

Uihlein, after The Harvester showed championship form, decided to sell a large part of his other horses, reserving a small band. He regarded the champion stallion as a horse beyond price, and when asked last fall if he would take $50,000 for him replied that he would not accept an offer of $1,000,000 for him.

"Pop" Geers has The Harvester in the string that he will race at Dallas, Texas, and at Phoenix, Ariz., this winter. At Phoenix, if the stallion is in good shape, and provided the horse is not sold, Geers will send him to smash his record.

New 24-Pound Shot Record.

One world's record was smashed at the fall athletic handicap games of the Irish-American Club of New York, which were held at Celtic Park recently. Pat McDonald of the Celtic Park organization, who is the national 16 pound hammer champion, tossed the 24 pound shot 38 feet 10 11-16 inches, which is 3 11-16 inches further than the old mark, held by Ralph Rose, the giant weight thrower of the Olympic A. C. of San Francisco.

INSIDE GAME COUNTS

Football Player Seldom Gets Credit for Play.

Chances for Real Scientific Work Nearly as Great on Gridiron as on Diamond, but Spectators Do Not See It.

There is an "inside" football just as well as "inside" baseball. The great difference is that there is so much more inside football that not only does the average spectator miss it, but the players and coaches themselves see little of it. At present it seems that the possibilities of "inside" football are unlimited.

Every player on a team has chances to pull off inside work, but the position which most needs the ability to grasp a situation and grapple with it in a new way is that of quarter back. Around the little men who call the signals for the big elevens open a thousand possibilities for inside play, and many are the quarter backs who do not take advantage of their opportunities. That is why the "heady" quarter backs, that is, those who can run a team on the field as well as the coach on the side line could direct it, may be counted on the fingers of one hand.

The quarter back must keep in mind the number of downs, the distance to be gained, the position on the field, the length of time that remains to be played, the individual and collective strength of his own men, and the individual and collective strength and weakness of his opponents, the peculiarities of the officials, and the number and kind of plays at his disposal. All of these things must be considered in a single instant and decision given sometimes in a fraction of a second, frequently while rising from the ground or struggling to be disengaged from the mass, and frequently when suffering from painful injuries. And yet they say it requires no brains to play football.

A football player seldom gets credit for "inside" work for the reason that the grandstand does not recognize it.

Just a few instances: Under the new rules it is sometimes more advisable for a member of a team on the defense to drop a forward pass which he has caught than to hold it. This is on the occasion of a forward pass on a third down. A defensive halfback has a chance to catch the ball, but sees that he would be downed without carrying the ball back to the line where it started. In this case, the right play is to touch the ball and let it drop to the ground, so that the ball will then be brought back to the place where it started and given to his side. To the grandstand this play properly executed would be hissed by the unthinking.

Again, a quarter back in the safety position is standing almost on his own goal line. The ball is kicked to him. He can't make an easy catch, but the heady man in this case will usually allow the ball to fly or bounce across the goal line. The defending side is then allowed to take the ball out to the twenty-five-yard line and put it in play. If he elects to catch it he will probably be downed before reaching that line. Yet quarterbacks have been called dubs and poor catches by the grandstand for this play. The same procedure should be used where a high kick-off is kicked so as to pass or bounce over the goal line immediately, especially where the ends coming down under the kick are fast.

The heady backfielder of these days runs outside and continues parallel to the goal line for a few paces, in order to tempt some unwary man on the other team to tackle him and secure a penalty against the tackler.

A thousand possibilities are open to the student of the game for inside work. Running with the ball, catching, passing, kicking—each has a dozen little tricks which spell defeat or victory if taken advantage of or neglected at the psychological moment.

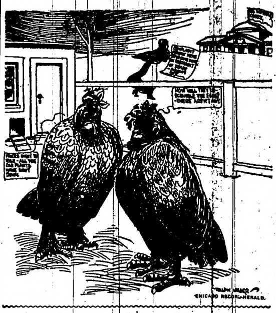
A CASE OF EGGS



CHICAGO RECORD-HERALD.

19 CARDINALS ARE CREATED

RUMOR PERSISTS, ALTHOUGH OFFCIALLY DENIED, THAT IRELAND IS HONORED.

NINETEENTH IS AN UNKNOWN

Semi-Official Announcement That It Will be Manager Felippo Giustini —Pope Pius Shows Loss of Strength.

Rome, Nov. 28.—Obedient to a summons from Pope Pius X, the cardinals in Rome assembled in a secret consistory and confirmed the papal nomination of nineteen new members in the college of cardinals, the supreme governing body of the Roman Catholic church. Of those thus honored three are citizens of the United States—Monsigneur John M. Farley, archbishop of New York; Monsigneur William O'Connell, archbishop of Boston, and Monsigneur Diomede Falconio, apostolic delegate at Washington.

The nineteenth cardinal was created secretly at the private consistory and his name was not disclosed. Although officially the intimation is given that the new cardinal is Mgr. Felippo Giustini, secretary of the congregation of sacraments, nevertheless there is a general rumor that Archbishop Ireland has been chosen. However, an official denial of this or that any other American prelate would be elevated was issued.

Thus with Cardinal Gibbons, America will have for the first time a representation of four in the cardinalate which, probably, much as now constituted, will elect a successor to the reigning pontiff. That this duty could not be delayed many years was an unwelcome thought that came on the present occasion to those who had participated in the last previous consistory four years ago.

The public consistory will be held on Thursday in the Hall of Beatification instead of in the Sala Regia, as at first planned. The former hall is much the larger and was decided upon today because of the great number of applications for admittance.

Italians Also Take 300 Prisoners as Result of Fight in Oasis.

Rome, Nov. 28.—The Italians found 500 dead and wounded in houses in the oasis after the battle at Henni, according to special news telegrams received here. There were also 72 dead found at other places scattered about the oasis. The Italians also captured 300 Turkish and Arab prisoners, including several Turkish officers.

The battle was very severe, especially in the vicinity of Henni, where a series of bayonet encounters occurred. The Italian loss was relatively light. Gen. Caneva's plan of battle was carried out to the letter and the Italian troops are now in possession of Henni and Fort Mesri.

The total claims aggregated $14,000. Ten days has been allowed for the payment of the settlements.

CLARK SEES A UNITED PARTY

BRYAN'S CRITICISMS OF SPEAKERSHIP ANSWERED.

Missourian Avers Trend of Public Feeling is Toward His Party.

Washington, Nov. 28.—Speaker Champ Clark declared he had devoted the last three years chiefly to getting the house Democrats together and holding them together and that after 17 years of factional fighting, the Democrats "are united and by the blessing of God will remain so."

"I did not do it all, by a long shot," he added. "I had lots of help and every Democrat who participated in that troublesome, laudable work deserves his full share of the honor. Where there was once despair in Democratic hearts there is high hope now."

In this way the titular head of the Democratic lower house of congress made indirect reply to criticism of William J. Bryan as to the speakership no longer carrying the leadership of the house. Mr. Clark referred to the great importance of unity and wisdom among the Democrats to draw out voters not belonging to the Democratic party.

"The most important feature of the extraordinary session of congress from a political standpoint," he said, "was the fact that we pulled together, worked together, fought together and won together.

Victory New Habit.

"We replaced the old habit of defeat with the new habit of victory. The bad fashion of quarreling among ourselves with the better fashion of taking counsel together and then presenting a solid front to the astonished enemy.

"The trend of public opinion is toward the Democrats. President Taft's long trip seems to have left things in status quo."

The speaker said the recent elections prove that wherever the tariff was the sole or principal issue, the Democrats won, and that when President Taft vetoed the tariff bills, it was inevitable that the tariff would be the leading issue next year.

"One of the most preposterous canards put into public print since Gutenberg invented movable type," added the speaker, "is the charge that I am in favor of the forcible annexation of Canada. There is not a fact in the universe on which to base such a slander. I never at any time or place stated or even hinted such a wicked and quixotic scheme to any human being. I have never dreamed of such a thing and would oppose it to the utmost.

"I have frequently, for years, expressed the hope that there might be a union of the two countries by mutual consent, and for the good of both."

ALLEGED TRAIN BANDIT HELD.

Jim Hassey, Suspected of Buffalo, N. D., Holdup, Captured.

Bismarck, Nov. 27.—Capt. Chris Martinson returned from Tower City, Minn., with Jim Hassey, who is wanted for complicity in the holdup of the North Coast Limited near Buffalo last July. Hassey had gone to Tower City, after being under arrest at Bismarck a week ago for wife beating.

Dr. B. L. Whitman Stricken.

Seattle, Nov. 28.—Dr. B. L. Whitman, one of the most noted Baptist ministers in America, died at a hospital here. His physicians believe that death was caused by a blood clot which had formed in his leg, bursting and going to his heart. Dr. Whitman was pastor of the First Baptist church of Seattle, formerly was pastor of a church in Philadelphia and for four years was president of George Washington university. He was stricken while delivering an address at a Masonic gathering.

PATTERSON WAS AGGRESSOR

EYEWITNESS SAW MAN KNOCK WOMAN DOWN.

Failed to Inform Authorities Because He Wished to Keep Out of Case.

Denver, Nov. 28.—The defense in the Patterson murder case placed on the stand the mysterious eyewitness to the shooting of Charles A. Patterson by his wife, Gertrude Gibson Patterson, announcement of whose existence by Attorney Hilton in his opening statement created something of a sensation. He was Francis J. Easton, 52 years old, who testified that he had come from Minneapolis in Mrs. Patterson's behalf.

Easton corroborated the story told by Mrs. Patterson that she had shot her huband after he had struck her twice and knocked her down and was standing over her with his arm upraised to strike again.

On the morning of the shooting, he said, he had gone to the sanitarium at which Patterson was a patient and after an inspection of the ground had set out for a walk in the neighborhood. Some distance from the sanitarium he observed a man and woman, apparently quarreling. They turned at a street corner, he said, and proceeded straight along. When he was 300 feet or so away from the couple he looked back, he told the jury, and saw the woman apparently reading a newspaper clipping. She handed the clipping to the man and as she did so he struck her in the face, following with a second blow that felled her. She struggled to one knee, he said, and fired twice, following with two more shots after a short pause.

In rebuttal W. C. Douglas, former town marshal of Sandoval, testified that in 1905 he had gone to Breeze, Ill., a neighboring town, and brought back to Sandoval Mrs. Patterson and her older sister, Myrtle, who, he said, had been arrested in company with two men. He had made the trip at the request of James Gibson, the girl's father.

The defense today will ask that the jury be taken to the scene of the shooting to investigate the contention of Attorney Hilton that the state's eyewitness, Shugart, could not have witnessed the affair from where he said he was. After this there remains instructions of the court and the closing arguments of counsel.

Passing of Bad Checks Charged.

Butte, Nov. 28.—Julian Baudett, who gave his home as St. Paul, was arrested here upon the charge of having passed a number of worthless checks. Baudett had been arrested in Deerlodge upon a similar charge, but secured his liberty by making the checks good.

Chicago Grain Market.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—Wheat became weak today owing to a return of fine crop conditions in the Argentine. The harvest there was reported to be making rapid progress and it was stated that steamers were arriving in large numbers for the purpose of moving the newly gathered grain. Moreover, world shipments had proved considerably larger than expected, the forwardings from Russia and the Danube being especially in excess of what had been looked for. Weather in the American Northwest was a little more unsettled, but not enough to check the movement of teams or trains. Opening prices were ¼@½c lower. May started $1.00⅜@1.00½, the same change from Saturday night as the market taken altogether, and steadied around $1.00¼.

Subsequently the market further declined as result of a big increase in the United States visible supply. The close was heavy with May at $1.00@⅛, a net decline of ⅜@½c.

Pot traders made corn firm. In addition smallness of world's shipments counted against the bears. May opened a shade lower to a like amount up at 64⅛@64⅜c and rose to 64⅝@64½c.

Prices afterward hardened still more. Offerings were scarce. The close, nevertheless, was easy, influenced by the wheat, May, ⅛@¼c down at 64c.

The selling out of a line of oats supposed to be owned by a local long eased that cereal at first, but the market rallied in sympathy with corn. May started ⅛@¼c down at 49⅜c and recovered to 49⅝c.

A decline at the yards tended to carry provisions lower. Furthermore, demand was extremely slow. Initial sales were the same as Saturday to 2½c down, with May delivery at $16.52½ for pork, $9.50 for lard and $8.70 for ribs.

Maine Destroyed by Outside Explosion.

Havana, Nov. 28.—The Maine inspection board will start for the United States this week. It has already been demonstrated to the members that the Maine was destroyed by an outside explosion, which occurred under the ship a little to the port of the keel between frames twenty-eight and thirty, where the ouside skin was blown up and doubled over toward the starboard by the first explosion. After this the transverse armor bulkhead was blown a foot from frame twenty four by a second explosion.

DULUTH DISCRIMINATION

EVIDENCE SHOWS TWIN CITIES ARE FAVORED.

Charges Compared and a Mass of Testomony Put Before Commission.

Duluth. — Duluth, as far as the grain and flour trade is concerned, is almost shut out of the South Dakota and southern Minnesota by a rate structure that is obviously discriminately against Duluth and preferential to the Twin Cities, Chicago, Milwaukee and even Winona, and La Crosse, was the claim made by the introduction of testimony on the part of the Duluth board of trade in the hearing of the action brought by that body for a readjustment of the rates on grain in southern North Dakota, South Dakota and southen Minnesota.

The hearing was taken up before Commissioner E. E. Clark of the interstate commerce commission. Summed up, the claims of the board of trade are:

That in general, grain rates to primary centers are equal or nearly so for equal distances.

That rates on grain from the territory under consideration are higher to Duluth than the rates to other primary centers from points of equal distance.

That the Great Northern, which is the short line, does not make rates in South Dakota, but that the rates to Duluth are based on combinations, which are higher than they would be based on the short line mileage.

That in nearly every case the differential in favor of Minneapolis over Duluth is much greater than the differential in favor of Duluth over Chicago, though the differenec is much greater, Chicago over Duluth, than Duluth over Minneapolis.

That in many cases the rates to Duluth are higher than to Chicago for a much longer haul.

About 50 attorneys, rate experts, railroad and steamship line officials and interested individuals were gathered in the courtroom during the hearing. G. Rohyall, traffic commissioner for the Duluth Commercial club, was called to the stand. The mass of detail work done in preparation of the case was disclosed by his testimony which consisted largely of the presentation and explanation of exhibits. Nineteen tables and about ten maps, setting forth in minute detail the rates complained of with comparisons between rates to Minneapolis, Chicago and Milwaukee from identical or equidistant points with the rates to Duluth, were introduced.

OWNERS OF THE J. S. SUED.

Actions for Damages of Over $14,000 to be Tried at Winona.

Winona.—Litigation growing out of the burning of the steamer J. S. at Bad Ax, on the Mississippi river, in June 25, 1910, is likely to come to trial at this term of the United States court. Most of the litigants and the defendants are here.

As a result of the burning of the J. S., damage suits for some $14,000 were instituted against the Acme Packet company. The company has invoked an old admiralty law to escape payment of the claims outside of the value of what was left of the steamer and its supplies after the fire, which articles are now in the custody of Sheriff W. E. Parr of this city. The principal claims are as follows:

Anthony Plein, administrator of the estate of John Plein, who lost his life in the burning of the steamer, $50,000; Elizabeth G. Joseph of De Soto, Wis., personal injuries, $5,000; Bertha E. Kaeppler, La Crosse, personal injuries, $1,124; Anna Peterson, Lansing, Iowa, personal injuries, $1,000; Minerva F. Myers, Lansing, Iowa, personal injuries, $1,000; Mae Caldwell, De Soto, Wis., personal injuries, $1,000; L. L. Witberker, Lansing, Iowa, loss of band supplies, $388.90. Other claims are all for amounts less than $100.

NEW HOTEL AT ST. CLOUD.

Brewing Company Planning $50,000 Building.

A brewing concern has a Minneapolis architect preparing plans for a $50,000 hotel for St. Cloud. The proposed site is in the heart of the business section. Negotiations have been commenced with the owners of the property but as the title cannot be cleared until an estate has been probated, the deal has not been closed.

IMPROVEMENTS AT VIRGINIA.

Canadian Northern Completes its New Buildings.

Virginia.—The Canadian Northern has completed nearly a quarter of a mile of trestle work across Virginia lake in a curve extending around the north and east sides, where large quantities of filling material will be dumped and allowed to settle. The repair shops, storehouse, roundhouse and coal dock are well along towards completion.

BEAULIEU INDICTMENTS STAND.

Judge Morris Sustains Ruling on Validity of Charges.

Fergus Falls.—The validity of the indictments against Gus H. Beaulieu, Robert G. Beaulieu, Benjamin L. Fairbanks and John Leechy was sustained in the federal court here and the trial will proceed.

The defendants are charged with conspiring to defraud by inducing large numbers of full-blooded Indians to part with their lands.

NO JOB FOR WHITTIER.

P. M. Ringdahl Says No Plans Made to Place Resigning Superintendent.

St. Paul.—If the State Board of Control has a new job for Frank A. Whittier, who has tendered his resignation as superintendent of the state training school for boys at Red Wing, P. M. Ringdahl, chairman of the board, would not admit it.

Mr. Ringdahl, when asked to discuss the report that plans were being made to place Whittier in some other position just as soon as his successor should be appointed, declared that there had been nothing done along that line.

"Is it true that the board is endeavoring to secure another position for Mr. Whittier?" Mr. Ringdahl was asked.

"There has been nothing of that nature done so far as I know," replied the chairman of the board.

Mr. Ringdahl was asked whether a successor to Mr. Whittier had been located yet. He replied that there had been nothing done along that line either. The board will, it is understood, take no definite action looking for a successor for Mr. Whittier until it returns from a contemplated visit to some of the other states to investigate correctional institutions with a view of learning what is being done.

"We have considerable business to be cleaned up before the trip is made," said Mr. Ringdahl, "and when we will start is not known."

It was not denied that the members who are to investigate methods in other states are also to keep a lookout for an available man to take the position of superintendent of the Red Wing training school.

Whittier Makes Denial.

Red Wing.—Superintendent F. A. Whittier of the state training school, when asked about the published rumor that he was slated for a fat position by the Board of Control, said that it was not so and that he knew absolutely nothing about it. It first came to his attention through a newspaper.

WITNESS TALKS IN CHIPPEWA.

Even Though He is Able to Speak Good English.

Fergus Falls.—The dull routine of Indian witnesses who answer all questions with a grunt, was broken in the Beaulieu trial in the United States court here when the government placed Kah-Gon-Dausch, also known as George Walters, on the stand.

Walters has been traveling with a medicine show. He wears a gaudily embroidered coat and his hair hangs down his back in two long braids. He gives testimony in Chippewa through an interpreter, but the defendant laughs and says he can talk as good English as any one in the court room.

He became somewhat incensed when asked about his "circus" experiences, and finally informed counsel, that he would give them the whole story if they would call around in the evening. He is said to have obtained $14,000 for his timber tract. He became confused under cross-examination and denied signing deeds which he had previously admitted signing.

Fourteen or fifteen witnesses were examined during the day and five or six of these claimed to be full bloods. Some of them were among those who had transferred their lands.

The defense cross-questioned them closely and is evidently preparing to bring in witnesses to testify that they have white blood in their veins.

The question whether they are Indians or mixed bloods is a vital point in the case, and a point that is going to be difficult to determine as there is likely to be an abundance of testimony on both sides.

ALBERT LEA HOTEL BURNS.

Report That Lodger Was Incinerated Cannot Be Confirmed.

Albert Lea.—The Albert Lea house an old hotel near the union station burned, and a man was reported cremated, but a search of the ashes disclosed no remains. One occupant was badly cut in making his escape through a window and, as he fell on the fire escape, his skull was fractured. The building was of wood and the loss is not great. There was some insurance.

State Land Sale in Clay.

Moorhead.—Deputy State Auditor Theodore Nelson disposed of 319.94 acres of state land in Clay county the greater part of which is in Tansem and Humboldt townships. The average price an acre was $10.90.

Mrs. Laura B. Davis of Duluth bid up a forty to $15.25 an acre.

Father Riordan to Visit Rome.

Rochester.—Father William Riordan, for twenty-seven years pastor of St. John's church, and lately honored by the pope, who conferred upon him the title of monsignor, will take a European trip the first of next year. He will visit Rome and Ireland and will be absent three months.

Schulz Dedicates School.

Watertown. — C. G. Schulz, state superintendent of public instruction, assisted in the dedication of the new schoolhouse here. The building cost $40,000. Before the railroad era began in Minnesota, Watertown was one of the most thriving places west of Minneapolis, being a main point on the road. But it was overlooked by the railroad engineers and surpassed by other towns. It always has been the center of a prosperous community, and has managed to retain its identity without the aid of a railroad.

Unless the delegates to the St. Cloud meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association are on their guard there is grave danger that the meeting may become very much politics.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

It is not easy to comprehend that Kansas business men prominent in their community were identified with the tarring of a school teacher, but it is gratifying to know that the court soaked the prom. cits. the limit.—Gazette.

The business that the postoffices department would be doing if it had a parcels post system is being done by the express companies. There is no institution in other countries similar to the express company, because it is not needed there. The parcels post does the work instead, and does it better and cheaper.

Attorney Cotton and Rev. Mr. Gates are extremely shocked and virtuously indignant that their acts as representatives of the great and unapproachable Rockefeller should be criticized. Mr. Martz is to them nothing but a common employe who was discharged for incompetency because he declined to be made a tool of. As to the Merritts, theirs appears to be but a case of the biter bit.

Lessons from a Misspent Life

A lobbyist died in Washington the other day: It would do no good to give his name. His life is over and his deeds are before the highest tribunal for judgment.

Lessons may be drawn from his career, however. He came to Washington as the representative of a number of railroads. His duties were to cultivate the acquaintance and friendship of congressmen and to use the influence thus gained to secure favorable railroad legislation.

He spent money lavishly and did not hesitate to use his private fortune to achieve his ends. He was supposed to be worth $350,000 when he came to the national capital. The railroads employed him as long as he was useful and when his usefulness was over, cast him aside like an old shoe. He died penniless and the recipient of charity.

He served Mammon and found out too late that his life was illy spent. He gave little thought to the rights of the people and opposed all legislation in their interest.

Doubtless he justified his acts by saying that his duty was to his employers.

But was this true? Does any man have the right to work persistently against reform because he is employed to do so? Does he have a right to accept such employment?

We know he does not. Yet you may be doing this very thing. The temptations are many. Railroads and other corporations are powerful. They offer attractive inducements. They tell you the people will not appreciate your services.

In another way you may be at fault. Do you appreciate the man who does his duty? We lose many valuable public servants because they become discouraged by your apathy. They fall victims to the wiles of the interests because the people fail to back them up.

The predatory corporations are always on the alert. They cast this man aside when he could no longer serve their purpose, but others took his place. They never relax vigilance.

Are you merely living a comfortable life trusting to others to reform conditions? Or are you watching your congressman—encouraging him when he does right, expostulating when he does wrong?

Public servants are subject to great pressure and to influences of which you do not dream. It is your duty to watch them and help them to follow the right course.—People's Popular Monthly.

Mr. Martz' Veracity in Question

Joseph B. Cotton, a prominent Duluth attorney, is very much incensed over the testimony of C. H. Martz before the congressional committee investigating the steel trust. Mr. Martz stated that it was Joseph B. Cotton who suggested that he make a statement placing the cost of construction of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway at $5,000,000 when it in fact cost less than $2,000,000.

Mr. Cotton sent a lengthy telegram to Chairman Stanley in which he accuses Martz of falsehood. He accuses Martz of being a seeker after cheap notoriety.

Chairman Stanley sent the following telegram in reply to Mr. Cotton:

"I exceedingly regret that I am not permitted to place your telegram upon the records of this committee, which contains only the sworn testimony of witnesses. The chairman desired to ascertain the simple truth and regrets that during his sojourn in Minnesota he was not cognizant of the existence of Mr. Cotton nor was he advised that he desired to tell the truth, about the matter.

"Mr. Martz was an unwilling witness before this committee and came only when advised he had no discretion as to whether or not he would obey its process. His testimony will not be stricken from the record, nor will it be revised or expurgated in any way without his full consent."

Delegates to St. Cloud Meeting

A meeting of the Thief River Falls commercial club was held Tuesday. The meeting was called for the purpose of discussing the advisability of attempting to secure the next meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association, which will be held some time next summer. A delegation of twenty was selected to attend the big meeting to be held in St. Cloud on Dec. 8 and 9.

Among the number are D. Patterson and H. E. Ives. The county board delegates are, Commissioners Shaw, Larson, and Hedeen.

Miniature World's Fair

Hundreds of people who have heard of the "land show" which is to be held in St. Paul Dec. 12 to 23, are writing the management and their newspaper editors, asking: "What is a land show?"

The managers of the exposition have replied, "A miniature world's fair." The show to be given in St. Paul is to the northwest what the world's fairs have been to continents, to the world in fact. A land show is an exhibit of the products of the soil, mines, forests, lakes, rivers and factories.

No one at the show in St. Paul will have land to sell; there are no real estate agents represented. The exhibits of products are all placed in the show by commissions appointed by the governors of the states, just as state legislatures appoint commissions and make appropriations to have their states represented at the world's fair. The exhibits are official and the literature which will be distributed will be published by the states themselves. In addition to the state exhibits all the famous fertile valleys and communities of the northwest have separate exhibits. There are eighty exhibits in all and from their descriptions they are the most beautiful ever brought under one roof.

Married

On Monday evening, Nov. 27, 1911, Mr. Axel Westerlund of Warren and Miss Ellen Forsberg of Viking were united in marriage by Rev. Frank L. Larson of this place in the Park hotel at Thief River Falls. The wedding was a quiet affair, only a few relatives being in attendance.

The happy couple left at once on a wedding trip to Bemidji, where they have friends. They returned Thursday to St. Hilaire and will make their home here. The groom is a relative of Rev. Frank L. Larson.

An Army In One.

By J. LUDLUM LEE.

Copyrighted, 1908, by C. H. Sutcliffe.

The snow had been falling for hours. The air was heavy with dampness, and the streets were crowded with children, glad of the storm, as it offered them an opportunity to use their sleds. And at last here was the snow they had prayed for.

In the middle of High street a snowball fight was in progress. A motley crowd of youngsters had made hundreds of snowballs, and they were ranged on both sides of the street in "gangs." The recruits were lined up ready for action when a sleigh turned the corner.

"Cheese it, fellers!" came from the leader of one side. "Here comes the Salvation Army!"

"Beat it! Beat it!" screamed the leader of the opposite forces. And in rank disorder both sections disappeared around the corner and in doorways.

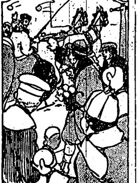
A passerby might have looked in vain for the sight of the Salvation Army. The sleigh drove up in front of a little cottage in the row, and a young girl, muffled in furs, got out, gave some directions to her driver and went into the tumbledown home.

Members of the "gang" began to reappear, and one particularly brave boy stepped up and patted the horse.

"We wus just gettin' ready for a fight, but guess we'll have to wait for the army to go home," he said to the driver. "Couldn't say how long that'll be, could you?" he continued.

"I didn't see any army," said the driver, smiling at the lad.

"Ah, go on," said the youngster. "That's what we calls her—Miss Murtha. We calls her the Salvation Army, 'cause she's saved more sick and dyin' around these alleys than a reg'lar army, so that's our name for her. I's and ma, they calls her Miss Murtha, but the "gang" calls her Salvation Army."



"SOCK IT TO HIM! RIGHT ON THE COCOA!" THEY YELLED.

Inside the cottage Miss Murtha had laid aside her coat and was ministering to a sick child. Her furs were thrown carelessly over a kitchen chair, and she drew up another by the side of the bed.

"Now, Mrs. Quinn, go and take a little rest. I'll sit with Jimmy until the doctor comes. I stopped on my way and told him to come around. I'll heat some broth for Jimmy and do everything that is necessary."

The weary mother went to an adjoining room without any protest. Miss Murtha heated the broth and stared anxiously at the little fellow. She walked to and fro watching the window in hopes of seeing the doctor, but he failed to appear. Going to the door, she called to her driver, who was still in deep conversation with the boy.

"Elston, you'd better drive around to the doctor's and bring him back with you. Tell him he must hurry. Take Michael along with you to hold the horse while you go into the office," she added as she saw the rosy cheeked lad gaping at her.

The sleigh and its two occupants started to turn around. The recruits had all returned by this time and, seeing one of their leaders about to desert them, joined forces against him. With one accord they rushed to the piles of hard snowballs.

"Sock it to him! Right on the cocoa!" they yelled.

The orders were carried out to a T. Of course some of the balls hit the dignified Elston, but he tickled the horse with his whip, and they spun around the corner before much damage was done. They were gone only a few minutes, as Dr. Cosgrove lived within a few blocks of High street. The time was spent in renewing ammunition, however, by the boys who were left in the street.

Elston returned with the doctor, and Michael snugly tucked between them. Suddenly a well aimed shot struck the little fellow in the left eye. With a scream he turned, but too late. The blood poured down his cheek as the doctor picked him up in his arms and carried him into the house, where Miss Murtha was waiting for him. She met them at the door in time to have seen the accident. Stepping out in the yard, she called the boys to her.

Smallest Known Engraving

Among the relics of Sir Moses Montefore is a grain of wheat on which by the aid of a microscope can be found engraved the 386 Hebrew characters of a prayer, inscribed thereon by Bauch Mordecai of Jerusalem, together with the date of the year, Hebrew reckon-reckoning, 5,645. If all the virtues of golden grain belt beers were to be inscribed on a grain of barley, the feat would be a much greater one in minute engraving than this one from Jerusalem. If you have never tried them, you have never had that exquisite beer tang which makes friends everywhere. Order of Alex Thompson, Crookston, or of your dealer.

TRAPPING A GORILLA

Story of a Vicious Struggle In the African Jungle.

A NET THAT FAILED TO HOLD.

The Snared Monster Broke Through Its Meshes and Was the Cause of One Death Before He Was Himself Killed by the Attacking Party.

Captain Frits Duquesne, the Boer ivory hunter, was commissioned by a German naturalist society to capture one of each species of African quadrumana. He was entirely successful in the work, except that he could obtain no gorilla. Finally a pygmy pointed out a portion of the dank jungle in which a gorilla had been seen.

The captain immediately arranged his camp and laid his plans and made preparations to trap the monster and get him alive if possible, though he fully realized the danger of the undertaking.

"For four days," said the captain, "we camped in this hotbed of disease. Beaters went out in all directions searching for the gorilla. At last some deep, wide scratches were found on a cluster of vines. On close examination the unmistakable hair of the gorilla was found on a broken twig.

"After some hours we found the tree where the gorilla lived. We could tell it by the greasy appearance of the bark, made so by the repeated rubbing of the gorilla's body. We could tell by the fresh marks, with sap still wet, that the animal had recently ascended the tree. The scratches were short and deep, showing that it had lifted itself up and had not slid down, which would have made a long, shallow scratch.

"We spread a strong net around the tree in a circle sloping upward on the outer side. Around the top of the net there were drawn ropes from four directions, held by half a dozen natives hidden in the bush. These were to bring the top of the net together and thus bag our game.

"After waiting some hours the leaves above rustled and then opened as a six foot male gorilla descended unsuspectingly and entered the trap. I signaled, the four ropes were pulled at once, and we had our animal—for a moment. He roared in fury, twisting, jumping and biting the rope into pieces. The natives were pulled about like dolls as he tried to reach first one and then another. The professor jumped about in excitement, trying to focus a camera on the infuriated animal.

"At last the mighty arms of the gorilla broke a hole through the net, and he tore the rest from him as though it were a rotten rag. Most of the natives fled in dismay. The professor dropped his camera and tried to escape. In a moment the gorilla grasped him in its terrible hands.

"I seized my rifle and fired in the air to frighten the animal. In my position I could not shoot at him without hitting my friend. For a moment the gorilla stood still, holding the now unconscious man as though he were a baby, the brute's lips drawn back from his glistening teeth.

"I thrust another cartridge in my rifle. As I did so there was a buzz in the air, and an arrow, shot by a native, pierced the gorilla's side. A roar burst from his red throat, and he dropped his victim. Like a flash, before I could shoot, a native sprung from the leaves and, half throwing, half thrusting, drove an assagai into the gorilla's heart. With a groan the brute fell dead.

"Examining the professor, I found that his right arm was broken and that some of his ribs were crushed into his lungs. We gave up the effort to get a live gorilla and, placing the injured man in a hammock, carried him back toward the east coast.

"He died on the road. Out on the veldt beside a native village a lonely little slab marked 'Carl Bloch' sticks up above the grass. It is the professor's grave. Hunting is not all exciting adventure and laughing victory. It has its tears, like other things."—Hampton's Magazine.

Chances In Gambling.

Henri Poincare, the leading mathematician of France, declares that there is no infallible martingale or method of doubling one's stakes after every loss. "All one can do," says M. Poincare, "is to combine one's play so as to have a great chance of winning a little and a little chance of losing much or a few chances of gaining much and many chances of losing little. One can arrange his play so as to have one chance of winning a million francs and a million chances of losing a franc or a million chances of winning a franc and one chance of losing a million francs—and that's all."

DAKOTA BUSINESS COLLEGE

Every person needs a business education and it costs no more to get it at this great Business and Shorthand Training School, under exact office conditions, than at one of the small questionable ones. The results are, however, very different. 350 D. B. C. pupils went to excellent positions in banks and offices this year—over 400 will do so next year. All Fargo banks and 835 others employ D. B. C. pupils as cashiers, tellers or bookkeepers. No other school [illegible]

Our $50 course prepares for business life, or for position as clerk or bookkeeper. Our new $25 course in Commerce and Banking (endorsed by Bankers' Association) supplies cashiers and tellers for the Northwestern banks, and bookkeepers and credit men for the larger concerns. The shorthand course (under an expert reporter) trains court reporters and high grade stenographers. The stenographers for the U. S. District Court, N. D. Supreme Court, 3d Judicial District and the Cass Co. Courts are D. B. C. pupils. [illegible]

The D. B. C. has built a magnificent new building (25,000 square feet of space) is seated with roll top desks, has 50 typewriters, adding machines, billers, money changers, etc. Our pupils deal with each other and with magnificently equipped offices, using aluminum money. Our courses are fascinating and practical. The Northwest has no other school like the D. B. C. [illegible]

Bucolic Music.

Little Willie, being a city boy, had never seen a cow. While on a visit to his grandmother he walked out across the fields with his cousin John. A cow was grazing there, and Willie's curiosity was greatly excited.

"Oh, Cousin John, what is that?" he asked.

"Why, that is only a cow," John replied.

"And what are those things on her head?"

"Horns," answered John.

Before they had gone far the cow mooed long and loud.

Willie was astonished. Looking back, he demanded in a very fever of interest:

"Which horn did she blow?"—Everybody's Magazine.

DEVICE FOR PLANTING TREES

Piece of Board About Seven Feet Long With Notch in Middle Will Be Found Convenient.

After the ground has been laid out for the planting of trees, by means of stakes straight in all directions, the device as shown in the cut will be a great help in getting the trees exactly where the stake has stood.

Take a board about seven feet long, notch it on one side in the middle, having an inch hole bored through the center near each end. Lay down the board with notch to the stake. Insert pegs through the end holes into the soil. Lift one end of the board and swing around. Now the hole should be dug. When ready to receive the tree, swing back the board in place. In planting, place the tree in the notch so that it will bring it exactly where the stake stood.

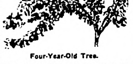
JAPANESE PLUM QUITE HARDY

Particularly Popular With Eastern Growers on Account of Early Maturity and Plumpness.

Plums of the Japanese variety are popular with most growers, particularly in the east, because they are hardy and come on early. Many of these varieties are the earliest in the market, and as they are always of good color, either cherry reds or light yellows, they sell readily and bring good prices.

They will grow well on almost any kind of decent soil, and do not need to be particularly coddled, although they should have all the care that any good fruit tree deserves.



Four-Year-Old Tree.

Mr. and Mrs. Fullerton of the Long Island railroad experiment farm, Medford, N. Y., have a number of these plum trees.

These trees were planted four years ago in soil from which pine scrub had been grubbed only a few weeks before. The trees are bearing well and show fine color and great vigor.

The Japanese plum differs from the domestic varieties in that its leaves are longer, thinner and smoother, and it has a greater tendency to produce lateral fruit buds on the annual growth. Its fruit is mostly short, round and plump.

The Japanese plum is less liable to injury from curculio and black-knot than the domestic variety. Mr. Fullerton says that up to this time his trees have shown no signs of disease or attack from insects of any kind.

GRAPES FRESH ALL WINTER

French Growers Cut Bunches in Such Way That Part of Vine Can Be Placed in Water.

A clever French process by which vine growers in France are able to market fresh outdoor grapes all through the winter is thus described. Bunches of the finest grapes when ripe in autumn are cut in such a way that to each bunch a piece of the vine five or six inches long remains attached. From this piece the stems of the bunch hang, an arrangement vitally necessary to the success of the operation.

A large number of the wide-mouth bottles, filled with water, is ranged in a cellar and in the open end of each is inserted the pieces of vine stem, the bunches of grapes hanging outside. The grapes do not touch the water, but are thus supplied with moisture through the vine stem, which is immersed in water. By this process choice varieties of table grapes are kept in perfect condition for the whole winter.

The temperature of the cellar is uniform and moderately low, and care is taken daily to supply the bottles with the water lost by evaporation. Fruit thus carefully tended is somewhat costly, but there are many patrons who willingly pay $2 a bunch for the delicacy of fresh grapes in midwinter.

Beauty of Shade Tree.

Farmers should be very careful in setting shade trees, for a beautiful shade tree is a joy forever, and not only increases the value of a place by giving shade, but greatly beautifies the surrounding landscape.

MULCH SMALL FRUIT [illegible]

Among Many Advantages It Prevents Growth of Weeds and Adds Needed Humus to Soil.

A successful West Virginia raspberry grower gives the following reasons for mulching:

It prevents the growth of weeds.

It retains moisture in the soil.

It adds humus, one of the necessary elements.

It keeps the fruit clean and prevents mud at picking time.

It saves labor, the cost of mulching an acre with forest leaves or straw not exceeding $15.

It prevents deep freezing.

It makes the fruit more solid for cultivation and better for shipping purposes.

It prevents the baking of the soil caused by tramping at picking time.

It has the disadvantage of encouraging mice and establishing a surface root system. However, we have not noticed any serious damage from either of these effects.

The cost of growing raspberries by nature's method, as I like to call it, is not very great. Picking is a nice job where there is no mud, no weeds and where the canes have been properly pruned.

Don't leave any old canes standing in the field.

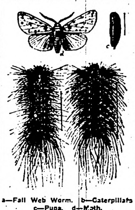
DESTRUCTIVE WEB WORM

Insect Will Quickly Destroy Tree and Should Be Burned as Soon as They Appear.

In the fall the unsightly webs of this insect are seen all over the land. The adult, a little white moth, lays its eggs on the leaves of fruit and other trees and plants early in summer.

The young caterpillars spin the protective web. They are of a pale yellow, with long hairs, two black rows down the body, and a black head.

These worms will quickly destroy a tree and should be burned as soon as they appear, because after they have eaten the leaves they drop to the ground and spin a little cocoon within which they hide themselves and then change back to the chrysalis state.



a—Fall Web Worm. b—Caterpillars. c—Pupa. d—Moth.

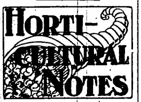
There are two broods of this insect in the south every year and one in the north.

Spraying with Paris green when the worms are very young will destroy them. London purple is also used with success. When they are discovered in large numbers the limbs containing the worms should be cut off and carried out of the orchard and burned.

The caterpillars will first eat all the leaves within the web, then those nearest by, often defoliating the entire tree. The worm is noticeably set with tufts of bristle-like projections.

This insect is sometimes confused with the tent caterpillar which appears in the spring and builds its web in the forks of the limbs.

HORTI-CULTURAL NOTES



Plum trees at ten years should produce one bushel.

Cherry trees at eight years should produce one bushel.

Pear trees at twelve years should produce three bushels.

Apple trees at fifteen years should produce three bushels.

Ringing or girdling the vine may sometimes be used to advantage.

Promptly gather up and burn all brush and rubbish in the orchard.

Don't permit the strawberries to go into winter quarters filled with weeds or grass.

An orchard will live longer, bear better and be more profitable by being well cultivated and enriched.

Straw is recommended by almost every farm publication as a winter covering for strawberry plants.

It is said that cherries cannot be grown profitably at any great distance from large bodies of water.

The city dealer profits by the laziness of the grower, by grading and repacking his badly assorted fruit.

When spraying do not work with bare hands. They'll be sore if you do. Put on a pair of rubber gloves.

Very few pears are at their best if allowed to ripen on the tree. A good rule is to pick when the seeds have turned brown.

A covey of quail in the orchard will prove a good friend to the grower, because they eat a tremendous number of insects.

An orchard soil rich in organic matter is the kind of soil we want; hence grow a clover crop this fall and plow under next spring.

The apple thrives well on a great variety of soils, varying from sandy loam to heavy soils, provided it is well drained and otherwise well cared for.

It will pay the strawberry grower to go to large expense to get some covering for his strawberry plants which does not contain seeds of weeds or grass.

OFFICIAL INVITATION TO AMERICANS

HOW ROBERT ROGERS, MINISTER OF THE INTERIOR, IN WINNIPEG ADDRESS, ISSUES WELCOME OF AMERICANS TO WESTERN CANADA.

During the course of a reply to an address presented to Hon. Robert Rogers, the newly appointed Minister of the Interior of Canada at a banquet given at Winnipeg in his honor that gentleman spoke on immigration. The tone of his remarks was that he intended to pursue an aggressive and forward policy in the matter of immigration. In part, he said:

"The most important branch perhaps of that department (interior) is that of immigration.

"If there is anything more than another we want here it is a greater population, and it shall be my duty to present to the people in all parts of the world where desirable emigrants are to be found the advantages and the great possibilities of this country. We have received in the past a reasonably large immigration from south of the international boundary, and in this connection let me say just a word for our American cousins who have found happy homes amongst us, and those whom we hope to welcome in greater numbers in the years to come. There are hundreds of thousands of them in our prairie provinces, happy in the enjoyment of a freedom as great as they ever knew, and all contributing in a material way towards the development of Canada. We are not blind to their value as settlers. They come better equipped with scientific farming knowledge than most of our emigrants, and constitute without doubt the wealthiest class of emigrants any new country has ever known. As head of the immigration department it will be my privilege to offer them a welcome hearty and sincere, and to so contribute to their welfare that under the protecting folds of the Union Jack they will enjoy as great a degree of liberty and happiness as under the Stars and Stripes. The Borden government cherishes nothing but the kindliest feelings for the people of the great republic to the south, and will do all in its power to increase the bonds of kinship and neighborly good feeling that has so long existed. (Hear, hear.)

"While we adopt a vigorous emigration policy in that country, we will also adopt the same vigorous policy in other parts of the world. We will go to England, Ireland and Scotland, and every other country irrespective of race, creed or nationality, where we can find suitable and desirable emigrants for this great country. I think much good work can be done in those countries, and especially perhaps at the present time in England, Ireland and Scotland. Now, then, it will be my duty to stir up that policy in the most vigorous manner possible."

BABY'S ECZEMA AND BOILS

"My son was about three weeks old when I noticed a breaking-out on his cheeks, from which a watery substance oozed. A short time after, his arms, shoulders and breast broke out also, and in a few days became a solid scab. I became alarmed, and called our family physician who at once pronounced the disease eczema. The little fellow was under treatment for about three months. By the end of that time, he seemed no better. I became discouraged. I dropped the doctor's treatment, and commenced the use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and in a few days noticed a marked change. The eruption on his cheeks was almost healed, and his shoulders, arms and breast were decidedly better. When he was about seven months old, all trace of the eczema was gone.

"During his teething period, his head and face were broken out in boils which I cured with Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Surely he must have been a great sufferer. During the time of teething and from the time I dropped the doctor's treatment, I used the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, nothing else, and when two years old he was the picture of health. His complexion was soft and beautiful, and his head a mass of silky curls. I had been afraid that he would never be well, and I feel that I owe a great deal to the Cuticura Remedies." (Signed) Mrs. Mary W. Ramsey, 224 E. Jackson St., Colorado Springs, Col., Sept. 24, 1910. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 5 L, Boston.

All teachers of the city assemble for an hour each week and are given lessons in penmanship by the superintendent, and their work for the students outlined. Good results are being manifested.

Aids Nature

The great success of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in curing weak stomachs, wasted bodies, weak lungs, and obstinate and lingering coughs, is based on the recognition of the fundamental truth that "Golden Medical Discovery" supplies Nature with body-building, tissue-repairing, muscle-making materials, in condensed and concentrated form. With this help Nature supplies the necessary strength to the stomach to digest food, build up the body and thereby throw off lingering obstinate coughs. The "Discovery" re-establishes the digestive and nutritive organs in sound health, purifies and enriches the blood, and nourishes the nerves—in short establishes sound vigorous health.

TRUST PROBLEM IS TAFT'S TOPIC

Message to Congress Devoted to This One Matter.

DECISIONS ARE DEFENDED

Dissolution Plans of Standard Oil and Tobacco Explained—Federal Incorporation and Commission Recommended.

Washington.—President Taft's annual message, which was read in both houses of congress Tuesday, deals exclusively with the anti-trust statute. The message in part is as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives: This message is the first of several which I shall send to congress during the interval between the opening of its regular session and its adjournment for the Christmas holidays. The amount of information to be communicated as to the operations of the government, the number of important subjects calling for comment by the executive, and the transmission to congress of exhaustive reports by special commissions, make it impossible to include in one message of a reasonable length a discussion of the topics that ought to be brought to the attention of the national legislature at its first regular session.

Decisions of Supreme Court.

In May last the Supreme court handed down decisions in the suits in equity brought by the United States to enjoin the further maintenance of the Standard Oil trust and of the American Tobacco trust, and to secure their dissolution. The decisions are epoch-making and serve to advise the business world authoritatively of the scope and operation of the anti-trust law of 1890. The decisions do not depart in any substantial way from the previous decisions of the court in construing and applying this important statute, but they clarify those important decisions by further defining the already admitted exceptions to the literal construction of the act. By the decrees, they furnish a useful precedent as to the proper method of dealing with the capital and property of illegal trusts. These decisions suggest the need and wisdom of additional or supplemental legislation to make it easier for the entire business community to square with the rule of action and legality thus finally established and to preserve the benefit, freedom and spur of reasonable competition without loss of real efficiency or progress.

It has been said that the court, by introducing into the construction of the statute common law distinctions, has emasculated it. This is obviously untrue. By its judgment every contract and combination in restraint of interstate trade made with the purpose, or necessary effect of controlling prices by stifling competition, or of establishing in whole or in part a monopoly of such trade, is condemned by the statute. The most extreme critics cannot instance a case that ought to be condemned under the statute which is not brought within its terms as thus construed.

The sugestion is also made that the Supreme court by its decisions in the last two cases has committed to the court the undefined and unlimited discretion to determine whether a case of restraint of trade is within the terms of the statute. This is wholly untrue. A reasonable restraint of trade at common law is well understood and is clearly defined. It does not rest in the discretion of the court. It must be limited to acomplish the purpose of a lawful main contract to which, in order that it shall be enforceable at all, it must be incidental. If it exceeds the needs of that contract it is void.

Methods of Dissolution.

In the Standard Oil case the Supreme and circuit courts found the combination to be a monopoly of the interstate business of refining, transporting, and marketing petroleum and its products, effected and maintained through thirty-seven different corporations, the stock of which was held by a New Jersey company. It in effect commanded the dissolution of this combination, directed the transfer and pro-rata distribution by the New Jersey company of the stock held by it in the thirty-seven corporations to and among its stockholders, and the corporations and individual defendants were enjoined from conspiring or combining to restore such monopoly; and all agreements between the subsidiary corporations tending to produce or bring about further violations of the act were enjoined.

In the Tobacco case, the court found that the individual defendants, twenty-nine in number, had been engaged in a successful effort to acquire complete dominion over the manufacture, sale, and distribution of tobacco in this country and abroad, and that this had been done by combinations made with a purpose and effect to stifle competition, control prices, and establish a monopoly, not only in the manufacture of tobacco, but also of tin-foil and licorice, used in its manufacture and of its products of cigars, cigarettes and snuffs. The tobacco suit presented a far more complicated and difficult case than the Standard Oil suit for a decree which would effectuate the will of the court and end the violation of the statute. There was here no single holding company as in the case of the Standard Oil trust. The main company was the American Tobacco company, a manufacturing, selling and holding company. The plan adopted to destroy the combination and restore competition involved the redivision of the capital and plants of the whole trust between some of the companies constituting the trust and new companies organized for the purposes of the decree and made parties to it, and numbering, new and old, fourteen.

Purpose Not Confiscation.

It is not the purpose of the statute to confiscate the property and capital of the offending trusts. Methods of punishment by fine or imprisonment of the individual offenders, by fine of the corporation, or by forfeiture of its goods in transportation, are provided, but the proceeding in equity is a specific remedy to stop the operation of the trust by injunction and [illegible] capital in violation of the statute.

I venture to say that not in the history of American law has a decree more effective for such a purpose been entered by a court than that against the Tobacco trust.

It has been assumed that the present pro-rata and common ownership in all these companies by former stockholders of the trust would insure a continuance of the same old single control of all the companies into which the trust has by decree been disintegrated. This is erroneous and is based upon the assumed inefficacy and innocuousness of judicial injunctions. The companies are enjoined from co-operation or combination; they have different managers, directors, purchasing and sales agents. If all or any of the numerous stockholders, reaching into the thousands, attempt to secure concerted action of the companies with a view to the control of the market, their number is so large that such an attempt could not well be concealed and its prime movers and all its participants would be at once subject to contempt proceedings and imprisonment of a summary character. The immediate result of the present situation will necessarily be activity by all the companies under different managers and then competition must follow, or there will be activity by one company and stagnation by another.

Cry for Repeal of Law.

But now that the anti-trust act is seen to be effective for the accomplishment of the purpose of its enactment, we are met by a cry from many different quarters for its repeal. It is said to be obstructive of business progress, to be an attempt to restore old-fashioned methods of destructive competition between small units, and to make impossible those useful combinations of capital and the reduction of the cost of production that are essential to continued prosperity and normal growth.

In the recent decisions the Supreme court makes clear that there is nothing in the statute which condemns combinations of capital or mere bigness of plant organized to secure economy in production and a reduction of its cost. It is only when the purpose or necessary effect of the organization and maintenance of the combination or the aggregation of immense size are the stifling of competition, actual and potential, and the enhancing of prices and establishing a monopoly, that the statute is violated.

For Federal Incorporation.

In a special message to congress on January 7, 1910, I ventured to point out the disturbance to business that would probably attend the dissolution of these offending trusts. I said:

"But such an investigation and possible prosecution of corporations whose prosperity or destruction affects the comfort not only of stockholders but of millions of wage earners, employes, and associated tradesmen must necessarily tend to disturb the confidence of the business community, to dry up the now flowing sources of capital from its places of hoarding, and produce a halt in our present prosperity that will cause suffering and strained circumstances among the innocent many for the fault of the guilty few. The question which I wish in this message to bring clearly to the consideration and discussion of congress is whether, in order to avoid such a possible business danger, something cannot be done by which these business combinations may be offered a means, without great financial disturbance, of changing the character, organization and extent of their business into one within the lines of the law under federal control and supervision, securing compliance with the anti-trust statute.

"Generally, in the industrial combinations called 'Trusts,' the principal business is the sale of goods in many states and in foreign markets; in other words, the interstate and foreign business far exceeds the business done in any one state. This fact will justify the federal government in granting a federal charter to such a combination to make and sell in interstate and foreign commerce the products of useful manufacture under such limitations as will secure a compliance with the anti-trust law. It is possible so to frame a statute that while it offers protection to a federal company against harmful, vexatious and unnecessary invasion by the states, it shall subject it to reasonable taxation and control by the states with respect to its purely local business.

"Corporations organized under this act should be prohibited from acquiring and holding stock in other corporations (except for special reasons, upon approval by the proper federal authority), thus avoiding the creation under national auspices of the holding company with subordinate corporations in different states, which has been such an effective agency in the creation of the great trusts and monopolies.

"If the prohibition of the anti-trust act against combinations in restraint of trade is to be effectively enforced, it is essential that the national government shall provide for the creation of national corporations to carry on a legitimate business throughout the United States. The conflicting laws of the different states of the Union with respect to foreign corporations makes it difficult, if not impossible, for one corporation to comply with their requirements so as to carry on business in a number of different states."

Federal Commission Proposed.

I do not set forth in detail the terms and sections of a statute which might supply the constructive legislation permitting and aiding the formation of combinations of capital into federal corporations. They should be subject to rigid rules as to their organization and procedure, including effective publicity, and to the closest supervision as to the issue of stock and bonds by an executive bureau or commission in the department of commerce and labor, to which in times of doubt they might well submit their proposed plans for future business. It must be distinctly understood that incorporation under a federal law could not exempt the company thus formed and its incorporators and managers from prosecution under the anti-trust law for subsequent illegal conduct, but the publicity of its procedure and the opportunity for frequent consultation as to the legitimate purpose of its transactions would offer it as great security against successful prosecutions for violations of the law as would be practical or wise.

I recommend that the federal charters thus to be granted shall be voluntary, at least until experience justifies mandatory provisions. The benefit to be derived from the operation of great businesses under the protection of such a charter would attract all who are anxious to keep within the lines of the law. Other large combinations that fail to take advantage of the federal incorporation will not have a right to complain if their failure is ascribed to unwillingness to submit their transactions to the careful scrutiny, competent supervision and publicity attendant upon the enjoyment of such a charter.

NATION AT PEACE

PRESIDENT INFORMS CONGRESS ABOUT RELATIONS WITH OTHER COUNTRIES.

NEW ARBITRATION TREATIES

United States Helps In Amicable Settlement of Disputes—Events Connected With the Mexican Revolution—Need for Merchant Marine.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Foreign affairs are the sole subject of President Taft's special message, which was submitted to Congress today. In part the document says:

The relations of the United States with other countries have continued during the past twelve months upon a basis of the usual good will and friendly intercourse.

Arbitration.

The year just passed marks an important general movement on the part of the powers for broader arbitration. In the recognition of the manifold benefits to mankind in the extension of the policy of the settlement of international disputes by arbitration rather than by war, and in response to a widespread demand for an advance in that direction on the part of the people of the United States and of Great Britain and of France, new arbitration treaties were negotiated last spring with Great Britain and France, the terms of which were designed, as expressed in the preamble of these treaties, to extend the scope and obligations of the policy of arbitration adopted in our present treaties with those governments. To pave the way for this treaty with the United States, Great Britain negotiated an important modification in its alliance with Japan and the French government also expedited the negotiations with signal good will. The new treaties have been submitted to the senate and are awaiting its advice and consent to their ratification. All the essentials of these important treaties have long been known, and it is my earnest hope that they will receive prompt and favorable action.

Arbitrations.

In further illustration of the practical and beneficent application of the principle of arbitration and the underlying broad spirit of conciliation, I am happy to advert to the part of the United States in facilitating amicable settlement of disputes which menaced the peace between Panama and Costa Rica and between Haiti and the Dominican republic.

Since the date of their independence, Colombia and Costa Rica had been seeking a solution of a boundary dispute, which came as a heritage from Colombia to the new republic of Panama, upon its beginning life as an independent nation. In January, 1910, at the request of both governments the agents representing them met in conference at the department of state and subsequently concluded a protocol submitting this long-pending controversy to the arbitral judgment of the chief justice of the United States, who consented to act in this capacity. A boundary commission, according to the international agreement, has now been appointed, and it is expected that the arguments will shortly proceed and that this long-standing dispute will be honorably and satisfactorily terminated.

Again, a few months ago it appeared that the Dominican republic and Haiti were about to enter upon hostilities because of complications growing out of an acrimonious boundary dispute which the efforts of many years had failed to solve. The government of the United States, by a friendly interposition of good offices, succeeded in prevailing upon the parties to place their reliance upon some form of pacific settlement.

Mexico.

The recent political events in Mexico received attention from this government because of the exceedingly delicate and difficult situation created along our southern border and the necessity for taking measures properly to safeguard American interests. The government of the United States, in its desire to secure a proper observance and enforcement of the so-called neutrality statutes of the federal government, issued directions to the appropriate officers to exercise a diligent and vigilant regard for the requirements of such rules and laws. Although a condition of actual armed conflict existed, there was no official recognition of belligerency involving the technical neutrality obligations of international law.

After a conference with the secretary of war and the secretary of the navy, I thought it wise to assemble an army division of full strength at San Antonio, Tex., a brigade of three regiments at Galveston, a brigade of infantry in the Los Angeles district of southern California, together with a squadron of battleships and cruisers and transports at Galveston, and a small squadron of ships at San Diego. At the same time, through our representative at the City of Mexico I expressed to President Diaz the hope that no apprehensions might result from unfounded conjectures as to these military maneuvers, and assured him that they had no significance which should cause concern to his government.

I am more than happy to here record the fact that all apprehensions as to the effect of the presence of so large a military force in Texas proved groundless; no disturbances occurred.

The insurrection continued and resulted in engagements between the regular Mexican troops and the insurgents, and this along the border, so that in several instances bullets from the contending forces struck American citizens engaged in their lawful occupations on American soil.

Proper protests were made against these invasions of American rights to the Mexican authorities.

The presence of a large military and naval force available for prompt action, near the Mexican border, proved to be the most fortunate under the somewhat trying conditions presented by this invasion of American rights.

The policy and action of this government were based upon an earnest friendliness for the Mexican people as a whole, and it is a matter of gratification to note that this attitude of strict impartiality as to all factions in Mexico and of sincere friendship for the neighboring nation, without regard for party allegiance, has been generally recognized and has resulted in an even closer and more sympathetic understanding between the two republics and a warmer regard one for the other. Action to suppress violence and restore tranquility throughout the Mexican republic was of peculiar interest to this government, in that it concerned the safeguarding of American life and property in that country. On May 25, 1911, President Diaz resigned, Senor de la Barra was chosen provisional president. Elections for president and vice-president were thereafter held throughout the republic, and Senor Francisco I. Madero was formally declared elected on October 15, to the chief magistracy. On November 6 President Madero entered upon the duties of his office.

Honduras and Nicaragua Treaties Proposed.

As to the situation in Central America, I have taken occasion in the past to emphasize most strongly the importance that should be attributed to the consummation of the conventions between the republics of Nicaragua and of Honduras and this country, and I again earnestly recommend that the necessary advice and consent of the senate be accorded to these treaties, which will make it possible for these Central American republics to enter upon an era of genuine economic national development.

Our relations with the Republic of Panama, peculiarly important, due to mutual obligations and the vast interests created by the canal, have continued in the usual friendly manner, and we have been glad to make appropriate expression of our attitude of sympathetic interest in the endeavors of our neighbor in undertaking the development of the rich resources of the country.

New Japanese Treaty.

The treaty of commerce and navigation between the United States and Japan, signed in 1894, would by a strict interpretation of its provisions have terminated on July 17, 1912. Japan's general treaties with the other powers, however, terminated in 1911, and the Japanese government expressed an earnest desire to conduct the negotiations for a new treaty with the United States simultaneously with its negotiations with the other powers. There were a number of important questions involved in the treaty, including the immigration of laborers, revision of the customs tariff and the right of Americans to hold real estate in Japan. The United States consented to waive all technicalities and to enter at once upon negotiations for a new treaty on the understanding that there should be a continuance throughout the life of the treaty of the same effective measures for the restriction of immigration of laborers to American territory which had been in operation with entire satisfaction to both governments since 1908. The Japanese government accepted this basis of negotiation, and a new treaty was quickly concluded, resulting in a highly satisfactory settlement of the other questions referred to.

Europe and the Near East.

In Europe and the near east, during the past twelve-month, there has been at times considerable political unrest. The Moroccan question, which for some months was the cause of great anxiety, happily appears to have reached a stage at which it need no longer be regarded with concern. The Ottoman empire was occupied for a period by strife in Albania and is now at war with Italy. In Greece and the Balkan countries the disquieting potentialities of this situation have been more or less felt. Persia has been the scene of a long internal struggle. These conditions have been the cause of uneasiness in European diplomacy, but thus far without direct political concern to the United States.

In the war which unhappily exists between Italy and Turkey this government has no direct political interest, and I took occasion at the suitable time to issue a proclamation of neutrality in that conflict. At the same time all necessary steps have been taken to safeguard the personal interests of American citizens and organizations in so far as affected by the war.

Fur-Seal Treaty.

The fur-seal controversy, which for nearly twenty-five years has been the source of serious friction between the United States and the powers bordering upon the north Pacific ocean, whose subjects have been permitted to engage in pelagic sealing against the fur-seal herds having their breeding grounds within the jurisdiction of the United States, has at last been satisfactorily adjusted by the conclusion of the North Pacific sealing convention entered into between the United States, Great Britain, Japan and Russia on the seventh of July last.

The attention of congress is especially called to the necessity for legislation on the part of the United States for the purpose of fulfilling the obligations assumed under this convention, to which the senate gave its advice and consent on the twenty-fourth day of July last.

International Opium Commission.

In a special message transmitted to the congress on the seventh of January, 1911, in which I concurred in the recommendations made by the secretary of state in regard to certain needful legislation for the control of our interstate and foreign traffic in opium and other menacing drugs, I quoted from my annual message of December 7, 1909, in which I announced that the results of the International Opium commission held at Shanghai in February, 1909, at the invitation of the United States, had been laid before this government; that the report of that commission showed that China was making remarkable progress and admirable efforts toward the eradication of the opium evil; that the interested governments had not permitted their commercial interests to prevent their co-operation in this reform; and, as a result of collateral investigations of the opium question in this country, I recommended that the manufacture, sale and use of opium in the United States should be more rigorously controlled by legislation.

Prior to that time and in continuation of the policy of this government to secure the co-operation of the interested nations, the United States proposed an international opium conference with full powers for the purpose of clothing with the force of international law the resolutions adopted by the above-mentioned commission, together with their essential corollories. The other powers concerned cordially responded to the proposal of this government, and, I am glad to be able to announce, representatives of all the powers assembled in conference at The Hague on the first of this month.

Foreign Trade Relations of the United States.

In my last annual message I referred to the tariff negotiations of the department of state with foreign countries in connection with the application, by a series of proclamations, of the minimum tariff of the United States to importations from the several countries, and I stated that, in its general operation, section 2 of the new tariff law had proved a guaranty of continued commercial peace, although there were, unfortunately, instances where foreign governments dealt arbitrarily with American interests within their jurisdiction in a manner injurious and inequitable. During the past year some instances of discriminatory treatment have been removed, but I regret to say that there remain a few cases of differential treatment adverse to the commerce of the United States. While none of these instances now appears to amount to undue discrimination in the sense of section 2 of the tariff law of August 5, 1909, they are all exceptions to that complete degree of equality of tariff treatment that the department of state has consistently sought to obtain for American commerce abroad.

While the double tariff feature of the tariff law of 1909 has been amply justified by the results achieved in removing former and preventing new, undue discriminations against American commerce, it is believed that the time has come for the amendment of this feature of the law in such way as to provide a graduated means of meeting varying degrees of discriminatory treatment of American commerce in foreign countries as well as to protect the financial interests abroad of American citizens against arbitrary and injurious treatment on the part of foreign governments through either legislative or administrative measures.

It would seem desirable that the maximum tariff of the United States should embrace within its purview the free list, which is not the case at the present time, in order that it might have reasonable significance to the governments of those countries from which the importations into the United States are confined virtually to articles on the free list.

The fiscal year ended June 30, 1911, shows great progress in the development of American trade. It was noteworthy as marking the highest record of exports of American products to foreign countries, the valuation being in excess of $2,000,000,000. These exports showed a gain over the preceding year of more than $300,000,000.

Crying Need for American Merchant Marine.

I need hardly reiterate the conviction that there should speedily be built up an American merchant marine. This is necessary to assure favorable transportation facilities to our great ocean-borne commerce as well as to supplement the navy with an adequate reserve of ships and men. It would have the economic advantage of keeping at home part of the vast sums now paid foreign shipping for carrying American goods. All the great commercial nations pay heavy subsidies to their merchant marine, so that it is obvious that without some wise aid from [illegible] merchant marine.

Improvement of the Foreign Service.

The entire foreign service organization is being improved and developed with especial regard to the requirements of the commercial interests of the country. The rapid growth of our foreign trade makes it of the utmost importance that governmental agencies through which that trade is to be aided and protected should possess a high degree of efficiency. Not only should the foreign representatives be maintained upon a generous scale in so far as salaries and establishments are concerned, but the selection and advancement of officers should be definitely and permanently regulated by law so that the service shall not fail to attract men of the highest character and ability. The experience of the past few years with the partial application of civil service rules to the diplomatic and consular service leaves no doubt in my mind of the wisdom of a wider and more permanent extension of those principles to both branches of the foreign service.

THE M'NAMARAS PLEAD GUILTY

JAMES B. McNAMARA ADMITS CAUSING THE TIMES EXPLOSION.

TRIAL HAS A SUDDEN END

John J. Confesses Implication in the Blowing Up of the Llewellyn Iron Works, Also in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Calif.—James B. McNamara pleaded guilty to murder in the first degree in Judge Walter Bordwell's court. His brother, John J. McNamara, secretary of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, entered a plea of guilty to having dynamited the Llewellyn Iron Works in Los Angeles on Christmas day, 1910.

James B. McNamara's confession clears up absolutely the tragedy of the explosion and fire which at 1 o'clock on the morning of Oct. 1, 1910, wrecked the plant of the Los Angeles Times at First and Broadway and caused the death of 21 persons. For nineteen of these deaths the McNamara brothers were indicted.

J. B. McNamara was on trial specifically for the murder of Charles J. Haggerty, a machinist whose body was found nearer than that of any other to the spot where the dynamite was supposed to have been placed.

It is expected District Attorney John D. Fredericks will ask for life imprisonment for James B. McNamara, the confessed murderer, and probably fourteen years for his brother. The men's lives are considered saved. The great contention that the Los Angeles Times was not dynamited is dead beyond resurrection or argument.

"He was counselled to confess because that was the best thing he could do, in the opinion of counsel," said Attorney Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel. "I will say now that there was no other reason of motive in it. I've studied this case for months. It presented a stone wall."

Darrow's statement was made as looking squarely in the faces of the charges that the recent arrest of Burt H. Franklin, an investigator employed by the defense, and two others with him, might have precipitated a situation untenable save by confession of the prisoner.

Darrow also denied that external pressure was exerted from union labor socialist sources as General Harrison Gray Otis charged in a formal statement, or that the municipal election to be held next Tuesday in which Job Harriman, one of the defense's counsel, is candidate for mayor, carried any weight. It was learned that Harriman was not consulted at all in the deliberations.

The chief crime charged against the McNamaras and the one which finally led to their undoing was the destruction of the Los Angeles Times building. Organized labor opposed this paper because of its successful fight against the unions. There was much talk of a "gas explosion" at the time, and Socialist and labor union papers discussed the theory seriously, but men on the inside invariably smiled when they attributed the destruction of the Times to gas.

Shortly after the big presses in the basement had commenced rumbling on the morning of October 1, 1910, the Los Angeles Times building, which was one of the landmarks of the southern California metropolis, was destroyed by an explosion which startled the city. Twenty-one lives were lost. The property loss was estimated at $500,000.

Comparison of an infernal machine found at Peoria with those picked up at Los Angeles convinced the detectives the dynamitings had been planned by the same person and carried out by his agent or agents. William J. Burns, head of the Burns Agency, and the man who exposed the San Francisco graft ring, chanced to be in Los Angeles at the time of the explosion and was called into conference with Mayor Alexander, the chief of police, other city officials and representatives of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' association.

A connection was soon established between McManigal and the McNamaras, and their connection with a number of additional dynamite cases established. Events came rapidly to a head. James B. McNamara and McManigal being arrested at Detroit on April 12, 1911, and his brother ten days later at Indianapolis. The latter was taken from an executive meeting of the Iron Workers' union, of which he was international secretary, and a search of the union headquarters revealed a mine of dynamite, bombs, etc., ready for use. The men were taken to Los Angeles, where they have since been in jail.

DECLINE IN VALUE

LESS FOR 1911 THAN FOR PRECEDING YEAR, SAYS SECRETARY WILSON.

CROPS ARE WORTH MORE

Loss Chargeable to Animals and Their Products—Pertinent Paragraphs From the Annual Report.

Washington, D. C. — According to the annual report of James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, just made public, for the first time in many years the total value of farm products has declined from that of the preceding year. The estimate for 1911 is based on the census items, and is $8,417,000,000, or $277,000,000 under the total for 1910. The loss is chargeable to the general classes of animal products and animals sold and slaughtered. Dairy cows are the only farm animals for which increase of price is indicated. Eggs, wool, butter and poultry have suffered in farm price during the year. In consequence of the decline of prices of farm animals and their products, this group is estimated as having produced a value of $2,913,000,000 in 1911, of $321,000,000 below the amount for 1910.

On the other hand, the crops are worth more than those for 1910, the estimate of their farm value being $5,504,000,000, a gain of $44,000,000 over 1910. Farm prices of all crops are higher than for 1910 except for cotton, cotton seed and flax seed, and this general fact, notwithstanding the other general fact that production was low, makes about ten crops of 1911 the most valuable ones of the same kind that the farms of this country have ever produced.

Corn the Leading Crop.

With a value of more than twice that of the cotton crop this year and but little less than the combined values of the cotton, wheat, and oats crops, corn is by far the leading crop as a wealth producer. The estimate of 2,776,000,000 bushels indicates a production that has been exceeded in only two years. The farm price of corn is now higher than it has been since the records of the department began in 1866, except in 1883, and this establishes a total value for the crop that reaches $1,700,000,000 and breaks the record.

So pre-eminently is corn the leading crop of this country that about three-fourths of the world's crop is grown here. But the exports of corn constitute one-third of the world's export of corn.

The year 1911 was a poor one for record-breaking crops, since the list includes only cotton and sugar beets. Apart from these two crops, not a crop reaches a place that is next to the highest production of former years; corn and rice win third place, and buckwheat third place since the sixties; the total of all cereals occupies fifth place, and the other crops are farther down the scale.

The tale is reversed when the value of the crops are considered. The crops that have won first place make a formidable list in spite of the fact that they have previous very high values to exceed. The list is corn, barley, rye, buckwheat (since the sixties), potatoes, hops, flaxseed, sugar beets (or beet sugar), and cane sugar.

Some Pithy Paragraphs.

Mr. Wilson's report begins with a series of short, pithy paragraphs, some of which are as follows:

The hog-cholera serum developed in this department is successful where it is properly made and applied.

After years of experimentation we find we can grow Egyptian cotton in southern California and bulbs in the state of Washington.

The finest dates from the Sahara Desert succeed in our southwest.

Seven hundred and fifty million dollars is the best estimate for poultry products this year.

We are sending explorers to the ends of the earth for new plants—and getting them.

The phosphates are abundant in our country for all possible uses. Florida, Kentucky, Tennessee, and Idaho may be mentioned as depositories.

If good roads from the producer to the consumer were general, the benefits to both would be considerable.

The experiment stations of the several states are doing better work each succeeding year, the scientists are maturing and the people are appreciating.

The object lesson in agriculture is the best teacher; we had 60,000 of them at work last year.

Six hundred thousand short tons of beet sugar were made last year in 67 factories. There is an estimated world's shortage of 1,600,000 long tons of sugar this year.

The consumer pays a dollar for food; the farmer gets less than fifty cents for it. Who gets the rest?

All government agencies that conserve public health should be grouped together in one bureau.

Irrigation will bring maximum crops while the land is new and full of plant food; but where the crops are sold year by year irrigation will not of itself assure good results.

The corn crop is moving northward by seed selection.

Our foresters are learning by experiments how to reforest 30,000 acres in a year; 10 times as much must be planted annually to cover all the bare acres in a generation. It will be done.

No Soap There.

It was a modern version of that ancient saw that shoemakers' children go barefoot. A ten-year-old boy had presented himself at the settlement playground coated with many layers or city soil. The teacher lost no time in administering a reproof.

"Gee, how can I help it," sniffed the boy, "when me mother's a washwoman and takes all the soap away wid 'er?"

A Bay State belle talks thus about coffee:

"While a coffee drinker I was a sufferer from indigestion and intensely painful nervous headaches, from childhood.

"Seven years ago my health gave out entirely. I grew so weak that the exertion of walking, if only a few feet, made it necessary for me to lie down. My friends thought I was marked for consumption—weak, thin and pale.

"I realised the danger I was in and tried faithfully to get relief from medicines, till, at last, after having employed all kinds of drugs, the doctor acknowledged that he did not believe it was in his power to cure me.

"While in this condition a friend induced me to quit coffee and try Postum, and I did so without the least hope that it would do me any good. I did not like it at first, but when it was properly made I found it was a most delicious and refreshing beverage. I [illegible] ice-cold, with cream.

"In a month's time I began to improve, and in a few weeks my indigestion ceased to trouble me, and my headache stopped entirely. I am so perfectly well now that I do not like to feel the same person, and I have gained in flesh that I am 15 pounds heavier than ever before.

Did as He Was Told.

A young Irishman from a remote part of Ireland recently secured a berth as barman at a hotel in Manchester. The first morning at 6 o'clock young Murphy was instructed to light the lamps outside. This he proceeded to do very businesslike, but half an hour later could not be found. Inquiries were made, and eventually Murphy was seen about 7:30 lighting a lamp near Middleton, having lit all the lamps on the Rochdale road for about four miles.—Ideas.

Fame of Li Hung Chang.

There are far too many famous men nowadays, and it is not easy to remember exactly who is who. They were discussing the Chinese situation in the bar and the man who had visited China began to give his views. "Do you remember Li Hung Chang?" he began. "I knew him well." To which the sporting-looking gentleman in the corner answered, "What? Remember him? I saw him last night. Best music hall juggler I've seen for a long time."—London Chronicle.

The Northern Minnesota Development association is in session—yesterday and today—at St. Cloud. All indications pointed to an interesting meeting.

President Taft says that he does not now feel that his famous Winona speech was just what it should have been. Jim Tawney, as usual, agrees with him.

The Sixty-second congress convened at Washington Monday. Here is hoping that out of the squabbling there is scheduled to occur, some good to the people may be evolved. But it's a doubtful proposition.

And now it's the Grand Forks people that are kicking on the shortage of water caused by the log jams in the Red Lake river. Strange that people will persist in talking about things the lumber company don't want to hear.

The state prison authorities have fixed the prices for binder twine for the season of 1912. The prices will be the same as last year. They are guaranteed to be as low or lower than those of other dealers for the same grades and the grades and qualities are also guaranteed.

A special invitation has been sent by Chairman Stanley to John D. Rockefeller and Rev. F. T. Gates to appear before the steel investigating committee and tell of the deal in Minnesota iron lands by which the Merritts lost $20,000,000. Wonder if, if they will have time to attend.

It begins to look as if the millionaire meat packers would have to face trial just like any common criminal, the government having been nearly eight years in getting them before the bar of justice and the United States supreme court having just denied an appeal which would have meant another long delay.

Anybody could have killed Henry Beattie; society's business was to make a good man of him.—Hibbing Tribune. Rats! Beattie was wiped off the earth for the same reason we kill a rattlesnake or a rabid dog. If the snake had a big bank account there would doubtless be people who would want to reform him.

After thousands of dollars of workingmen's money and weeks of valuable time have been spent in the vain effort to secure—or buy—a jury that would not convict them, the McNamaras have confessed to save their necks from the gallows—and incidentally try to save some of their associates who are prominent citizens from exposure.

Jewish citizens throughout the county are aroused over the failure of the Russian government to observe the treaty of 1832, which requires the honoring of passports of American citizen of any nationality or faith, and favor the abrogation of the treaty on account of the refusal on the part of Russia to honor passports held by Jewish citizens of this country.

A wisely conducted newspaper is like a banquet, says an exchange. Everything is served up with a view to variety. Help yourself to what you want and don't condemn the entire spread because the pickle and onions may be included. If you do not relish them somebody else may find them palatable. Be generous and broad enough to select gracefully such reading matter from newspapers as will be agreeable to your mental taste. You as an individual, are not compelled to swallow everything. We do not all think alike on every subject, and it is a good thing, as it makes more variety and variety is the spice of existence. —Ex.

The most notable map publication of the year is the large geologic map of North America just issued by the United States Geological survey. It represents an exceptional type of engraving and lithography in color work and is printed in four sheets which fitted together and mounted make a map 6 feet 5 inches high by 5 feet wide, the largest piece of work ever issued by the survey. The scale is 1 to 5,000,000, or 80 miles to the inch.

Labor and the McNamara Case

Probably there are few people—certainly there will be no unprejudiced people—who will attempt to hold organized labor responsible for the dreadful deeds which the McNamaras have admitted doing.

Labor's spontaneous, prompt, and obviously sincere repudiation of such methods, taking the form of vigorous interviews and resolutions that come from all parts of the country, is pretty fair evidence that the rank and file of organized labor, as well as its officialdom, have no sympathy with the methods these men used.

Labor's present attitude will tend to strengthen its standing in public opinion. It is far more creditable, to say the least, than that of those Los Angeles business men who, for the sake of business, arranged a compromise that practically condoned some of the worst crimes of the age and prated of the Golden Rule while so engaged.—Duluth Herald.

Turkish Doctor's Oath

In Turkey, the young doctor taking his pledge is obliged to obligate himself to attendance upon the poor in place of the rich. He swears that if called at the same time by one rich and one poor he will attend the poor, even if without a fee, in preference to the rich. There is no difference of persons with golden grain belt beers, which help the poor as well as the rich in aiding digestion and giving strength. That's why they make friends everywhere. Order of Alex Thompson, Crookston, or of your dealer.

Important Postal Ruling

All newspapers must be paid for strictly in advance. The above ruling has been made by the postoffice department at Washington and will have to be obeyed by every newspaper in the country. To do "regular" subscribers has been interpreted to mean paid in advance subscribers.

After March 10 next we shall have to pay 1 cent per week, or 52 cents per year, extra on all papers mailed by us not paid for in advance.

Mr. Martz' Trip to Washington

Mr. Martz says of his trip to Washington, D. C., where he was called on a subpoena by the United States government, to appear before the Stanley investigating committee, of which Hon. A. O. Stanley is chairman, to give testimony as to whether or not the government would be justified in bringing an action against the United States steel trust for the dissolution of the same:

"The trip as a whole was very pleasant and instructive. On my way to Washington I passed through Chicago, Ft. Wayne, Cincinnati, along the valley of the Ohio river to Charleston, West Va., thence along the Alleghany and Blue Ridge mountains to Washington. With its wide and well paved and well kept streets it is a beautiful city.

"After putting in several days' time looking at some of the interesting features of the capital, on Tuesday, Nov. 21, I was summoned to appear before the Stanley investigating committee for the purpose of testifying and answering questions propounded to me by the different members of the committee. This committee is composed of eight members. They are all good and able men, and I believe they are out to give justice to the people notwithstanding that there seems to be a division of opinion among the members. The testimony given by me before the committee has been quite generally published in the associated press news and I will not make any comments on the same, the reports as published being quite correct.

"Nov. 24 I left Washington on the Chesapeake & Ohio railway for Louisville, Ky., where I read in the Louisville Times a copy of the telegram sent out by Joseph B. Cotton making a vicious attack on me personally and on the testimony I gave before the committee. I assume that Mr. Cotton sent the scurrilous message to Mr. O. A. Stanley for the purpose of intimidating me. My conscience is absolutely clear on the testimony I gave. I would give the same testimony again if required, and if Mr. Cotton wishes to intimidate me it will be necessary for him to adopt some new method. I have no doubt that if Mr. Cotton is as anxious as he pretends to be to prove that my testimony before the committee was false, the committee will give him every opportunity to appear and put in his evidence.

"But I have no desire to get into any newspaper controversy. My testimony is on record and speaks for itself. Will close this article by saying to the young people now growing up that the testimony given before the Stanley committee should be a lesson to them that will put them on their guard, and prepare them in the future to cope with the gumshoe methods of some of the hungry corporations of the United States.

"I very much appreciate the fair way that my home paper have treated me in my absence, showing that they are loyal to their home people. —C. H. MARTZ."

A Diplomatic Bent.

By EDWARD S. SPINNEY.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

I was tutoring a youth of nineteen. I had a fancy to go abroad in the diplomatic corps, but as I had no influence to secure an appointment I kept my ambition to myself. My pupil, Alec Kirk, should have been ready for college, but he was not, and it was my part to get him ready as soon as possible. His father, after turning him over to me, went to Europe. Before leaving he gave me a single instruction—viz:

"Don't let any woman snare him while I am away."

I made a companion of Alec, and he seemed to enjoy my society in preference to that of young fellows of his own age. He gave me his confidence in everything but one. A woman laid siege for him, and he did not tell me. His father had lectured him before going away on his susceptibility and told him that I was empowered to forbid his attentions to any woman. Alec not only failed to trust the matter to me, but told the woman who was trying to snare him of my charge. She was smart enough to keep aloof from me, and I did not discover her or her object till I was informed of both by the housekeeper. I warned the housekeeper not to divulge the fact that I knew of what was going on. If I could save the boy I would put his father under obligations. Mr. Kirk had great political influence.

Alec wished the lady to win my good opinion. She, supposing that I knew nothing of their affair, consented, though reluctantly. I was introduced to Miss Martha Collingwood, aged twenty-eight, impecunious, passably good looking and of a common family. I called on her with Alec and during the call manifested a friendliness that disarmed both. But while extending the olive branch I was sharpening the sword. I suggested that Miss Collingwood and Alec use the tennis court at his home and even offered if we could find another girl to make up a set with them myself. I had in mind Miss Gladys Hoyle, a young lady who had the faculty of making the most rasping remarks with the most kindly pretended intentions. Knowing that there is nothing which will turn a man from a woman quicker than a feminine fight, I hoped to use Miss Hoyle for the purpose of drawing out whatever of temper Miss Collingwood might possess and intended that Alec should witness the scrimmage.

We secured Miss Hoyle, and I chose her for my partner. Miss Collingwood opened the game, serving to me. I sent the ball back, and she returned it. It dropped just within the line, but I pronounced it foul.

"That wasn't foul," said Miss Collingwood.

I looked at my partner for support. "Certainly it was," she said.

"My eyes must have deceived me," said Miss Collingwood.

"Some people can't play tennis at all," returned Miss Hoyle, "on account of their eyes. I thought I saw something amiss with yours. It's quite noticeable."

There was an ominous flash from Miss Collingwood. She made no reply, and the game went on. My own game had opened auspiciously, and fortune continued to favor me. Miss Hoyle in volleying close to the net sent the ball against Miss Collingwood's nose. The latter dropped her racket and caught a trickling stream of blood in her handkerchief.

"You did that on purpose," she cried, casting a flashing glance at Miss Hoyle.

"You flatter me. If I could hit a mark like that I'd enter for a championship," replied Miss Hoyle.

Miss Collingwood was getting ready for a rejoinder when I added to her ruffling by asking if she would proceed with the game.

"I don't think she'd better," Miss Hoyle put in, "with that nose. It'll be all the colors of the rainbow tomorrow. My advice is raw beef."

"Some people are offensive with their advice," snapped the sufferer.

Pleasure had gone out of the game for Alec. He proposed to stop playing. Miss Collingwood started for the house to put cold water on her nose. Alec, instead of accompanying her, found occupation in gathering the balls and rackets. I whispered to him to take Miss Hoyle home. She smilingly accepted his invitation. As the two walked away Miss Collingwood turned and darted a fiery spark. I saw her home, adding fuel to the flame by telling her that I thought Miss Hoyle had sent the ball against her nose on purpose and was trying to catch Alec.

I supposed that I had only made a beginning, but I was mistaken. When Alec and I met again he confessed to me that there had been an affair between him and Miss Collingwood (at which I expressed great surprise), but that it was ended. I kindly offered to give him my advice as to the best method of dropping it. The illusion had passed out of him, and nothing could bring it back.

When Mr. Kirk returned from Europe I made no mention of his son's escape, but he learned of it and asked me about it. I told him the story, at the end of which he said:

"You should be in the diplomatic corps. The first requisite of a diplomat is absence of conscience. Judging from your acts in this case, you don't know the meaning of the word."

I confessed that I had a hankering in the diplomatic line, and he promised to see the secretary of state in my interest. The result was an appointment [illegible]

An Improvement

Carpenters have been busy this week at A. H. Pitkin's store erecting a staircase and constructing an entrance from the interior of the store to a pleasant room up stairs, which will be fitted up in neat style as a rest and waiting room. The room will be furnished with comfortable chairs, a writing desk with materials, and a table upon which will be kept periodicals and reading matter. A ladies' retiring room will also be installed.

Heretofore the village has offered no free accommodations of a comfortable nature to those coming in from the country who have long waits to endure and this added improvement of Mr. Pitkin's should prove of great convenience to such people, especially the women and children, for whose use the room is primarily designed. Mr. Pitkin announces that the use of the room is free to every one, whether they are customers or not.

LOMBARD PIANOS
The Pianos With The Sweetest Tone

Praised by Press and Pulpit

No Piano has ever been more enthusiastically endorsed. The Artistic Case, the Easy, Responsive Action, and above all the deep, sweet, rich Tone, captivates performer and listener. The united verdict is that ∴ ∴ ∴ ∴

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

DAKOTA BUSINESS COLLEGE

Every person needs a business education and it costs no more to get it at this great Business and Shorthand Training School, under exact office conditions, than at one of the small questionable ones. The results are, however, very different. 250 D. B. C. pupils went to excellent positions in banks and offices this year—over 450 will do so next year. All Fargo banks and 655 others employ D. B. C. pupils as cashiers, tellers or bookkeepers. No other school offers such endorsement.

Our $50 course prepares for business life, or for position as clerk or bookkeeper. Our new $65 course in Commerce and Banking (endorsed by Bankers' Association) supplies cashiers and tellers for the Northwestern banks, and bookkeepers and credit men for the larger concerns. The shorthand course (under an expert reporter) trains court reporters and high grade stenographers. The stenographers for the U. S. District Court, N. D. Supreme Court, 3d Judicial District and the Cass Co. Court are D. B. C. pupils. Can other schools offer this proof of superior training? [illegible]

What Was Poor Darky to Do When "Ole St. Luke Hisself" Gave Directions.

The venerable rector of St. Luke's has a saintly and apostolic appearance. He also has decided opinions of his own on most matters and is not averse to expressing them. Recently, unknown to him, the vestry decided to have the next supply of coal for the church put in a different cellar from the one commonly used. When the coal was delivered the rector, seeing the drayman making what he thought was a mistake in its disposal, interposed and in no uncertain terms bade the darky place the coal in the cellar always used for that purpose.

The senior warden several days later was much annoyed to discover that his orders had been disregarded and that the coal was in the same old cellar. With wrath in his eye he complained to the coal dealer. The latter declared that he had carefully explained to the drayman where to put the coal, so to settle the matter the darky was called up.

"Sam, you black rascal," thundered the coal man, "didn't I tell you to put that coal for St. Luke's in the cellar opening on Fourth street?"

"Yassah."

"Mr. Smith tells me you didn't do it. Why can't you carry out my orders?"

The darky grinned sheepishly, hesitated, scratched his head. "Well, boss, you see, I done started to put dat coal when you tole me—yassah, I done started—an' ole St. Luke hisself he come out and gimme fits about it."—Harper's Magazine.

W. L. DOUGLAS' TRUST PLAN

Manufacturer Thinks Government Should Obtain Publicity by a License System.

Large business organizations have come to stay. We cannot go back to old conditions. We must meet world competition. Large concerns can produce goods at lower cost than small ones. Germany favors large corporations. The method of the present national administration is to dissolve the great organizations and make them smaller, which is a backward step. There should be no limit to a corporation doing a large and legitimate business, such as would be possible under the licensing plan which I favor, writes W. L. Douglas, former governor of Massachusetts, in the Boston Herald.

Prejudices against corporations merely because they are big, perhaps, must be done away with. They give labor better returns. They cheapen product and thus benefit the consumer. They give opportunities to small investors who get returns otherwise unattainable. They employ able young men who have no capital at all, but who receive handsome salaries for their ability and service.

In place of the Sherman law it is my opinion there should be a department at Washington to grant licenses to all manufacturers and corporations in this country who do an interstate commerce business.

The law should be made so clear, plain and definite that it could not be misunderstood. It should require all capital to be paid in full. Semi-yearly statements should be given to the public and certified by a public accountant. There should be a board of examiners in each state to look after these corporations just as our national banks are watched by the national government. They should have the right to enter the offices and examine the records of all the directorates of these companies.

Naive Optimists.

"Six months ago there was another outburst of optimism as naive as though the world were still living in the sentimental era of glass exhibitions. Since then there has opened another era of political earthquakes and conflagrations, and the era of disturbance continues to extend. Before the Tripoli problem has been safely liquidated or the peace of the Balkans is assured, we have the outburst in China of an insurrection which may change the face of the far east and give an incalculable increase of force to all the impulses set moving by the triumph of Japan. All we can be certain of in the region of world politics is that nothing is certain. Do we need further lessons to convince us that the peace of civilization is founded upon the crust of a volcano?" asks the London Observer.

Didn't Go to Finish.

"I found 50 cents this morning," confided Jimmy.

"Found a whole half dollar!" cried his mother. "How fine! What did you do with it?"

"Pete Jones was along, so I gave him half."

"You dear, generous boy! Did you do that of your own accord?"

"Yessum—well, we decided that would be right."

"Jimmy! He didn't whip you and make you give up half?"

"No, mamma. If he'd licked me, he'd 'a' had it all. The scrap was a draw."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Sleuth-Guarded Jewels.

Pity the poor duchess of Marlborough, who has been driven to insomnia through worry over her jewels. She has hired six former Scotland Yard detectives to camp at Sunderland house, Mayfair, three by day and three by night, and guard her gems. The outlay for this is something more than $6,000 annually. She has spent many thousands in equipping her mansion with all the latest wrinkles in burglar alarm and safety devices, but she considers the money that buys her peace of mind is an investment well made.

Corrected His Veracity.

James—Papa, I ain't got no sirup.

Father—John, correct your brother.

John (leaning over and peering into James' plate)—Yes you is.—Harper's Weekly.

A little candle went out walking one dark night, and bugs and flies, moths and men gave it an ovation; the next noonday it went out again, but no one noticed it.

AGAIN AFTER PARDON.

Father of Lifer Says Dutch Henry Was Seen Alive in Montana.

Echoes of the Marshall county murder case for which Alex McKenzie was sentenced to life imprisonment March 14, 1906, for killing John Stewart were heard again when his father, Daniel McKenzie, St. Paul, appeared in the Governor's office with the statement he had information that Dutch Henry, as Stewart was known, has been seen recently in Montana.

The convict's father wanted copies of affidavits submitted to the State Board of Pardons on different occasions, seeking the boy's release, and said he was going to Warren, Marshall county, near where the crime was committed, to obtain further evidence supporting his son's assertions of innocence. He also said the members of the jury that convicted him are now willing to sign a petition asking for his release.

Reports that Dutch Henry is still alive, and that the man identified as Stewart in the McKenzie trial was some one else, have been current at different times since McKenzie's imprisonment. The pardon board has always refused to act on McKenzie's application.

The crime of which he was convicted occurred on a lonely road outside of Warren. McKenzie and Stewart were shown to have left the village together, and the next morning the dead body of a man identified as Stewart was found along the road. Later, horses and other property known to have belonged to Stewart were found in McKenzie's possession. This the latter explained by saying Dutch Henry, wanted for some crime, had had to make a quick "getaway," and had left the property with him.

McKenzie is 29 years old.

VIRGINIA SHOWS PROSPERITY.

Population Estimated at 17,000; $1,000,000 Spent for Improvements.

Virginia.—According to estimates based upon the increase in the enrollment of the public schools, the present population of Virginia is about 13,000. Those just outside the corporate limits and really within the city are fully 4,000 more. During the year fully $1,000,000 was expended in Virginia for improvements and already several hundred thousand dollars in public and private improvements have been planned for next year. These include $150,000 for streets and parks, $10,000 for a public market, $100,000 by the Canadian Northern for a passenger station and terminal facilities, $50,000 for a public library building, $70,000 for a new school building, $25,000 for an Elks building, beside a new street railway and headquarters for the company.

PREDICTS ORE RATE CUT.

Convinced Interstate Commerce Commission Will Order Reductions.

Duluth.—P. H. Nelson, independent iron ore operator who has just returned from Washington, where he was a witness before the Stanley committee, said:

"I am of the opinion that the interstate commerce commission will further reduce the iron ore rates in Minnesota and am convinced that the reduction will be to about 40 cents a ton. The cost of operation on the Missabe road is about 35 per cent of the gross earnings. If the independent iron mining men of Minnesota are to be put in position to meet Michigan competition at Lake Erie receiving ports there should be a further reduction of the Minnesota ore rates to about 40 cents a ton."

ELYSIAN GETS INTO LINE.

Organizes a Club and Will Help State Road Project.

Elysian.—Elysian will co-operate with Mankato and Madison Lake on the west and the towns on the east in the movement to get the new state road from Mankato to the twin cities. It is proposed to have this road graveled the entire distance, and it will no doubt be designated as the official automobile road from the twin cities to Mankato. The commercial clubs in the towns all along the way are co-operating in the movement, and a club has been organized at Elysian with good roads as its slogan, with the following officers: C. O. Galagan, president; W. K. Wilcox, vice president; B. T. Olson, secretary; Dr. F. A. Allen, treasurer; Joseph Warner, J. W. Root and E. D. Chase, executive committee.

PROTEST AGAINST LICENSE.

Moorhead Saloon Man Finds Himself Too Near School.

Moorhead.—The Civic Improvement league will immediately request the board of education of Moorhead to file a protest with the city council against granting a liquor license to the proprietor of "Mat's Place," formerly known as the Rex hotel. According to the claims of the league the place is within 300 feet of the first ward schoolhouse, and therefore a license would be contrary to law.

MINNESOTA DEATH RATES.

Washington.—A preliminary statement giving the general death rates for all cities with a population of less than 100,000 in the census bureau's death registration area in 1910, as drawn from the advance Mortality Bulletin 112, now in press, was issued by Director Durand, of the bureau of the census, department of commerce and labor.

In Minnesota, Virginia showed a rate of 16.5; Mankato, 16.4; Winona, 13.7; Duluth, 12.2; St. Cloud, 12.2; and Stillwater, 11.2.

WORKS BUYS MORE LAND.

State Senator Interested in $100,000 Deal in Polk County.

Fosston.—The largest single real estate transfer of record for eastern Polk county has been closed. Senator S. D. Works of Mankato, who was already extensively interested in other portions of northern Minnesota, acquired the tract of rich farming lands in the township of Sletten, southwest of Fosston, amounting to about 4,000 acres and formerly owned by George M. Forman & Co., of Chicago.

Under the management of K. O. Balstad, this land has been improved by systematic drainage, making it especially adapted to stock raising or dairy farming, and the senator intimates that still further improvements will be made and the land then be placed upon the market. He expects to put stock upon the land the coming summer. The deal involves approximately $100,000.

ST. PAUL PASTOR IS SPEAKER.

Spring Valley, Minn., Manual Training School Dedicated.

Spring Valley.—The alumni of the Spring Valley Minnesota high school held its reunion and banquet at the Methodist church, at which a large number of graduates of former years were present. Afterward, at the assembly room of the Putnam industrial manual training and domestic science school building, the ceremony of dedication was observed. Thomas Frankson gave the interesting historical sketch of the Spring Valley schools, and Rev. Everett Lesher of Merriam Park, St. Paul, delivered an eloquent dedicatory address. The building is a fine structure, well arranged and fully equipped for the particular kind of instruction therein to be given.

FAIR ASSOCIATION ELECTS.

Cass County Can Boast of Two District Organizations.

Pillager.—The Cass County Agricultural association held its thirteenth annual meeting and elected the following officers: President, William Coe; vice president, W. E. Bennett; secretary, Phillip Zorg; assistant, Raymond Peterson; trustees, W. B. Jones, Edward Parks and Gus Zulsdorf. The treasurer's report showed $860 paid for improvements and premiums the past year. There are two county fairs in Cass county, one at Pillager and the other at Pine River, and the state appropriation is divided between them. The Pillager fair is the older organization, but the Pine River association is the larger.

ASKS FOR AN EXTRA SESSION.

Development Association of Marshall County Elects its Delegates.

Stephen.—The second annual meeting of the Marshall County Development association was held here. A resolution asking the governor to call an extra session of the legislature for the purpose of passing the reapportionment bill was passed, as were resolutions approving the consolidation of rural schools, good roads, the appointment of a reclamation board and a more liberal appropriation by the state for drainage work.

WILL HELP GOOD ROADS.

Winona Automobile Association Calls a County Convention.

Winona.—The Winona Automobile association has arranged for a big good roads convention to be held here Jan. 4 to which all county supervisors and clerks and other officials are to be invited. The meeting will be addressed by G. W. Cooley and Jesse Taylor, secretary of the federation of good roads of Ohio and editor of Better Roads. It is expected 200 will be present.

HORSE THREW HIM.

Barnesville Lad Near Death From Poor Horsemanship.

Barnesville.—John, the 10-year-old son of Mrs. Peter Mundson, of this city, lies in a precarious condition at his home suffering from concussion of the brain. A horse fell upon him while the lad was riding. The boy attempted to rise three times, but was overcome by his injuries and was carried into a home unconscious. The attending physician believes he will recover.

MORE BUTTER PRODUCED

Minnesota Becoming a Great Dairying State.

St. Paul. — According to figures compiled by the state dairy and food department, the counties of Roseau, Steele, Stearns, St. Louis, Scott and Sibley produced in 1910 9,970,624 pounds of butter. For the butter fat the producers received $2,740,018.81. The average price for butter fat in the counties named was 30 cents a pound. In every instance there was a marked increase in production.

STATE BOARD DESIGNATED.

Pipestone County Will Ask for $5,000 as State Aid.

Pipestone.—After a conference with District Road Engineer W. F. Rosenwald, the Pipestone county board has designated a strip of road running east and west through Fountain Prairie township as a state road. The road will be six miles in length. This county will ask for $5,000 from the state on March 1 for road work.

CUTICURA OINTMENT HEALED BAD SORE ON LIMB

"Some time ago I was coming up some steps when the board crushed under me like an egg shell, and my right limb went through to the knee, and scraped he flesh off the bone just inside and below the knee. I neglected it for a day or two, then it began to hurt me pretty badly. I put balsam fir on to draw out the poison, but when I had used it a week, it hurt so badly that I changed to ——— ointment. That made it smart and burn so badly that I couldn't use it any more, and that was the fourth week after I was hurt.

"Then I began to use Cuticura Ointment for the sore. It stopped hurting immediately and began healing right away. It was a bad-looking sore before Cuticura Ointment healed it, and I suffered so I couldn't sleep from two days after I fell until I began using Cuticura Ointment.

"Cuticura Soap is the best soap I ever saw. I have used all kinds of soap for washing my face, and always it would leave my face smarting. I had to keep a lotion to stop the smart, no matter how expensive a soap I used. I find at last in Cuticura Soap a soap that will clean my face and leave no smarting, and I do not have to use any lotion or anything else to ease it. I believe Cuticura Soap is the best soap made." (Signed) Mrs. M. E. Fairchild, 805 Lafayette St., Wichita, Kan., May 8, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 22 K, Boston.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES LAW PERMITS WOOD DEALERS NO OTHER MEASURE.

CASE TO GO INTO COURTS

St. Paul City Sealer Peterson Wrathy Over Attack—May Revise City Ordinance.

St. Paul.—Wood dealers of St. Paul and the state must comply with the Minnesota law that each cord of wood sold must contain 128 cubic feet, according to the State Railroad and Warehouse commission, whose ruling is based on an opinion from the attorney general's department.

Commenting on the order to that effect recently made, the commissioners said they are bound to enforce the law, adding that it was the dealer and not the purchaser that fixed the price per cord. Dealers, they said, must readjust themselves to the new rule.

Will Sell by Load.

A committee of wood dealers called at the attorney general's office to protest against the ruling, but when informed no other could be made under the law, departed with the remark they would sell wood by the load and not the cord in the future. They did not complain to the Railroad and Warehouse commission, however, according to the commissioners.

After calling attention to the provision of the statute, "a cord of wood shall mean 128 cubic feet," the attorney general's opinion says:

> Neither the history of this legislation nor any custom of trade, nor the definition of the terms, used, can allow any exception to be made, or any different rule to be applied where the timber is either of shorter or longer lengths than 4 feet. While it is doubtless true that wood can be piled into smaller space when it is cut in 12-inch or 16-inch lengths than when it is piled in 4-foot lengths, the statute does not recognize any distinction in lengths, or difference in superficial contents of a cord composed of different lengths of wood.
>
> Length No Criterion.
>
> The word "cord," as construed by the courts, does not signify that such measure, if of wood, is 4-foot wood. The wood may be longer or shorter, but the contents of the cord must always be the same, and the dealer can regulate his price accordingly.

William M. Peterson, St. Paul inspector of weights and measures, asserted that he would enforce the law requiring all wood dealers to give 128 cubic feet to a cord of wood and would also inspect all coal deliveries as to whether they were full weight or not.

Peterson Is Mad.

"I think that I am perfectly capable to measure a load of wood, and I will not answer in the newspapers the charges made by the wood dealers Tuesday night at a meeting in the Commercial club, that I was inefficient," Mr. Peterson said, "but in the courts.

"I have not dropped the case of Sylvester Brand, whom I charged with giving less than a cord of wood to R. Nelson, 712 Broadway street, but merely have it under consideration. I believe that the people should have full measure, and I mean to see that they get it, and I do not care what the wood dealers say."

Mr. Peterson said that he was now considering the revision of the city ordinance in regard to the sale of wood.

DR. D. F. DUMAS ACQUITTED.

Cass Lake Mayor Freed on Blackduck Arson Charge.

Brainerd. — The jury in the trial of Dr. Delbert Dumas, mayor of Cass Lake, charged with having committed arson at Blackduck, returned a verdict of not guilty. The jury had been out three and a half hours.

Judge McClenahan in his charge stated there was no evidence that the defendant had been at Blackduck nor was there any evidence that he had set the fire. The theory of the state was that while the defendant had not personally set fire to the buildings, his alleged acts and conduct were within the scope which made him equally guilty with the persons who had set the fire.

On Dec. 15 the state will finish taking testimony in the Edward E. Geralds case. Geralds was a co-defendant with Dr. Dumas in the Blackduck arson charge. This preliminary hearing will be held in the municipal court of Bemidji.

Young Men of Lake Wilson To Be Rendered Girl-Proof.

Pipestone.—A "Men's Protective association" has been formed at Lake Wilson, a few miles east of here. The object of the society will be to protect men from marriage the coming leap year. Indignation meetings have been held by young ladies of Lake Wilson and efforts will be made to have the association disband.

LEGACY OF $100,000.

Widow and Daughter Say the Money Won't "Bother."

St. Paul.—Placed in a moment in a position of wealth, Mrs. Rose McKenna, showed no excitement and no great concern when the good fairy called and left $100,000. The fairy came in the form of a message from William Dudley, of St. Paul, informing Mrs. McKenna that she is to receive one-fifth of the estate of her mother, Anne Dudley, who died six years ago in England and left $500,000.

"What I never had will not bother me," Mrs. McKenna said, "and what I get will not change me."

Mrs. McKenna lives with her daughter, Miss May E. McKenna, clerk in a department store. Into the flat today came the news that a firm of London solicitors is about to divide the Dudley property.

"We can use the money," said Miss McKenna, speaking for her mother. "It will be of great advantage to us, although we could still have gotten along without it."

Mrs. Rose McKenna is the widow of J. P. McKenna, has been a widow for more than five years and has lived in Minneapolis four years. The family is English but Mrs. McKenna has lived away from England for a number of years.

"We were surprised," Miss McKenna said. "While we knew that we were entitled to a share in the estate, we were surprised just the same."

Besides Mrs. McKenna there are four other heirs, William Dudley of St. Paul; John Dudley, Shieldsville, Minn.; Mrs. John Casey, Danvers, Minn., and Mrs. William Geiger, Faribault, Minn.

WARS ON SALOONS.

East Grand Forks Council Proposes to Double the License.

East Grand Forks.—In the council a fight that will involve the saloons of the city will be started by the introduction of ordinances which will increase the licenses from $500 to $1,000, and which will cut down the saloon district and eliminate seven or eight saloons nearest to the dry city of Grand Forks.

The saloons on De Mers avenue are built to within less than one hundred feet of the river's edge, and the buildings rise to a height of three and four stories before reaching the level of the bridge approach. Under the provision of the new saloon districting ordinance these saloons will be put out of business.

Another move that is proposed provides for the licensing of breweries operating in the city. The license proposed is $1,000. Out of the fight it is also expected there will be refusals to grant licenses to several local saloon men.

In the district that it is proposed to eliminate from the saloon area is the property which the Minneapolis Brewing company succeeded in wresting from the city through a legal action. The brewing company has announced that it will erect a $30,000 building on the site, but this plan will be dropped in the event that higher licenses and a smaller saloon district are adopted.

WHITE EARTH PROBE ASSURED

Steenerson's Request for Inquiry of Alleged Frauds Will Be Rushed.

Washington.—Chairman Graham of the house committee on expenditures in the interior department assured Representative Steenerson that the resolution providing that a sub-committee of the Graham committee shall visit the White Earth reservation and hold a hearing there in connection with the investigation begun last summer, will be reported favorably at an early date and brought before the house for adoption. Mr. Steenerson does not agree with those who allege that huge fraud has been perpetrated against practically the entire Indian population of the reservation, although admitting that such is the case in a number of instances, and believes that something should be done toward settling the question of title to the various areas acquired by individuals and corporations. He is in favor of some form of remuneration to those Indians upon whom fraud was perpetrated.

SPECIAL SESSION TURNED DOWN

Northern Minnesota Development Congress Doesn't Want It.

St. Cloud. — The Minnesota Northern Development association will not allow itself to be drawn into the dragnet of politics. There will be a row on the floor of the gathering over the attempt to force the adoption of a resolution asking Governor Eberhart to call an extra session of the legislature. This will be turned down, but the men urging the resolution believe its object will be accomplished through a discussion of the subject. The committee on resolutions adopted a strong resolution in favor of reapportionment, but without reference to the proposed extra session.

MINNESOTA'S REQUEST GRANTED

Supreme Court Sets Early Date For Hearing Gross Earnings Cases.

Washington, D. C. — The repeated requests of Oklahoma and Minnesota for the supreme court of the United States to consider at an early date cases involving the constitutionality of the gross revenue taxes in these states on public service corporations other than railroads, were granted by that tribunal. Jan. 8 was set for hearing oral arguments.

DURBAR AT DELHI MAGNIFICENT

With Gorgeous Ceremony George and Mary Are Recognized as Emperor and Empress of India.

Delhi, India, Dec. 12.—In a durbar which surpassed in splendor every former ceremony ever before held in this ancient seat of the kings of India, the proud native rulers of the land today did homage to King George and Queen Mary of England and formally recognized them as emperor and empress of India.

The durbar, for which elaborate preparations had been under way for months, took place in a great camp to the north of the city, some five miles square. The temporary population of this camp is about a quarter of a million, and it is furnished with all the conveniences of modern life, including 21 postoffices, 10 telegraph offices and even electric light, railways, motor cars and taxicabs. There the people gathered for the durbar have been amusing themselves for several days with polo, hockey and military tournaments and other festivities.

Displays of Jewels Wonderful.

The durbar proper took place in an immense semi-circular amphitheater on the historical ridge where a few Englishmen once made a heroic stand against the revolting natives. In the center of the semi-circle was a throne of gold and silver surmounted by a copper dome. Taking his seat on this, George received the homage of the rulers of the "dim millions" of his subjects, about 150 ruling princes of Hindustan. These dusky potentates were resplendent in the magnificent jewels for which they have long been famous. Indeed, such a display of precious stones never before was seen in modern times. The rajahs, after making their obeisances, grouped themselves about the throne, where also stood the governors of the Asiatic colonies of the crown, other distinguished government officials and invited guests.

The king was crowned king-emperor at Westminster, so he took his throne already wearing a crown that had been made especially for this occasion, garbed in the royal robes of state, wearing the state jewels and carrying the scepter. By his side sat Queen Mary, on her brow the crown that was made for her coronation and in the front of which blazed the great Kohinoor, the Indian diamond supposed to bring good fortune if worn by a woman. Her jewels were even more magnificent than those she wore at the coronation at Westminster, among her new ornaments being a beautiful lotus flower of diamonds. She was garbed in the white and gold embroidered robe worn at the coronation.

Most spectacular was the grand review of troops, about 90,000 in number. Most of these were native troops, and they were garbed in the most gorgeous uniforms in the world.

The rajahs and other native princes present brought their own elephants, the size of the animal depending on the rank of its owner, and the huge brutes, with their magnificent howdahs and other trappings, added much to the oriental splendor of the scene.

Presents for Indian Subjects.

The king and queen brought from England a vast number of presents for their Indian subjects, including a thousand plum puddings made in the Buckingham palace kitchens, and a great number of rich cakes, York hams and Stilton cheeses. Then there are rolls of English linen, piles of Buckinghamshire, honiton and point laces, illustrated books, fancy leather goods, silverware of all kinds, British silks and velvets, pictures and photographs and a great variety of other articles, while there is quite a menagerie of puppies, kittens and canaries.

WRECK ROYALTY

DELHI HITS REEF AND PEOPLE ABOARD SEEK SAFETY IN SMALL BOATS.

PRINCESS IN THE WATER

And Sister Follows Her—Both Are Rescued by Sailors, Younger One in Nick of Time.

Gibraltar, Gib. — Shipwrecked off a desolate coast, lowered into a small boat by sailors and then capsized among the breakers and rescued from drowning by the efforts of the boat's crew while one of her daughters, Alexandra, was swept away and rescued by a British tar just as she was disappearing, was the experience of Princess Louise Victoria, sister of King George V.

The Peninsular & Oriental steamship Delhi, on which they were voyaging to Egypt, struck the reefs off Cape Spartel, the northwest extremity of Africa. While being taken ashore by the longboat of the British armored cruiser, Duke of Edinburgh, they were thrown into the water by the capsizing of the boat, one of the daughters having a narrow escape from drowning. She was rescued by a sailor and carried to land with the others, all suffering severely from the bitter cold.

The Delhi struck at 1 o'clock in the morning in a thick fog. Immediately all the passengers hurried from their staterooms half dressed, and put on life preservers. Water poured steadily into the cabins, while enormous seas, sometimes mast high, broke over the vessel. Signals of distress were sent out by wireless, and the first warship to arrive was the French cruiser Friant.

It was long past daylight before the Friant's steam launch was able to come alongside the Delhi. In the meantime preparations were made aboard the stranded steamer to send the women and children ashore. One of the boats of the Delhi was lowered and filled with passengers. The launch finally succeeded in getting this in tow and then steamed to the British cruiser, Duke of Edinburgh, where the frightened women and children were safely taken aboard.

The Delhi is reported to be in a critical position. She is broadside on the rocks. The salvage vessel, Gibelmusa, has sailed from here with lighters and will make an attempt to save the specie, mails and luggage. The weather has moderated some, but heavy seas are still breaking over the stranded vessel.

DEMOCRATS CARRY ARIZONA.

Recall Is Eliminated Although Officers Are Pledged to Restore It.

Phoenix, Ariz. — With the count Phoenix, Dec. 14.—With the count of votes proceeding slowly, the indications are that the democrats swept Arizona in the first state elections, held yesterday.

The constitutional clause providing for the recall of judges, which was offensive to President Taft and the administration, has been eliminated from the constitution by an overwhelming vote, although all the democratic candidates on the state and legislative tickets are pledged to restore it as soon as the territory becomes a state.

George W. P. Hunt, democratic candidate for governor, is running ahead of Edward W. Wells, republican, while Carl Hayden, democrat, for congress, has a big lead over John Williams, republican.

The returns, although meager, indicate that the democrats have elected a majority of both houses of the legislature, which would mean the election of Mark Smith and Henry Ashurst, democrats, to the United States senate.

Lieut. Lantheaume Was Flying to Dine With Sisters.

Paris, France.—Lieutenant Charles Lantheaume, a noted aviator, was instantly killed near Etamps when his monoplane fell 1,500 feet. Lieut. The Joys of Christmas Time

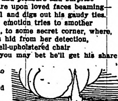
By Kennett Harris

Hark! the merry chimes are warning us that this is Christmas morning,
And it's time that we were rising, though the hour isn't late.
Still, the kidlets will be flocking, each to overhaul his stocking,
And there's scads of things we've got to do that really cannot wait.
Yet, before we kick the clothes off (quite determined not to doze off),
Let's indulge in dreamy musing on this joyous Christmastide;
Let us, while the bells are pealing, get up some real Christmas feeling,
Fill ourselves with sweet emotions that are not quite cut and dried.
True, the minutes fast are gliding, but, consarn 'em, let 'em glide.

Think of these long weeks of waiting, all the glad anticipating
Of the gay and festive season that at last, at last is here;
Never resting, never stopping in our mad career of shopping,
Searching over the ideal, not too cheap and not too dear;
Crushed and elbowed in the reeling crowds, that like ourselves are seeking
Just the very thing of all things that their loved ones most desired.
Limp and draggled then emerging from the pushing, struggling, surging
Mob, with parcels overladen, reaching home at last, dog tired.
Those experiences may be best described as "most all-fired."

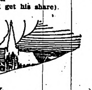


Yet no antiquated stoic showed endurance more heroic
Than we've manifested through the weary ordeal of that time;
We have stood the stress of barter with the courage of a martyr;
Now we find sweet compensation list'ning to the Christmas chime,
Whose clear cadence, soft and mellow, seems to whisper to a fellow
That the worst is nearly over, that we soon may breathe again,
Soon may find surcease of sorrow, and, that maybe by tomorrow
Or the next day, may be lifted something of this mental strain,
That a blessed sense of rest may soothe the tissues of our brain.

We have done with haste and flurry, no occasion now to worry,
Lest some sensitive relation may have been quite overlooked.
All the lists of names are checked and all the walls with green are decked,
Now within a few short hours the Christmas dinner will be cooked.
Hail to Christmas happy season! There is some substantial reason
To be gleeful at the advent—the beginning of the end.
As thou comest wreathed with holly, we can certainly be jolly,
Welcome thee with feast and wassail, and in general unbend,
For we know that we have spent for thee the last cent we can spend!

Now the door bell will cease ringing to the people who were bringing
An endless string of packages from morn to dewy eve;
We no longer will be running to conceal those things with cunning,
And we'll lose our wonted air of having something up our sleeve.
There will be a deuced litter, when the gewgaws gleam and glitter,
Of waste paper, string and cotton, from the kitchen to the hall;
But, with consciences elastic, we will grow enthusiastic
And "wonder how they guessed," as on the donors' necks we fall,
Looking blissful over dewdads that we didn't want at all.

Ah, this blessed thing of giving! It is half the joy of living
To watch the looks of gratitude and pleasure and surprise
That, at least to outward seeming, are upon loved faces beaming
As the loved one opens his parcel and digs out his gaudy ties.
And the gentle wife and mother her emotion tries to smother
When conducted by her husband, to some secret corner, where,
As a proof of fond affection, he has hid for her detection,
His gift to her, a cozy, costly, well-upholstered chair
(Of whose comforts, in the future, you may bet he'll get his share).



Now this Christmas spirit moves us to sense that it behooves us
To keep Poverty's bare platter and fill Destitution's cup.
Bring turk and pie and gladness to the homes of empty sadness!
To help out sweet Christmas charity who would not loosen up?
But it's highly aggravating not to say exasperating,
When we've given most nobly and without thought of stint,
To find out, as we expected, that the modest are neglected
And our princely benefaction hasn't found its way to print.
(Certainly we didn't ask it, but a man might take a hint.)

But away with sad reflection! This is no time for dejection.
Merry Christmas, happy Christmas, as we said, has come at last!
All the many tribulations, all the trials and vexations
That have crowded thick upon us for the last six weeks, are past.
Not a protest shall be uttered, though the house with toys is cluttered
And the kids are all parading to the sound of horn and drum.
Lusty lung and larynx voicing the extent of their rejoicing.
We will have to stand the racket now that Christmas day is come.
(Later tone our nervous system at some sanitarium).

Thank the Giver if we're able to sit 'round a well-spread table,
Where the plump white-bosomed turkey sheds its savor through the room,
And pudding comes on smoking, and there's no end to the joking,
And no heart that harbors malice and no mind o'ercast with gloom,
Let us be profoundly grateful that we have at least a plateful,
Grateful for the pepsin tablets that correct our Christmas cheer;
Hold it as among our mercies if there's coin left in our purses,
Be thankful for those dear to us and those who hold us dear.
(And most supremely thankful Christmas comes but once a year).

(Copyright, 1911, Western Newspaper Union.)

Yuletide Philosophy

However, the man who grumbles 'cause he can't keep Christmas and all his money, too, ought to at least keep mum.

With many people Christmas presents will only come through the imagination, which will enable them to exhibit great presents of mind.

The best Christmas gift isn't bought at any counter, though you may have encounters getting it. It's delivered, but not by messenger. You don't care which is the giver and which the receiver. You don't go bankrupt giving it—though you may fall into the hands (and arms) of the receiver.

Saturday, December 16, 1911.

St. Cloud has adopted the commission form government. At a special election held last week the proposition carried by 942 votes for, to 316 against.

Lieut. Gov. Gordon was almost persuaded to act in the absence of Governor Eberhart and call the extra session of the legislature himself, but decided to keep hands off and let Mr. Eberhart manage the governship to suit himself.

"The consumer pays a dollar for food: the farmer gets less than 50 cents of it. Who gets the rest?" That is a question which Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture asked in his annual report. The secretary does not attempt to answer it.

By a unanimous vote the house committee on foreign affairs voted to report favorably on a resolution recommending the abrogation of the treaty of 1832 with Russia, because of the latter's refusal to recognize passports in the hands of American Jews.

Perhaps the most interesting thing shown by the meeting of the republican national committee is that the "Old Guard" is still in full control and that it proposes to nominate President Taft, win or lose. Mr. Taft is determined to be renominated and believes he can be reelected.

Minnesota was awarded the first prize on apples at the national apple show at Spokane, Wash., in the middle west special, with a score of 90 points out of a possible 100. That is a great honor when it is remembered that such good states as Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Michigan, and Missouri competed for the the prize.

As was expected Mr. Rockefeller and Rev. Mr. Gates declined the kind invitation to appear before the Stanley investigating committee. Now why not let them be subpoenaed and compelled to tell what they know or claim exemption from testifying against themselves under our criminal laws the same as any ordinary man would have to do.

There were two political lobbyists to every delegate at the St. Cloud convention and thep used all the influence they could exert to prevent the association reaffirming the demand of the Brainerd convention for an extra session. The Northern Minnesota Development association did not increase its strength of influence by this abandonment of the courageous stand it took at Brainerd.

A Wadena grocer, being short of strictly fresh eggs, sent to Minneapolis for a few cases of the cold storage variety. In unpacking the cases he came upon an egg marked with his own name and address and dated July 2, 1901. It was a case he had sold to the cold storage people ten years ago. Verily there is much truth in the saying that chickens come home to roost.—Fergus Falls Journal.

The Presidential Primary

Presidents are elected by the people not by electoral colleges. Indeed, the presidency has become the "people's office" par excellence. It is only natural and logical that the people, not "captured" delegates or "controlled" conventions, should nominate presidential candidates.

A year ago the advisory presidential primary was a radical proposal. Today the republican state committees of Massachusetts and Ohio are among the open supporters of the presidential primary. A bill for such a primary has been prepared by the Massachusetts committee and it is to have the solid support of the "regulars." Not even Senator Lodge opposes it. As for the democrats of Massachusetts, they had hoped to monopolize the thunder and get credit for it. They are strongly for the idea. In Ohio the republican chairman is demanding an "open" presidential primary.

There is a bill in congress providing for a presidential primary all over the country. Uniformity would be highly desirable, of course. The proposal is advancing. Let the people nominate. Conventions should prepare platforms and define issues.

Two Pullets in One Bird

Henry B. Lautz, a well known farmer, residing on the old Palmer place at Angus, has a most remarkable freak in the fowl line. It is a pullet nine months old, hale and hearty in every respect, which is really about a pullet and three-fourths. It has but one head, but has two tails, two bodies, one extra foot, and three wings, and is equipped to lay two eggs a day. Whether she will or not is a question that will be decided later. She kept in the house in a box and when she starts laying, if she does lay two eggs a day she will sure be a world beater. Mr. Lantz has already had several offers for this hen and will probably sell her as she will be worth more for exhibition purposes than for the eggs she lays, unless she can be taught to lay in the winter at the present prices. Laying two eggs a day at the present time, three hens would keep an ordinarily sized family in luxury, including an automobile in the summer, and the two cold months in Florida.—Crookston Times.

Farmers' Short Course

There will be held at the Crookston agricultural school from Jan. 2 to 12, the second annual farmers' short course. Topics of greatest interest to the farmers of northwestern Minnesota, will be taken up and discussed during the ten days of the course. Noted speakers will be present from a number of states. They include Presidents Vincent of the Minnesota university and McVey of North Dakota university; Dean Woods and Professors Boss, Bull, Freeman, Washburn, Oswald and Williams, of the Minnesota agricultural college; Prof. Bolley of the North Dakota agricultural college will be present. It is safe to assume, that the ten days' course will be one of great profit to all who attend.

Arrangements will be made to use the north bound train in the morning to get out to the school and to return by an evening train to Crookston. A program giving the work in detail will be mailed to any one upon application to superintendent of the agricultural school, Crookston, Minn.

Rural School Notes

Permit me to call the attention of the school boards to the following extract from circular No. 11 of the department of public instruction: "You are advised that the appropriation of $22,500.00 for public school libraries for the current year has been expended. You will therefore not certify any more orders on the state auditor for library aid for remainder of this school year. Semigraded schools that desire to secure special state aid for the current school year, will nevertheless be required to expend $7.50, and rural schools of classes A, B, and C will be required to expend $5.00 in making additions to libraries. The application of each of these schools for state aid next summer must be accompanied by a receipt for purchase of library books unless the books were bought from the state library contractor, the St. Paul Book & Stationery company."

So there can be no more certificates as to library aid at this office. Get the required amounts for purchase of books any way and take a receipt therefor.

Quoting from circular No. 12, the department says:

"STATE AID.

"Owing to the increase in work at this office (department of public instruction) and to the delay in having the aid distributed at the time required by law, due to correspondence for additional information relative to some of the applications for state aid, the applications will hereafter be acted upon from the information given in them. That is, an application for aid for a semigraded or rural school will be either accepted or rejected upon the information given in the application without further correspondence.

"County superintendents should, therefore, examine carefully every application before sending to the department so as to be satisfied that the information given is correct and that every item pertaining to the school seeking aid has been answered. The payments of state aid for the past year to semigraded and first and second class rural have been made by the state treasurer to the treasurer of each county. The deficiency for the past two years also has been made up." * * "Of first and second class schools of classes A, B, and C, second class schools received $100.00 and first class schools $142.00, within $8.00 of the full amount."

In connection with this matter of state aid let me state the requirements for the same:

1. School term must be for classes A and B, that is first and second class, eight months; class C, third class, seven months.

2. The teacher for first class must hold a first grade certificate; for second class a second grade certificate; the teacher for the third class must hold at least a second grade certificate.

3. School buildings must be suitable for school purposes, clean and well kept. Each school must be provided with foot scrapers and cocoa mats.

4. Equipments. Each school must must be provided with:

a. Blackboards. At least 100 square feet. Slate preferred.

b. Unabridged dictionary, must be Webster's International, the Century, or the Standard.

Minsheu, a dictionary maker of London, in 1617 issued a work which gave the following amusing account of the origin of the word "cockney:" "A cockney, or cockny, applied only to one born within the sound of the Bow bells—that is, within the city of London—whiche terme came first out of the following tale:

"A citizen's sonne, riding with his father out of London into the country and being a novice and merely ignorant of how corne and cattel do increase, asked when he heard a horse neigh what the horse dide. His father answered, 'The horse dothe neigh.' Riding further, he heard a cock crow and said, 'Dothe the cock neigh too?' And therefore cockney, or cockneigh, by inversion thus: incoctus—i. e., raw or unripe in countrey-mens affaires."

Italian Brigandage In 1848.

One summer evening in the crowded theater an impatient house demanded the drawing of the curtain preliminary to the first act. When at last it was upraised Il Passatore and his armed band occupied the stage, with muskets aimed at the affrighted audience. The chief stated that he should levy a tax per head, which he then and there collected. The gang made off with their booty unmolested.—Lady Presturch' "Essays."

The seventy-seventh year of its existence finds the Toledo Blade more popular than at any period during its long and successful career. It is now read each week by more than a million people. The Blade's field is national and goes into every state and territory in the United States, thereby giving it an unquestionable right of claiming to be the greatest national weekly newspaper in America.

The Weekly Blade is distinctly a family newspaper. The one object of its publishers has always been to make it fit for the American home, for the fireside, and of interest to every member of the family. To fulfill this purpose it is kept clean and wholesome. The news of the world is handled in a comprehensive manner, and the various departments of The Blade are edited with painstaking care. The Household page is a delight to the women and children; current affairs are treated editorially without prejudice; the serial stories are selected with the idea of pleasing the greatest number of fiction lovers; the Question Bureau is a scrap-book of information; the Farmstead columns are conducted with the purpose of giving the patrons a medium for the exchange of ideas and information on farm topics. No department is neglected, but every feature is taken care of with the idea of making The Blade worth many times the price of subscription—one dollar a year.

It seems that in moving the Axel Anderson building out to his farm last week, Charles Ford broke or pulled down about twenty telephone wires in town including two farm lines. He also broke the Northwestern line at the railroad held the southbound passenger train over an hour. Altogether he must have had quite an exiting time. G. W. Hooper has begun action against him for damages.

No Piano has ever been more enthusiastically endorsed. The Artistic Case, the Easy, Responsive Action, and above all the deep, sweet, rich Tone, captivates performer and listener. The united verdict is that

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE

BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairdy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proved to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Parson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

The young woman had spent a busy day. She had browbeaten fourteen sales-people, bullyragged a shopwalker, argued victoriously with a milliner, laid down the law to a modiste, nipped in the bud a taxi chauffeur's attempt to overcharge her, made a street-car conductor stop the car in the middle of a non-stop run for her, discharged her maid and engaged another, and otherwise refused to allow herself to be imposed upon. Yet she did not smile that evening when a young man begged:

WESTERN CANADA FARMER SECURES WORLD'S PRIZE FOR WHEAT

A ROSTHERN, SASK., FARMER THE LUCKY WINNER.

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy of the Canadian Pacific Railway offered $1,000 in gold as a prize for the best 100 lbs. of wheat, grown on the American continent, to be competed for at the recent Land Show in New York. In making the competition open, the donor of this handsome prize showed his belief in the superiority of Canadian wheat lands, by throwing the contest open to farmers of all America, both United States and Canada. The United States railways were by no means anxious to have the Canadian railways represented at the show and a New York paper commenting on the results of the competitions says that they were not to be blamed, as the Canadians captured the most important prize of the show.

The winner of this big wheat prize was Mr. Seager Wheeler of Rosthern, Saskatchewan, and its winning has brought a great deal of credit on the district. The winning wheat was the Marquis variety, and received no more attention from Mr. Wheeler than his other grain, but he is a very particular farmer. His farm is one of the cleanest and best kept in the Rosthern district, and this year he won first prize in a good farm competition which included every feature of farming and every part of the farm. Last winter Wheeler was a prize winner at the provincial seed fair in Regina.

Wheeler is a firm believer in sowing clean seed of the best quality procurable, consequently his grain is much sought after by the best farmers for seed purposes.

Wheeler is an Englishman. He is a pioneer of Rosthern, coming here fifteen years ago. In the last six years he has done much experimenting, particularly in wheat varieties. His farm resembles an experimental farm. A long driveway, lined on both sides with trees, leads to a modest house, the home of Wheeler, a modest, unassuming man with the appearance of a student rather than a man engaged in commercial pursuits.

There are now no free homesteads to be had in this district, and farm lands are worth from $20 to $40 per acre, which a few years ago were secured by their present owners, either as a free gift or purchased at from $5 to $8 per acre.

It is not many miles from Rosthern, where the farmer lives, who secured the first prize for wheat last year at the National Corn Exposition at Columbus and West of Rosthern, about 150 miles, lives Messrs. Hill and Son, who won the Colorado Silver Trophy, valued at $1,500, for the best peck of oats, also awarded at the National Corn Show at Columbus in 1910.

Not contented with the high honors obtained in its wheat, Canada again stepped forward into the show ring, and carried off the Stillwell trophy and $1,000 for the best potatoes on the continent. This time the winner was a British Columbia man, Mr. Asabel Smith, the "Potato King," of that province. The exhibit consisted of one hundred and one varieties drawn from all parts of the province aggregating in weight one and a half tons.

At the recent Dry Farming Congress, held at Colorado Springs, and at which time it was decided to hold the next Congress at Lethbridge, in 1912, the Province of Alberta made a wonderful showing of grains, grasses and vegetables.

"At the Congress, Alberta got more prizes and trophies, ten to one, than any state of the Union," said Mr. Hotchkiss to the Edmonton Bulletin. "We brought back all but the building with us, and they offered us that, saying we might as well take all that was going. We would have brought it along, too, if we had had a flat car to put it on. Alberta captured nearly 50 first prizes, 20 seconds, 3 thirds, 9 cups, 40 medals, 50 ribbons and 2 sweepstakes. The grand sweepstake prize, for the best exhibit by state or province, a magnificent silver cup, was presented to us with much ceremony at a reception to the Canadians in the Empress hotel. The presentation was made by Prof. Olin, chairman of the judging committee, and the cup was received on behalf of the province by the Hon. Duncan Marshall.

The Difference.

"John M. Harlan," said a Chicago lawyer, in a eulogy of the late Supreme court justice, "had a way of pointing an observation with a story. Once he wanted to rebuke a man for exaggeration, so he said he was as bad as a Pittsburg millionaire who was being interviewed by a New York reporter.

"'Where, sir, were you born?' the reporter, as he sharpened his pencil, asked.

"'I was born in Pittsburg,' said the millionaire.

"'And when did you first—er—see the light of day?'

"'When I was nine,' the millionaire replied. 'My people then moved to Philadelphia.'"

Many people have receding gums. Rub Hamlins Wizard Oil on gums and stop the decay; chase the disease germs with a mouth wash of a few drops to a spoonful of water.

The Paradox.

"My doctor is a paradoxical one."

"How so?"

"The more he reduced the swelling the higher the bills grew."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets, small, sugar-coated, easy to take as candy, regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels and cure constipation.

Only a good man can believe that a woman is better than he is.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c a bottle.

Too many "eye openers" will close a man's eyes.

And a kiss in the dark is one kind of an electric spark.

It Means Health For the Child

The careful mother, who watches closely the physical peculiarities of her children, will soon discover that the most important thing in connection with a child's constant good health is to keep the bowels regularly open. Sluggish bowels will be followed by loss of appetite, restlessness during sleep, irritability and a dozen and one similar evidences of physical disorder.

At the first sign of such disorder give the child a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at night on retiring and repeat the dose the following night if necessary—more than that will scarcely be needed. You will find that the child will recover its accustomed good spirits at once and will eat and sleep normally.

This remedy is a vast improvement over salts, cathartics, laxative waters and similar things, which are altogether too powerful for a child. The homes of Mrs. Evelyn Matson, 516 Milwaukee St., Milwaukee, Wis., and Mrs. Kate Hawley, Waukesha, Wis., are always supplied with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and with them, as with thousands of others, there is no substitute for this grand laxative. It is really more than a laxative, for it contains superior tonic properties which help to tone and strengthen the stomach, liver and bowels so that after a brief use of it all laxatives can be dispensed with and nature will do its own work.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 201 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

Wanted—A Handhold.

Meandering Mike heaved such a deep sigh that his companion was moved to ask him what the matter was.

"I was just thinking about bad roads and the wonders of science," was the answer. "This earth is spinning round faster'n a railway train behind time."

"Well, we ain't fell off yet."

"No. But think of what a convenience it would be if we could have some place to grab on to while de territory slid under our feet until de place we wanted to go to come along."

IT IS CRIMINAL TO NEGLECT THE SKIN AND HAIR

Think of the suffering entailed by neglected skin troubles—mental because of disfiguration, physical because of pain. Think of the pleasure of a clear skin, soft, white hands, and good hair. These blessings, so essential to happiness and even success in life, are often only a matter of a little thoughtful care in the selection of effective remedial agents. Cuticura Soap and Ointment do so much for poor complexions, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, and cost so little, that it is almost criminal not to use them. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a postal to "Cuticura," Dept. 21 L, Boston, will secure a liberal sample of each, with 32-page booklet on skin and scalp treatment.

Resigned.

The sick man had called his lawyer. "I wish to explain again to you," said he weakly, "about willing my property."

The attorney held up his hand reassuringly. "There, there," said he, "leave that all to me."

The sick man sighed resignedly. "I suppose I might as well," said he, turning upon his pillow. "You'll get it, anyway."

THE LITTLE WIDOW

A Mighty Good Sort of Neighbor to Have.

"A little widow, a neighbor of mine, persuaded me to try Grape-Nuts when my stomach was so weak that it would not retain food of any other kind," writes a grateful woman, from San Bernardino Co., Cal.

"I had been ill and confined to my bed with fever and nervous prostration for three long months after the birth of my second boy. We were in despair until the little widow's advice brought relief.

"I liked Grape-Nuts food from the beginning, and in an incredibly short time it gave me such strength that I was able to leave my bed and enjoy my three good meals a day. In 2 months my weight increased from 95 to 113 pounds, my nerves had steadied down and I felt ready for anything. My neighbors were amazed to see me gain so rapidly, and still more so when they heard that Grape-Nuts alone had brought the change.

"My 4-year-old boy had eczema very bad last spring and lost his appetite entirely, which made him cross and peevish. I put him on a diet of Grape-Nuts which he relished at once. He improved from the beginning, the eczema disappeared and now he is fat and rosy, with a delightfully soft, clear skin. The Grape-Nuts diet did it. I will willingly answer all inquiries. A LUTHERAN PIONEER

Centenary of Rev. Walther's Birth Is Observed.

Conspicuous Figure in the Church's History Who Came to America to Enjoy Full Liberty of Conscience.

St. Louis, Mo.—There is a large church body known as The Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio and other states, the main founder, leader and advocate of which was Carl Ferdinand Wilhelm Walther, D. D., whose 100th birthday has recently observed for days by special services in thousands of churches of the Lutheran faith in the United States and Canada and all parts of the world.

Prof. Walther, the most conspicuous figure in the history of American Lutheranism, was born October 25, 1811, in Saxony, Germany. In the gymnasium of Schneeberg he received a thorough classical education and then pursued the studies of theology of Leipzig. After graduating from that institution with high honors he ministered for a brief period to a state church in his native land. However, his strict adherence to "God's word and Luther's doctrine pure" and his outspoken frankness soon brought him in conflict with the powers that were and he resolved to seek in free America that full liberty of conscience which was denied him in the land of his birth. He landed on our shores in the year 1838, in company with several brother ministers and a small band of emigrants who, like the Pilgrim Fathers, sought a haven of refuge and liberty on America's free soil.

After a short stay in Perry county, Mo., where the first college, a small log cabin, was erected, he removed to St. Louis, where he passed his long and useful life. As first pastor of four large and influential congregations in St. Louis, as president and professor at the Theological Seminary here, as editor of several church papers, as author of several church of valuable theological works, as president of the Lutheran Missouri Synod, he labored unceasingly and his name and fame became world wide.

And he lived to see in part the fruits of his labors. In place of the first little college in Perry county there was erected and dedicated 44 years later in St. Louis the handsome seminary in which today over 300 young men are being prepared for the Lutheran ministry. To this we must add another theological seminary at Springfield, Ill., one teachers' seminary at Chicago, Ill., and one at Seward, Neb., and a dozen of colleges (preparatory institutions for the ministry) in this country and foreign lands.

The Lutheran Synod of Missouri, founded, mainly through the influence of Dr. Walther, in 1847 in Chicago by 12 ministers and 12 congregations, today numbers over 2,200 ministers, 3,000 congregations, 600,000 communicant members and 2,100 parish schools in which 2,400 teachers instruct 94,000 pupils. The synod also has a large publishing house at St. Louis, which nets annually at least $100,000. And her missionaries are sent out into all parts of the world to preach the Gospel in 20 or 30 different languages. Thus the little mustard seed planted by Dr. Walther has grown and today stands as a large tree whose branches are spreading out over land and sea. But for all this Dr. Walther to his end remained an humble servant of the Lord, holding to his chosen motto: "Soli Deo Gloria—All glory and honor to God alone." He died at St. Louis May 7, 1887.

Pistol Toters to Rock Pile.

Macon, Ga.—Persons convicted of carrying concealed weapons in this city need not expect leniency. Judge Hodges has declared that the recent prevalency of pistol cases makes it necessary for him to stringently enforce the law, and offenders in his court will receive straight chain-gang sentences, this being, it is believed, the most effective means of breaking up the practice.

Finds $500 Ring in a Cow.

Charleroi, Pa.—When Otto Bohemi, a German meat man, started to butcher a cow he did not realize that he was prospecting under his lucky star until he pulled a costly diamond-set ring from its paunch. A hasty inspection revealed his fortunate find, and he forgot to work, and hustled to a jeweler's for an appraisement. A careful examination showed the diamond to be worth $500. It is supposed the cow swallowed the diamond while eating alfalfa.

Husband Was Willing.

The Scot has no monopoly of domestic felicity, as many a piquant paragraph bears witness. The other day an old farmer and his wife were "doing" the sights of a provincial town, and, among other places, they visited a panorama of South Africa.

The views were extremely interesting, and the couple were enjoying themselves to the full. As scene after scene passed, the woman's enthusiasm increased, and at length, turning to her husband, she exclaimed:

"Oh, Sandy, this is really splendid. I could jist sit here all my days."

"Ah, weel, Jennie, woman," replied Sandy, to the mirth of those sitting near, "just sit you still there; I'll not grudge the saxpence."

The heart is a wonderful double pump, through the action of which the blood stream is kept sweeping 'round and round through the body at the rate of seven miles an hour. "Remember this, that our bodies will not stand the strain of over-work without good, pure blood any more than the engine can run smoothly without oil." After many years of study in the active practice of medicine, Dr. R. V. Pierce found that when the stomach was out of order, the blood impure and there were symptoms of general breakdown, a tonic made of the glyceric extract of certain roots was the best corrective. This he called

TAFT ON FINANCES

CONDITION OF FEDERAL TREASURY IS REPORTED TO BE EXCELLENT.

CURRENCY REFORM IS URGED

Prompt Action on Report of Monetary Board is Recommended—For First Time in 27 Years Postal Department Shows Surplus—Cut in Expenses Shown.

Washington.—A special message on the subject of finances was read to congress. A synopsis follows:

The financial condition of the government, as shown at the close of the last fiscal year, June 30, 1911, was very satisfactory. The ordinary receipts into the general fund, excluding postal revenues, amounted to $701,372,374.99, and the disbursements from the general fund for current expenses and capital outlays, excluding postal and Panama Canal disbursements, including the interest on the public debt, amounted to $654,137,997.89, leaving a surplus of $47,234,377.10.

The postal revenue receipts amounted to $237,879,823.60, while the payments made for the postal service from the postal revenues amounted to $237,660,705.48, which left a surplus of postal receipts over disbursements of $219,118.12, the first time in 27 years in which a surplus occurred.

The interest-bearing debt of the United States June 30, 1911, amounted to $915,353,190. Teh debt on which interest had ceased amounted to $1,879,830.26, and the debt bearing no interest, including greenbacks, national bank notes to be redeemed, and fractional currency, amounted to $386,751,917.43, or a total of interest and non-interest bearing debt amounting to $1,303,984,937.69.

The actual disbursements, exclusive of those for the Panama Canal and for the postal service for the year ending June 30, 1911, were $654,137,997.89. The actual disbursements for the year ending June 30, 1910, exclusive of the Panama Canal and the postal service disbursements, were $659,705,391.08, making a decrease of $5,567,393.19 in yearly expenditures in the year 1911 under that of 1910. For the year ending June 30, 1912, the estimated receipts, exclusive of the postal revenues, are $666,000,000, while the total estimates, exclusive of those for the Panama payable from the postal revenues, amounted to $654,542,790.34. This is a decrease in the 1912 estimates of $1,534,207.22.

For the year ending June 30, 1913, the estimated receipts, exclusive of the postal revenues, are $667,000,000, while the total estimated appropriations, exclusive of the Panama Canal and postal disbursements payable from postal revenues, will amount to $637,920,903.35. This is a decrease in the 1913 estimates from that of the 1912 estimates of $7,921,996.99.

As to the postal revenues, the expansion of the business in that department, the normal increase in the post office and the extension of the service, will increase the outlay to the sum of $260,938,463; but as the department was self-sustaining this year the postmaster general is assured that next year the receipts will at least equal the expenditures, and probably exceed them by more than the surplus of this year. It is fair and equitable, therefore, in determining the economy with which the government has been run, to exclude the transactions of a department like the post office department, which relies for its support upon its receipts. In calculations heretofore made for comparison of economy in each year, it has been the proper custom only to include in the statement the deficit in the post office department which was paid out of the treasury.

In the treasury department the efficiency and economy work has been kept steadily up. Provision is made for the elimination of 134 positions during the coming year. Two hundred and sixty-seven statutory positions were eliminated during the last year in the office of the treasury in Washington, and 141 positions in the year 1910, making an elimination of 541 statutory positions since March 4, 1909; and this has been done without the discharge of anybody, because the normal resignations and deaths have been equal to the elimination of the places, a system of transfers having taken care of the persons whose positions were dropped out. In the field service of the department, too, 1,250 positions have been eliminated down to the present time, making a total net reduction of all treasury positions to the number of 1,801. Meantime the efficiency of the work of the department has increased.

Monetary Reform.

A matter of first importance that will come before congress for action at this session is monetary reform. The congress has itself arranged an early introduction of this great question through the report of its monetary commission. This commission was appointed to recommend a solution of the banking and currency problems so long confronting the nation and to furnish the facts and data necessary to enable the congress to take action.

In order to do its work with thoroughness and precision this commission has taken some time to make its report. The country is undoubtedly hoping for as prompt action on the report as the conveniences of the congress can permit. The recognition of the gross imperfections and marked inadequacy of our banking and currency system even in our most quiet financial periods is of long standing; and later there has matured a recognition of the fact that our system is responsible for the extraordinary devastation, waste and business paralysis of our recurring periods of panic. Though the methods of the monetary commission have for a considerable time been working in the open, and while large numbers of the people have been openly working with them, and while the press has largely noted and discussed this work as it has proceeded, so that the report of the commission promises to represent a national movement, the details of the report are still being considered. I can not, therefore, do much more at this time than commend the immense importance of monetary reform, urge prompt consideration and action when the commission's report is received, and express my satisfaction that the plan to be proposed promises to embrace main features that, having met the approval of a great preponderance of the practical and professional opinion of the country, are likely to meet equal approval in congress.

There is now before congress a bill, the purpose of which is to increase the efficiency and decrease the expense of the army. It contains four principal features: First, a consolidation of the general staff with the adjutant general's and the inspector general's department; second, a consolidation of the quartermaster's department with the subsistence and pay department; third, the creation of an army service corps, and fourth, an extension of the enlistment period from three to five years.

With the establishment of an army service corps, as proposed in the bill, I am thoroughly in accord and am convinced that the establishment of such a corps will result in a material economy and a very great increase of efficiency in the army. It has repeatedly been recommended by me and my predecessors. I also believe that a consolidation of the staff corps can be made with a resulting increase in efficiency and economy, but not along the lines provided in the bill under consideration.

The army of the United States is in good condition.

The Panama Canal.

The very satisfactory progress made on the Panama canal last year has continued, and there is every reason to believe that the canal will be completed as early as the 1st of July, 1913, unless something unforeseen occurs. This is about 18 months before the time promised by the engineers.

Waterway From Lakes to the Gulf.

The project for a navigable waterway from Lake Michigan to the mouth of the Illinois river, and thence via the Mississippi to the Gulf of Mexico, is one of national importance. In view of the work already accomplished by the sanitary district of Chicago, an agency of the state of Illinois, which has constructed the most difficult and costly stretch of this waterway and made it an asset of the nation, and in view of the fact that the people of Illinois have authorized the expenditure of $20,000,000 to carry this waterway 62 miles farther to Utica, I feel that it is fitting that this work should be supplemented by the government, and that the expenditures recommended by the special board of engineers on the waterway from Utica to the mouth of the Illinois river be made upon lines which while providing a waterway for the nation, should otherwise benefit that state to the fullest extent.

The limitation of the liability of the master to his servant for personal injuries to such as are occasioned by his fault has been abandoned in most civilized countries and provision made whereby the employe injured in the course of his employment is compensated for his loss of working ability irrespective of negligence. The principle upon which such provision proceeds is that accidental injuries to workmen in modern industry, with its vast complexity and inherent dangers arising from complicated machinery and the use of the great forces of steam and electricity should be regarded as risks of the industry and the loss borne in some equitable proportion by those who for their own profit engage therein. In recognition of this the last congress authorized the appointment of a commission to investigate the subject of employers' liability and workmen's compensation and to report the result of their investigations, through the president, to congress. This commission was appointed and has been at work, holding hearings, gathering data and considering the subject, and it is expected will be able to report by the first of the year, in accordance with the provisions of the law.

Parcel Post.

Steps should be taken immediately for the establishment of a rural parcel post. In the estimates of appropriations needed for the maintenance of the postal service for the ensuing fiscal year an item of $150,000 has been inserted to cover the preliminary expense of establishing a parcel post on rural mail routes, as well as to cover an investigation having for its object the final establishment of a general parcel post on all railway and steamboat transportation routes.

The suggestion that we have a general parcel post has awakened great opposition on the part of some who think that it will have the effect to destroy the business of the country store keeper. Instead of doing this, I think the change will greatly increase business for the benefit of all. The reduction in the cost of living it will bring about ought to make its coming certain.

The Navy Department.

On the 2d of November last I reviewed the fighting fleet of battleships and other vessels assembled in New York harbor, consisting of 24 battleships, 2 armored cruisers, 2 cruisers, 22 destroyers, 12 torpedo boats, 8 submarines, and other attendant vessels, making 98 vessels of all classes, of a tonnage of 576,634 tons.

The fleet was deficient in the number of torpedo destroyers, in cruisers, and in colliers, as well as in large battleship cruisers, which are now becoming a very important feature of foreign navies, notably the British, German and Japanese.

The building plan for this year contemplates two battleships and two colliers. This is because the other and smaller vessels can be built much more rapidly in case of emergency than the battleships, and we certainly ought to continue the policy of two battleships a year until after the Panama Canal is finished and until in our first line and in our reserve line we can number 40 available vessels of proper armament and size.

Like the Treasury Department and the War Department, the Navy Department has given much attention to economy in administration, and has cut down a number of unnecessary expenses and reduced its estimates except for construction and the increase that that involves.

I wish to renew again my recommendation that all the local offices throughout the country, including collectors of internal revenue, collectors of customs, postmasters of all four classes, immigration commissioners and marshals, should be by law covered into the classified service, the necessity for confirmation by the senate be removed, and the president and the others, whose time is now taken up in distributing this patronage under the custom that has prevailed since the beginning of the government in accordance with the recommendation of the senators and congressmen of the majority party should be relieved from this burden. I am confident that such a change would greatly reduce the cost of administering the government, and that it would add greatly to its efficiency.

ANOTHER TRUST

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT FILES SUIT AGAINST THE KEYSTONE COMPANY.

WATCHCASE MONOPOLY

Individual Defendants Are Also Named in Bill Urging Stop to Alleged Selling Monopoly.

Philadelphia, Penn. — The federal government filed suit in the United States circuit court against the Keystone Watch Case company, declaring it an unlawful combination in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act and asking that it be restrained from carrying on an alleged monopoly in the manufacture and sale of watch cases. The government declares that the company now "manufactures and sells 80 per cent of all watch cases manufactured and sold in the United States," "and that it is the intent and purpose of the defendant that the company shall monopolize the remainder of the trade and commerce."

In addition to the Keystone Watch Case company, the Pennsylvania corporation, individual defendants named in the bill are: Theophilus Zurbrugg of Riverside, N. J., until recently president of the company; Caleb F. Fox, Philadelphia, acting president; Edward T. Stotesbury, Philadelphia, vice president; John J. Mueller, Philadelphia, secretary; Chas. M. Fogg, Philadelphia, treasurer; F. H. Kain, Philadelphia, assistant treasurer, and Irving Smith, New York, a director.

The bill recites that Zurbrugg consolidated two firms of watch case makers which were absorbed later by the Riverside Watch Case company.

Monopoly is Alleged.

Zurbrugg and others, the bill says, secured control of a corporation named the Keystone Watch Case company and under the name of the Keystone Watch Case company, took over the old Keystone and Riverside companies in 1899. Later, control was obtained of the New York Standard Watch company, the United States Watch company and the E. Howard Clock company.

In 1906, the Keystone company, the government charges, acquired control of the Crescent Watch Case company, which had previously purchased the entire watch case business of the American-Waltham Watch company and the Bay State Watch Case company of Boston. It is also alleged that the Keystone company acquired 851 of the 2,000 shares of the American Watch Case company of Toronto, Ltd.

The remainder of the stock is owned by the Waltham Watch company and the Elgin National Watch company. A Canadian corporation known as the Keystone-Crescent Watch Case company of Canada, Limited, was then organized to act as a sales agent of the American Watch Case company of Toronto. The capital stock of this corporation is owned by the Keystone company.

New Contract Alleged.

In 1904, it is charged, the Keystone company entered into a contract with the Elgin National Watch company whereby the Keystone company was put in exclusive charge of the entire export trade of the Elgin company, except the trade with Canada; and in 1905, the Keystone company, through a contract with the Waltham Watch company, was made sales agent for the latter in all leading foreign countries except Great Britain, France and Spain.

By virtue of these consolidations and contracts, the government bill asserts; the Keystone company directly and indirectly controlled the trade and commerce in watch cases so as to enable it to practically exclude all competitors and monopolize the trade itself. It also charges that the defendants induced jobbers to cease handling any other lines of goods than those made by the Keystone company and its subsidiaries, kept a blacklist of all dealers who sold said movements at less than the established price "and refused to sell said movements as well as any of their watch cases to jobbers who continued to sell to retailers whose names appeared on said list."

"Urged to Sell.

"Defendants have also urged competitors to sell their plant and business to the Keystone," the bill adds, "threatening them with destruction should they refuse to do so and have declared their intention of acquiring the remainder of the trade and commerce in watch cases and have asserted that they would spend $1,000,000 if necessary to drive some of the larger of its competitors out of business, and that defendants would hang crepe on the doors of such competitors' factories."

Important Happenings of the Week Briefly Told.

Mapleton.—The local Congregational church has extended a call to Rev. Arthur G. Young of Campbell.

Big Lake.—Ole Jacobson, a wealthy Sherburne county farmer, aged 60, was burned to death at his home here. Two sons and two daughters survive.

Shakopee. — Fire destroyed the building occupied by Adam Ince as a saloon, and owned by Mrs. Elizabeth Thole, entailing a loss of $3,000, partly covered by insurance. The building will be rebuilt.

Portland, Dec. 21.—Several thousand dollars' worth of jewels were stolen from the home of Edwin C. Shevlin, brother of Thomas H. Shevlin, while Mr. and Mrs. Shevlin were seated in their libray.

Litchfield.—Ryan Heaton, about 50 years old, who has been employed in the Litchfield woolen mills, disappeared a week ago and nothing has been heard of him. He had a month's salary coming to him, and was to have been married soon.

Duluth, Minn.—With the idea of ultimately establishing a big winter carnival here, the Duluth Ski club is planning to make a bid for the national ski meet for 1913 and to also have Duluth chosen as the permanent site for the national meet.

Duluth.—Major F. R. Shunk in his annual report makes the statement that the Duluth-Superior harbor stands next to New York. The total freight received and shipped for the fiscal years was 36,684,578 tons, valued at $284,049,072, an increase of 12.17 per cent over the previous year.

Albert Lea. — While working on ditch No. 18, nine miles southwest of here, a vein of lignite coal was discovered on the Henry Menerich farm. The vein lies through a ridge 300 to 400 feet long and is eleven feet beneath the surface. A shaft is being sunk to ascertain the depth of the vein.

Owatonna. — Rev. Albert Twichell was installed as rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church. Outside attendants were: Bishop Samuel Cook Edsall, Dr. William Ten Broeck of Seabury Divinity school, Rev. A. G. Pinkham of St. Paul and Judge Arthur Childress of Faribault. Addresses were delivered by all.

St. Cloud.—A petition will be submitted by creditors in federal court for the appointment of a receiver for the Preiss & Wimmer Brewing company of this city. It is said the company has been in financial difficulties some time. The liabilities are reported to be about $200,000, with assets of $80,000.

Brainerd. — The pulpits of seven churches will be occupied on Sunday, Jan. 7, by speakers setting forth the temperance movement in Minnesota. The evening will be devoted to a mass meeting in the opera house, and P. J. Youngdahl of Minneapolis, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, will deliver the address.

Moorhead. — Mrs. A. Knutson of Highland Grove township went to her attorney at Hawley, made out a will leaving her fortune to her son, John, and returned home to find him dead. She instantly fell into a state of coma and died a few moments later. Coroner C. G. Vincent was notified of both deaths, but decided an inquest was unnecessary.

St. Paul. — The state railroad and warehouse commission is ready to bring action against several thousand commission merchants who are said to be doing produce commission business without licenses. Of this number about 300 are doing business in Minneapolis and nearly the same number in St. Paul. This action follows a secret investigation that has been going on for nearly a month.

Duluth.—On the silver anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Mathew Lorntson of Beaver Bay, old residents of Lake county, their friends from a distance went to their home to give them a surprise party, only to learn that Mr. Lorntson had been drowned that day in Lake Superior. Lorntson and a man named Jacob Jacobson went out to lift their nets, and on their way back to the boat were swamped by a huge wave. Jacobson was saved, but Lorntson was drowned, though his body was recovered.

Winona.—Arrangements have been completed for the third annual farmers' institute to be held at the consolidated school at Lewiston, December 27, 28 and 29, conducted by this school in co-operation with the extension division of the college of agriculture. The special lectures will be Dr. H. M. Reynolds on "Diseases of Farm Animals," and Frank E. Balmer on "The Production and Care of Dairy Products." The regular instructors will be C. E. Brown of Elk River, H. D. Griswold of West Salem and W. H. Tombave. A woman's department with practical demonstrations by Miss Bull with the assistance of Miss Edna Kiester, will be a feature of the institute.

Mankato.—The farmers living in the vicinity of the Sperlich school house, in Rapidan, held a meeting to talk over the matter of graveling the roads in that vicinity, and agreed to haul 1,000 loads this winter.

A "hauling bee" is in progress on the Mankato-Good Thunder road, and farmers are also hauling gravel on other roads leading into Mankato. All previous efforts toward road improvements appear likely to be excelled this winter, for there was never before such a general desire on the part of the farmers to have the roads im[illegible]

A FEDERAL HEALTH BOARD.

It is gratifying to note that the bill for the creation of a federal health board will not be allowed to pass without a protest. Reports of organized resistance come from all parts of the country, and it may be that the opposition will soon be sufficiently solidified to defeat a project that promises infinite mischief for the community, and suffering and injustice for the individual.

The proposal is based upon those specious claims that are notoriously hard to controvert. If a federal health board were to confine its activities to the promulgation of salutary advice upon hygienic matters, to the abatement of quackery, and to the purity of drugs, it might be possible to say much in its favor, although it would still be difficult to say that such an organization is needed. But we know that it will attempt to do far more than this, seeing that its adherents have loudly proclaimed their intentions. Indeed, there is no secrecy about them. It is confidently expected that the board will consist of advocates of one school of medicine only, and that the methods of that school will be not only recommended, but enforced upon the nation. Indeed a board that was in any way representative of the medical profession as a whole would be stultified by its own disagreements. Outside the domain of simple hygiene, for which we need no federal board at all, there is no single point of medical practice upon which allopaths, homeopaths, eclectics and osteopaths could be in unison. Any board that could be devised by the wit of man must be composed of representatives of one school only, and this means that all other schools are branded as of an inferior caste, even though nothing worse happened to them. And something worse would happen to them. If we are to establish a school of medicine, if we are to assert that the government of the United States favors one variety of practice more than others, why not establish also a sect of religion and bestow special authorities upon Baptists, Methodists and Episcopalians? An established school of religious conjecture seems somewhat less objectionable than an established sect of pseudo-scientific conjecture.

Those who suppose that a federal board of health would have no concern with individual rights are likely to find themselves undeceived. It is for the purpose of interfering with individual rights that the proposal has been made. We need no special knowledge of conditions to be aware that what may be called unorthodox methods of healing have made sad inroads into the orthodox. Homeopathy claims a vast number of adherents who are just as well educated and just as intelligent as those who adhere to the older school. Osteopathy, eclecticism, and half a dozen other methods of practice are certainly not losing ground. Beyond them is the vast and increasing army of those who may be classed under the general and vague name of mental healers. Those who are addicted to any of these forms of unorthodoxy need have no doubt as to the purposes of the federal health board. Those purposes are to make it difficult for them to follow their particular fads and fancies, to lead them, and if necessary to drive them, from medical unorthodoxy to medical orthodoxy.

Now the Argonaut holds no brief for any of the excesses and the superstitions connected with the care of the body in which this age is so rife. But it does feel concerned for the preservation of human liberty and for the rights of the individual to doctor himself in any way he pleases so long as he does not indubitably threaten the health of the community. He may take large doses or small ones, or no doses at all; he may be massaged, anointed with oil, or prayed over, just as the whim of the moment may dictate, and probably it makes no particle of difference which he does. But he has the right to choose, just as he chooses the color of his necktie or the character of his underclothing. It is not a matter in which any wise government will seek to interefere. This is precisely the liberty that the health board intends to take from him. Orthodox medicine, conscious of its losses, is trying to buttress itself by federal statute, to exalt allopathy to the status of a privileged caste, and to create an established school of medicine just as some other countries have allowed themselves to create an established school of religion. It is for the common sense of the community to rebuke that effort and to repel an unwarranted invasion upon elementary human rights.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Standpatters Draw the Issue

Evidently acting upon the orders of the standpat machine the republican national committee has rejected the presidential preference primary as offered by the progressive republicans, and demanded by the people of the country. Instead of rising squarely and honestly to meet the plain issue which the progressive republicans put before the national committee, the committee chose a middle-of-the-road policy which dodges the question.

The committee provided that, in states where there is now a presidential primary, where the people, in other words, are able to chose their candidates for the highest office of the land, that in those states the state committees may—if they wish—act in accord with the law; but that, if they do not care to abide by the direct mandate of the people, they may override the law and provide for the election of delegates to the national convention by the old, discredited caucus and convention system which would reestablish all the objectionable manipulation, trading, [illegible] that is so repulsive [illegible] The state central [illegible] of this action, are made more powerful than the people, or than any expression of their will which they may utter.

So today the situation is simple and clear. It is the people against the machine. It is the progressive republicans, relying upon the people to nominate whom they desire, against the reactionary republicans, who rely not upon the people, but upon the unrepresentative and undemocratic methods of personal machines. By this acion the standpat manipulators have finally committeed themselves to a continuation of the gag and gumshoe policy which has brought disasier to the party in state elections. The is now sharply defined—the machine on the one side and La Follette on the other.

The Literary Society

As per call of last week a meeting was held Tuesday evening for the purpose of organizing a literary society. was a good attendance and considerable interest was shown. It is agreed by all that a place for our young people to spend their evenings is most desirable G. W. Hooper was elected chairman and Dr. Owens secretary.

After a free discussion of plans for the organization of the society and consideration of the financial side, a committee, consisting of A. S. Wilson, Dr. Owens, and Charles Pitkin, was appointed to draft constitution and by-laws.

Meetings were held Thursday and Friday evenings. The permanent organization will be effected and by-laws adopted at an adjourned meeting next Wednesday evening.

Hunters Find Red Lake Very High

Every few days the Gazette has a report from some reliable source confirming the published report of the investigation of conditions at Red lake and the source of the Red Lake river.

During the hunting season Herbert Findeisen and Fred Westphal went to Bemidji and from there into the Red lake country after big game. Mr. Westphal states that when he arrived at the lake, he was surprised to find the water at such a high stage. People living about the lake informed him that the lake is higher than it has been for years at this season of the year.

But there is no water in the Red Lake river because a log jam has produced a condition that prevents the flow of water from the lake into the river—and the war department has not yet decided that the owners of the logs shall clear the outlet.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

Timely Warnings

The following timely suggestions are sent out by the national fire protection association:

Do not decorate your Christmas tree with paper, cotton, or any other inflammable material. Use metalic tinsel and other non-inflammable decorations only, and set the tree securely so that the children in reaching for things can not tip it over.

Do not use cotton to represent snow. If you must have snow use asbestos fibre.

Do not permit children to light or relight the candles while parents are not present. They frequently set fire to their clothing instead. The tree itself will burn when needles have become dry.

Do not leave matches within reach of children at holiday time. Candles are meant to be lighted, and if the children can get matches they will experiment with them. They imitate their elders.

Practically Alone

Attorney C. R. Middleton and Mayor J. C. Williams returned Monday from the big convention at St. Cloud, in a very disgusted frame of mind. The triumph of the politicians in the extra session fight was a bitter pill to swallow. However, both gentlemen covered themselves with glory. Mr. Middleton was on the committee dealing with reapportionment, and found himself practically alone in the plea for justice for northern Minnesota. He made a rousing fight, however, and forced the issue into the convention hall and got it before the delegates. While he did not win, he made a name for himself as one of the big men of Minnesota. He showed that he was not at the call of the politicians and the interests, and he made many friends among those who have the real interests of northern Minnesota at heart. Mayor Williams gave him able assistance. Baudette has every reason to be proud of its delegates.—Baudette Region.

A Musical Canary

A canary owned by a family in London demonstrates its fondness for musical instruments by flying on the keyboard of the piano every time the instrument is played, where it dodges the fingers of the performer. When the violin is being played it perches and rides upon the bow. The love of music is not confined to birds, as people can testify who have listened to the gurgle from the bottle of golden grain belt beer at the family table. Try it for an aid to digestion at meals, a cool tonic in hot weather. Order of Alex Thompson, [illegible] dealer.

THE MAGIC OF MUSIC

Power of the Melody of the Voice Over Man and Beast.

SINGERS WHO SAVED LIVES.

The Way Lablache, the Basso, Conquered a Bear and a Burglar—Grisi's Control of a Madman With a Razor—A Musical Wife's Presence of Mind.

That music really has charms to soothe the savage beast is proved by the many times that the power of song has been the means of saving life. On one occasion when Luigi Lablache, the great opera basso, was aimlessly strolling through a French fair he was surprised by a sudden stampede of the sightseers, who rushed by him in a great panic, crying that one of the great bears had escaped from the menagerie. So surprised that he scarcely realized his danger, the singer stood his ground and almost immediately found himself face to face with the maddened beast, which halted for a moment before making its final rush. In that moment Lablache began to sing one of his favorite airs in a voice so deep and terrifying that the bear slunk away, thoroughly cowed.

It was this same singer who, when confined to his bed by a broken leg, was surprised by his landlady, who burst into his room, crying that a robber was in the house and was about to kill her husband unless he revealed the hiding place of their money and plate. Lablache, unable because of his injury to give other assistance, began to sing an aria in such thunderous tones as to terrify the robber, who fled.

Mme. Giulia Grisi was once traveling from the south of France to Paris in company with several companions of her own sex, when their privacy was intruded upon by a man who entered their apartment at a wayside station. Before long he began to act so oddly as to make the women apprehensive and at last terrified them by drawing a razor, which he began to flourish, at the same time demanding that he be permitted to sever their heads. The women realized that they had a madman in the carriage with them and also that they were without protection until the next stop of the train. In consequence they became hysterical—all save Grisi, who with great coolness suddenly began to sing in a soft voice that gradually assumed volume as she gained the attention of the man, whose threatening attitude gave way to rapt attention as the song advanced. Song after song did Grisi sing, and not another movement did the man make until the next station was reached, when the alarm was given and he was taken into custody. It transpired afterward that he had escaped from a lunatic asylum.

Jennie Lind once saved not only her own, but hundreds of other lives by her gift of song. A fire broke out back of the stage in a small theater in her native land where she was singing. The audience became alarmed, and there might have been a panic had not Jennie Lind stepped coolly out upon the stage and begun singing a favorite folk song. Reassured and entranced, the audience reseated themselves, and the fire was soon extinguished.

Another well known opera star while traveling with some friends in Mexico was surprised by a company of half breed bandits, at whose approach the escort fled, leaving their charges to the mercy of the robbers. The attitude of the latter on finding that their captives had little money and valuables was menacing in the extreme, and the travelers all expected to be murdered that night. When the robbers were eating their supper the star began to sing, and his captors were so delighted that they demanded more. For a time he gratified them, but at last suggested that he should sing for the freedom of himself and his friends. To this the bandits, cheered by wine and song, agreed, and after having sung for an hour he and his companion were free.

Kneissel, the notorious Bavarian brigand, once planned to rob a house in the neighborhood of Munich and, if necessary to secure the money and plate he knew was in the house, murder the inmates, a young married woman and her two female servants. His approach was heard by the wife, who, instead of losing her head, sat down to her piano and began to sing. The brigand listened for awhile and was on the point of forcing an entrance into the room when the song ceased and a man's voice struck up a rollicking air, to be followed in a few moments by a third man's voice singing a familiar chorus. Kneissel paused. The husband evidently had returned unexpectedly and had brought with him a friend. He was not prepared to attack the house against two men, so he beat a hasty retreat, little thinking that the voice he had heard proceeded from the lips of the young wife, a fine singer, who was an adept at mimicry.

Some years ago a released convict went to the house of the Indiana judge who had sentenced him to prison with the intention of shooting him. As he crept nearer to the window beside which the judge was [illegible] his revolver to fire the sweet voice of the judge's wife floated out on the summer air from the bedroom, where she was singing her baby to sleep, all unconscious of her husband's peril. The lullaby she sang was one that the convict's mother used to croon to him, and, throwing aside his revolver, he walked boldly into the house and confessed to the judge his intention. The judge befriended him, and he is today one of the most influential [illegible] citizens of a town [illegible] Andy [illegible] in Chicago [illegible]

Guard the Family Health

Health is often endangered by unsanitary cooking utensils. Physicians have found that cancer is caused by enamel ware chipping off and irritating the stomach.

If you have children or invalids in the family beware of cheap cooking utensils that crack, scale, peel off, tarnish or rust. Disease germs lurk in the worn places and there is further danger of tainting the food. Health is too precious to take risks with it.

Be safe. Use

LOMBARD PIANOS

The Pianos With The Sweetest Tone

Praised by Press and Pulpit

No Piano has ever been more enthusiastically endorsed. The Artistic Case, the Easy, Responsive Action, and above all the deep, sweet, rich Tone, captivates performer and listener. The united verdict is that ∴ ∴ ∴ ∴

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Parviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

COSTS LESS THAN 55 CENTS A BUSHEL TO RAISE WHEAT IN CANADA.

A FREQUENT QUESTION ANSWERED.

Western Canada probably suffered less from weather conditions during the year of 1911 than did almost any other portion of the country. Seeding was most successful and the growing conditions up to July were never better. Crops of all kinds showed wonderful growth at that time and were universally good, but there was not the usually excellent ripening weather in August and the effects of this were felt. Many fields that late in July promised 40 and 50 bushels yield of wheat were reduced to 25 and 30 bushels, while some of course gave the full expectancy and others somewhat less. The quality was also lowered. In face of these conditions, it is found that during the months of September and October, the total amount of contract wheat marketed and inspected was about 20 million bushels, which realized a total of 18½ million dollars, the average price for this wheat being 97¼ cents; that below contract for the two months was a little over 12 million bushels, which at an average price of 89¾ cents per bushel realized a little over eleven million dollars, or a grand total for all wheat of [illegible] million bushels, which realized a total of a little over thirty-one million dollars.

On the first of November, there were in the hands of the farmers of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta [illegible] seed about 120 million bushels of wheat, from which fact some idea may be had of the value of the wheat crop of 1911.

A careful canvass made by the Winnipeg Free Press made of a number of men farming in a large way indicate that even with the extreme expense of harvesting the crop, which has been caused by the bad weather and difficulty in threshing, wheat has been produced and put on the market for less than 55 cts. a bushel. The average freight rate is not over 13 cents per bushel. This would make the cost of production and freight 68 cts. and would leave the farmer an actual margin on his low-grade wheat of [illegible] and for his high-grade wheat of [illegible]; and though this is not the [illegible] profit as the farmer has every right to expect, it is a profit not to be despised, and which should leave a very fair amount of money to his credit when all the expenses of the year have been paid, unless the value of low-grade wheat sinks very much below its present level.

Men Who Live Long.

The longevity of artists is almost proverbial, and the case of Mr. Thomas Robert Macquoid, who at the age of ninety-one is still painting, is remarkable but not unparalleled. T. S. Cooper, R. A., exhibited at the Royal academy for several years after passing his ninetieth birthday; John Massey Wright, a water color artist, born in 1777, was fully occupied and in active work up to the time of his death at the age of ninety-three. Most notable, however, was Titian, who, born in 1477, lived just one year short of a century, and continued to paint pictures, until the very last.—London Chronicle.

A man was charged with stealing a sheep belonging to Sir Garnett Fitz-Maurice.

"I found the poor creature strayin' on the road, me lord, an' was just drivin' it home," pleaded the accused.

"Can you read?" asked his lordship.

"A little, me lord."

"You could not have been ignorant, then, that the sheep belonged to your [illegible], Sir Garnett Fitz-Maurice, as his brand, 'G. F. M.' was on the animal."

"True for ye, me lord, but, sure I thought the letters meant 'Good Fat Mutton.'"

BEAUTY OF TRIPOLI

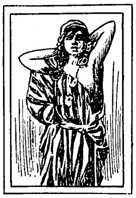
Snapshot Taken of Belle in Fete Dress.

The Picture Portrays a Charming Native Tripolitan Girl, Who Is One of the Country's Dusky Beauties.

Tripoli.—In the picture is portrayed a charming native Tripolitan girl wearing a special fete dress. She is one of the dusky beauties of the country now being fought for by Italy and Turkey, and the natural pose and grace of the subject lured the snapshotter to the creation of a work of art.

In Tripoli, peopled by almost every race under the sun, the women and children are possessed of a high degree of beauty, and the place has been called a city of romance. Pirates and corsairs, doomed by gunboats and modern progress to refrain from their nefarious exploits, thronged the cafes until the recent inroad of Italian troops. In blue zouaves and loose, baggy trousers, faced with brilliant touches of gold and red embroidery, they remain at heart untamed. The streets of the city are described as a riotous fantasy of architecture, with high whitewashed buildings, quaint projections and perforated windows, whence the harem ladies, themselves unseen, viewed the passing throng. The shops and bazaars were numerous, and sometimes had overhead a latticed roof, densely overgrown with vines. In the moving mass in the streets were Jews, Armenians, Sudanese, Arabs, Turks and Bedouins. Donkeys nosed their way through the clattering crowd, and beggars in picturesque attire appealed silently for alms.

But the most remarkable scene was to be witnessed every Tuesday in what was known as the Halfa market. There caravans used to arrive from the south and east, and camels bearing various products were formed into miniature camps. The bargaining and the bartering during the early hours of the morning were wonderful to see, for from 5,000 to 10,000 persons usually attended the sales. Venders could be seen squatted behind strips of matting, on which were little piles of oranges, lemons, figs, vegetables, grain, nuts, fish, dried locusts and other edibles, while cooks fried fritters in oil over basins of glowing charcoal. But all this is now changed. Bullet, saber and shell have scattered the peaceful inhabitants, and war's horrors reign where but a few weeks ago an Oriental and langourous people pursued the even tenor of a way to which they had been accustomed to for centuries.



Tripolitan Belle in Fete Dress.

In the very center of Tripoli one was reminded that Rome, the universal, had been there. Here stands a solid and ornate triumphal arch, built of marble, once white, now darkened and defaced by time, and recently scarred by the gaping marks of war missiles. An inscription, still legible, records that the arch was erected by a quaestor under the joint reign of Lucius Aelius Verus and Marcus Aurelius. It stands low, for it is half buried in the accumulated soil, and one of its portals is debased to the purposes of a native cooper's shop. But its carvings still preserve something of their ancient beauty, and the structure, standing there in the heart of an alien city and civilization during all these centuries, speaks of the power and prestige of the days of the Caesars.

Clothes Her Hens.

Colorado Springs, Colo.—Mrs. E. Stocker of Colorado City, rather than see her chickens, which had moulted late in the season, suffer from the cold, has made neatly fitting coats which button under the wings and has provided the chickens with soft flannel caps, fastened with dainty colored ribbons that tie under the beaks of the fowls. The chickens strut about apparently comfortable, and from all indications are proud of their clothes. Mrs. Stocker said that the hens, just to show their gratitude, are laying eggs to their full capacity every day.

This Fellow Some Eater.

Lakeview, Ore.—Friends of Charles Winkelman are anxious to back him against any man in the United States in a heavyweight eating contest, following Winkelman's performance when he consumed nine pounds of solid food, one glass of beer and three of water in 58 minutes. The meal consisted of 32 large beef and ham sandwiches, 16 large pickles and 16 huge pieces of fruit cake. Winkelman is sixty years old. He says he has eaten 16 pounds of food at one sitting.

Chicago.—A fine of $100 and costs was imposed by Municipal Judge Caverly upon Antonio Narako, who was accused of having bitten his wife, Mary, on the left leg during a quarrel in their home. "He attacked me and while we were struggling he stooped down and bit me in the leg," Mrs. Naraki told the court.

STATE FAIR LOST $17,801

SIMPSON'S FIRST YEAR NOT A SUCCESS.

Secretary's Report Shows Decrease of $120,693 From 1910 Receipts.

The Minnesota State fair for 1911 lost $17,801.38, according to the annual report filed by Secretary John C. Simpson with Governor Eberhart. The loss is attributed by the fair management to the continued rain and cold weather. There was a decrease of $120,693.67 from the 1910 receipts. The receipts this year were $168,167.33, and the expenses $185,968.71.

The Minnesota Agricultural society, which conduts the fair, paid out $32,882.58 for permanent improvements, and $25,253.65 for the maintenance of the fair grounds. For other expenses $19,454.90 was paid. Of that amount $8,622.30 was paid on claims incurred in former years, and $7,500 for money borrowed.

The buildings belonging to the society were valued by the appraisement committee at $736,140, and the land at $928,000. In making the report the committee said: "The general fine condition of repair in which we found the buildings has materially assisted us in arriving at our conclusions as to the value of the structures."

The members of the committee were Chester R. Smith, John M. Carlson and John J. Watson. The report is dated Nov. 30, 1911, and covers all receipts and disbursements since Dec. 11, 1910. Lat year's report showed that the fair had made a profit of $86,000, but there were outstanding accounts that had not been taken into consideration.

It has been conceded by authorities that the exhibits at the fair this year were finer and larger than ever and the poor showing made in the matter of attendance is attributed to the poor weather during the entire week.

The number of patrons of the creameries is 1,271, and the number of cows furnishing milk was about 12,000. The number of pounds of butter made was 1,614,439; and the average price paid for butter-fat 32.01 cents a pound.

HONEY IN CHURCH CUPOLA.

Blue Earth County Workmen Rob the Bees' Storehouse.

Lake Crystal.—During the last few years, while the good people have been worshipping in Carmel church, bees have made their home in the cupola and stored away quantities of honey as a result of their activity. In the last few days men who have been repairing the church came unexpectedly upon the store of honey. They have succeeded in saving a quantity, the bees being too drowsy to resist.

Shoots Wife on the Street.

Mankato. — An exciting shooting affair took place in this city. While shoppers filled the streets Joseph Latourelle, a carpenter, who came to Mankato from Fairmont, met his wife on the street, with her daughter, drew a revolver and began firing at her. Her daughter struck her father's arm and the first shot went wild but the second bullet passed through his wife's left shoulder and then a bystander knocked him down and the crowd held him until a policeman arrived.

Beaulieu Goes Free.

Fergus Falls.—The Beaulieu conspiracy case came to a sudden end here. The government rested in the forenoon, and the defense at once moved for a directed verdict in favor of the defendants. George H. Edgerton and C. D. O'Brien argued for the motion and Judge W. A. Norton against it. At the conclusion of arguments, Judge Page Moris granted the motion and Gus Beaulieu, Robert G. Beaulieu, Benjamin L. Fairbanks and John Leechy walked out of the court room acquitted of the charge.

MINNESOTA IS FIFTH.

Acreage in Potatoes Increases 52.5 Per Cent in Ten Years.

Washington, D. C. — Statistics regarding the potato crop of the United States collected at the thirteenth decennial census April 15, 1910, are contained in an official statement.

In Minnesota the land in potatoes increased from 146,659 acres in 1899 to 223,692 acres in 1909, an increase of 77,033 acres, or 52.5 per cent. The percentage of increase in production was much higher, the actual production in 1909 amounting to 26,802,948 bushels, as compared with 14,643,327 in 1899, an increase of 12,159,621 bushels, or 83 per cent. In 1909 the value of the Minnesota potato crop was $7,685,259, as compared with $3,408,997 in 1899, an increase of $4,276,262, or 125.4 per cent.

In acreage Minnesota ranks fifth in the ten states showing the highest acreage for 1909. In production Minnesota also ranks fifth in the ten states showing the highest production.

The land in potatoes in the United States increased from 2,939,000 acres in 1899 to 3,669,000 acres in 1909, an increase of 730,000 acres, or 24.8 per cent. The percentage of increase in production was much higher, the actual production in 1909 amounting to 389,195,000 bushels, as compared with 273,318,000 bushels in 1899, an increase of 115,877,000 bushels, or 42.4 per cent. The average production an acre, perhaps in part by reason of temporary weather conditions, increased from 93 bushels to 106.1 bushels. Along with the increase in acreage and production went an even larger relative increase in the value of the potato crop, which increased from $98,380,000 to $166,424,000, an increase of over $68,000,000, or 69.2 per cent. The average value of potatoes per bushel thus increased from 36 center to 43 cents, or about 19 per cent.

CHANGES MADE IN DIOCESE.

Bishop Heffron of Winona Makes Announcements.

Winona.—Official announcement of the changes of priests in the Catholic diocese of Winona, over which there has been speculation of a wide range and varying rumors, is made by Bishop P. R. Heffron, in the Christmas number of the Catholic Courier, the official organ of the diocese.

The Changes.

Rev. Peter J. Gallagher who has been pastor of the cathedral for nearly 22 years, has been appointed pastor of St. Mary's church, Lake City, and Rev. William E. F. Griffin, up to the present time pastor of St. Mary's church at Ellsworth, is transferred to the Cathedral, Winona.

Rev. J. J. McAuliffe, formerly pastor of St. Mary's, Lake City, has taken up his duties as pastor at Ellsworth.

Rev. J. E. Madden, who has been pastor of St. Paul's, Fairmont, for several years, takes charge of the church of St. John the Baptist at Caledonia, and Rev. E. J. O'Connell, formerly pastor at Caledonia, goes to St. Paul's, Fairmont.

Rev. M. Jostock, up to the present pastor of St. Peter's, Rose Creek, has been appointed pastor of St. Nicholas' church, Freeburg.

Rev. A. Heckenberger, who was pastor at Freeberg, has been transferred to Rose Creek.

Rev. M. Borresch has been appointed pastor of St. Peter's church, Caledonia.

Rev. M. Brazill, assistant pastor at St. John's church, Mankato, has gone to St. Mary's hospital, Rochester, to act as chaplain for the present.

PLAN NEW RAILWAY.

M[illegible] County Promote Project for [illegible], St. Cloud and Duluth Line.

Mankato.—The matter of a north and south railway to connect Mankato, St. Cloud and Duluth, which has been agitated more or less for the last thirty or forty years, has been revived by people living along the line, and they have hopes that their dreams may at last become realizations.

People of the eastern part of Morrison county have taken the initiative this time, and have received from the American Engineering and Construction company of Cleveland, Ohio, a proposition to start work as soon as the preliminaries can be arranged. The Morrison boosters have taken the project to the commercial clubs of Mankato, St. Cloud and Duluth, and other intermediate points, with the view of getting co-operation.

Such a line would tap a rich country that now has no north and south road, and where the farmers are obliged often to drive fifteen or twenty miles to reach a market.

The "Alphabet" road was supposed to run from Austin to Mankato, St. Cloud and Duluth, but the construction work began near Albert Lea and concluded at St. Clair, twelve miles east of Mankato, and then the St. Paul road bought the line and has operated it since as a feeder. Before that, various companies were organized but were not able to get any part of the line actually built. Mankato commercial interests have always been very desirous of having the line built, as it would open a new field for activity.

JUDGED BY THEIR CLOTHES

Smart Cigar Store Clerk Ready With Apology That by No Means Mended Situation.

Herman Fellner tells this story on himself, according to the New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Times Star. He was in Washington on business recently and met three or four friends on the street. After a moment's chat he beckoned them to come with him. "I'm off the stuff," said he, "but I want to buy you each a cigar."

They happened to be in front of a combination cigar and news stand at the moment. Led by Mr. Fellner, they all trooped in. The clerk hurried to the cigar case to wait upon them. Before Mr. Fellner could indicate his wishes the clerk had slapped a box on the glass case. "Here y' are," said he. "Best dime smoker in town."

Mr. Fellner is sort of fussy about his smokes. He looked at the cigar then shoved the box away. "Have you no other price?" he asked.

The clerk shoved the box in the case. "Sure thing," said he. "My mistake and your treat."

Having pulled off this time-worn witticism, he addressed Mr. Fellner confidentially. "Your clothes sort of fooled me," said he. "You fellers are a pretty well-dressed lot, you know." Then he put another box on the counter. "Here," said he, "is the best nickel smoker in the village."

ECZEMA DISFIGURED BABY

"Our little boy Gilbert was troubled with eczema when but a few weeks old. His little face was covered with sores even to back of his ears. The poor little fellow suffered very much. The sores began as pimples, his little face was disfigured very much. We hardly knew what he looked like. The face looked like raw meat. We tied little bags of cloth over his hands to prevent him from scratching. He was very restless at night, his little face itched.

"We consulted two doctors at Chicago, where we resided at that time. After trying all the medicine of the two doctors without any result, we read of the Cuticura Remedies, and at once bought Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Following the directions carefully and promptly we saw the result, and after four weeks, the dear child's face was as fine and clean as any little baby's face. Every one who saw Gilbert after using the Cuticura Remedies was surprised. He has a head of hair which is a pride for any boy of his age, three years. We can only recommend the Cuticura Remedies to everybody." (Signed) Mrs. H. Albrecht, Box 883, West Point, Neb., Oct. 26, 1910. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 14 L, Boston.

Modern Methods.

Moliere had written many plays to ridicule doctors and medicine. Louis XIV. heard that the author had, however, a doctor at his service since he became famous and well to do, so the king one day called upon Moliere and said to him:

"I have heard, Moliere, that you have a physician. What is he doing to you?"

"Sire," answered the author of the Malade Imaginaire, "we chat together, he writes prescriptions for me, I don't take them, and I am cured!"—Life.

"Yes, I lived there three years."

"Ever meet Miss Katish?"

"Ha! ha! Why, I was engaged to her! But that's nothing—all the fellows in my crowd were engaged to her at one time or another. I see you've lived in Painesville. Why did you ask about her, in particular? Come—confess?"

Housework Drudgery

Housework is drudgery for the weak woman. She brushes, dusts and scrubs, or is on her feet all day attending to the many details of the household, her back aching, her temples throbbing, nerves quivering under the stress of pain, possibly dizzy feelings. Sometimes rest in bed is not refreshing, because the poor tired nerves do not permit of refreshing sleep. The real need of weak, nervous women is satisfied by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

It Makes Weak Women Strong and Sick Women Well.

This "Prescription" removes the cause of women's weaknesses, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures those weaknesses so peculiar to women. It tranquilizes the nerves, encourages the appetite and induces restful sleep.

Dr. Pierce is perfectly willing to let every one know what his "Favorite Prescription" contains, a complete list of ingredients on the bottle-wrapper. Do not let any unscrupulous druggist persuade you that his substitute of unknown composition is "just as good" in order that he may make a bigger profit. Just smile and shake your head! The senate by a unanimous vote formally ratified President Taft's notification to Russia of the termination of the treaty of 1832.

DEMS. TURN DOWN MEYERS

AUTHORIZATION OF NEW BATTLESHIPS NOT PROBABLE DURING THIS CONGRESS.

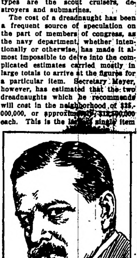
MONEY FOR AUXILIARIES

Two Dreadnaughts Asked by Official Would Cost $25,000,000—Republicans Join in Protest.

Washington, Dec. 26.—The President's plans for governmental economy and a desire to improve the navy along the line of auxiliary and secondary vessels, will result in the refusal of congress at this session to make appropriation for the construction of more than one battleship. It is even possible that battleships may be eliminated entirely this year from the authorized naval building program, particularly in view of the fact that the house has passed the Sherwood "dollar-a-day" pension bill, which will increase the annual expenses of the government from $28,000,000 to $35,000,000.

The secretary of the navy in his annual report has recommended the construction of two huge and costly battleships. At the same time he has shown the necessity of having many additional auxiliaries and accessories, which constitute what is known as the secondary and defensive navy. These auxiliaries consist of colliers, repair ships, ammunition ships, hospital ships and so forth, while the defensive types are the scout cruisers, destroyers and submarines.

The cost of a dreadnaught has been a frequent source of speculation on the part of members of congress, as the navy department, whether intentionally or otherwise, has made it almost impossible to delve into the complicated estimates carried mostly in large totals to arrive at the figures for a particular item. Secretary Meyer, however, has estimated that the two dreadnaughts which he recommends will cost in the neighborhood of $25,000,000, or approximately $12,500,000 each. This is the largest single item for which the government appropriates and it has staggered the Democratic economists.



GEORGE VON L. MEYER
Secretary of the Navy.

In consequence the plan is for the construction of smaller craft, particularly as their need is pointed out by the secretary of the navy, and also in view of the shortage of men necessary to man new ships. In his report the secretary of the navy publishes an interesting table showing the manner in which the navy has grown top-heavy by the building of big battleships to the neglect of the auxiliaries such as scouts, colliers, destroyers, submarines, repair, ammunition and hospital ships. There are now in commission 33 battleships which, in order to be effective, require a certain number of secondary vessels. On the basis of 33 battleships, Secretary Meyer shows that the deficiency in other ships is 13 colliers, 82 destroyers, 22 submarines, three hospital ships and in like proportion various other supply, repair, ammunition and miscellaneous vessels.

The house members have found that the up-keep of a battleship annually with its scores of officers and 1,000 to 1,200 enlisted men is $1,000,000 a year. The destroyer which costs originally only $750,000 is manned by four officers and 80 men, costs for maintenance only about $85,000 a year, and the submarine which costs originally only $500,000 is manned by one officer and about 12 men, costs about $25,000 for maintenance.

Notwithstanding the recommendation of the secretary of the navy for two dreadnaughts, there never was a time since the Democrats came into power that they were willing to authorize more than one of these big ships a year, and many Republicans have joined with them and taken the same position. In view of the fact that the navy is always popular with the people, it has been thought that one battleship might be provided for, but now in view of the heavy drain upon the treasury incident to the pension bill, it is said that there may be no provision for battleships at all. Instead those of charge of the matter are talking of making the navy more effective and providing what they believe to be better defense by building smaller boats which effect economy in construction and also in maintenance.

Washington, D. C. — Every indication is that congress will be thrown into the vortex of tariff agitation, especially with reference to the revision of the wool schedule, immediately after the holiday recess.

The Republican members of the ways and means committee are soon to begin the work of preparing a tariff revision bill along the lines of the board report and the president's message thereon.

The indications now are that there will be hearings on the wool and woolen goods question before the committees of both houses.

The Democrats appear to be considerably dazed by the completeness of the board report and the unanimity of the board in declaring against ad valorem duties, contrary to the expressed policy of the Democrats in congress.

The Republicans are considerably elated over the board findings but they see opportunities for duties being too low in some instances if all the suggestions made by the board with respect to new duties shall be accepted.

The wool men are pretty well pleased and the manufacturers are now planning to watch the situation to see how they will come out if raw wool gets as favorable rates as is proposed in the board report.

It will be a struggle on both sides to prevent any agreement upon a schedule of rates below the protective line.

Up to this time the raw wool men say they have a little the best of it, depending, of course, upon what provisions are made in the law for carrying out the president's recommendations for full tests of imported goods.

Most of the progressive leaders will be away from Washington during the Christmas holidays. Senator La Follette and Senator Clapp are to speak in Ohio and so will others.

The house progressives also will campaign in Ohio, Representatives Myrdock, Lenroot and Norris being among those who are intending to speak.

Washington, D. C. — The senate by a unanimous vote formally ratified President Taft's notification to Russia of the joint termination of the treaty of 1832. The Lodge joint resolution reported by the foreign relations committee as a substitute for the Sulzer resolution that passed the house 300 to 1, was adopted after an all day debate over Russian discrimination against the Jews of America.

Every senator who spoke voiced his advocacy of congressional action to meet Russian discrimination. They were unanimous for termination of the treaty, but showed a wide divergence of views as to the manner in which that end should be accomplished.

Among those who held conflicting opinions were Senator Shively of Indiana, Poindexter of Washington, O'Gorman of New York, Stone of Missouri and Williams of Mississippi.

The roll was called, but there was no division. Seventy-two votes were cast, and all of them were favorable to the measure. It was therefore declared adopted and was started on its way to the house.

With the senate action, the Russian situation has assumed a quieter phase so far as the executive branch of the government is concerned. The officials are looking forward to the receipt from Curtis Guild, the American ambassador to St. Petersburg, of the acceptance of the notice given by President Taft of the desire of this government to terminate the treaty of 1832.

Lodge Defends Taft.

Mr. Lodge in the senate defended the action of President Taft in abrogating the Russian treaty without congressional action. Six treaties, he pointed out, had been terminated by notice, the first by Polk in 1847, the treaty with Great Britain. President Pierce in 1855 terminated by notice a provision of a treaty with Denmark after the senate had given its authority in 1855. President McKinley terminated clauses in the Swiss treaty of 1855 without any congressional action whatever, he declared.

The great tariff fight of the present congress and leading up to the real issue of the coming presidential campaign was opened when President Taft sent to congress his message on the wool and woolen goods question.

The tariff board report on wool and woolens will furnish campaign ammunition enough for both sides. Bulky documents containing vast arrays of facts and figures are now in the hands of congress.

The nomination of William B. Grimshaw to succeed himself as United States marshal for Minnesota was sent to the senate by the president. Senators Nelson and Clapp united in recommending the appointment.

MILLER IS HONEST

F. A. BEAN, WHO WENT BROKE 20 YEARS AGO, PAYS EVERY CENT WITH INTEREST.

CELEBRATES HIS XMAS

Surprises Holders of His Outlawed Paper and Accounts By Settling in Full With Six Per Cent Interest.

Minneapolis. — Penniless and $100,000 in debt twenty-one years ago, a northwestern miller is observing the 1911 Christmas season by distributing $200,000 among men who have absolutely no legal claim against him, but to whom he owed money when the crash came which left him stranded at middle age. The miller is now 71 years old.

The story of F. A. Beau of New Prague, Minn., reads like a business romance with a Dickens Christmas tale ending. It is a story of a man who lost his fortune when he was 50 years old, who started at the bottom and built up another fortune, only to give $200,000 away because of a sense of business honor. Not a cent of the $200,000 which Mr. Beau has distributed among his former creditors could have been collected and for every cent of the $100,000 which he originally owed he has paid 6 per cent interest for the entire twenty-one years. And the best part of the story is that Mr. Bean has enjoined secrecy on every man to whom he has paid money, has said that he didn't want the news to get out that he was paying back the money, that he just wanted to think about it himself, that he owed the money no matter what the law was and that no thanks are due him from the people who are sharing in the $200,000 distribution.

Fails, But Not Discouraged.

Mr. Bean was president of Polar Star Milling company in Faribault in 1890. The company had business reverses. Mr. Bean was unable to meet his obligations. He lost his business, his property and his credit and found himself in debt to the extent of approximately $100,000. The indebtedness was distributed throughout the northwest.

He was 50 years old, but he was not discouraged. He was an experienced miller and he heard that the "Zimmer" mill, well known to pioneers in the northwestern milling business, was closed down and could be leased. He went to his brother-in-law, J. H. Mallory, a Rice county farmer, and Mallory placed a second mortgage on his farm and let Mr. Bean have $1,000. With this sum Mr. Bean went to New Prague and leased the Zimmer mill. For years he did business under the name of J. H. Mallory. Finally the New Prague Milling company was organized with F. A. Bean as president. The company gradually acquired property in the United States and Canada until it had five big mills. Recently the company became the International Mills company with headquarters at New Prague. One of its mills, at Moose Jaw, Canada, was recently destroyed by fire.

Over 600 Fowls on Exhibition at Crookston.

Crookston.—The fourth annual show of the Northern Minnesota Poultry association, just closed, was the most successful since organization. Over 600 birds were exhibited, and the next show will require the new armory.

Brown, second August Aas; third, W. P. Murphy; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. F. C. Mitchell, Crookston; superintendent, F. C. Mitchell, Crookston.

In addition to nearly $500 in cash prizes, the association gave away eighteen silver cups and local merchants gave merchandise prizes for attendance.

St. Paul. — Judge David F. Simpson of the Minnesota supreme court resigned and Judge Andrew Holt of the Hennepin county district bench was appointed to succeed him by Governor A. O. Eberhart. The governor also announced the appointment of Charles S. Jelley as district judge to succeed Judge Holt.

Judge Andrew Holt has been on the district bench since 1905, and was reelected last year for six years beginning next January. Before becoming district judge he was judge of the Minneapolis municipal court. His successor, C. S. Jelley, formerly served as special assistant attorney general, and was about to return to that position Jan. 1.

CORN SCHOOL AT OWATONNA.

Second Annual Show of State Association Opens With New Year.

Owatonna.—The final arrangements for the second annual corn show and school of the Minnesota State Corn Growers' association, to be held in Owatonna Jan. 1-6, have been completed. The premium lists are being mailed to all parts of the state.

Comparatively little lecture work will be done, but most of the time will be spent in classroom work, actually preforming or demonstrating the methods advocated. The livestock work will be handled by Professor R. K. Bliss of Iowa. Professor Sexauer of Albert Lea will have charge of the corn and small grain department, Miss M. H. Olson of Albert Lea college will conduct the domestic science department.

Premiums will be offered to the amount of $1,000 for corn, small grains and baked goods. There will be a special junior class for exhibitors under 20. A stock and corn judging contest will be held on Wednesday which will be open to teams of three from any high school in the state.

Afternoon and Evening Lectures.

In addition to the regular instruction and classroom work, which will last from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. each day, there will be given each afternoon from 4 to 5, lectures by men along special lines as follows: Professor R. Balance of $1,000 Reported.

St. Paul.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the Minnesota Educational association, the affairs of the last meeting of the association were settled up. F. J. Sperry of Mankato, treasurer of the association, reported a balance of $1,000 was left from the meeting. Five hundred dollars was set aside for the meeting of the National association to take place in St. Paul next July. A committee will be appointed to investigate means of standardizing courses of the high schools of the state. Three hundred dollars was appropriated for use by that committee. Albert Gullette, chairman of the committee of twenty, of the Minneapolis schools, met with the executive committee to confer on the work to be done by the standardizing committee. Dean George F. James, F. J. Sperry and John L. Silvernale, superintendent of schools in Red Wing, were present.

Committees on boys' work, Bible study, evangelism, missions and social service are to be appointed and hold preliminary meetings.

Immigration Commissioner Selected.

St. Paul. — H. J. Maxfield, of Wadena, was elected state immigration commissioner at a meeting of the state immigration board. Mr. Maxfield was not a candidate, his name had not been mentioned in connection with the position, and his election was a genuine surprise. He is county attorney of Wadena county, is about 40 years of age, was one of the organizers of and the first president of the Northern Minnesota Development association, and held that office until his retirement after the recent annual meeting of the association at St. Cloud.

The estimated cost of the structure is placed at about $25,000.

RUSSIA IS STERN

ASSUMES NOT TO HAVE BEEN AGGRESSOR IN OUTRAGES AT TABRIZ AND RESHT.

ATROCITIES TO CONTINUE

Another American Mentioned for Treasurer General at Teheran, But Post Likely to Go to a Belgian.

London, Eng. — The Russian government has decided upon stern measures to suppress disorders at Tabriz and other disturbed Persian towns. As reports of Russian progress in Persia and stories of the indiscriminate killing of natives in Tabriz and Resht, and of the destruction of Persia's constitutional government under Russian menaces continue to reach England the people are becoming increasingly disquieted at the British government's complicity, which the foreign secretary, Sir Edward Grey, thinks is a matter of policy and compelled by the Anglo-Russian agreement.

Doubts also have been increased as to whether Persian independence ever will be restored to even the feeble status it had before this last assault by Russia. If parliament were sitting there would undoubtedly be severe questioning of the government on this subject and an arraignment of the foreign office.

The Times is the only paper which strongly supports the government and it expresses considerable uneasiness over Russia's intentions as hinted in St. Petersburg reports. The Manchester Guardian, the ablest and most influential provincial Liberal paper, deplores British responsibility and questions whether the government could not have taken some stand earlier, but fears that it is now too late. In short, the whole affair is repugnant to Liberal sentiment.

Savage Attacks Reported.

The Persian committee, composed of prominent Englishmen interested in Persian affairs, has received the following telegram from the provincial assembly at Tabriz, sent through the Persia society of Constantinople:

"On Dec. 21 Russian troops attacked and seized the administration buildings. They trampled school children under foot and killed and despoiled innocent men and women. They also looted the shops.

"The inhabitants, after extraordinary forbearance, began to defend themselves and forced the Russians to evacuate the government offices.

"On Dec. 22 the Russians bombarded the city until sunset, consternation increasing hourly. On Dec. 23, in consequence of orders from the central government to cease fighting, the inhabitants took no steps to defend themselves, but the Russians renewed the bombardment, firing from the environs of their consulate at women and other innocent Persians. They wounded or made captive the wives and children of many respectable citizens and set fire to numerous buildings and mosques.

"The inhabitants still remained quiet on Dec. 25, but the ferocity of the Russians greatly increased. They killed many women and children and a large number of buildings were burned by them. We beg you to communicate this telegram to the principal newspapers and influential centers of Europe."

Russia Claims Innocence.

St. Petersburg. — A semi-official statement says that the Russian government in view of "acts of foolhardy aggression committed against the Russian forces and institutions in Tabriz, Resht and Enzeli, sometimes followed by brutal torture of the wounded and base outrages against the dead," has decided that the severest punishment to the guilty is merited, and Russian commanders, in conjunction with Russian consuls, are instructed to adopt the most stringent measures.

Want Another American.

Teheran.—It is understood that the regent and cabinet desire the appointment of the American, F. E. Cairns, the principal associate of Mr. Shuster, as the new treasurer general of Persia.

It is more likely, however, that M. Mornard, the Belgian former director of customs of Persia, who some months ago made himself prominent by his hostility to Mr. Shuster, will receive the position.

A happy New Year to all.

Mrs. Adolph O. Eberhart, wife of the governor, who was operated on in Minneapolis Wednesday for appendicitis, is doing finely.

Standard Oil seems to have no end of touble. After its long struggle for supremacy in Mexico, its treatment at home fond an echo in hoots and hisses that greeted its application to the Mexican congress for a pipe line concession.

Fifty thousand bushels of potatoes imported to New York city from Scotland paid a duty of $750. We do not know what these imported potatoes cost in Scotland nor the ocean freight. But whoever imported them made a mistake in not first coming to northern Minnesota. He could have picked up 50,000 bushels of real potatoes, prize winners, at very low prices.

A. C. Wiess, publisher of the Duluth Herald, is declared to be a candidate for United States Senator from Minnesota on the democrat ticket, and this will mean a hot contest between Mr. Weiss and Daniel W. Lawler, of St. Paul, who announced his candidacy some time ago. Mr. Weiss has not got into the game formally as yet, but it is intimated that he will declare himself in the spring.

Do not fail to attend the Crookston agricultural school short course Jan. 2-12, 1912. Meals may be secured at the school for 20 cents each and rooms in Crookston at a low rate. The trains going north on the Great Northern will take passengers to the school in the morning and the southbound train will return them in the evening. A very valuable program has been arranged. Send for a catalog giving full information.

The northwestern land products show which has been in St. Paul for the past ten days, closing today, has demonstrated the glory of the entire northwest, but no state has shown products surpassing those of Minnesota. Our apples, our potatoes, our grains, are of the very finest quality and the competition of other states in any of these lines, only brings out the superiority of our own. We have no apologies to make for Minnesota.

A bill has again been introduced into Congress which would prohibit interstate railroad or other carriers from taking liquors into any territory where its use, possession or sale is a violation of law. This should become a law and allow the United States to get out of the criminal class. As it is now a state may pass a prohibitory law and at once the federal government gets busy issuing permits for the sale of the forbidden goods and aids and abets the criminal element in violating the laws which a great nation is supposed to assist in enforcing.—Breckenridge Telegram.

In the approaching year may we keep our reverence unimpaired for the humble-minded and those who have suffered much; our humor alert for our own mistakes and our self-sufficiency, and not at any time wreak it upon the aged, the crippled, the obscure. May we guard childhood and honor age, however infirm and petulant, because it has gone a long way on the same road that bruises our feet; and ever seek to prolong the brief moment of joy as it visits children and lovers. May we have the grace to rejoice in the flow of life as it moves through men from generation to generation, and to be purified by the mystery in which we dwell—the night silences and the wonder of our inner life. May we know that humanity [illegible] than any creed of its devising, any church of its building, [illegible] of its shaping. May we look upon the widespread spectacle of human suffering and, having saddened, to look upon it, learn to know our single life—seemingly so unique—as a drop of that infinite sea. When it comes our time to realize that in this earthly progress we shall not long dwell with happiness or with success, may we clear our spirit of bitterness and in calm strength continue at the work.—Collier's Weekly.

The Creamery War

Investigation growing out of the contest between the country creameries and the big city creameries brings out some interesting facts. It has been deteminded that the country creamery makes better butter in spite of the magnificent equipmens of the city creamery. It has also been determined that this better grade of butter is made at less cost than the inferior grade manufactured in the city creamery.

It has been a known fact that the prizes for high quality of butter, but it may not have been generally known how they accomplished that result. It takes fresh cream to make good butter. If the country buttermaker exercises equal care and skill with the city buttermaker, he is sure to have a better product, for the man in the city plant must work with stale cream.

There are several causes that make the operation of the city plant more expensive. It is probable that the principal cause is freight charges. It costs much more to ship raw cream than it does to ship butter, the product of the raw cream. This proposition is so simple as to require no further explaination.

Then why, with all the advantages in favor of the country creamery is the big creamery in this game? There is just one explanation. Everything is staked on the usually successful methods of "high finance"—it is hoped that e-v-e-n-t-u-a-l-l-y the big creamery people will be the only men on the job and that they will be soaking the public at both ends of the profit making scheme.

Will it come to that? If it does, the control of the dairy business in the hands of the few men will be just as comfortable a soft snap as is standard oil to those who pocket the winnings in that game.

The situation is one that demands the loyalty of every farmer and dairyman. It demands his loyalty because it is his game. The big creameries are trying to put the little creameries out of business. The country creamery is the only weapon with which the fermers and dairymen can successfully fight the monopoly of the dairy business that a few men are trying to create.

The approved methods of "big business" in getting rid of little competition are employed in this undertaking. Usually a man who ships cream doesn't get any more money. He may get a higher "price," but in that case there is usually something wrong with the test or he is being "baited." Where a weak creamery is found some tempting prices are offered. That is so simple when you think about it, "they are going to get it back" when the little creamery goes out of business. The farmer who falls for the temptation of a cent or two more per pound, or even much more than that, when the local creamery needs his support, is playing a sure losing game no matter what may appear to be his temporary profit on the transaction.

So you see, it is not sa much a question of loyalty to the creamery as a local insitution. The former cannot be loyal to his own good business judgment unless he encourages the local creamery, the only protection he has against the attempted monopoly which if it succeeds will not only be able to sell butter at any price it may determine but will determine without any question what shall be paid for cream.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

Mourning the Dead

In Hoboken, in a shop frequented by germans, hangs a sign which reads thus: "We regret to inform our honored customers that our good and generous friend, Mr. Credit, expired today. He was a noble soul, always willing and helpful, but had been failing for some time. May he rest in peace. PAY CASH." Promises are poor things, actual deeds are the only coin current. Golden grain belt beer speak for better digestion, stronger health and their superb tang makes friends everywhere. Order of Alex. Thompson, Crookston, or of your dealer.

Looking Backward

Another year will soon be history, and its fortunes and misfortune a matter of the past. However, it seems well that, while its results are still fresh in our memory, they should be canvassed throughly and with serious thought.

Successful farming demands business management, and no business is well managed that is not throughly canvassed at least once each year. If you have no detailed account of the past season's operations, you at least have some mental notation of the things that have in the past seasons gone right or wrong. Now is a good time to call these to mind, study them from every side, and with the close of the year determine to do better in the future.

No one is infallible; all make mistakes and an occasional mistake is worth while if we study the cause and profit thereby. Every failure should be made a guide-post to future success.—O. M. Olson.

Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Bray Mutual Fire Insurance company will be held in the hall in the village of St. Hilaire on the 8th day of January, 1912, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year and to transact other business that may come before the meeting. JOHN O. SWANSON, Secretary.

BURNED PAPER MONEY.

Source of Great Profit to the Government and Banks.

At the redemption windows of the treasury and of the subtreasuries of the country any silver coin that has not been mutilated willfully and which still is recognizable as from the mints of the United States will be redeemed at face value, this in spite of the fact that the silver in the worn coin may not be worth half its face value. As to gold coin, the government stands only a small portion of the loss from abrasion; but, according to weight, these worn gold coins always are redeemable.

In the case of the paper currency two-fifths of a note must be presented if it shall be redeemed or a new note issued, and, no matter what the evidence may be as to total destruction of this paper currency, the government regards it as the holder's individual loss with which it is no further concerned. Fire may melt $1,000 worth of silver coins and it is worth its metal value. It may melt $1,000 in gold coins and the mint will pay $1,000 in new twenty dollar gold pieces for the mass. But the ashes of $1,000 in paper currency is without value.

In the thousands of fires over the country every year involving office buildings, factories, business houses and family residences an untold total of legal tender notes of all kinds are destroyed. Every piece of such paper lost is loss to the holder and gain to the government or to a national bank. It is a promissory note hopelessly lost to the holder. It is even more, for in many cases an individual man might redeem his debt obligation if he were assured by the holder of it that the piece of paper to which he had signed his name had been destroyed by accident and by no chance could turn up again against him.—Chicago Tribune.

Pope as a Witness.

Pope, like Garrick, made but a poor figure in the witness box. He was cited to appear in defense of Bishop Atterbury when that prelate was tried for high treason in the house of lords in 1723. "I never could speak in public," he told Spence afterward, "and I don't believe that if it was a set thing I could give an account of any story to twelve friends together, though I could tell it to any three of them with a great deal of pleasure. When I was to appear for the bishop of Rochester in his trial, though I had but ten words to say and that on a plain point (how the bishop spent his time when I was with him at Bromley), I made two or three blunders in it and that notwithstanding the first row of lords (which was all I could see) were mostly of my acquaintance."—London Standard.

A VERY SIMPLE DETECTIVE CASE.

By BERTHA DALSOP.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

"Walter, call a cab."

So spoke Walter De Forest while sitting in the cafe of his club. In a few minutes the waiter announced that the cab was at the door. De Forest went out, gave a street and number to the cabman and got into the cab. There, before him on the seat, lay a package.

"Ah," exclaimed De Forest, "some one has lost something."

Taking up the package, he opened it and saw on the top a bank bill for $1,000. He opened his eyes very wide. Lifting the bill, he came upon another for the same amount. He opened his eyes wider. Fifty bills, each for $1,000, were in the parcel.

He looked at the wrapper. There was neither name nor mark on it to give the slightest clew to its ownership. He tied up the package and put it in his pocket. On reaching his destination he said to the driver: "[illegible] the last person in this cab before me?"

"A young lady, sir."

"What name?"

"I don't know, sir."

"Where did she engage you?"

"She called me from the sidewalk."

"Where did she tell you to drive?"

"To 84 Union street."

Mr. De Forest started. "Did you take her there?"

"No, sir. A pair of horses were plunging in the crowd of vehicles beside us. I drove on, but when I got down to open the door there was no one inside. I think the lady got scared and slipped out."

"Did you go to the location she gave you to collect your fare?"

"Not yet, sir."

"How much does she owe you?"

"A dollar."

"Here it is. I know the lady. I'll tell her."

"Thank you, sir."

The coincidence was a strange one. Julia Drayton, aged twenty-one, that day had been paid in bills a legacy of $50,000. She had stepped from a bank to the sidewalk, got into a cab, suffered from a fright, jumped out and left her fortune inside. Walter De Forest was an admirer of hers and had at the time made up his mind that he would marry her if he could. Money was no special object to him.

The next morning he saw an advertisement in the papers of a large reward for the lost money. In the evening he called on Miss Drayton. The servant who received him said that her mistress was indisposed.

"Tell her that I have called to speak to her about her loss," said De Forest, and in a few moments Miss Drayton came down. She was much agitated.

"I saw an advertisement this morning," he said, "which from its reading I think must be yours."

"I have lost my inheritance."

De Forest asked her to tell him the story, which she did.

"I am very sorry for you," he said when she had finished, "indeed so sorry that I am going to exercise my ingenuity to find who has the bills. I have a plan that I will put into operation, and if it succeeds I shall recover your fortune."

"All of it?" she gasped.

"All or none."

"But there is the reward."

"That we may talk of after getting the bills."

Mr. De Forest called often to report progress. Miss Drayton begged him to tell her of his methods, but he assured her it was not best. Though at times he spoke encouragingly and at times the reverse, he continually kept her up by a steadfast hope.

One evening De Forest left the young lady conscious of the fact that he might as well bring his detective investigations to a close. A few days later he showed Miss Drayton a piece of paper on which was scrawled by some illiterate person an agreement to return fifty $1,000 bank bills provided that immunity were guaranteed. Miss Drayton caught her breath. But De Forest reminded her of the many frauds in such matters and warned her not to feel too sure. Nevertheless she wrung his hand.

A week passed, during which Miss Drayton suffered alternate chills and fever—chills of despondency and fever of hope. And all the while she was thinking of that good, kind man who was devoting his time, his energies, his genius, for investigation to the return of her lost fortune.

One day she received a note from De Forest notifying her that if her doorbell rang between 7 and 8 that evening she would do well to answer it herself. At a quarter to 8 the bell rang. Miss Drayton opened the door. A man in working clothes handed her a package and without a word hurried away. Turning to the light, she opened the package and saw her lost bills. Counting them, she found all she had lost.

She was still in a delirium of joy when the bell rang again. She flew to the door and admitted Mr. De Forest. She could not control herself. Throwing her arms around his neck, she wept for joy.

There was one and only one matter to be settled between them. That was Mr. De Forest's reward for his patient labors. Miss Drayton asked him to name it and it should be his.

Then he told her that the reward he had been working for was herself. She kept her word.

Happy Events.

A teacher in one of the public schools of Vienna in order to test the ability of her junior class—girls eight to nine years old—in composition writing gave each little miss a subject to be discussed "at once without consultation and without help of any kind." The articles were found to be so interesting and amusing that they have been collected for publication. One article on "My Three Happiest Days" is notable in the unique collection. In well chosen words and clearly rounded sentences the little girl says that, being lost in the woods, having to run away from a fire which broke out in their house and watching a little boat as the wind tossed it on the waves and finally smashed it, were the most "happy events" that she could think of. Another in describing "fairyland" said that it must be a place where "everything is as it is here except that the lakes should be frozen half across at all times of the year so that we could take a swim and jump out and skate."

Benson-Highland Nuptials

A quiet, but very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Benson last Thursday, Dec. 28, at 3 o'clock, when their daughter, Charlotte, was united in marriage to Mr. Michael Highland of Halstad, Minn., Rev. M. S. Gjerde officiating.

The rooms were handsomely decorated and the ceremony was performed beneath a beautiful white and green arch decorated with ferns and roses. The bride wore a light tan messaline and carried bridal roses, while the groom was dressed in appropriate dark.

The bride was attended by Miss Amanda Highland as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Misses Milla Highland and Tyra Wallen, while the best men were Selmor Benson and Albert Larson.

A sumptuous five o'clock dinner was served in six courses, plates being laid for about fifty. The guests were mostly from out of town, many having come from the bride's former home at Halstad. Mr. and Mrs. Highland were the recipients of many valuable presents.

The bride, although not generally known here, having spent most of the later years in the west, has by her charming personality won numerous friends. The groom, who is a promising young man, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Highland, prominent residents of Halstad, is not much known here.

Their numerous friends join in wishing them a long, prosperous life's journey.

DAKOTA BUSINESS COLLEGE
Every person needs a business education and it costs no more to get it at this great Business and Shorthand Training School, under exact office conditions, than at one of the small questionable ones. The results are, however, very different. 350 D. B. C. pupils went to excellent positions in banks and offices this year—over 400 will do so next year. All Fargo banks and 625 others employ D. B. C. pupils as cashiers, tellers or bookkeepers. [illegible]
Our $50 course prepares for business life, or for position as clerk or bookkeeper. Our new $35 course in Commerce and Banking (endorsed by Bankers' Association) supplies cashiers and tellers for the Northwestern banks, and bookkeepers and credit men for the larger concerns. The shorthand course (under an expert reporter) trains court reporters and high grade stenographers. The stenographers for the U. S. District Court, N. D. Supreme Court, 3d Judicial District and the Cass Co. Court are D. B. C. pupils. [illegible]
The D. B. C. has built a magnificent new building (25,000 square feet of space) is seated with roll top desks, has 60 typewriters, adding machines, billers, money changers, etc. Our pupils deal with each other and with magnificently equipped offices, using aluminum money. Our courses are fascinating and practical. The Northwest has "No other school like the D. B. C." [illegible]

NEVER COUNTED THE GIRLS

Prince's Answer to Question Typical of Life in the Countries of the Orient.

The big punkah flopped and flagged between the columns, as we sat and talked. Mem-Sahib, who was born in the Caucasus amid Georgian and Circassian dignitaries, and so had a happy way with Oriental princes, took us all aback by suddenly asking the good gray prince how many brothers he had. His highness looked at her with a queer little smile, half tolerant, half amused, and began, with great show of seriousness, to count them on his fingers, first of the right hand, then of the left; after going once or twice round, he halted, started again, then stopped and said:

"I am afraid I must ask my secretary!"

The secretary replied, with dignity: "Your highness had a hundred and nineteen brothers!"

Mem-Sahib, not a whit abashed, then asked this good Oriental nobleman concerning his sisters.

He smiled very charmingly, saying: "I am afraid I do not know; we never counted them!"—Charles Johnston in the Atlantic Monthly.

BURNING ITCH WAS CURED

"I deem it my duty to tell about a cure that the Cuticura Soap and Ointment have made on myself. My trouble began in splotches breaking out right in the edge of my hair on the forehead, and spread over the front part of the top of my head from ear to ear, and over my ears which caused a most fearful burning itch, or eczema.

"For three years I had this terrible breaking out on my forehead and scalp. I tried our family doctor and he failed to cure it. Then I tried the Cuticura Soap and Ointment and used them fo. two months with the result of a complete cure. Cuticura Soap and Ointment should have the credit due, and I have advised a lot of people to use them." (Signed) C. D. Tharrington, Creek, N. C., Jan. 26, 1911.

Itching Scalp—Hair Felt Out.

"I will say that I have been suffering with an itching on my scalp for the past few years. My hair fell out in spots all over my head. My scalp started to trouble me with sores, then the sores healed up, and crusts formed on the top. Then the hair fell out and left me three bald spots the shape of a half dollar. I went to more than one doctor, but could not get any relief, so I started to use the Cuticura Remedies. I tried one bar of Cuticura Soap and some Cuticura Ointment, and felt relieved right away. Now the bald spots have disappeared, and my hair has grown, thanks to the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I highly recommend the Cuticura Remedies to all that are suffering with scalp trouble." (Signed) Samuel Stern, 236 Floyd St., Brooklyn, N. Y., Feb. 7, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 9 K, Boston.

800 Bushels from 20 acres of wheat was the thresher's return from a Lloydminster farm in the season of 1910. Many fields in that as well as other districts yielded from 25 to 35 bushels of wheat to the acre. Other grains in proportion.

LARGE PROFITS are thus derived from the FREE HOMESTEAD LANDS of Western Canada.

This excellent showing causes prices to advance. Land values should double in two years' time. Grain growing, mixed farming, cattle raising and dairying are all profitable. Free Homesteads of 160 acres are to be had in the very best districts; 160 acre pre-emptions at $3.00 per acre within certain areas. Schools and churches in every settlement, climate unexcelled, soil the richest; wood, water and building material plentiful.

Happy New Year of Many Nations

NEW YEAR'S day has for for generations been the occasion of revels. It has come down to us from the old German custom of dividing the year at the close of those months when it was no longer possible to keep cattle out doors

This was made quite a fete and in the sixth century was merged into the feast of St. Martin, November 11, on which day the opening of the New Year was celebrated.

While in Germany Martinmas and the New Year were identical, with the introduction of the Roman calendar the celebration was gradually transferred to the first of January, and with it went many of the jolly Martinmas customs.

Traces of these old New Year observances and superstitions can still be traced in the way the season is kept in different lands.

Our decorations of greens, for instance, are a relic of the old Roman superstition of presenting branches of trees for good luck in the coming year.

The giving of presents has also come to us from the Romans. They outdid even the generous Americans, for they used to ask for gifts, if not received, until one of the emperors forbade his subjects demanding gifts save on the New Year.

One of the favorite New Year's gifts after pins were invented in England, in the sixteenth century, were the rough hand-made pieces of metal that took the place of bone and wood skewers Later pin money was substituted.

A gift that must never be omitted was an orange stuck with cloves to grace the wassail bowl. Apples, nuts and fat fowl were popular offerings of the season.

Gloves and glove money is a very old New Year custom which is still kept up in the increasing use of gloves as holiday gifts.

Even more curious are the old New Year customs. Many of these are still observed by old-fashioned people who cling to the old traditions.

The old-fashioned Englishman will formally open the outer door of his house on New Year's eve just at the approach of midnight. This is to let out the old year and usher in the new.

The Scotch make much of New Year. It is generally ushered in with a "hot pint," brewed at home and drunk by the family standing around the bowl just as midnight strikes.

After hearty greetings to the New Year, the "hot pint," with bread, cheese and cakes, is taken to the houses of the neighbors. The first to enter another's home on the first of January bestows good luck on the family for the year.

In many of the Scottish regiments even yet the ushering in of New Year is most picturesque. At five minutes before twelve the soldiers, headed by the oldest man in the regiment dressed as Father Time, march out of barracks headed by the band playing "Auld Lang Syne."

Just at the stroke of twelve there comes a knock at the gate.

"Who goes there?" calls the sentry.

"The New Year," is the answer.

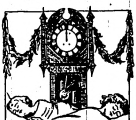
"Advance, New Year," is called back.

The gates are thrown open and the smallest drummer lad in the regiment, dressed in Highland costume, is carried in on the shoulders of the men, and marched around the barracks to the pipers' tunes. The rest of the night is spent in carousing.

A Prayer for the New Year

ETERNAL God, in whom is the hope of all our years, remember us in Thy mercy also in this new year of our Lord. Reveal Thy glory in the experience of its joys and sorrows. Forestall its tears with the abiding comfort of Thy presence. Make us strong rightly to measure all our gains and to endure with patience every loss Thy love allows. Show us Thy meaning in the gifts and opportunities of each new day. Assure us of Thy help in labor, Thy delight in our joys. Quicken our minds to clear vision and our hearts to cheerful content. Provide for our bodies such vigor as shall be needful for our allotted work. We leave to Thee the mystery of the year's events, assured that Thou wilt guide our way. Withhold from us all gifts which would prevent Thy purpose for our growth in wisdom and in service. Only deny us not Thyself—Thy Spirit to instruct our hearts, Thy work to share, Thy peace to still our restlessness, Thy presence to resolve our doubts. In the sifting of temptation grant that our faith fail not, and when our years are ended bring us to Thyself, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

A Happy New Year



Just at the turn of midnight,
When the children are fast asleep,
The tired Old Year slips out by himself,
Glad of a chance to be laid on the shelf,
And the New Year takes a peep.

Best Gift of Time

The passing of years is like the coming of dawn—slow, silent, inevitable. The most eager cannot hasten the quiet, irresistible movement, and the most reluctant cannot forbid. Some gifts the years bring which we would fain decline—age, sorrow, disappointment. Some treasures they take which we would keep forever—youth, beauty, innocence. But there are more precious treasures which time cannot supply and the years cannot remove—friendship, patience, faith and love.—Herbert L. Willett.

The New Year

The wind blew there and the wind blew here,
And brought from Somewhere the small New Year.
It tapped for him at each door and pane
And never once was a knock in vain!
All good folks waited the coming child,
Their doors they opened and on him smiled.
Inside he stepped, with a happy face,
And softly slipped in the Old Year's place
Said he: "I bring you a Box of Days,
Tied round with tissue of rainbow rays;
I give it joyfully, for I know,
Though all days may not with gladness glow,
Each gift holds some precious bit of cheer
To win your thanks," said the sweet Child Year!

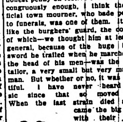
Origin of New Year Gifts

Like the customs of Christmas, which, in their origin, are a curious mixture of poetry and symbolism and of superstition, those that belong to the observance of New Year's day are also relics of ideas that date from early heathen ages. The French derive their term for New Year presents from the Latin word, Strenia, the name of a goddess whom the Romans venerated as the patroness of gifts. There was a grove in Rome dedicated to this goddess, where it was customary to get fresh twigs, to give as presents to friends and relatives on New Year's day. During the sway of the emperors, Roman subjects made New Year's gifts to their sovereign. Augustus received such quantities of these that he had gold and silver statues made of them. Tiberius did away with the usage, because he considered it too troublesome to express thanks for the gifts. Caligula, on the contrary, reintroduced the custom, and even made up for his predecessor's refusal to receive presents by requiring those that had been offered to him to be given to himself as arrearages. The custom of making New Year's gifts, notwithstanding attempts to suppress it, was continued after Europe had become Christian. For a time present making was transferred to Easter, but later it was again associated with the first day of January

"Blowing in the Yule."

Blowing in the yule from the grim old tower that had stood 800 years against the blasts of the North sea was one of the customs of the old town that abide, however it fares with the Nisse; that I know. At sunup, while yet the people were at breakfast, the town band climbed the many steep ladders to the top of the tower, and up there, in fair weather or foul—and sometimes it blew great guns from the wintry sea—they played four old hymns, one to each corner of the compass, so that no one was forgotten. They always began with Luther's sturdy challenge, "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God," while down below we listened devoutly.

There was something both weird and beautiful about those far-away strains in the early morning light of the northern winter, something that was not of earth and that suggested to my child's imagination the angels songs on far Judean hills. Even now after all these years, the memory of it does that. It could not have been because the music was so rare, for the band was made up of small storekeepers and artisans who thus turned an honest penny on festive occasions. Incongruously enough, I think the official town mourner, who bade people to funerals, was one of them. It was like the burghers' guard, the colonel of which—we thought him at least a general, because of the huge brass sword he trailed when he marched at the head of his men—was the town tailor, a very small but very martial man. But whether or no, it was beautiful. I have never heard music since that so moved me. When the last strain died away, came the big bells with their deep voices that sang far out over field and heath, and our yule was fairly under way.—Century Mag



LETHBRIDGE, ALBERTA, SECURES DRY FARMING CONGRESS FOR 1912.

The term "dry farming" does not indicate all that might be implied. It does not mean a system of irrigation, but one where all the rain fall and precipitation is stored up and conserved in the soil, to be drawn upon by scientific and sane processes when it may be required to forward and increase the growth of grain.

In certain sections of the Canadian West as well as in the American West, there is a portion of the country in which the soil is the very best for the growing of cereals, but the geographical locations and relative position to the rain avenues, do not give the advantage that other parts possess in the matter of precipitation.

Agricultural science, however, has been making rapid progress during the past few years, and it is now ascertained that it is not altogether the number of inches of rain that is essential to the growing of crops, but its conservation, and that is the meaning of "Dry farming." "Dry Farming" may well be applied to districts where there is a heavy rain fall and better results will follow. The education of the public into these new methods, not new exactly, but such as have had satisfactory demonstration, is not alone the purpose of these dry-farming Congresses. One idea is to bring into life and into operation the great areas of splendid land lying within what might be termed semi-arid, without placing them under the restrictive and expansive process of irrigation.

The Congresses are attended by thousands and they bring representatives from all parts of the world. The Province of Alberta, and also of Saskatchewan, has taken a vital interest in the Congresses which have been held in the past two or three years. The Province of Alberta has made provincial exhibits districts have shown their products, and last year, several hundred dollars were taken in prizes; this year the Province of Alberta took prizes ten to one in excess of any state in the Union. Alberta has won eight out of twenty special cups, that province taking one, Lethbridge one, Arthur Perry six, and John Baxter, Edmonton, carrying off one sweepstakes. When it came to a matter of location for the Congress for 1912, the City of Lethbridge, which had put up a splendid fight for it, secured the Congress by a unanimous vote. It is expected that the Lethbridge Congress will be the largest yet held and will be the biggest convention in the history of Western Canada. In emphasizing his invitation to Lethbridge, one of the speakers said he had just received a telegram from Magrath (near Lethbridge) stating that of one thousand acres of wheat just thrashed Hethershaw and Bradshaw had thrashed 47,000 bushels.

Literature sent out recently by the Canadian Government Agents, which will be sent postage free on application, tells of hundreds of splendid yields in all parts of Western Canada.

Her Credit Was Strained.

A young country merchant who had something of a reputation for close figuring was especially attentive to the village schoolma-am. The young woman had a sweet tooth and was not at all retiring about making the fact known. Accordingly, she hinted to her admirer that a box of chocolates would be greatly appreciated on the occasion of his next visit. Later the suggestion was repeated and again duly heeded. The third time the subject was broached, however, the dispenser of sweets turned a deaf ear to the entreaty.

"I don't know about taking that girl any more candy," he confided to a companion next day. "She's owin' me sixty cents for chocolates already."—Lippincott's Magazine.

His Idea of Heaven.

The Sunday school teacher had been telling her infant class of the delights of heaven. One youngster paid close attention and after Sunday school was over, walked up to the teacher.

"Teacher," he said, "do they have billy goats with long whiskers up there? I want one awful bad, but grandpa says I can't have one. If they don't have billy goats up in heaven I don't believe I want to go."

Storm Note.

Little Harold Hillside looked out of the window at the snowstorm last Monday morning and exclaimed, "Oh, look at the blister!"—Newark News.

CHINA'S STRONG MAN

Both Factions Offer Leadership to Yuan Shi Kai.

Crafty Oriental Turned Tide in Boxer Revolt by Shooting Man Protected by "Bullet Proof Oath"—Friend of the People.

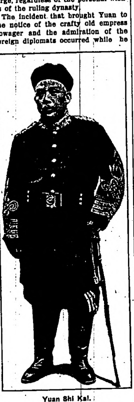
Shanghai.—Yuan Shi Kai, called "the strong man of China," towards whom the eyes of all the world today are turned, has been offered the premiership by the throne and the presidency by the Republicans. It is pointed out that at the time of the Boxer war, Yuan was the one man in China who could command the respect of foreigners and at the same time unite the warring Chinese.

Yuan accepted the premiership, considering it the best opportunity to bring about peace. A few days after he had assumed these duties he told his friends that he had thought the situation over carefully and concluded that there is no hope of saving the Manchu dynasty and that a change of government is inevitable.

Yuan is said to be of lowly birth, meager education and superficial knowledge. He has never traveled beyond the borders of his own country and he speaks no language but his own. His countrymen say that the strength of his appeal to them lies in the fact that he is quite generally and firmly believed, throughout the empire, to be patriotic.

His deposition from power for three years, 1908 to 1911, was due to his having repeatedly compelled the Manchu princes to relinquish certain revenues which they were using for private purposes, that he might have money to build up the army and to institute reforms in the schools. Yuan always seemed to have in mind some ultimate benefit to the people at large, regardless of the personal wishes of the ruling dynasty.

The incident that brought Yuan to the notice of the crafty old empress dowager and the admiration of the foreign diplomats occurred while he was mayor of a small town in the Province of Shantung. The Boxer movement was strong and many of the most reputable Chinese were on the verge of joining it, when Yuan decided that he must take an impressive stand against the fanatical ascendency of this secret order.



Yuan Shi Kai.

One of the tenets of the Boxer faith was that participation in the rites of the order rendered a person immune to the effects of bullets. They believed the "foreign devils" could not hurt them with their guns.

When Yuan was invited to join the Boxers he did not dare refuse, and he did not wish to accept, because he saw defeat ahead for them.

"I will join with you," he said, "upon one condition—that you prove to me you cannot be harmed by foreign bullets."

The Boxer committee agreed to the test, and one enthusiastic Boxer stood against the wall of the mayor's garden to be shot at by Yuan himself with a new model Martini-Henry rifle. Yuan smiling explained that this test would settle for all time in the minds of the citizens how unimportant was this boasted power of the foreign devils.

The Boxer leader was reverentially entombed at Yuan's expense and prayers were said over his grave for 100 days.

This is the man of nerve, cunning and diplomacy who is being called upon in China today.

Beware Cheap Bills.

An examination of paper currency by Warren H. Hilditch of Yale showed an average of one hundred and forty-two thousand bacteria to the bill. Twenty-one bills were examined, and while some were relatively clean, carrying only a trifle of fourteen thousand living things, others swarmed to the figure of five hundred and eighty-six thousand. And, strange to say, the bacteria did not seem to swarm to the $1,000 bills in preference to the $1 bills.

This shows that it is far healthier to carry $1,000 bills about than it is to have $1 bills. Here is a valuable financial hint.

"FIGHTING BOB'S" LAST FIGHT O'ER

VETERAN SEA FIGHTER AND NAVAL AUTHORITY PASSES AWAY IN WASHINGTON.

ADMIRAL EVANS IS DEAD.

Was Retired From Active Service After Taking the Fleet Around World.—Spent All His Life in Navy.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans, known as "Fighting Bob" died suddenly at his home in this city. Acute indigestion ended the career of one of the most popular officers in the navy. He was ill only two hours. Admiral Evans was born 65 years ago in Floyd county, Virginia.

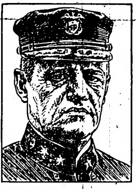
At his bedside at the time of his death were his wife, his daughter, Mrs. H. I. Sewall and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Frank T. Evans, wife of the admiral's only son, a lieutenant-commander in the navy. The only other member of his immediate family who was not present was his daughter, Mrs. Marsh, wife of Captain Charles C. Marsh, commanding the armored cruiser North Carolina.

President Taft was one of the first to express his grief and condolence. He said:

"Admiral Evans was one of the most successful squadron commanders we have had in the navy for a long time. He was a rigid disciplinarian, of quick decision and admirably advised in the intricacy of the machinery of cruisers and battleships and skilled in drilling them. I am deeply affected to hear of his death."

Entered Navy When Boy.

Evans was a mere boy when he was sent to the naval academy at Annapolis. Before he had got far with his studies the Civil war broke out and he went to sea and was assigned to blockade duty. It was in one of the attacks made by the Northern navy upon the powerful defenses at Fort Fisher, North Carolina, that young Evans received the wound through the thigh that made him a cripple for life. He suffered three other wounds, but as soon as he was discharged from the hospital he again plunged into the fighting and served until the end of the Civil war with great credit.



REAR ADMIRAL R. D. EVANS.

It was Evans who took the little dispatch boat Dolphin on a cruise around the world to test the structural strength of this first product of the infant steel ship building art of the United States. He always got the best ships and the newest because his superior officers knew he could be trusted to handle them safely and develop their strong and weak points.

He wanted a battleship and he got one of the best—the Iowa—which represented the latest product of the American ship yards.

Rewarded for Heroism.

When Cervera's fleet made its final dash through the blockading ships off Santiago on July 3, 1898, Captain Evans' ship took a notable part in the 50-mile running fight that followed. For his gallantry in this action he received the thanks of congress and was promoted.

As a full rear admiral, Evans was called upon to take the Atlantic fleet around the world. That brilliant achievement was the first world cruise of an armored fleet of that size and power. Sixteen battleships made the 25,000 miles cruise. By the time the fleet reached San Francisco the strain had become so severe that Admiral Evans was unable to leave his bed and it was necessary to relieve him from the command at that place.

Admiral Evans will be buried in the national cemetery at Arlington with full naval honors.

HELD FOR $140,000 THEFT.

Treasurer of New York Wholesale House to Get Hearing Friday.

New York, Jan. 4.—Percy G. Vanderoef surrendered at the criminal court's building in the charge of embezzlement of approximately $140,000 from the large wholesale dry goods house of Van Keuren and Thornton company of which he was treasurer. He entered a formal plea of not guilty and was locked up in the Tombs for further examination.

FIGHTS POSTAGE INCREASE

American Newspaper Publishers' Association Committee Attacks Plan to Double Rates.

Washington.—A warm attack on Hitchcock's plan to increase the second-class postage rates is contained in a bulletin just issued by the postal committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' association. Don C. Seitz of the New York World is chairman of the committee. The bulletin says:

"The extent to which the post office department does not carry second-class matter is well revealed in the following abstract of inquiry of publishers conducted by house committee on expenditures in the post office department (William A. Ashbrook, chairman) concerning the volume, weight and handling of the output of publications entered as mail matter of the second-class for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911:

"'Inquiry was made of all publishers, approximating thirty thousand, of which nearly seventeen thousand are weekly publications.

"'More than ten thousand returns were received, embracing sixty-six plus per cent. of all tonnage of publications.

"'The publications reporting represent an annual output of more than six and one-half billion copies, the weight of which was one and three-quarter billion pounds.

"'These publications delivered by mail in such period weighed 633,012,902 pounds.

"'They delivered by their own carriers, newsboys, and news companies 840,466,574 pounds, of which an unascertained percentage was carried to destination by express and other rail shipments outside the mail. They delivered by express, 202,729,510 pounds, and by other rail shipments 121,491,748 pounds. The rate by express and rail varies from ¼ to 1 cent per pound, but the bulk of these shipments went at a rate of ¼ to ½ cent per pound.

"'The post office for the year ending June 30, 1911, handled 951,001,669, and excluding one-half million pounds free in county matter, it received one cent per pound.'

"All this goes to add to the absurdity of the proposed Hitchcock legislation doubling the second-class rate from one to two cents per pound, and limiting the 'privilege' to publications that carry as much reading matter as they do advertising.

"The proposition was stupid enough when the postal deficit reached $17,000,000 two years ago. It becomes preposterous in face of a surplus.

"What business has a transportation corporation, which is all the post office is, to prescribe how a business shall be conducted?

"Newspapers cannot afford to expand their columns beyond the call of the day's news, nor can they be expected to control the requirements of their advertisers who have a right to reach the public as copiously as they care to.

"It cannot be assumed that such legislation will ever get by congress. But publishers are requested to fight the theory that the right to send their output by mail is a "privilege." The figures show it is not.

"The post office is a badly managed business. That is all. We should fight its dictation, its censorship and its inefficiency."

Impracticable Suggestion.

Robert Henri, the artist, was talking at a tea at Sherry's, in New York, about the Latin quarter.

"In the Latin Quarter," he said, "in little streets off the Boule Mich, it is possible to get a good dinner for 15 cents—and even at that there's many a Latin Quarterite goes dinnerless."

Mr. Henri smiled and sighed.

"One spring afternoon," he resumed, "as I was sketching the horses of the green bronze fountain in the Luxembourg Gardens, a youth stopped and talked awhile.

"The spring sunshine on the youth's coat brought out all its shabbiness mercilessly, and I ventured to hint:

"'Look here, old chap, why don't you have that coat turned?'

"He smoothed the shabby sleeves ruefully.

"'I would,' he said, 'if it had three sides.'"

The Connoisseur.

Joseph E. Widener, being congratulated at the Ritz-Carlton in New York on the excellence of his father's pictures, smiled and said:

"Yes, my father has been a discreet collector. He is not like the New York millionaire whom Sargent visited.

"Sargent was taken by this millionaire through a huge gallery of dubious Rembrandts, Titians, Raphaels and Murillos.

"'Mr. Sargent,' the millionaire said, gazing pompously at the long lines of vast, dingy canvases, 'I have decided to leave my pictures to some public institution. What institution would you suggest?'

"'I suggest,' said Mr. Sargent, 'an institution for the blind.'"

Turn to Wooden Flooring.

The use of wooden flooring is on the increase in Italy, taking the place of the former extensive demand for marble, tiling and cement. Oak, larch and pitch pine are mostly adopted, and but little, if any maple, birch or beech has been brought to the market.

What Was in Her Heart.

"Tell me," he sighed, "tell me, beautiful maiden, what is in your heart?" [illegible]

STATE BANKS MAKE A GAIN OF $10,000,000 IN A YEAR

The state banks of Minnesota have the great total of $136,626,558.55 in resources, according to the report of the superintendent of state banks, just issued, which summarizes the statements issued on call Dec. 5. There are 737 banks included. The fact that only 686 banks were included in the summary covering the statements on call of Nov. 10, 1910, which is the nearest comparison that can be made between this year and last, that many new banks were organized, and that total state banking capitalization rose from $13,288,500 to $14,084,000, accounts for a portion of the increase in resource figures, but the greater part is due to increased business of the state banks, greater deposits, and greater loans and discounts. The total resources are more than $10,000,000 in excess of the like total a year ago.

Time Deposits Increased.

Against this great sum the banks have $71,394,065.41 on time certificates, by far the most important single item in the report, and they have $34,624,069.84 on deposit subject to check. Conspicuous in the report of Kelsey S. Chase, the state superintendent, is an increase of $7,692,374.15 in the first item, a decrease of $4,215,144.70 in the second. The figures, in so far as their significance can be determined, reflect the putting into the banks by farmers of considerable sums of money received from the sale of crops, which money they do not expect to want for some time, and which they are therefore willing to leave on time certificates of deposit. The decrease in the sum total of deposits subject to check reflects the checking out by country merchants having such accounts, in payment of bills for merchandise purchased in advance of the harvest season or in some instances for holiday purchases.

More Cash Available.

The report is a good one in every way. It shows that in actual cash, small coin and bills of the various denominations, ready for immediate use, these banks have $5,302,178.16 in their tills. It is a satisfactory proportion of readily available cash, and compares with an amount of $4,958,151.44 last year.

The following table shows the condition of the state banks of Minnesota near the close of this year, and in 1910:

AWAIT DITCH RULING

On Supreme Opinion Rests Progress in Northern Minnesota.

Thief River Falls.—The decision expected each week from the state Supreme Court on an appealed ditch case from Roseau county is being awaited here with interest. This case is to determine the constitutionality of the ditch law which makes the county wherein the ditch is located responsible for the ditch bonds, instead of making the benefited property alone the security.

A taxpayer in Roseau county claims that as a citizen of the county he cannot be held for ditch benefits which are only applicable locally and which do him no good. If the decision holds that the county cannot back the ditch bonds then the same will be hard to dispose of and will have to be sold at a discount. At the present time no trouble exists in disposing of ditch bonds, as the whole county is responsible for the debt.

A similar principle is involved in the Elwell road law, which seeks to tax only a certain property within a distance of three miles of the proposed highway to be constructed.

Greater drainage projects than any heretofore proposed or undertaken are being now considered in the northern part of the state. They will reclaim all the waste land in Northwestern Minnesota if carried to a successful issue and will assure the opening of at least 1,000,000 acres of rich wood and partly prairie land which at the present time is valueless for agricultural purposes. Any radical change in the present ditch law will prohibit this movement. It is admitted that the law as it now stands is somewhat expensive, but it digs the ditches and reclaims the land.

St. Paul.—F. S. Bell of Winona, was appointed by Governor Eberhart as a member of the State Highway commission, to succeed Louis W. Hill, who declined a reappointment because he could not give the necessary time to the work.

CHURCH TO GIVE DANCES.

Pelican Rapids Experiment to Combine Prayer and Festive Step.

Fergus Falls.—It is reported from Pelican Rapids that a new plan has been adopted there which will combine religious services with dancing and card playing. The plan is to hold dancing and card parties under the auspices of one of the churches, open the festivities with prayer, and, after a session of dancing, religious services will be held and the evening close with the Christian Endeavor benediction. A series of these parties is to be held during the winter as an experiment, church leaders having come to the conclusion that it is better to hold them under religious auspices than to have the young people attending secular parties.

PROMINENT DULUTH MAN DEAD.

Joe Morrow, Stricken at Party, Expires Two Hours Later.

NEW LAKE LINE INCORPORATED.

Flour City Steamship Company Backed by Minneapolis Capital.

Minneapolis. — The Flour City City Steamship company has been incorporated under the laws of Minnesota to carry Minneapolis flour from Duluth and Superior to Buffalo, N. Y. The organization, before it was incorporated, was known as the Flour City line. It is the result of a battle carried on for a long time by the Minneapolis Traffic association for cheaper lake rates for Minneapolis flour.

The company is incorporated with $300,000 capital. The officers are: President, F. E. Kenaston, president of the Minneapolis Threshing Machine company and president of the South Side State bank; first vice president, C. C. Webber, president of Deere & Webber company and president of the Minneapolis Traffic association; second vice president, James C. Andrews, manager of the Pillsbury Flour Mills company; secretary, Hugh E. White, second vice president of the Minneapolis Paper company and secretary of the Minneapolis Traffic association; treasurer, H. H. King, Sheffield-King Milling company. The officers also compose the board of directors.

The Flour City Steamship company is strictly a Minneapolis concern, owned and operated by Minneapolis men. The articles of incorporation announce that $153,000 of the stock shall be preferred and $147,000 common.

TO UPLIFT FARIBAULT SCHOOLS.

Board of Education Disapproves Students Attending Public Amusements.

Faribault.—The Faribault school board at a recent meeting passed the following resolution with the view to bettering the conditions of the students:

"Resolved, That the Faribault school board cannot countenance and does not approve of any organization or club, or attendance at entertainments and places of amusements, or patronage of billiard halls and pool rooms, and other public resorts, which can possibly interfere with the efficiency or proficiency of pupils of the public schools in their school work."

FUEL COMPANY'S FIRM PACT.

Pittsburg and Duluth Concerns Make New Shipping Agreement.

Duluth, Minn.—The Shenango furnace interests and the Carnegie Coal company, in Pittsburgh, and the Carnegie Fuel company, in Duluth, have formed a traffic agreement which involves the transportation of the coal company's coal to Duluth. The furnace interest owns a modern fleet and ships 2,000,000 tons of ore per year down the lakes and the Carnegie upbound coal tonnage is rapidly approaching that volume.

Campbell.—Rev. Arthur G. Young of this place has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Congregational church at Mapleton, and will leave shortly for his new post.

Duluth.—Andrew Carnegie has declined to increase his donation of money for a library at Eveleth. He donated $15,000, and the library board requested him to increase it to $25,000.

St. Paul. — Governor Adolph O. Eberhart and Mayor Hubert Keller of St. Paul were members of a large class taken into the Odd Fellows lodge at a big meeting of the Twin City members here.

New York, N. Y.—Physicians at the Presbyterian hospital declare Dr. Charles H. Mayo, noted Rochester, Minn., surgeon, is resting easily. Unless complications set in, they believe he will recover.

St. Paul. — Mr. Louis W. Hill, who is a member of the state highway commission, has declined reappointment because he had not sufficient time to give proper attention to the demands of the office.

Virginia. — The Charles Johnson business block, occupied by Lusk & Sigel, billiard hall and bowling alleys, and the Johnson barber shop, was destroyed by fire. The blaze started in the basement, and the origin is unknown. The loss is $30,000, nearly covered by insurance.

Fergus Falls.—The postoffice department has designated the First National bank of Battle Lake as depository for the postal savings of Fergus Falls. A Barnesville bank has been designated as the depository for the postal savings of Moorhead, Ada and Hawley, and an East Grand Forks bank has been made the depository.

Little Falls.—J. E. Lindberg, state dairy and food inspector, and H. L. Bugbee of the university extension department were speakers at a celebration held in Pierz in honor of the opening of the co-operative creamery at that place. Three hundred farmers with their wives and children crowded the opera house to hear the speakers. Pierz is one of the richest sections of Morrison county, made so in years past through wheat raising. Only of late have the farmers turned to dairying.

St. Paul. — After having defied the Minnesota authorities for months, Mike Davis, the mysterious and missing figure in the Puposky postoffice robbery, has been discovered serving a 15-year sentence for robbery at Flint, Mich. Davis, known as "Manchester Curly," was the man who disappeared in the brush on the night of the Puposky affair—an affair which resulted in the arrest and conviction of Dr. D. F. Dumas, mayor of Cass Lake, on the charge of being the ringleader. Davis went to prison Dec. 13 for robbery.

Minneapolis.—Co-ed suffragists at the University of Minnesota have been successful in their campaign for representation in the students council of the university. They have secured an amendment to the constitution for the council by which they are given equal rights with the college men. As originally drafted, the constitution provided that "all the men in any school or college of the university are entitled to vote for candidates." As a result of the women's protestations, "men" has been changed to "students."

Washington.—Upon his own application Major John R. Howard, superintendent of the White Earth Indian reservation, has been authorized to visit Washington to confer with the officials of the Indian bureau. Indian Commissioner Valentine said that Major Howard expressed a wish to take up a number of questions. Among the matters to be discussed will be that involved in the recent order suspending until further inquiry the names of eighty-six persons enrolled as members of the White Earth tribe.

Karlstad.—Much interest is centered upon the case before the supreme court to decide whether the entire country or only the property directly affected is liable for the construction of a drainage ditch as security for drainage bonds. This action was commenced when the Roseau county board proceeded to sell the bonds for county ditch No. 8. W. E. Pelt of Marshall county enjoined the board from selling the bonds until the question had been settled. Should the supreme court hold that only property benefited is security for bonds, drainage operations in certain localities would be given a setback as it would cause a raise in interest on bonds for drainage purposes.

Breckenridge.—A new charter commission was appointed for Breckenridge by Judge Flaherty, consisting of Henry Wyvell, H. L. Shirley, Louis Gewalt, J. C. Kain, A. G. Noris, W. M. A railway surveying crew is running a north and south line through eastern Polk county, Red Lake and Pennington counties. The survey is supposed to be for an extension of the newly formed merger of the Minneapolis and St. Louis and Iowa Central from the Twin cities to Winnipeg.

Frank A. Day, chairman of the state democratic committee of Minnesota, who has been living at Missola, Mont., has announced his intention of returning to Minnesota to live. The supposition is that he wants to get back into the Minnesota political game.

The county board let the contract for the publication of the delinquent tax list to the Eleven Towns and all other publications for the coming year to the Thief River Falls News. Ed. A. Aubol was re-elected chairman. The board made application for $9,000 from the state under the Elwell law, to be used on the roads.

Log Jam May Be Removed

Washington, Dec. 21.—Assurance was received by Representative Steenerson today that those interested will be heard by government engineers at Thief River Falls, Minn., at a date to be named later, in the matter of the request of citizens of Thief River Falls, Crookston, Fisher, East Grand Forks and other cities of Minnesota and Grand Forks, N. D., that steps be taken by the government to remove the log jam in the Red Lake River at or near the outlet of Red Lake, Minnesota.

The determination of the war department to order a hearing in this case followed the presentation of a petition signed by Senators Nelson, Clapp and McComb and Representatives Steenerson and Hanna. They pointed out, in substance, that the contention of the department that it could take no action looking to the removal of the jam in Red Lake river because it has no jurisdiction is not tenable and they insisted that an investigation would demonstrate that navigation as well as the water supplies of various towns is affected and that the situation is one to which the government may properly give its attention.

The indications are that an engineer will be sent to the scene of the trouble following a hearing of the case at Thief River Falls.—Pioneer Press.

At the yearly meeting of the Scandinavian Mission church Friday, Dec. 29, Rev. F. L Larson handed in his resignation, to take effect about March 1. He has accepted a call from the Zion church at Warren. This was his sixth call within the last few months. During the nearly two years that Mr. Larson has been in charge of this congregation its affairs have been highly prosperous. He is also well liked personally and will be greatly missed. However, we must congratulate him on his promotion.

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. A HEALTHY, HAPPY OLD AGE

May be promoted by those who gently cleanse the system, now and then, when in need of a laxative remedy, by taking a desertspoonful of the ever refreshing, wholesome and truly beneficial Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, which is the only family laxative generally approved by the most eminent physicians, because it acts in a natural, strengthening way and warms and tones up the internal organs without weakening them. It is equally beneficial for the very young and the middle aged, as it is always efficient and free from all harmful ingredients. To get its beneficial effects it is always necessary to buy the genuine, bearing the name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package.

It seems that to make both ends meet requires no end of money.

Her Resignation.

"Papa," she said, "I am very angry with Geraldine."

"What's Geraldine done?" asked her father.

"Why, I told her a secret last summer," said the little girl, indignantly, "and she has just told me she's going to tell it."

"That's very wrong of Geraldine. Has she any excuse?"

"Why, I told her it was wicked to tell a secret, and what do you think she said? She said: 'Oh, I know, but I've resigned from that secret!'"

"Papa," she concluded, earnestly, "you can't resign from a secret, can you?"

How He Found Out.

"Mr. Chairman," shouted one of the delegates to the convention. "I move that the nominating speeches be limited to one minute!"

"Second the motion!" yelled a dozen others.

A storm of protest arose, but the chairman put the motion.

It was lost by a vote of 47 to 45.

"I merely wished to find out, Mr. Chairman," explained the delegate who had made the motion, "how many ambitious orators there are in this convention. There are forty-seven."

20 Years' Slavery—How She Got Freedom.

A dyspepsia veteran who writes from one of England's charming rural homes to tell how she won victory in her 20 years' fight, naturally exults in her triumph over the tea and coffee habit:

"I feel it a duty to tell you," she says, "how much good Postum has done me. I am grateful, but also desire to let others who may be suffering as I did, know of the delightful method by which I was relieved.

"I had suffered for 20 years from dyspepsia, and the giddiness that usually accompanies that painful ailment, and which frequently prostrated me. I never drank much coffee, and cocoa and even milk did not agree with my impaired digestion, so I used tea exclusively, till about a year ago, when I found in a package of Grape-Nuts the little book, 'The Road to Wellville.'

"After a careful reading of the booklet I was curious to try Postum and sent for a package. I enjoyed it from the first, and at once gave up tea in its favor.

"I began to feel better very soon. My giddiness left me after the first few days' use of Postum, and my stomach became stronger so rapidly that it was not long till I was able (as I still am) to take milk and many other articles of food of which I was formerly compelled to deny myself. I have proved the truth of your statement that Postum 'makes good, red blood.'

"I have become very enthusiastic over the merits of my new table beverage, and during the past few months, have conducted a Postum propaganda among my neighbors which has brought benefit to many, and I shall continue to tell my friends of the 'better way' in which I rejoice." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

EXCELLENT TRAP FOR MINK

Illustration Shows One Also Found Efficacious for Raccoons, Opossums, Skunks and Muskrats.

(By J. W. GRIFFIN.)

A limb of sound wood, with a hollow two to three inches in diameter, with horseshoe nails driven as shown in the sketch, makes a good trap for minks, raccoons, opossums, skunks and muskrats.

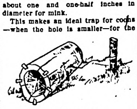
The bait should be about six inches beyond the point of the nails, therefore, if the hollow runs the full length of the piece, it should be plugged up at one end.

Drive a staple in the limb and wire it to a stake or small tree.

You may carry it with the animal alive to hole of water and drown it; to release the animal, draw the nails.

The nails should be very sharp and should form a circle with their points about one and one-half inches in diameter for mink.

This makes an ideal trap for coons—when the hole is smaller—for the coon thrusts its claws into small holes, and under chunks and rocks, in search of food.



Good Mink Trap.

Baits for fur animals: birds, mice, raw beef, pieces of rabbit or muskrat.

Leave everything around the trap in as natural position as possible.

Do not go near the trap when once set, any more than you can help, as the animal's sense of smell is very keen.

NEW SILO GAINS POPULARITY

Material From Which These Huge Tanks Are Built Is Hard Burned, Hollow Clay Building Blocks.

(By A. G. KITTEL.)

A new type of silo that is gaining favorable mention in many parts of the country where it has been tried out is the tile built style, of which the "Iowa" silo is a good representative. The material from which these silos are built is a hard burned, hollow clay building block, an the building as well as users are claiming a list of advantages for them over other types. One of the chief advantages, they say, is that it retains moisture better than most of the other kinds, and this is one of the fundamental principles in preserving silage. The silo wall must be as nonporous as it is possible to make it. Steel re-enforcement is laid in the mortar joints, thus making this plan of silo resist all outward pressure from the silage inside, and performing the same service that hoops do on stave silos. Being built of hollow blocks such a silo is particularly frost resistant, and this feature is one that is quite important where there is much freezing weather in winter. Doors are made of wood, and about all the care and repair a tile silo needs after being put up right is to replace the doors when these have rotted, and to give the inside wall a cement wash about once in four or five years.

THIS GATE WILL NOT SAG

Clevis and Swivel Bolt, Which Any Blacksmith Can Make, Will Be Sufficient to Take Up Slack.

The clevis and swivel bolt, any blacksmith can make. The wire is found on nearly all farms; No. 9 or 11 wire, galvanized, two double, is sufficient to hold up any gate found on the farm.

This Gate Won't Sag.

The swivel bolt which screws into the post should be placed far enough from the top hinge of the gate so as to be turned conveniently to take up the slack in the wire.

Winter Killing of Ants.

There is nothing quite as effective as the winter killing which consists in digging out the heart of the mounds in the winter and then pouring water into the excavations thus made so it soaks into the ground and freezes those that may still be living.

This method usually proves very satisfactory. Out of a large field where they were killed in this way during the last winter only a very few of the many ant hills had any ants remaining in them by spring and it is quite evident that if the work had been done more carefully every one of them would have been killed.

Manure Spreader.

Where there is much manure to be put on grass land, it will pay to have a spreader that will do the work so much more satisfactory. Two adjoining farmers can own one together and thus lessen the cost.

Time for Mulching.

The time to mulch anything for winter protection is after the ground has become chilled to a considerable depth. If it is frozen, so much the better.

Mind of Man Needed.

There is no breed of animals that will go on improving without the constant assistance and directing mind of man.

PROBLEM OF TOO MUCH WORK

It Must Be Solved, Especially When New Methods Are Advocated—Sow Part of Land to Some Grass.

(By W. C. PALMER, North Dakota.)

"Too much work" is a remark that meets one on nearly every farm. The writer has often heard the same remark at Farmers' Institutes. And especially when new methods are advocated. It is a real serious problem. However, it must be faced and solved, too. As long as the land was new, spreading over a large number of acres was in many cases profitable.

That time has now passed as the results in half farming now too often result in crop failure or so many wild oats and weeds in the grain that it makes a man ashamed to take them to market. Half farming with such results simply wastes work. Some better method must be worked out.

What is the man to do who has more land than he can work thoroughly? One solution is to sell a part of it. That, however, is not what most land holders want to do. Another solution is to sow a part of the land to alfalfa, clover, or some grass as timothy, bromus or slender wheat grass. The returns from the land in hay will be fully as good as from that in grain. And the work will be much less. At the same time the land will be cleared from weeds and plant diseases and the humus content will be increased.

The starting of the clover and alfalfa may need some special preparation, as manuring and sowing without a nurse crop, and introducing some of the germs that live on the nodules. Get a small piece started and that will help you get the whole farm in condition.

Leave it in grass three to five years. Every year sow more grass and also plow up some sod. This new land will be in fine condition to grow large crops.

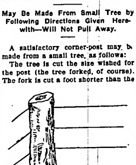
By this procedure the work on the farm will be reduced and the returns increased, and the land put in much better shape than is possible in continuous grain growing.

CORNER POST MADE STRONG

May Be Made From Small Tree by Following Directions Given Herewith—Will Not Pull Away.

A satisfactory corner-post may be made from a small tree, as follows:

The tree is cut the size wished for the post (the tree forked, of course). The fork is cut a foot shorter than the body. The post is put in the ground and the fork turned on the inside corner with a rock placed under the prong.



A Substantial Post.

It is impossible for a post made in this way to pull away.

Single Mud Hole Mars.

The real efficiency of any road is measured by its worst mud hole. One may have the best kind of survice and the best kind of road bed but no matter how good it may be the majority of the distance, a single mud hole will mar all of the good work on both sides of it.

Many Kinds of Lime.

There are ten or more kinds of lime that can be used for agricultural purposes. Out of these there are really but three or four that can be called original materials, the others being simpler forms of lime under a different method of treatment.

Fresh Air Is Necessary.

Storm windows and storm doors are matters of economy and will save fuel, but do not shut out all fresh air. If you do doctor's bills make storm windows pretty expensive. Good ventilation is as necessary for man as is is for animals.

Soil-Mulch Best.

Making a soil-mulch would have been better than praying for rain.

GARDEN and FARM NOTES

There is no food value lost by ensiloing corn.

A little paint goes a long ways toward making a home out of a group of buildings.

If your cabbages do not seem to be keeping well, sprinkle over them a supply of water.

The corn shock with its butts frozen into the ground sharpens one's language wonderfully.

Next spring select high-grade seed if you did not have large, solid heads of cabbage this year.

Work that is systematized whether it is on the farm or in the office always proves the most profitable.

Lime, ashes, old manures, leaves, wastes from the kitchen, all go to make an excellent compost heap.

The man who is opening his first silo this year is going to experience a lot of satisfaction in using that feed.

If you have any vegetables that you will not use for family supply, now is the time to get in touch with buyers.

Celery is sturdy. It can winter some heavy frosts, but it should always be protected enough to keep it from freezing.

Are you fond of rhubarb pie? If so why not see to it next year that you have fresh rhubarb during the winter instead of the canned vegetables [illegible]

HORN DINNER CALL

London's Oldest Custom Relic of Crusaders.

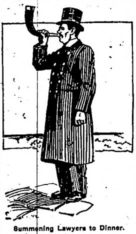
Benchers, Barristers and Students Summoned by Ancient Method—Recalls Days When Clocks and Watches Were Unknown.

London.—Nowhere do old customs cling more firmly than in the ancient seat of legal learning, the Middle Temple, London, which still jealously guards the traditions it has inherited.

To the present-day benchers, barristers and students are summoned to dinner each evening during term time by the blowing of a horn—a custom which has survived on this spot since the romantic days of the crusaders. Every evening at 5:30 during the three weeks of the legal terms, a warder, in gold-braided uniform, procures the ox horn from the strong room of the Middle Temple, and proceeding to the famous fountain in Fountain court, summons the members to dinner by blowing a blast on this primitive instrument.

He then visits each court in turn, according to ancient custom, and many a bencher throws up his window to listen to the sound of the winding horn, which has been heard continuously in these precincts since the time when the Knights Templar established themselves there in 1184.

Its use recalls the days when clocks and watches were unknown, and the voice of the watchman, calling out the time, was a familiar sound through the night watches. Sun dials were then the only guides the people possessed as to the flight of time, and of these more than one still survives, with its quaint motto, on the walls of the Temple buildings. It is to the sworn enemies of the Knights Templar, the Saracens, oddly enough, that as we do, indeed, the greater part of our mathematical knowledge as well.



Summoning Lawyers to Dinner.

When the Templars founded their new monastery between Whitefriars and Essex house in the Strand, the latter was, as its name implies, merely a beach beside the silver Thames, and all around was open country, the site of the present law courts being a large field which was used as a tilting ground by the knights. In later days, when the men of law had taken over the settlement of the Knights Templar, the students, who were resident in the Temple, were dependent on its kitchen for their daily meals. After a hurried breakfast in the buttery at eight o'clock they would take their law books, and wander off along the Strand, where, in summer time, they lay under the trees and bushes studying law.

Half an hour before dinner the panyer man, who drew the daily supply of bread every morning from Westminster, used to take a large ox horn and walk along the river's side, blowing the horn as a signal to the student's to return to the temple for dinner.

The panyer man, who was formerly charged with the duty of winding the horn, had also to provide the hall with mustard, pepper and vinegar, his annual wages in 1638 amounting to $26. Other useful members of the staff were the chief wash pot and the under wash pot, the chief turn broach, the steward's servant and under turn spit; the last named receiving $6 a year.

The horn now in use in the Middle Temple possesses no antiquarian interest in itself, dating back only some ten years. It was brought over from the Argentine by one of the members shortly before it was found necessary to discontinue the use of the old one. "Ye horn of ye Middle Temple" had become so decrepit, through age and constant use, that the weird and funny sounds it emitted were calculated to bring it into ridicule. It had become a mass of silver bands, which had been added from time to time to keep it together, and close up the cracks in its sides. But in spite of these bands the air still escaped so freely that the warder who blew it had to place a wet handkerchief over the horn every time he used it.

So the ancient horn, which had sounded the welcome summons to dinner in term for generations, was placed on the retired list and now it only sees the light on grand nights in hall, when it is placed on the table with the rest of the Middle Temple's proud display of silver plate.

Honesty Not a Chattel.

Chicago.—"A person who finds a valuable that belongs to another has no right to accept pay for his honesty. Honesty is not a chattel." So spoke H. F. Bradley, station passenger agent of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, when he declined to accept a $50 reward from R. Hall McCormick when he returned a valuable diamond pin which dropped from Mrs. McCormick's corsage when entering a taxicab at the Union station a few days ago. After Mrs. McCormick advertised her loss Mr. Bradley telephoned her he had found the valuable piece of jewel-

BEST TRICK NOT IN THE AIR

Aviator Was Clever at His Work, but Shone Best in Another Line of Endeavor.

Henry M. Neely, the aviator poet of Philadelphia, said at a recent banquet at the Bellevue-Stratford:

"Yes, it is true that it takes a lot of money to become an airman. You can't get an aeroplane and you can't learn to fly without plenty of cash."

Mr. Neely smiled.

"I was watching a brother airman making a volplane the other day when I heard a young lady say:

"'He can do a lot of tricks, can't he?'

"'Yes, you bet he can,' her companion agreed.

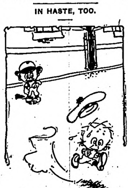
"'What is his best trick?' she continued.

"'His best trick, far and away,' was the reply, 'is buying a biplane on credit. He's done it twice now, and I shouldn't be surprised to see him pull it off a third time before he breaks his neck.'"

ALMOST FRANTIC WITH ITCHING ECZEMA

"Eight years ago I got eczema all over my hands. My fingers fairly bled and it itched until it almost drove me frantic. The eruption began with itching under the skin. It spread fast from between the fingers around the nails and all over the whole hands. I got a pair of rubber gloves in order to wash dishes. Then it spread all over the left side of my chest. A fine doctor treated the trouble two weeks, but did me no good. I cried night and day. Then I decided to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment but without much hope as I had gone so long. There was a marked change the second day, and so on until I was entirely cured. The Cuticura Soap we have always kept in our home, and we decided after that lesson that it is a cheap soap in price and the very best in quality. My husband will use no other soap in his shaving mug." (Signed) Mrs. G. A. Selby, Redonda Beach, Cal., Jan. 15, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 24 K, Boston.

IN HASTE, TOO.



"I t'ought yous said yous kin lick me wid yer hands tied behind yer back?"

"I—I—can! I'm j—just goin' now to get a string to tie 'em!"

The Backteriologist.

A Richmond darky chanced to meet on the street a friend who complained of much "mis'ry." Indeed, the afflicted one was in despair, so "tuckered out" was he.

"Wot seems to be de matter?" asked the first negro.

"Jim," said the other with a moan and a gesture indicating the portion of his anatomy that was giving him so much trouble, "I'se got sech awful pains in mah back heah!"

Jim assumed an air of great solemnity and wisdom. "In dat case," said he, "dere's only one thing fo' you to do. Jes' yo' put yo'self in de hands o' dat Doctah Blank. I hears dat he's de finest backteriologist in de whole souf."

A Little Off.

Senator Penrose was talking in Washington about the dreadful hunting accidents of last month. "When buck fever seizes a man," he said, "he goes as far off his aim as the old lady went in her definition of the word 'bellicose.' She was talking with a friend about a bishop.

"'He's a fine man,' said the friend, a fine, handsome man. His only trouble is that he's a little bellicose.'

"'Bellicose?' said the old lady with a surprised frown, 'He must have changed, then. The last time I saw him he was tall and rather slender.'"

Gentle Correction Needed.

Mr. Littlerest—Doctor, what did you tell me was your special treatment for sleeplessness?

Medico—We strike at the cause or the origin of the trouble.

Mr. Littlerest—You don't say so! Well, you will find the baby in the other room. Only, don't strike at him too hard.

Stamp Needed in That Case.

"She stamped her foot."

"That was all right, if her foot was going by mail."

Knees Became Stiff

Five Years of Severe Rheumatism

The cure of Henry J. Goldstein, 14 Barton Street, Boston, Mass., is another victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. This great medicine has succeeded in many cases where others have utterly failed. Mr. Goldstein says: "I suffered from rheumatism five years, it kept me from business and caused excruciating pain. My knees would become as stiff as steel. I tried many medicines without relief, then took Hood's Sarsaparilla, soon felt much better, and now consider myself entirely cured. I recommend Hood's."

Get it today in usual liquid form or chocolated tablets called Sarsatabs.

Discouraged

The expression occurs so many times in letters from sick women, "I was completely discouraged." And there is always good reason for the discouragement. Years of pain and suffering. Doctor after doctor tried in vain. Medicines doing no lasting good. It is no wonder that the woman feels discouraged.

Thousands of these weak and sick women have found health and courage regained as the result of the use of

THE WEAK POINT.

Squilbob—Don't know how to court the girl? Well, my boy, you just tell her that you know she despises "jollying" and is the one woman in the world who can't be flattered.

Squilligan—Well?

"That sort of guff will flatter her!"

Expensive Possession.

A small applicant for Christmas cheer was being interviewed by the charity worker.

"What is your father?" asked the latter.

"'E's me father."

"Yes, but what is he?"

"Oh! 'E's me stepfather."

"Yes, yes, but what does he do? Does he sweep chimneys or drive 'busses, or what?"

"O-o-w!" exclaims the small applicant, with dawning light of comprehension. "No, 'e ain't done nothin' since we've 'ad 'im."—London Answers.

Mary's Little Postscript.

Mistress—Mary, wasn't that gentleman asking for me?

The New Maid—No, mum, he described the lady he wanted to see as being about 40, and I told him it couldn't be you.

Mistress—Quite right, my dear. And you shall have an extra afternoon off tomorrow.

The New Maid—Yes, mum! Thankee, mum! Yes, mum! I told him it couldn't be you, as you was about 50.

Mistress—And while you're taking your afternoon off you'd better look out for a new place!

Those Dear Girls.

Maud—I am told I got my good looks from my mother.

Ethel—I wouldn't repeat that if I were you.

Maud—Why not?

Ethel—People will think your mother was stingy.

Jones Admitted It.

Jones and Brown argued as they always did when they had time enough. They had dined together, and as Jones lived at a distance and it was very late Brown offered to put him up for the night.

On the way home they fell to discussing the strategy of the Civil war as indicated by the campaigns of Lee and Grant. The topic was elastic enough to keep them going for half an hour, and reached its height as they neared the Brown house.

Then Brown lost his temper. "Jones," said he, "if you don't admit that Grant was a greater general than Lee, you can't sleep here."

It was then two o'clock in the morning, and Jones was eight miles from home.—Chicago Post.

LORIMER DENIES

SAYS HE NEVER PAID A CENT TO ANYONE FOR HIS ELECTION.

HINES ON STAND AGAIN

Chairman Stanley of Steel Committee Tired of Evasions of the Trust Officials.—Other Congressional News.

Washington, D. C.—Senator William Lorimer began testifying in his own defense. It was the Illinois senator's first appearance in the witness chair since the senate ordered an investigation of his election and the event attracted to the committee room a large audience composed chiefly of women, which waited through an uninteresting day for a sensation that failed to develop.

Senator Lorimer was not called until Edward Hines, the Chicago lumberman, and H. A. J. Upham, a Milwaukee lawyer and partner of Senator Stephenson in several lumber companies, had occupied the better part of the day. Upham was examined at length by William J. Hynes, who appeared as counsel for Hines. Edgar H. Farrar of New Orleans, counsel for the Weyerhaeuser lumber interests, also sat at the lawyers' table. Judge Elbridge Hanecy, Lorimer's counsel, remained in the background until the examination of Upham ended.

The first question Judge Hanecy put to Senator Lorimer after the witness had taken the stand, was a blunt and leading one.

"Did you ever pay anything of value to anybody for your election?" he demanded.

"I never did," replied Senator Lorimer.

And in a long review of political conditions in Illinois he repeatedly denied all impromtu acts in connection with his own election.

Stanley Is Impatient.

Washington, Jan. 10.—Threats of Chairman Stanley of the steel trust investigation committee to issue subpoenas at once for everything he wanted from the United States Steel corporation and personalities in debate for his fight for $9,000 additional appropriation for the inquiry, gave the house an exciting half hour. The house finally voted the appropriation to supplement the original $25,000.

Mr. Stanley declared he had reached the end of courteous treatment of the steel trust officers. Representative Levy of New York, a Democrat, who said he opposed the inquiry as an interference with business stability, was assured by Mr. Stanley that "he need not lose any sleep even though Mr. Levy had J. P. Morgan as one of his constituents."

Scores Democratic Party.

In an attack upon the Democratic party for its record in the extra session of congress last summer, Representative Hill of Connecticut, a Republican member of the ways and means committee, declared in the house that the extra session had demonstrated the inability of the Democrats to do constructive legislative work.

Mr. Hill especially attacked the Democratic tariff record. He insisted that the free wool advocates, though greater in the majority when the tariff session began, had surrendered to those who favored a duty on wool, because the wool duty force was strong enough to combine with the Republicans and secure a majority of the house.

The final report of the national monetary commission formally was presented in both houses of congress and referred to committees. Senator Penrose, chairman of the finance committee, to which the senate referred it, stated later that there might be hearings on the monetary bill and that the measure may be reported to the senate at this session of congress.

Washington, D. C.—Legislative machinery to provide for operation of the Panama canal and control of the canal zone will be started when the house committee on interstate commerce will hold its first meeting to frame a program for hearings and preliminary work as a basis of the bill which will be reported out to the house later in the session.

Chairman Adamson and his committee have returned from a trip to Panama where they conferred with Chief Engineer Goethals and other officials who are working to put the great isthmian ditch into active operation by Jan. 1, 1915, and perhaps, as they say, a year earlier. Mr. Adamson has voiced the opinion that the progress and quality of the work done there is entirely satisfactory.

Appropriation Bills Ready.

Two appropriation bills are about ready to emerge from the committee of the house. The District of Columbia bill, which last year carried $12,000,000, will be completed and reported to the house early this week, and it will be followed quickly by the pension appropriation bill which runs usually close to $150,000,000.

The arbitration treaties with Great Britain and France probably will be called up in open session of the senate within a fortnight.

Lorimer Testifies.

Senator Lorimer will testify under oath for the first time since the senate ordered an investigation of his election. If necessary, his counsel intends to let the senator tell his story in his own way. He may take two days to do so. Then the cross-examination will begin. Following his testimony, the committee is expected to begin work on its report to the senate where the final fight will come.

Bryan Is Turned Down.

Future caucuses of the Democrats of the house of representatives will be conducted under new rules which, while they do not answer the demand of William Jennings Bryan for an open caucus, satisfy the Democratic leaders in the house. The Democrats met in secret session for three hours. After protracted debate, a resolution proposed by Representative S. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania, a compromise on the Bryan plan was adopted by a vote of 103 to 27. The 27 who voted against it favored opening the caucus to the press.

The new rules provide that a record vote be taken on demand of one-fifth of those present and that a journal be kept for publication. Debates and other incidents to the meetings will not be made public.

The rules were proposed by a committee appointed several months ago. Speaker Clark, one of the committee, owing to his illness was not present at the caucus. Mr. Underwood, floor leader, answering to call and engineered the movement by which the Bryan faction were defeated. The feud between Mr. Bryan and Mr. Underwood has lasted for many months and the defeat of the Bryan open caucus movement at this time is taken as another victory for the Alabama leader.

Washington, D. C. — There are indications that the senate hopper will be full of pension bills of various kinds. The house and senate are divided as to the sweeping general increase bills that have been considered in both houses.

Senator Nelson has presented a bill intended to deal more liberally with soldiers who were maimed in war.

All hope of agreement between conferees of the two houses of congress on the resolution providing for election of United States senators by direct vote of the people has vanished.

The difference between the house and the senate conferees is based on a question of congressional supervision. As passed by the house the resolution placed the control of senatorial elections in the hands of the state legislatures. The senate amended the resolution, leaving the control in the hands of congress. This question has been debated by the conferees since the extra session and after many meetings representatives on each side have been unable to offer concessions which would be acceptable.

Senator Newlands of Nevada precipitated a lively debate when he attempted to force upon the senate his resolution providing for a legislative program. He sought ineffectually to have his resolution made the unfinished business with the result that the ensuing discussion took a wide range; entering the complicated field of the tariff. The report of the tariff board and the board itself also figured.

U. S. TROOPS TO CHINA

Washington, D. C.—After a lapse of more than ten years, American troops are again to invade China. They are to aid in keeping open the railroad from Pekin to the sea. $3.50 Recipe Free, For Weak Kidneys.

Relieves Urinary and Kidney Troubles, Backache, Straining, Swelling, Etc.

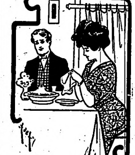
Stops Pain in the Bladder, Kidneys and Back.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say good-bye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining, or too frequent passage of urine; the forehead and the back-of-the-head aches; the stitches and pains in the back; the growing muscle weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; swollen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps; unnatural short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency?

I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend on, and if you want to make a quick recovery, you ought to write and get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $3.50 just for writing this prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, K-2074 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send it by return mail in a plain envelope. As you will see when you get it, this recipe contains only pure, harmless remedies, but it has great healing and pain-conquering power.

It will quickly show its power once you use it, so I think you had better see what it is without delay. I will send you a copy free—you can use it and cure yourself at home.

A HOT ONE.



Mrs. Justwed—I made this pudding myself. Shall I put the sauce on it for you?

Mr. Justwed—Yes; and then telephone for the doctor.

PITIFUL SIGHT WITH ECZEMA

"A few days after birth we noticed an inflamed spot on our baby's hip which soon began spreading until baby was completely covered even in his eyes, ears and scalp. For eight weeks he was bandaged from head to foot. He could not have a stitch of clothing on. Our regular physician pronounced it chronic eczema. He is a very able physician and ranks with the best in this locality, nevertheless, the disease began spreading until baby was completely covered. He was losing flesh so rapidly that we became alarmed and decided to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

"Not until I commenced using Cuticura Soap and Ointment could we tell what he looked like, as we dared not wash him, and I had been putting one application after another on him. On removing the scale from his head the hair came off, and left him entirely bald, but since we have been using Cuticura Soap and Ointment he has as much hair as ever. Four weeks after we began to use the Cuticura Soap and Ointment he was entirely cured. I don't believe anyone could have eczema worse than our baby.

"Before we used the Cuticura Remedies we could hardly look at him, he was such a pitiful sight. He would fuss until I would treat him, they semed to relieve him so much. Cuticura Soap and Ointment stand by themselves and the result they quickly and surely bring is their own recommendation." (Signed) Mrs. T. B. Rosser, Mill Hall, Pa., Feb. 20, 1911.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 29 K, Boston.

New to It.

They walked up to the desk of the Getty House in Yonkers, both in suspiciously new clothes. He took a pen from the hand of Clerk Maling with a careless, indifferent air and signed with a flourish. It was just his name. Maling looked at him in surprise and waited. Finally he said:

"Aren't you going to register her, too?"

The man answered, "Of course," and with another flourish he added, "and wife."

The bride looked at him reproachfully, murmuring, "What did you suppose I hit you in the ribs for?"

Wall street is said to be alarmed at the prospect of the Lindergh probe of the "money trust." No doubt the investigation may disturb business conditions—as they exist in Wall street.

Notices are posted stating Francis R. Shunk, United States engineer will hold public hearings in regard to the obstruction at Red Lake river by big jams, as follows: At Thief River Falls Jan. 15, at Crookston Jan. 17; at Grand Forks Jan. 18. The season is now so far advanced that probably by the time sufficient red tape has been unwound for the government officials to take action, spring will be ready to move the logs for their own purposes. However, if anything to the point should come of these hearings it will be quite a "feather in the cap" of W. G. Hunt of the Sunbeam, who has been the most persistent agitator in the matter.

THE MAGIC OF MUSIC

Power of the Melody of the Voice Over Man and Beast.

SINGERS WHO SAVED LIVES.

The Way Lablache, the Basso, Conquered a Bear and a Burglar—Grisi's Control of a Madman With a Razor. A Musical Wife's Presence of Mind.

That music really has charms to soothe the savage beast is proved by the many times that the power of song has been the means of saving life. On one occasion when Luigi Lablache, the great opera basso, was aimlessly strolling through a French fair he was surprised by a sudden stampede of the sightseers, who rushed by him in a great panic, crying that one of the great bears had escaped from the menagerie. So surprised that he scarcely realized his danger, the singer stood his ground and almost immediately found himself face to face with the maddened beast, which halted for a moment before making its final rush. In that moment Lablache began to sing one of his favorite airs in a voice so deep and terrifying that the bear slunk away, thoroughly cowed.

It was this same singer who, when confined to his bed by a broken leg, was surprised by his landlady, who burst into his room, crying that a robber was in the house and was about to kill her husband unless he revealed the hiding place of their money and plate. Lablache, unable because of his injury to give other assistance, began to sing an aria in such thunderous tones as to terrify the robber, who fled.

Mme. Giulia Grisi was once traveling from the south of France to Paris in company with several companions of her own sex, when their privacy was intruded upon by a man who entered their apartment at a wayside station. Before long he began to act so oddly as to make the women apprehensive and at last terrified them by drawing a razor, which he began to flourish, at the same time demanding that he be permitted to sever their heads. The women realized that they had a madman in the carriage with them and also that they were without protection until the next stop of the train. In consequence they became hysterical—all save Grisi, who with great coolness suddenly began to sing in a soft voice that gradually assumed volume as she gained the attention of the man, whose threatening attitude gave way to rapt attention as the song advanced. Song after song did Grisi sing, and not another movement did the man make until the next station was reached, when the alarm was given and he was taken into custody. It transpired afterward that he had escaped from a lunatic asylum.

Jennie Lind once saved not only her own, but hundreds of other lives by her gift of song. A fire broke out back of the stage in a small theater in her native land where she was singing. The audience became alarmed, and there might have been a panic had not Jennie Lind stepped coolly out upon the stage and begun singing a favorite folk song. Reassured and entranced, the audience reseated themselves, and the fire was soon extinguished.

Another well known opera star while traveling with some friends in Mexico was surprised by a company of half breed bandits, at whose approach the escort fled, leaving their charges to the mercy of the robbers. The attitude of the latter on finding that their captives had little money and valuables was menacing in the extreme, and the travelers all expected to be murdered that night. When the robbers were eating their supper the star began to sing, and his captors were so delighted that they demanded more. For a time he gratified them, but at last suggested that he should sing for the freedom of himself and his friends. To this the bandits, cheered by wine and song, agreed, and after having sung for an hour he and his companion were free.

Kneissel, the notorious Bavarian brigand, once planned to rob a house in the neighborhood of Munich and, if necessary to secure the money and plate he knew was in the house, murder the inmates, a young married woman and her two female servants. His approach was heard by the wife, who, instead of losing her head, sat down to her piano and began to sing. The brigand listened for awhile and was on the point of forcing an entrance into the room when the song ceased and a man's voice struck up a rollicking air, to be followed in a few moments by a third man's voice singing a familiar chorus. Kneissel paused. The husband evidently had returned unexpectedly and had brought with him a friend. He was not prepared to attack the house against two men, so he beat a hasty retreat, little thinking that the voice he had heard proceeded from the lips of the young wife, a fine singer, who was an adept at mimicry.

Some years ago a released convict went to the house of the Indiana judge who had sentenced him to prison with the intention of shooting him. As he crept nearer to the window beside which the judge was sitting and raised

Equalized.

The larynx of man is twice the size on an average of the same organ in woman, although this disproportion is equalized by the fact that woman uses her larynx a little more than twice as much as man.

Of course they replied in the affirmative.

No Satisfaction.

"I am afraid I will have to give up smoking."

"The doctor order it?"

"No; my wife is beginning to like the odor of a good cigar."

Perpetual.

"You always appear to be worried about your housekeeping," remarked the sympathetic friend.

"But really," replied the housekeeper, "there are only two occasions when I am really worried. One is when I haven't a servant and the other is when I have."

Rearranging the Basis.

"You are charging me $7 a week for board and lodging, Mrs. Irons," said the gray haired person of the name of Harris. "May I ask how you would itemize it? What part of it is for board?"

"Five dollars," replied the landlady.

"And $2 for my room?"

"Yes."

"Well, if you don't mind, Mrs. Irons," he said, proceeding to square up for another week, "we'll consider hereafter that I'm paying you $5 for lodging and $2 for board. It will seem more as if I were getting the worth of my money."—Chicago Tribune.

The Fortune Tellers.

Lady—Poor man! So you are just out of jail? Tramp—Yes, mum. I was a victim of fortune tellers ten years ago. Lady—Indeed? Tramp—Yes, mum. The district attorney told me where I'd ever been and what I'd ever done during my whole life, and the judge predicted where I would be for the next ten years.—Puck.

A Farewell Social Gathering

About thirty-five friends of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Soderberg gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. The evening was spent in numerous contests in which Mrs. Swenson received the head prize, and Mr. Anton Aubol the "booby" prize. Miss Josie Gigstad favored the company with several musical selections. A delicious lunch was served after which the company broke up, all declaring it a most enjoyable evening.

American Buyer In London.

"My American accent came near to taxing me just $430 on my last trip to London," remarked a clubman. "When I tried to buy a certain bulldog pup there the kennel man priced it at $500, as he had me sized up as an American and, in his regard, an easy mark. I made a deal with a cabby at the hotel stand, who went around and bought the same pup for me at $60, a very fair price, as the dog will never be a show winner. I gave a $10 tip to the cabman, so I made $430 by employing an agent who called his hansom an 'ansom and his horse an 'orse."—New York Sun.

Jackdaw and Magpie.

In England the daw is hardly ever mentioned but as Jack, yet daw and not jackdaw is the proper name of the species. It is suggested that the pie owes the "mag" to some corruption of Margaret or Meg. To mag is to chatter, but whether the verb was derived from the name or the name from the verb is a question. It is more than probable that the Jim Crow of America (the old name for a negro boy) was brought across from England in the days when a crow was Jim, as a swallow was Dick.—London Standard.

"No; he's not very sick, but he has wads of money."—Pittsburg Post.

To Fit the Occasion.

Said the barber, baldheaded and hoary,
And the man with thin locks said, "All right, go ahead.
But make it a hair raising story."

The seventy-seventh year of its existence finds the Toledo Blade more popular than at any period during its long and successful career. It is now read each week by more than a million people. The Blade's field is national and goes into every state and territory in the United States, thereby giving it an unquestionable right of claiming to be the greatest national weekly newspaper in America.

The Weekly Blade is distinctly a family newspaper. The one object of its publishers has always been to make it fit for the American home, for the fireside, and of interest to every member of the family. To fulfill this purpose it is kept clean and wholesome. The news of the world is handled in a comprehensive manner, and the various departments of The Blade are edited with painstaking care. The Household page is a delight to the women and children; current affairs are treated editorially without prejudice; the serial stories are selected with the idea of pleasing the greatest number of fiction lovers; the Question Bureau is a scrap-book of information; the Farmstead columns are conducted with the purpose of giving the patrons a medium for the exchange of ideas and information on farm topics. LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now confirm after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

DAKOTA BUSINESS COLLEGE

Every person needs a business education and it costs no more to get it at this great Business and Shorthand Training School, under exact office conditions, than at one of the small questionable ones. The results are, however, very different. 350 D. B. C. pupils went to excellent positions in banks and offices this year—over 400 will do so next year. All Fargo banks and 685 others employ D. B. C. pupils as cashiers, tellers or bookkeepers. No other school offers such endorsement.

Our $50 course prepares for business life, or for position as clerk or bookkeeper. Our new $85 course in Commerce and Banking (endorsed by Bankers' Association) supplies cashiers and tellers for the Northwestern banks, and bookkeepers and credit men for the larger concerns. The shorthand course (under an expert reporter) trains court reporters and high grade stenographers. The stenographers for the U. S. District Court, N. D. Supreme Court, 3d Judicial District and the Cass Co. Court are D. B. C. pupils. Can other schools offer this proof of superior training? [illegible]

The D. B. C. has built a magnificent new building (35,000 square feet of space) is seated with roll top desks, has 60 typewriters, adding machines, billers, money changers, etc. Our pupils deal with each other and with magnificently equipped offices, using aluminum money. Our courses are fascinating and practical. The Northwest has "No other school like the D. B. C." Next term begins soon. BLADDER TROUBLE CAUSES TERRIBLE PAINS.

After taking a trial bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root which you forwarded to me, I purchased some from a local drug store and after using three dollar bottles I can truthfully say that I was cured of all the terrible pains I had in my back, side and head, caused by bladder trouble. I had the worst kind of kidney trouble and suffered so that I could not even stay in bed with the pain. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root made me feel just like a new person and I am glad to recommend it to anyone suffering as I did.

Very truly yours,
MISS MARY ARDNER,

The Better Part.

A certain woman went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and it chanced that her gown was not fully buttoned up in the back. Now, a priest and a Levite, meeting the woman and perceiving her plight, passed by on the other side, without saying a word. But a certain Samaritan, journeyed that way, was touched with compassion.

"Madam," quoth he, "your ha—hub—"

"Sir?" the woman thereupon exclaimed and gave him a look which froze him on the spot.

No Claim for Reciprocation.

Jack Reeves tells this on Felix McCarthy, who used to drive a night hack before he retired to the presidency of a refectory, where the goods are sold from the wood:

"I didn't see you at Murphy's funeral," said an acquaintance to McCarthy. "What's the reason you didn't go?"

"Why should I?" returned McCarthy, somewhat touchily. "Sure, Murphy niver attended my funeral."—New York Telegraph.

Reconnoitered.

Mamma was dressing when seven-year-old Freddy burst into the room with a loud "Boo!"

"Why, Freddy, dear," expostulated she, "you mustn't open my door without knocking. I mightn't have been dressed at all."

Taylor, president; Fred Kron, vice president, and C. H. Saulpaugh, C. E. Wise, M. D. Fritz, John H. Hohmann and John G. Gerlich, managers. The association is in good financial circumstances.

Was Testing the Baby.

Little Phil Warriner, of Addison road, was detected in the act of pulling out the baby's hair despite her frantic protest.

"I just wanted to see," he said in explanation, "whether she was cold storage baby. Teacher told us that's the way you can tell a chicken. If the feathers come out easily the chicken has been in cold storage."

Needless to say, Phil is doing penance.—New York Times.

IN MATCHTOWN.

Fortunately no Faith Was Required, For She Had None.

"I had no faith whatever, but on the advice of a hale, hearty old gentleman who spoke from experience, I began to use Grape-Nuts about 2 years ago," writes an Ohio woman, who says she is 40, is known to be fair, and admits that she is growing plump on the new diet.

"I shall not try to tell you how I suffered for years from a deranged stomach that rejected almost all sorts of food, and digested what little was forced upon it only at the cost of great distress and pain.

"I was treated by many different doctors and they gave me many different medicines, and I even spent several years in exile from my home, thinking change of scene might do me good. You may judge of the gravity of my condition when I tell you I was sometimes compelled to use morphine for weeks at a time.

"For two years I have eaten Grape-Nuts food at least twice a day and I can now say that I have perfect health. I have taken no medicine in that time—Grape-Nuts has done it all. I can eat absolutely anything I wish, without stomach distress.

"I am a business woman and can walk my 2 or 3 miles a day and feel better for doing so. I have to use brains in my work, and it is remarkable how quick, alert and tireless my mental powers have become." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

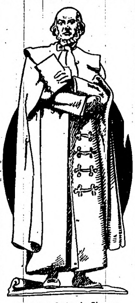
"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

HONOR GLADSTONE BIRTHDAY

Natal Day of England's "Grand Old Man" Always Appropriately Observed in Great Britain.

Glasgow.—The anniversary of the birth of William Ewart Gladstone, England's "Grand Old Man," is the occasion of celebrations throughout Great Britain to the memory of the statesman who was five times prime minister. He was born on December 29, 1809, and died in 1898, with mental powers still unimpaired, and fighting to the last for the cause of liberty. In the last few years of his life his speeches and letters drew serious and forceful attention to the horrors in Armenia and did much to increase English opposition to the bloodthirsty rule of the sultan.



Gladstone Statue in Glasgow.

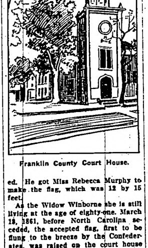
The funeral progress from Hawarden castle, his home in Cheshire, to London was most impressive, every mile of the route being lined by sorrowing crowds. Many statues and memorials scattered throughout the land bear eloquent testimony to the place he held in the affections of the people. One of the finest monuments to his memory is the wonderful statue by Thorneycroft which stands in George square, Glasgow.

AN HISTORIC SOUTHERN SPOT

Louisburg, in the State of North Carolina, Is Also a Center of Sentimental Interest.

Louisburg, N. C.—Considerable sentiment and historic interest are connected with this town, which is the county seat of Franklin county. It is the birthplace of the Stars and Bars and it is there the Methodists held their first conference in America, a century and a quarter ago.

A picture of the court house at Louisburg is presented herewith. It was upon this court house green that the first Confederate flag was unfurled. A request had been sent out from Montgomery, Ala., by some one in authority, urging that models of the flag be sent in. O. R. Smith of Louisburg, now living, though eighty-five, sent the model which was adopted. He got Miss Rebecca Murphy to make the flag, which was 12 by 15 feet.



Franklin County Court House.

As the Widow Winborne she is still living at the age of eighty-one. March 18, 1861, before North Carolina seceded, the accepted flag, first to be flung to the breeze by the Confederates, was raised on the court house green as stated.

ARE LEARNING HOW TO COOK

Kansas Brides-to-Be Preparing to Fight the Divorce Evil With the Frying Pan.

Topeka, Kan.—One thousand young women in Kansas, who will become brides during the coming spring and summer, are preparing to make better wives and mothers, better housekeepers, more helpful helpmeets than their mothers were when they were led to the altar. They are spending the winter months in state colleges where they will be taught how to be good home makers as well as good cooks, good seamstresses and good housewives.

Governor Stubbs is the prime mover in the installation of these home courses. In a speech at the state school for manual training teachers he asserted that the majority of divorces in Kansas were caused by poor home surroundings. He urged the girls to become better cooks and better home-makers, as he felt sure that home improvement would reduce the divorce evil.

The university and agricultural college boards saw the wisdom of the remarks and last winter made the plans for the establishment of the schools especially for brides-to-be.

HAVE YOU SUSPECTED YOUR KIDNEYS?

There are two ways to tell whether you have weak kidneys.

The first is through the pains in the back and other outward signs. The second is by examination of the kidney secretions.

That is why physicians make such a careful examination when you apply for insurance, and if there is any sign of kidney trouble you are surely rejected.

Kidney disease is so dangerous that it is a bad mistake to overlook or neglect it, and if pain in the back, recurring headaches, or a fretful, nervous, tired condition makes you suspect some kidney trouble, take the trouble to watch the kidney secretions. Look for any of the following signs:

More or less than three and one half pints passed daily.

Too dark or too pale a color.

Passages too frequent, profuse, or much reduced, or scalding and painful.

Sandy, gritty or cloudy settlings.

Fat or oily-looking layer which gathers on the surface when allowed to stand, or a jelly-like thickening.

Staining of the linen or bad odor.

Temporary changes may occur for a time from things eaten, but if the changed appearance continues, your kidneys are out of order and need help. Neglect may prove serious.

Doan's Kidney Pills correct and regulate the kidney secretions, stimulate, and heal sick kidneys, and thereby drive away backache, rheumatic pain, nervousness, dizziness, bloating and other results of kidney disease.

There are Two Ways to Find Out Whether the Kidneys are Sick or Weak

SAVED AT THE CRISIS.

Cured After Doctors Gave Up Hope.

H. R. Hatch, 2576 Cedar Street, Everett, Washington, says: "I doubt if anyone ever suffered more than I did from kidney trouble. I endured the greatest agony anyone can imagine. My back so bad I could hardly walk. The least jar was or sudden misstep caused sharp twinges through my loins that fairly made me groan. I dreaded to stoop for I knew what I had to suffer when I straightened. At times the kidney secretions passed much too freely, while again there was a marked retention. The secretions were almost like blood, offensive in odor and terribly painful in passage. I treated with several physicians and consulted two specialists in Seattle and one in Tacoma. They all told me I had Bright's disease and could expect to live only a short time. Finally I began using Doan's Kidney Pills on a friend's advice, and to my surprise, I received prompt relief. I continued and was completely cured. Though 75 years of age, I am as supple and active as any man in the country."

He Knew the Worm.

A country girl was home from college for the Christmas holidays and the old folks were having a reception in her honor. During the event she brought out some of her new gowns to show the guests. Picking up a beautiful silk creation, she held it up before the admiring crowd.

"Isn't it perfectly gorgeous!" she exclaimed. "Just think, it came from a poor little insignificant worm!"

Her hard-working father looked a moment, then turned and said: "Yes, darn it, an' I'm that worm!"—Ladies' Home Journal.

THE SAFE LAXATIVE FOR ELDERLY PEOPLE

Most elderly people are more or less troubled with a chronic, persistent constipation, due largely to lack of sufficient exercise. They experience difficulty in digesting even light food, with a consequent belching of stomach gases, drowsiness after eating, headache and a feeling of lassitude and general discomfort.

Doctors advise against cathartics and violent purgatives of every kind, recommending a mild, gentle laxative tonic, like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, to effect relief without disturbing the entire system.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the perfect laxative, easy in action, certain in effect and, withal, pleasant to the taste. It possesses tonic properties that strengthen the stomach, liver and bowels and is a remedy that has been for years the great standby in thousands of families, and should be in every family medicine chest. It is equally as valuable for children as for older people.

Druggists everywhere sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in 50c and $1.00 bottles. If you have never tried it send your name and address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 201 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and he will be very glad to send a sample bottle for trial.

Uncle Sam's Representative.

Senator John Sharp Williams tells of a negro lad in a southern town who was not the least zealous of Uncle Sam's servants. One day when the mail bag for that town was thrown from the train the pouch was caught up by this diminutive courier, who started off, as was his wont, on a brisk trot to the postoffice.

As he was rounding a corner of the station he encountered a larger boy, with the result that the little courier was upset. When the latter got up and readjusted himself he turned upon the other exclaiming:

"Look heah! Yo' wants to be keerful 'bout dis chile! When yo' jars me yo' jars de gov'ment of de United States. I carries de mail!"

A LEAKAGE THAT CAN BE EASILY STOPPED.

How many people who read this article, realize the weighty influence of one little necessity of life—baking powder—on the cost of living.

Yet it is a leakage that can easily be stopped if the housewife will only pay a little more attention to the choice of her baking powder. Some think there is economy in buying the cheap "Big Can" Baking Powders. These Baking Powders are not always uniform, and sometimes produce failures in the baking, and the result is that more is lost in one or two spoiled bakings than you spend on baking powder in the whole year. The cheap "Big Can" Baking Powders should be avoided.

On the other hand, many housewives feel that a baking powder is of no value unless they pay 50 cents a pound for it—the price charged for the high priced "Trust" brands. This is a mistake, as the best baking powder that can be made can be sold for 25c. per pound if the manufacturer is satisfied with a reasonable profit. There is one brand on the market that meets these requirements. It is CALUMET BAKING POWDER, recommended by leading physicians and chemists; used in millions of homes; and given the Highest Award at the World's Pure Food Exposition.

Taft Tells Congress Results of Economy Inquiry.

SUBMITS SPECIAL MESSAGE

How Increased Efficiency in Government Service at Lower Cost May Be Obtained, According to Special Commission.

Washington.—President Taft has submitted to congress a special message on economy and efficiency in the government service. The message in part is as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I submit for the information of the congress this report of progress made in the inquiry into the efficiency and economy of the methods of transacting public business.

Efficiency and economy in the government service have been demanded with increasing insistence for a generation. Real economy is the result of efficient organization. By perfecting the organization the same benefits may be obtained at less expense. A reduction in the total of the annual appropriations is not in itself a proof of economy, since it is often accompanied by a decrease in efficiency. The needs of the nation may demand a large increase of expenditure, yet to keep the total appropriation within the expected revenue is necessary to the maintenance of public credit.

Upon the president must rest a large share of the responsibility for the demands made upon the treasury for the current administration of the executive branch of the government. Upon the congress must rest responsibility for those grants of public funds which are made for other purposes.

Plan of the Work.

In accordance with my instructions, the commission on economy and efficiency, which I organized to aid me in the inquiry, has directed its efforts primarily to the formulation of concrete recommendations looking to the betterment of the fundamental conditions under which governmental operations must be carried on. With a basis thus laid, it has proceeded to the prosecution of detailed studies of individual services and classes of work, and of particular practices and methods, pushing these studies as far and covering as many points and services, as the resources and time at its disposal have permitted.

In approaching its task it has divided the work into five fields of inquiry having to do respectively with organization, personnel, business methods, accounting and reporting, and the budget.

Comprehensive Plan of Organization.

On organization the commission has entered upon the preparation of three series of reports. The first series deals with the manner in which the services of the government should be grouped in departments. This is a matter of fundamental importance. It is only after a satisfactory solution of this problem that many important measures of reform become possible.

The second and third series of reports deal, respectively, with the organization and activities of particular services, and the form of organization for the performance of particular business operations.

One of the reports of the second series is upon the revenue cutter service, which costs the government over two and a half million dollars each year. In the opinion of the commission its varied activities can be performed with equal, or greater, advantage by other services. The commission, therefore, recommends that it be abolished. It is estimated that by so doing a saving of not less than $1,000,000 a year can be made.

Another report illustrating the second series recommends that the lighthouse and life saving services be administered by a single bureau, instead of as at present by two bureaus located in different departments. These services have much in common. Geographically, the are similarly located; administratively, they have many of the same problems. It is estimated that consolidation would result in a saving of not less than $100,000 annually.

Abolition of Local Offices.

Perhaps the part of the organization in which the greatest economy in public expenditure is possible is to be found in the numerous local offices of the government. In some instances the establishment and the discontinuance of these local offices are matters of administrative discretion. In other instances they are established by permanent law in such a manner that their discontinuance is beyond the power of the president or that of any executive officer.

The responsibility for the maintenance of these conditions must naturally be divided between the congress and the executive. But that the executive has performed his duty when he has called the attention of the congress to the matter must also be admitted. Realizing my responsibility in the premises, I have directed the commission to prepare a report setting forth the positions in the local services of the government which may be discontinued with advantage, the saving which would result from such action and the changes in law which are necessary to carry into effect changes in organization found to be desirable. On the coming in of the report, such offices as may be found useless and can be abolished will be so treated by executive order.

Classification of Local Officers.

In my recent message to the congress I urged consideration of the necessity of placing in the classified service all of the local officers under the departments of the treasury, the interior, postoffice and commerce and labor.

The next step which must be taken is to require of heads of bureaus in the departments at Washington, and of most of the local officers under the departments, qualifications of capacity similar to those now required of certain heads of bureaus and of local officers. The extension of the merit system to these officers and a needed readjustment of salaries will have important effects in securing greater economy and efficiency.

In the first place, the possession by the incumbents of these positions of requisite qualifications must in itself promote efficiency.

In the second place, the removal of local officers from the realm of political patronage in many cases would reduce the pay roll of the field services. At the present time the incumbents of many of these positions leave the actual performance of many of their duties to deputies and assistants. The government often pays two persons for doing work that could easily be done by one. What is the loss to the government cannot be stated, but that it is very large cannot be denied.

In the third place, so long as local officers are within the sphere of political patronage it is difficult to consider the question of the establishment or discontinuance of local offices apart from the effect upon local political situations.

Finally, the view that these various offices are to be filed as a result of political considerations has for its consequence the necessity that the president and members of congress devote to matters of patronage time which they should devote to questions of policy and administration.

Business Methods.

In every case where technical processes have been studied it has been demonstrated beyond question that large economies may be effected. The subjects first approached were those which lie close to each administrator, viz., office practices. An illustration of the possibilities within this field may be found in the results of the inquiry into the methods of handling and filing correspondence. Every office in the government has reported its methods to the commission. These reports brought to light the fact that present methods were quite in the reverse of uniform. Some offices follow the practice of briefing all correspondence; some do not. Some have flat files; others fold all papers before filing. Some use press copies; others retain only carbon copies.

Need for Lavor-Saving Office Devices.

The use of labor-saving office devices in the service has been made the subject of special inquiry. An impression prevails that the government is not making use of mechanical devices for economizing labor to the same extent as are efficiently managed private enterprises. A study has been made of the extent to which devices of this character are now being employed in the several branches of the government and the opportunities that exist for their more general use.

The efforts of the commission resulted also in the adoption by several bureaus or departments of improved methods of doing copying. The amount of copy work heretofore done by hand each year in the many offices is estimated to aggregate several hundred thousand dollars. The commission exhibited, at its offices, appliances that were thought to be especially adapted to this kind of government work. Following these demonstrations methods of copying were introduced which have brought about a saving of over 75 per cent. in offices where used for six months. This change in one small cross-section of office practice will more than offset the whole cost of by inquiry.

Waste in the Distribution of Public Documents.

Going outside the office, one of the business processes which have been investigated is the distribution of department documents. This is a subject with which both the congress and administration heads are familiar. The prevailing practice in handling departmental publications is to have them manufactured at the government printing office; each job when completed is delivered to the department; here the books or pamphlets are wrapped and addressed; then are then sent to the postoffice; there they are assorted and prepared for shipment through the mails; from the postoffice they are sent to the railroad station, which is only a few steps from the government printing office, when they started. The results of this laborious and circuitous method is to make the use of the best mechanical equipment impracticable and to waste each year not less than a quarter of a million dollars of government funds in useless handling, to say nothing of the indirect loss due to lack of proper co-ordination.

The use of equipment is a matter which also has been investigated. Up to the present time this investigation has been in the main confined to the subject of electric lighting.

Lack of Specifications.

The importance of establishing and maintaining standard specifications is found not only in the possibility of very materially reducing the direct cost of government trading, but also in insuring to the service materials, supplies and equipment which are better adapted to its purposes. One of the results of indefiniteness of specifications is to impose contract conditions which make it extra hazardous for persons to enter into contractual relations. This not only deprives the government of the advantage of broad competition, but causes it to pay an added margin in price to vendors who must carry the risk.

The Budget.

The United States is the only great nation whose government is operated without a budget. This fact seems to be more striking when it is considered that budgets and budget procedures are the outgrowth of democratic doctrines and have had an important part in the development of modern constitutional rights. The American commonwealth has suffered much from irresponsibility on the part of its governing agencies. The constitutional purpose of a budget is to make government responsive to public opinion and responsible for its acts.

The Budget as an Annual Program.

A budget should be the means for getting before the legislative branch, before the press, and before the people a definite annual program of business to be financed; it should be in the nature of a prospectus both of revenues and expenditures; it should comprehend every relation of the government to the people, whether with reference to the raising of revenues or the rendering of service.

The principal government objects in which the people of the United States are interested include:

The national defense; the protection of persons and property; the promotion of friendly relations and the protection of American interests abroad; the regulation of commerce and industry; the promotion of agriculture, fisheries, forestry and mining; the promotion of manufacturing, commerce, and banking; the promotion of transportation and communication; the postal service, including postal savings and parcels post; the care for and utilization of the public domain; the promotion of education, art, science and recreation; the promotion of the public health; the care and education of the Indians and other wards of the nation.

These are public-welfare questions in which I assume every citizen has a vital interest. I believe that every member of congress, as an official representative of the people, each editor, as a non-official representative of public opinion, each citizen, as a beneficiary of the trust imposed on officers of the government, should be able readily to ascertain how much has been spent for each of these purposes; how much has been appropriated for the current year; how much the administration is asking for each of these purposes for the next fiscal year.

Furthermore, each person interested should have laid before him a clear, well-digested statement showing in detail whether moneys appropriated have been economically spent and whether each division or office has been efficiently run. This is the information which should be available each year in the form of a budget and in detail accounts and reports supporting the budget.

I ask the continuance of this commission on economy and efficiency because of the excellent beginning which has been made toward the reorganization of the machinery of this government on business principles. I ask it because its work is entirely non-partisan in character and ought to apply to every citizen who wishes to give effectiveness to popular government in which we feel a just pride. The work further commends itself for the reason that the cost of organization and work has been carefully considered at every point. Three months were taken in consideration of plans before the inquiry was begun; six months were then spent in preliminary investigations before the commission was organized; before March 3, 1911, when I asked for a continuation of the original appropriation for the current year, only $12,000 had been spent.

TWO FIRES IN N.Y.

CAUSE DAMAGE OF NEARLY ONE AND ONE-HALF MILLION DOLLARS.

BIG WAREHOUSE BURNED

Building Was Considered a Model of Fireproof Construction—Knickerbocker Trust Co. Has $100,000 Loss.

New York, Jan. 18.—The seven-story warehouse of the Terminal Storage company, occupying a full city block near the North river water front, between Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth streets, and containing merchandise valued at more than $10,000,000 was swept by fire.

The fire was discovered a few minutes after midnight. It was not under control until 6:45 o'clock, when the loss was estimated at $1,250,000. Five alarms sounded in quick succession summoned to the scene practically every available piece of fire fighting apparatus from all Manhattan and this was reinforced by five fireboats.

The Terminal Storage company's warehouse was of brick and concrete and was regarded as one of the most modern buildings in that part of the city. Seven stories in height it was the largest structure of its kind in New York and one of the largest in the world. While the building itself was fireproof and protected by fire walls, sprinklers and all the modern fire prevention and fire fighting apparatus, its contents, consisting mostly of goods awaiting delivery to the big New York department stores, were naturally of the most inflammable nature.

The building was divided into four sections by fire walls two feet thick. One of the sections was controlled by John Wanamaker and contained merchandise consigned to him. Another section was rented by Gimble Brothers, while the two remaining sections had as tenants nearly 50 smaller firms.

The fire started in the Wanamaker compartment and worked its way through the fire walls to the Gimbel section. Both these sections were destroyed, but the fire walls between them and the other compartments held the fire and the loss is, therefore, confined to the two firms named. There was no loss of life, but two firemen were seriously injured.

A stubborn fire on the ground floor of the 22-story office building owned by the Knickerbocker Trust company, Broadway and Exchange place, gave the financial district some moments of trepidation.

The blaze was within a few hundred feet of the stock exchange, but was got under control before it could spread beyond the building where it started. The loss will not exceed $100,000.

SOCIALISTS ACTIVE

In United Mine Workers Convention at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Indiana. — After the convention of the United Mine Workers of America had gone on record as favoring government ownership of industries, the Socialists among the 1,300 delegates launched a resolution indorsing their party as "the political party of the working class," but it met resistance.

Action was also deferred on a resolution providing that mine workers should withdraw from the American Federation of Labor, condemning the National Civic Federation as a combination of capitalists and sharply criticizing Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and other leaders of the Federation of Labor for co-operation with the Civic Federation.

Samuel Gompers was characterized as a "reactionary" by Thomas L. Lewis, former national president of the miners. "As long as Gompers is at the head of the federation it will oppose the general industrial organization as contrasted with the separate crafts union idea," he said.

CUBANS FORMULATING REPLY.

Gomez Decides to Annul Civil Service Law.

Havana, Cuba. — President Gomez conferred at the palace with prominent leaders regarding the action to be taken in connection with the notification from the American secretary of state that the United States government might be compelled to intervene in Cuban affairs.

The conference decided upon the terms of the reply to the Knox note, and agreed on the revocation or annulment of the civil service law, which will give a quietus to the aspirations of the veterans in affirming equal rights for all Cubans to hold office regardless of their pro-Spanish antecedents.

TRAMP SAVES A TRAIN.

Wanderer Discovers a Snowslide and Flags Oncoming Freight.

Portland, Oregon. — A lone tramp saved the lives of trainmen on the Spokane, Portland and Seattle Railroad, when he prevented a freight wreck by flagging a train fifteen miles east of Pasco and warning the men of a slide across the track ahead of him. He was wending his way across the ties when, almost in front of him, a slide covered the tracks.

THOS. H. SHEVLIN DEAD

MILLIONAIRE LUMBERMAN PASSES AWAY IN CALIFORNIA.

Was One of the Largest Owners of Timber Lands in the United States.

Pasadena, California. — Thomas H. Shevlin, millionaire lumberman and one of the foremost men of Minneapolis, died at Pasadena, Cal., where he had gone about two weeks ago to spend the winter in the hope of improving his health. News of his death came as a great shock to business associates and to the Minneapolis public, as Mr. Shevlin's activities have been important factors in the welfaro of the city for more than a quarter of a century.

Members of his family declined to make any statement as to the cause of death. The millionaire's daughter, Mrs. G. C. Beckwith, was with him at the time of his death. Mr. Shevlin has been in poor health for two years.

Mr. Shevlin was a little past 60 years of age, but had seemed much younger until his recent illness. He was one of the largest timber owners in the country, his interests being heavy in Minnesota, in Ontario north of the Minnesota boundary, in Oregon and in British Columbia. His companies operate several large producing saw mills. The value of his virgin holdings is variously estimated, but the estate will appraise several millions of dollars, possibly $10,000,000. Practically all of it is left to the son, Thomas L. Shevlin, who assumed active charge of the father's business some months ago, and to the two daughters, Mrs. David D. Tenney and Mrs. George C. Beckwith.

Thomas Henry Shevlin was born Jan. 8, 1852, at Albany, N. Y., the son of John and Matilda Shevlin. He entered the employ of John McGraw & Co., a lumber firm of Albany, and with them began his training for the business in which he became so successful.

Mr. Shevlin later went to Chicago and thence to Muskegon, Mich., where he took charge of the lumber interests of R. W. Harvey. In 1884 he started a branch company in Minneapolis under the name of the North Star Lumber company. Mr. Shevlin moved to Minneapolis shortly afterwards and organized the Hall & Shevlin Lumber company and so continued till the death of Mr. Hall in 1888. Three years later Eldert L. Carpenter bought an interest in the business.

Interests Are Extended.

The firm became the Shevlin-Carpenter company, with Mr. Shevlin as president. Mr. Shevlin extended his operations until his interests included timber, lumber and mills in the northwest and in Canada. With J. Neils he established the J. Neils Lumber company in 1895 with a mill at Sauk Rapids, and in 1900 this farm installed a mill at Cass Lake, Minn., with an annual capacity of 50,000,000 feet of lumber. He joined Frank P. Hixon in 1896 in buying a large tract of timber on the Red Lake Indian reservation, forming the St. Hilaire Lumber company, and building a mill. This company bought out the mill, logs and timber holdings of the Red River Lumber company at Crookston and reorganized as the Crookston Lumber company, with Mr. Shevlin as president. A mill was built in 1902 at Bemidji with a capacity of 70,000,000 feet a year, running a logging spur east of Red Lake and connecting with the Minnesota & International railway at Hovey Junction, thus opening up a vast tract of timber formerly unavailable.

Retail Yards Founded.

Mr. Shevlin was active in founding a line of retail yards operated as the St. Hilaire Lumber company; with the Shevlin-Clarke Lumber company of Ontario and with the Rainy River Lumber company, which operates a plant at Rainy River, Ont., with a capacity of 70,000,000 feet annually, one of the most complete saw mills in the world. Mr. Shevlin was also largely interested in virgin timber holdings in Oregon, in British Columbia and on Vancouver Island.

In politics Mr. Shevlin was a republican and was a member of the national committee from 1900 to 1904. He served in 1900 as vice president of the Minnesota state fair, representing Minneapolis on the board of managers. His interest in public affairs and the institutions of his state and city are evidenced in his gift to the university of Alice Shevlin hall at a cost of $60,000, and named for Mrs. Shevlin. In 1909 he made an additional gift to the university of $50,000 to endow five scholarships. He was a member of the Minneapolis club, the Union League clubs of New York and Chicago, the Minnesota club, the Manitoba club and many other organizations.

Brinn of Stewartville.

L. A. Smith is President.

The directors met and elected L. A. Smith, president; H. J. Former, first vice president; P. D. Gilbertson, second vice president; I. L. Demorary, secretary; Adams Brinn, treasurer. Mr. Former was a candidate for president and a warm fight was waged.

Way to Success.

W. E. Justice of Chicago led the discussion on "What Contributes Most to the Success of the Farmers' Elevator?" Capable management and conservatism was the answer. Capable management means the securing of a manager who knew what was expected of him and how to accomplish it. Conservatism meant that officers and directors continue their efforts to careful supervision and conservative dictation of a general policy to the manager, who, if competent can carry it out if left alone. If he is bothered and pestered by individual officers or directors the result will be disastrous. Educate every stockholder in rules of business and the farmers' elevators will succeed, he said.

Civil Service for Inspection.

M. Johnson of Rushford said the association should work to get the inspection department out of the hands of politicians. Civil service ought to be introduced into the department, he said.

President Smith appointed T. O. Ditsad, of Hayfield, A. A. Ludde of Slayton and William Bennett of Lowry a committee on resolutions. Adjournment was taken this afternoon after the managers' meeting.

CUYUNA GAINS FAVOR

Forecast of Probable Output of Chipping Mines for the Year.

Brainerd.—H. J. Kruse, superintendent of the Rogers-Brown Ore company, gave the following estimate of the tonnage to be produced by the Cuyuna range this year. He said: "The Kennedy mine will ship 200,000 tons of iron ore; the Armour No. 2 mine will ship 75,000 tons; the Armour No. 1 will ship 40,000 tons. All this ore is contracted for. The latter part of this season the Meacham mine may commence shipping and will then probably produce a tonnage of 15,000 to 20,000 tons. The Thompson mine of the Inland Steel company may also ship, and if it does the mine will produce about 50,000 tons. The Armour No. 2 mine was in ore a week ago. They passed through a seam seven feet thick assaying 57 to 58 per cent, a rich red hematite.

"The payroll of the Kennedy mine at Cuyuna is $15,000 a month and approximately 300 men are at work. Two levels have been opened at the Armour No. 1 mine, one at 200 feet and one at 300 feet. At the Armour No. 2 mine a 2,000-gallon compound Prescott pump has been installed at the 168-foot level. At the Armour No. 1 mine a 2,000-gallon Prescott pump has been installed at the 300-foot level. The Kennedy mine has shipped in 1911 147,500 tons. In its stock pile at the present time are 42,000 tons, an average much better than the corresponding period last year."

Coupled with Superintendent Kruse's announcement of the tonnage of producers on the north range is the statement from authoritative sources that the Adams mine in section 30, south of Deerwood, and the Barrowers mine, operated by M. A. Hanna & Co., four miles south of Brainerd, are also expected to enter the shipping lists of 1912.

The Iron Trade Review, published at Chicago, had an article on the Cuyuna range written by Chester D. Tripp, the general manager of the Rogers-Brown Ore company. The tone of optimism displayed is a happy indication of increased confidence in the range.

BILL OF LADING LAW

Proposed Measure Re-introduced by Representative Stevens.

Washington, D. C. — Representative Stevens of Minnesota reintroduced his bill relating to bills of lading. The changes made in the measure by Mr. Stevens since it was presented a year ago mainly cover details which interest only the railroads and shippers. In fact, the changes were in part suggested by representatives of the shippers in the West.

OTTERTAIL FOR GOOD ROADS.

County Board Decides to Seek Benefits of State Aid.

Fergus Falls.—The good roads movement is going to receive a substantial impetus in Otter Tail county in the coming summer by the expenditure of $15,000 on certain roads recently designated as state roads by the county commissioners.

Otter Tail county has never taken any of the money that is distributed among the different counties of the state under the state highway commission law, as the commissioners were unwilling to appropriate the amount required from the county funds and to build roads according to approved plans. The board has now changed its policy, and at its November sessions it designated a number of roads as state roads, and called for Otter Tail county's share of the money. The fund has accumulated so that the county is now entitled to $7,500, and the board has just held a meeting and appropriated the same amount from the county funds.

A competent engineer will be placed in charge, and the work will be done by contract instead of by the "working out" system that has heretofore prevailed, and it is expected that the roads designated will be vastly improved.

EXHIBIT CAR STARTS

Minnesota's Fertility to Be Shown in Iowa and Missouri.

St. Paul.—One hundred and twenty-three varieties of grasses, wild and tame, from alfalfa to wire grass and swamp hay; several hundred cars of corn, fully rounded and matured; at least a hundred samples of different sheaf grains, dairy products, canned goods, fruits and vegetables, are some of the many exhibits on the Minnesota Exhibition car which left over the Burlington road for its trip of nearly two months and a half in Iowa and northern Missouri.

Frank M. Eddy of Sauk Center is the superintendent in charge of the car. H. J. Maxfield, the new state immigration commissioner, will not be able to go the first week, but will be with the car from Jan. 21 until it gets back about March 31. James A. Larson, assistant secretary of state, will be a member of the party for the first week of the trip; Charles S. Benson of Minneapolis will join it after Jan. 20, and Harold Knutson of St. Cloud will make the entire trip.

One day will be spent in each of the 66 cities that will be visited. Last year an average of 1,100 people visited the car each day, and this year, in addition to handling these crowds, a special effort will be made to talk to the people in auditoriums and public halls.

BOOSTERS AT BEMIDJI

Strong Program Arranged for January 25.

Bemidji.—What is expected will prove to be one of the most interesting meetings of boosters and business men ever held in Northern Minnesota has been called for Bemidji January 25. H. J. Maxfield, the new state immigration commissioner: Prof. D. E. Williard, the soil expert for the Northern Pacific railway company: Dan Wallace, editor of the Farmer; George Authier of Minneapolis, possibly L. W. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railway company, and a representative for Edward Pennington, president of the Soo Railway company, will deliver addresses. The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Bemidji Commercial club and the addresses will be "on subjects of the greatest interest to the commercial clubs of Northern Minnesota."

NO INDORSEMENTS.

Progressive League to Withhold Approval for Some Time.

The Minnesota Progressive Republican league will make no indorsements of candidates for state offices for some time. Thus far the indorsement of Robert M. La Follette is the only one made by the league. The stand was taken at a meeting of the executive committee at headquarters in Minneapolis. The opinions of other members throughout the state were procured by long-distance telephone.

In Minnesota.

Important Happenings of the Week Briefly Told.

New Ulm.—H. A. Morey and James J. Donelan of Waverly, Iowa, are here for the purpose of organizing a stock company to construct and operate a gas plant.

St. Cloud. — Dominik Waltzin, aged 78, a retired farmer, was found dead in a rooming house. Death was due to heart failure. Waltzen was wealthy.

Duluth, Jan. 18.—Mae Harris, who was arrested and later indicted for inducing girls to enter a house of ill repute, changed her plea from "not guilty" to "guilty."

Pipestone. — While playing with a loaded shot gun a young son of James Jensen, a farmer living near White, shot his baby brother through the head, killing him instantly.

Kasota.—In default of any competition in the district, the Kasota high school debating team will represent the third congressional district in the high school debates in February.

Minneapolis.—The socialists, as usual, will be first in the field with their state ticket in Minnesota. Their state convention will take place in Minneapolis Feb. 19, to nominate state candidates.

Ada.—A troop of boy scouts has been organized here by L. S. Marshall of Crookston. Paul Snyder was elected captain and Leonard Olson corporal. The club has a membership of twenty-five.

St. Paul. — Mrs. Samuel G. Iverson, wife of the state auditor, died after an illness of less than two weeks. She contracted a severe cold New Year's day, and this later developed into pleuro-pneumonia.

Plummer.—Henry Enderle has returned from the twin cities, where he has been having plans drawn for the new bank building of the First State bank of Plummer. The plans call for a 24x40 two-story brick building.

Ada.—The Ada Creamery association held its annual election of officers and A. D. Laughlin was elected president, W. B. Bosworth, vice president, H. F. Sprung, treasurer, and Ben Ashback, secretary. The books show over $20,000 to have been paid to the patrons during the past year for butter fat.

Duluth.—Noah Lewis Waelchli, who was arrested in Duluth several weeks ago charged with impersonating a United States army officer, was indicted by the federal grand jury. He represented himself as Lieutenant W. L. Nathan and at the time of his arrest was giving an army and navy show.

Mankato.—Edward A. Dackins, who was born in Wales in 1833, and who located in this county in 1856, is dead as a result of injuries received a year ago while visiting in California, when he fell and broke his hip. He was one of those who went to the relief of New Ulm at the time of the Indian massacre in 1862, and distinguished himself for bravery. His wife, four sons and two daughters survive him.

Ada. — The following officers were elected by the Wild Rice Lumber Company at their annual meet: President, F. L. Hampson, Ada; vice president, J. G. Ballord, Minneapolis; secretary and treasurer, J. R. S. Devereaux. Mr. Hampson, who has been general manager for the company since its organization, tendered his resignation and was succeeded by Vernon Howe of Minneapolis.

Mr. Miller also will introduce at an early date, a bill providing for the allotment of a large area of public land on the Bois Fort reservation among the 300 Indian children of the reservation. The elder members of the tribe have urged this course rather than giving the children the money to be derived from the sale of the lands.

Duluth.—After serving in the ministry for twenty years without saving a cent, Rupert Swinnerton gave up the profession just eighteen months ago at Hibbing and entered the real estate business in which he has already cleared $18,000. Mr. Swinnerton served several years at the Methodist church at Hibbing. He later announced he had decided to resign from the ministry as he could see no hope of ever getting enough money ahead to educate his children or to provide for his own future.

Saturday, January 20, 1912.

The employers' liability law for 1908 has been declared constitutional by the supreme court of the United States.

Next thing is that northern Minnesota editorial meeting at Long Prairie Jan. 19 and 20. And there will be some politics there but not in the official proceedings. The newspaper boys have to talk politics and tell one another what the "people over our way think about things."—Crookston Times.

Proofs on all land filed upon previous to March 26, 1906, will have to be presented to the United States land office before March 26, 1 Proofs on land filed upon after March 6, 1906, must be made within six years from the date of filing. These orders apply to lands on the Eleven Towns only, and are issued by order of the interior department.

The district court will convene at the county seat next Monday. The petit jury, however, will not meet until Monday, Feb. 26. as at that time all civil cases requiring the action of the jury and all criminal cases will be heard. At the session commencing Monday, court cases, motions, arguments, and demurrers only will be heard, and the applications for citizenship of eight Pennington county residents will be considered by a special agent sent here for that purpose.

On Monday of this week two well known Minnesota men announced themselves as candidates for the republican nomination for goverernor on what are termed progressive principles. These men were Sam Y. Gordon, at present lieutenant governor, and W. E. Lee of Long Prairie, who has taken a prominent part in Minnesota politics. This may not close the entries for the progressives. N. J. Holmberg of Renville may announce his candidacy. Gordon and Lee are to make their fight on a campaign condemning the breweries for their activity in politics and a denunciation of railroad and corporation influences in politics. It is generally understood that Gov. Eberhart will be a candidate to succeed himself, and now that these two announcements have been made the governor is expected to make his formal announcement at an early date.

Tallest Woman in the World

The tallest woman in the world lives in Chicago. Her height is nine feet one and one-half inches and she weighs 385 pounds. Ella Ewing denies that she intends marrying the European giant. She is satisfied with single life, and enjoys her golden grain belt beers, which keep her in good health. Try them yourself. Order of Alex Thompson, Cookston or of your dealer.

Thomas H. Shevlin Dead

Thomas H. Shevlin, millionaire lumberman, died Monday at his winter home at Pasadena, Cal. Mr. Shevlin had been seriously ill for many months and his death was not unexpected. He had been a conspicuous figure in Minnesota business and political circles for twenty-five years.

The body has been brought back to Minneapolis and the funeral will be held there today. From Minneapolis and Chicago to the coast, in Canada and the United States, every activity of the various Shevlin companies will cease for the day. This applies to the office of the St. Hilaire Lumber company, which will be closed today.

Not Much Expected from Investigations

The attitude of Colonel Shunk, in charge of the investigations being conducted ostensibly to determine the cause of the low stage of water in the Red Lake river, indicates that there is little possibility of anything being accomplished to relieve the present distressing situation. Those attending the hearings gain the conviction that the colonel is not open to conviction.

At the hearing at Thief River Falls Tuesday much evidence showing that the obstructions in the river are responsible for the present low stage of water in the river and that Red Lake is high at this season was produced. There was much more information of the same nature at the Crookston meeting yesterday.

A mass of evidence has been prepared for presentation at the meeting at Grand Forks today. There has been enough evidence to convince any reasonable man that the situation is one so serious as to demand immediate action. Yet from Colonel Shunk's attitude at the previous hearings it is anticipated that he may not give any consideration whatever to much of the evidence which the Grand Forks people desire to offer.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

MOORISH SOLDIERS.

Their Methods in Battle and Their System of Signals.

At fighting on horseback the Moors are adepts and extremely mobile. But they are incorrigibly lazy and seldom indulge in night attack. When they attack in force the horsemen usually give a lift to the foot soldiers who accompany them or allow them to run alongside and hold on to a stirrup iron. The mounted men then make a charge, wheel round and retire and make way for the footmen, who crawl along the ground, almost invisible, and who rise to the attack if they come within striking distance of the enemy. As a rule, the Itimans prefer to lure detached parties into an ambush or defile and thus inflict heavy loss upon them. The mounted men seldom dismount to fire and their firing, being from the saddle, is very inaccurate. Should the advance of the white troops be slow or hesitating the Moors effect a bold combination between horsemen and footmen and generally succeed in inflicting heavy losses on their enemy.

The prime tactics of the Moors are to delay the advance of an enemy as much as possible by mounted rifle fire until they can discern its extent and direction and subsequently to try enveloping the advancing force. The tribes also indulge in sniping, but not to a very great extent, and they also fight individually. They do not neglect opportunities for stratagem and can effect some very clever ruses. They are also guilty of abusing the services of the white flag in action.

The Moorish intelligence system is an excellent one, and the tribes are seldom without information regarding the movements of an enemy. They have also an excellent system of signaling at night by means of small fires dotted about the hills and ravines, which are obscured and revealed in accordance with an ingenious code of signals known to themselves.—Chicago News.

CONTINUOUS SHOWS.

They Were Started by B. F. Keith in a Boston Store.

It was in the month of January, 1883, that Mr. B. F. Keith, who had been studying the show business with far seeing eyes for many years, presented, in a store that he had leased in Boston, the first continuous show ever seen on any stage. He paid his performers $20 a week for a single turn and $40 for double and required them to give eight or nine turns a day. His "top liner" or chief attraction was a pound and a half baby. The doors of his playhouse were thrown open at noon, and from that time until half past 10 at night the performance went on without interruption.

Patrons were allowed to spend the entire day in the theater, and at first so many availed themselves of this opportunity to get a substantial filling of amusement at a small cost that Mr. Keith realized that he must either abandon the idea of a continuous entertainment or else invent some method by which the audience could be driven out of the building and place made for those outside who were waiting for admittance. Necessity is the mother of invention, especially when it is mated with sharp Yankee wit, and it was thus that what is known as "the chaser" came into the world.—James L. Ford in McClure's Magazine.

"You always appear to be worried about your housekeeping," remarked the sympathetic friend.

"But really," replied the housekeeper, "there are only two occasions when I am really worried. One is when I haven't a servant and the other is when I have."

"I am afraid I will have to give up smoking."

"The doctor ordered it?"

"No; my wife is beginning to like the odor of a good cigar."

WHAT A LAWSUIT BROUGHT ABOUT.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, 1909, by T. C. McClure.]

Farmer Jepson, widower, lived four miles from Akron on the country road, and Jane Schofield, widow and farmer, lived three miles west of him on the Red Bridge road. They had lived thus for five years and only knew each other by name. The five years might have become twenty had not an old lop horned cow stepped in to give the parties an introduction.

The cow was owned by the widow. Besides being lop horned she was bobtailed, wild eyed and had various bad habits, one of which was jumping six rail fences and wandering about nights. These promenades sometimes led her miles away and into strange pastures. The first time Farmer Jepson saw her she was in the midst of his cornfield and had cleared about half an acre of the juicy stalks. He was a good man, but he swore at her and called her names. He also tried his best to kill her on the spot. A week later the cow called again to see how the corn was coming on, and after half killing her the farmer sent word that if she was not kept at home he would sue her owner for damages.

"And who is Farmer Jepson that talks so big, I'd like to know!" exclaimed the widow as she got the message by a hired man. "If he thinks he's the biggest toad in the puddle let him go right ahead and sue. Two can play at that game. I'm not allowing my live stock to bother my neighbors, but I'm not going to sit up every night in the week to see that that old cow don't get out. You go back and tell him that I'm not afraid of any ten men like him."

"Oh, she ain't, hey?" exclaimed the farmer when the hired man had returned with the word. "Waal, we'll see about that. I'm no hand to complain of my neighbors, but I'm not going to have their cows in my corn and then take sass to boot. If that old critter of a cow steps hoof on my land again there'll be a lawsuit to make things rumble."

The cow didn't hurry matters any. She waited until Mr. Jepson had transplanted his cabbage plants and they had got fairly growing, and then she called one night and helped herself to 250 of them, and two days later the widow learned that suit had been commenced by Farmer Jepson to recover $250 damages.

"So he's sued me, has he?" observed the widow, as she doubled up her fists and fire came to her eyes. "Well, we'll see who comes out ahead!"

Plaintiff and defendant each secured a lawyer, and of course each attorney assured his client that he had the best kind of a case and was sure to win. After two or three adjournments the case came to trial, and it was in the courtroom that plaintiff and defendant first saw each other. Both were surprised, and both said something to themselves. What the farmer said was:

"Waal, by thunder! I expected to see a fat and homely old two fisted widder, and I find her a good looking little bit of a female who ought to be sitting on a husband's knee. Wish I'd seen her before I begun this suit."

"Lands o' massy, but he hain't no mean looking man!" exclaimed the widow after a look at the farmer. "Why, they said he was a big boss and bluffer and wanted to bulldoze me 'cause I'm all alone in the world. Say, now, but they are all wrong. He hain't the kind to bluff and pitch in. Wish he'd have come to see me about the old cow. If he had I'd have chained her up. Wonder how hard he'll swear agin me!"

She was soon to know. The plaintiff's lawyer in opening the case said it was an aggravated case of trespass and damage and that the sum mentioned wasn't really half what they should have sued for. Then he went on to tell of what a defiant woman the defendant was and wound up by stating his hopes that the jury would render a verdict without leaving the box. Then the plaintiff was called to the witness chair, and, to the surprise of the widow and the disgust of his lawyer, he said he had forgotten the message the woman returned to him. He followed that up by declaring that his feelings had simply been shocked and that he had fully recovered from the shock in a minute and a half. As to the corn and cabbage, perhaps $10 would pay the bill.

"You jackass, but you have lost your case!" hissed his lawyer as the witness stepped down with a smile in the direction of the widow, whose lawyer was whispering to her:

"Now, you get up there and give us some hot talk and your case is won."

There was no hot talk from the widow. On the contrary, she cooed like a dove. She admitted to the ownership of the jumping, predatory cow, but was quite willing to pay reasonable damages. She didn't doubt the plaintiff's shocked feelings and was sorry for them and wished he had hit the old cow with the ax. One of the results of the suit was a verdict for 6 cents' damages, and another was that Farmer Jepson said he would call at her home for the money. He kept his word. A week later he drove up to the door and after an hour's interview was asked to call again. Three months later his disgusted lawyer was heard to exclaim:

"Prettiest case I ever had and dead sure of a verdict, and Jepson knocks it all in the head by falling in love with the defendant. Yes, they were married yesterday."

BURNED PAPER MONEY.

Source of Great Profit to the Government and Banks.

At the redemption windows of the treasury and of the subtreasuries of the country any silver coin that has not been mutilated willfully and which still is recognizable as from the mints of the United States will be redeemed at face value, this in spite of the fact that the silver in the worn coin may not be worth half its face value. As to gold coin, the government stands only a small portion of the loss from abrasion; but, according to weight, these worn gold coins always are redeemable.

In the case of the paper currency two-fifths of a note must be presented if it shall be redeemed or a new note issued, and, no matter what the evidence may be as to total destruction of this paper currency, the government regards it as the holder's individual loss with which it is no further concerned. Fire may melt $1,000 worth of silver coins and it is worth its metal value. It may melt $1,000 in gold coins and the mint will pay $1,000 in new twenty dollar gold pieces for the mass. But the ashes of $1,000 in paper currency is without value.

In the thousands of fires over the country every year involving office buildings, factories, business houses and family residences an untold total of legal tender notes of all kinds are destroyed. Every piece of such paper lost is loss to the holder and gain to the government or to a national bank. It is a promissory note hopelessly lost to the holder. It is even more, for in many cases an individual man might redeem his debt obligation if he were assured by the holder of it that the piece of paper to which he had signed his name had been destroyed by accident and by no chance could turn up again against him.—Chicago Tribune.

Pope as a Witness.

Pope, like Garrick, made but a poor figure in the witness box. He was cited to appear in defense of Bishop Atterbury when that prelate was tried for high treason in the house of lords in 1723. "I never could speak in public," he told Spence afterward, "and I don't believe that if it was a set thing I could give an account of any story to twelve friends together, though I could tell it to any three of them with a great deal of pleasure. When I was to appear for the bishop of Rochester in his trial, though I had but ten words to say and that on a plain point (how the bishop spent his time when I was with him at Bromley), I made two or three blunders in it and that notwithstanding the first row of lords (which was all I could see) were mostly of my acquaintance."—London Standard.

No Piano has ever been more enthusiastically endorsed. The Artistic Case, the Easy, Responsive Action, and above all the deep, sweet, rich Tone, captivates performer and listener. The united verdict is that

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Parviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

DAKOTA BUSINESS COLLEGE

Every person needs a business education and it costs no more to get it at this great Business and Shorthand Training School, under exact office conditions, than at one of the small questionable ones. The results are, however, very different. 350 D. B. C. pupils went to excellent positions in banks and offices this year—over 400 will do so next year. All Fargo banks and 625 others employ D. B. C. pupils as cashiers, tellers or bookkeepers. No other school offers such endorsement.

Our $50 course prepares for business life, or for position as clerk or bookkeeper. Our new $35 course in Commerce and Banking (endorsed by Bankers' Association) supplies cashiers and tellers for the Northwestern banks, and bookkeepers and credit men for the larger concerns. The shorthand course (under an expert reporter) trains court reporters and high grade stenographers. The stenographers for the U. S. District Court, N. D. Supreme Court, 3d Judicial District and the Cass Co. Court are D. B. C. pupils. Can other schools offer this proof of superior training? [illegible]

The D. B. C. has built a magnificent new building (25,000 square feet of space) is seated with roll top desks, has 60 typewriters, adding machines, billers, money changers, etc. Our pupils deal with each other and with magnificently equipped offices, using aluminum money. Our courses are fascinating and practical. The Northwest has "No other school like the D. B. C." [illegible] Next term begins soon. [illegible] let write. [illegible]

REACHED LIMIT OF TORTURE

Real Reason Why Burglar Gave Evening Papers Chance to Use Effective Headline.

A burglar broke into a New York mansion early the other morning and found himself after wandering about the place in the music room. Hearing footsteps approaching, he took refuge behind a screen. From eight to nine the eldest daughter had a singing lesson. From nine to ten the second daughter took a piano lesson. From 10 to 11 the eldest son got his instruction on the violin. From 11 to 12 the younger boy got a lesson on the flute and piccolo. Then, at 12:15, the family got together and practiced music on all their instruments. They were fixing up for a concert. At 12:45 the porchclimber staggered from behind the screen. "For heavens' sake, send for the police!" he shrieked. "Torture me no longer!" And in the evening paper there was the headline: "Nervy Children Capture Desperate Burglar."

Where the Fruit Grows.

Michael Casey, a politician in San Francisco, who has been in office and on the city payroll for many years, was addressing a meeting of his fellow-citizens. It was a labor meeting.

"You men must know," spouted Casey, "that you are the great body politic in this city. You are the roots and trunks of our great municipal tree, while we who represent you in office are merely the branches on that magnificent tree."

"True for you, Mike," piped a man in the back of the hall, "but did ye ever notice all the fruit grows on the branches?"—Saturday Evening Post.

High Aim.

Let us endeavor so to live that when we come to die even the undertaker will be sorry."—Mark Twain.

Why He Couldn't Sit Down.

Harry, aged six, is an orphan; but an indulgent grandmother and kind maiden aunt have taken care of him. The first pair of knickerbockers were secured recently, and it was a proud moment for the boy when his aunt put them on him on Sunday morning and he was permitted to go to church with his grandmother. Naturally maiden aunts know very little about the arrangement of knickerbockers, and there was a suspicious fullness in front and an equally mystifying tightness in the back to be observed, as the little chap trudged happily along. In church Harry sat down, but did not appear comfortable and stood up. "Harry, sit down," whispered his grandmother. He obediently climbed back on the seat, but soon slipped off again. "Harry, you must sit down." "Grandma, I can't. My pants is choking me." She looked more closely than her dim sight had before permitted, and discovered the new little knickerbockers were on hind side before. Harry stood up during the remainder of the service.

A Golf Story.

There's another story of a man who rang the bell at the gates of Paradise and asked Peter if he might go through.

"What were you on earth?" asked the saint.

"Well," was the response, "during the latter part of my life I didn't do much but play golf."

"Got a golf ball on you?"

"Yes; here's a 'Chancellor.'"

St. Peter took it and threw it over his shoulder, where it rolled away.

For a minute or more he looked critically at the applicant, then shut the gate in his face and locked it.

"What's the game?" said the man.

"You are no real golfer," said St. Peter. "You don't even know the first rule of golf—to keep your eye on the ball and follow through."

Walking for Nerves.

The nerves suffer from want of pure oxygen. They run like a network all through the skin and when they are overwrought the skin is apt to be dry and colorless. Walking is an excellent tonic for the nerves. It gives them strength to control themselves.

If one has means or leisure, there are plenty of other more enjoyable exercises. But few forms are so beneficial as the regular daily jaunt of four or five miles for obtaining a good complexion.

Treacherous Memory.

Parson Johnson—Yo must nevah cherish an enmity against your neighbor, Mis Jackson. If youh neighbor does you an injury you must forget it.

Mrs. Jackson—An' so I does forget it, pahson—but I'se got a powerful bad memory, and I keeps forgetting dat I'se forgotten it.

A Hold-Up

An Oppressive Trust.

Before the Coffee Roasters' Association, in session at Chicago on Thursday, Thomas J. Webb, of Chicago, charged that there is in existence a coffee combine which is "the most monstrous imposition in the history of human commerce."

He did

There is very slight exaggeration about this statement. It comes very close to being literally true. There is a coffee combine in Brazil, from which country comes the bulk of the coffee used in the United States, which is backed by the government of Brazil and financed by it, which compels American consumers, as Mr. Webb said, "to pay famine prices for coffee when no famine exists."

"Compels"

The worst thing about this is that the consumers of the United States have been compelled to put up the money through which this combine, to further cinch them, has been made effective. There were formerly revenue duties imposed upon all coffee entering the United States. Those taxes were denounced as an imposition upon the people; as taxing the poor man's breakfast table, and the like. The taxes were removed. Immediately thereafter Brazil imposed an export duty upon coffee up to the full amount of the former customs taxes in this country. The revenue which formerly went into the treasury of the United States was diverted to the treasury of Brazil. The poor man's breakfast coffee continued to cost him the same old price.

tax americans

Get this clear

But this was only the commencement. The "valorization" plan was evolved in Brazil. Through this plan the government, using the revenues derived from the export duties for the purposes, takes all of the surplus crop in a season of large yields and holds it off the market, thus keeping the supply down to the demands of the market and permitting the planters to receive a much higher price than they would otherwise have done.

The United States consumes more Brazilian coffee than does the rest of the world. We are the best customers of Brazil, and Brazil buys little from us. Now Brazil is promoting, financing and maintaining a trust designed, and working effectively for the purpose, to compel American consumers to pay an exorbitant price for the coffee they use. What is the remedy?—Seattle Post-Intelligencer—Nov. 19, 1911.

Then this

Standard statistics of the coffee trade show a falling off in sales during the last two years of over two hundred million pounds. Authenticated reports from the Postum factories in this city show a tremendous increase in the sale of Postum in a like period of time.

While the sales of Postum invariably show marked increase year over year, the extraordinary demand for that well-known breakfast beverage during 1911 is very likely due to a public awakening to the oppression of the coffee trust.

Such an awakening naturally disposes the multitude who suffer from the ill effects of coffee drinking to be more receptive to knowledge of harm which so often comes as a result of the use of the drug-beverage, coffee.—Battle Creek Evening News—Dec. 19, 1911.

POSTUM

is a pure food-drink made of the field grains, with a pleasing flavour not unlike high grade Java.

A Big Package
About 1¼ lbs. Costs 25 cts.
At Grocers

Economy to one's purse is not the main reason for using Postum.

It is absolutely free from any harmful substance, such as "caffeine" (the drug in coffee), to which so much of the nervousness, biliousness and indigestion of today are due. Thousands of former coffee drinkers now use Postum because they know from experience the harm that coffee drinking causes.

Boil it according to directions (that's easy) and it will become clear to you why—

GETS STARVED ROCK

State of Illinois Buys Historic Tract for $46,000.

People Gain Possession of the Picturesque Site on Illinois River Where the Indians Made Their Last Stand.

Ottawa, Ill.—Starved Rock passed into the hands of the state of Illinois recently, when negotiations were concluded between the Illinois park commission and Ferdinand Walther of Chicago, who has owned the property for the past 22 years. The papers signed and exchanged show that the state paid the sum of $46,000 for the 290-acre tract, which it is expected will prove to be the nucleus of one of the finest state parks in the country.

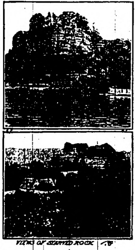
The new state park preserve lies ten miles west of Ottawa on the south side of the Illinois river, and in addition to Starved Rock proper consists of precipitous cliffs, canyons and glens which rival many of America's most famous scenic wonders.

No spot in Illinois is richer in history or legend than Starved Rock, which was visited by the early French missionary explorers and was also the scene of numerous bloody conflicts between Indian tribes. Upon its lofty summit the Illinois warriors made their last stand and after being starved were finally exterminated by their enemies.

The fight for the acquirement of Starved Rock by the state for park purposes may be said to date back to the forty-sixth general assembly, although there was considerable previous agitation in favor of the movement.

At that session of the legislature an act was passed authorizing the appointment of a commission to investigate and report on the preservation of certain lands for public parks, and an appropriation of $1,000 made to pay the expenses of the commission.

The members of the commission which closed the deal are Prof. J. A. James of Evanston, A. Richards of Ottawa and the Rev. D. L. Crowe of Kewanee.



VIEWS OF STARVED ROCK

The boundaries of the park district, including 1,155 acres, were laid out by Mr. Richards, secretary of the commission. This tract has a frontage of five miles along the river, extending from the Utica bridge to the South Ottawa township line, including Fishburn's cave and Salt Well. The balance of this property is owned by about twenty people and options have been secured on practically all of it.

No provision or appropriation has been made for the employment of help at Starved Rock or for the maintenance or improvement of the property.

HAVE COURSE IN MATRIMONY

High School Girls Taught Courtship, Mothercraft, and Domestic Science in Los Angeles, Cal.

Los Angeles, Cal.—A course of matrimony has been included in the curriculum of the Gardens Agricultural High school here. Five classes of girls are daily taking advantage of instruction in courtship, matrimony, the care of babies, mothercraft and domestic science.

It is planned that boys in Los Angeles shall be permitted to take the course next year, but some doubt is expressed about the need of this. It is argued that "the female of the species" will be so adept in the matter of courtship and marriage by the end of the year that she will have little difficulty in imparting her knowledge to the less deadly male.

The girls are taught how to deport themselves during courtship, and instructed in household management, home dietetics, housekeeping accounts, dressmaking, millinery, and even in such practical matters as how plumbers are supposed to do their work and how much they should be paid.

PRIEST BANS "BRIDAL RICE"

Connecticut Divine Calls Showers on Newlyweds "Filthy Habit" and Forbids Repetition.

New London, Conn.—There will be no more rice showers on bridal couples leaving St. Mary's Roman Catholic church in this city, of which the Rev. Timothy M. Crowley is pastor.

Recently as a popular bride and bridegroom stepped out of the edifice fully ten pounds of rice were hurled at the newlyweds, and this incident was evidently the last straw that led to the Rev. Crowley's spirited remarks later.

"I do not know where this filthy habit originated," said the priest, "but I am fully convinced rice throwing in the church vestibule and entrances must be abolished. I will see that there is no more of it about this church."

LAW'S INJUSTICE MADE PLAIN

Farmer's Grievance Was That Story Once Accepted Should Not Remain Good.

A story is being told at the expense of an old English farmer who was recently called upon to explain why he had failed to take out a license for a favorite fox terrier dog. "'E's nobbut a puppy," the defendant remarked, in response to a question as to the animal's age. "Yes, yes! So you say. But how old is he?" "Oh, weel, I couldn' tell to a bit," was the reply. "I never was much good at remembering dates, but 'e's nobbut a puppy." On the other hand, it was maintained that the animal in question was a very, very old-fashioned puppy, and the magistrate inflicted the usual fine. Shortly afterward the farmer was met by a friend who wanted to know how he had fared at the police court. "Nobbut middlin'," was the reply. "Did they fine you?" "Yes," responded the victim; "an' 'ang me if I can understand it! Last year an' the year afore that I told the same tale about the same dog, an' it wor allus good enough afore! Who's been tamperin' wi' the law sin' last year?"

IN AGONY WITH ITCHING

"About four years ago I broke out with sores on my arms like boils. After two months they were all over my body, some coming, and some going away. In about six months the boils quit, but my arms, neck and body broke out with an itching, burning rash. It would burn and itch, and come out in pimples like grains of wheat. I was in a terrible condition; I could not sleep or rest. Parts of my flesh were raw, and I could scarcely bear my clothes on. I could not lie in bed in any position and rest. In about a year the sores extended down to my feet. Then I suffered agony with the burning, itching sores. I could hardly walk and for a long time I could not put on socks.

"All this time I was trying everything I could hear of, and had the skill of three doctors. They said it was eczema. I got no benefit from all this. I was nearly worn out, and had given up in despair of ever being cured when I was advised by a friend to try Cuticura Remedies. I purchased Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Resolvent, and used exactly as directed. I used the Cuticura Remedies constantly for four months, and nothing else, and was perfectly cured. It is now a year, and I have not had the least bit since. I am ready to praise the Cuticura Remedies at any time. (Signed) E. L. Cate, Exile, Ky., Nov. 10, 1910.

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as without fee, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Prest., Buffalo, N. Y.

PLAN LARGE MEETING.

Program Announced for State Y. M. C. A. Convention At Winona.

Winona.—The complete program for the thirty-eighth annual convention of the Young Men's Christian Associations of Minnesota, to be held at Winona February 8 to 11, has been issued by State Secretary Edward W. Peck. Most of the associations will send delegates to the meeting.

The state officers are planning to make the convention the largest of its kind ever held in the state. The theme of the meeting is announced as follows: "Men and Religion. Its Present Significance." The speakers will take up the various phases of the association's work, which includes Bible study, social service, boys' work, missions, the church and evangelism.

The executive committee has announced the following speakers for the convention: Henry Churchill King, D. D., president of Oberlin college; Clyde R. Joy of Keokuk, chairman of the national finance committee and the Men and Religion Forward movement; Dr. George J. Fisher of New York, international secretary of the physical department of the Y. M. C. A., James E. Freeman, D. D., rector of St. Mark's church at Minneapolis; William J. Robinson of Chicago, president of a large Illinois corporation and a great helper of the Y. M. C. A. in his state; David R. Poster of the preparatory school department; Ozora S. Davis, D. D., of Chicago, president of the Chicago Theological seminary; Clarence B. Willis of Milwaukee, general secretary of the Milwaukee association, and A. G. Hebel of St. Louis, international secretary of the railroad department.

The Federation of Churches of Winona will hold a Men and Religion Forward rally in connection and the joint banquet will be a feature.

The executive committee which is in charge of the convention this year is made up of the following members: B. A. Kirk, St. Paul; W. B. Mitchell, St. Cloud; Arthur E. Haynes, Minneapolis; D. C. Hill, Red Wing; Walter N. Carroll, Minneapolis; G. P. Lyman, St. Paul; William M. Gold, Redwood Falls; Albert J. Nason, St. Paul; F. E. House, Duluth; J. M. Anderson, Minneapolis; W. D. Willard, Mankato; Thomas Owens, Two Harbors; Donald J. Cowling, Northfield; W. J. Wheeler, Crookston; Charles J. Winton, Minneapolis; Earnest E. Jewett, St. Paul; Joseph M. Hackney, St. Paul; Milo B. Price, Owatonna; Henry F. Nachtreb, University of Minnesota; David B. Bell, Minneapolis, Edward W. Peck, Minneapolis.

MAY STOP SHOE MAKING

Legislator Intimates That Manufacture at Stillwater May Be Stopped.

Minneapolis.—Manufacture of shoes by prison labor at the Stillwater penitentiary will end Sept. 1, 1914, "if no way is found to put an end thereto at an earlier date," according to Representative L. C. Spooner, of Morris. Mr. Spooner was reported to have said to the implement dealers in convention at the West Hotel, Jan. 12, that the state would some day be manufacturing shoes. He says that he is opposed to the state engaging in such manufacture. At present some of the prison labor is sold to the Western Shoe Company, under a contract which expires Sept. 1, 1914, but claims are made that the contract is illegal, and Mr. Spooner's statement intimates that an effort may be made to cancel it.

Automobiles at Minneapolis.

Minneapolis.—Plans are complete for the fifth annual automobile show to be held in Minneapolis February 17-24. Hundreds of models will be shown in the armory building and in every way this exhibition will go down in the motor history of the northwest as the most representative display ever staged. Manufacturers are realizing the importance of Minneapolis as a motor car distributing center and have arranged to send their complete show exhibits direct from the Chicago show of the week before. So popular is the Minneapolis Automobile Show Association that every inch of space was sold within half an hour's time. A score of firms since that time have been refused space because of lack of room. There will be an elaborate scheme of decoration carried out throughout the large building; there will be singing by well known vocalists and band concerts afternoon and evening throughout the week. In all there will be sixty-one complete lines of cars shown besides all the attractive exhibits of the oil and accessory firms.

CARIBOU NOT EXTINCT

Duluth Man Fined for Having Heads of Pair Shot in State.

St. Paul.—Statements that the caribou is extinct in Minnesota have been disproved by agents of the state game and fish commission. Word was received in the office of the commission in St. Paul that O. F. Albine of Duluth has been fined $100 for having two caribou heads in his possession. The caribou were shot near the Canadian line in eastern Minnesota.

TO SOLVE BOY PROBLEM

Mankato Claims Largest Organization of Youths in State.

Mankato.—The Boys' Gospel Regiment of the Y. M. C. A. has reached a membership of over 150, believed to be the largest boy organization in the state. An effort is being made to bring the membership up to 200. The organization is made up of boy members of the Y. M. C. A., who carry on their own meetings and it has all of the officers of a military regiment. Company A consists of boys 12 to 20 years old, and Company B of boys from 8 to 12 years old. The entire routine and formalities of the regular army, salute, codes and military tactics, are in use by the boys. There is only one other organization like it in the United States, and that is at Hamilton, Ohio.

FIRE AT BELLE PLAINE

Loss on Landmark in Minnesota Town Estimated at $13,000.

Belle, Plaine.—The old Belle Plaine hotel was almost entirely destroyed by fire. Loss was about $13,000. How the fire originated is unknown. Hampered by the cold weather, the fire department had trouble in checking it, but confined the flames to the upper stories. Damage to the lower story was mostly by water.

"TOOZE" ROGERS DEAD.

Well Known Minneapolis Hotel Man Succumbs to Operation.

Minneapolis. — J. E. Rogers, 42 years of age, known to the traveling public all over the Northwest as "Tooze," proprietor of the Rogers hotel and the Unique theater, interested in many other business ventures and one of the most widely known men in Minneapolis, died at St. Barnabas hospital, following an operation for abdominal trouble.

SEEK INSANE CONVICT'S PARDON

St. Paul.—Andrew Tratico's father and mother in sunny Italy want to care for the boy who ran away years ago, came to America, was arrested and sent to state prison for five years and went insane in the prison. They have asked the state board of control to grant a conditional pardon to their son so he may be deported to Italy and cared for by them. Under the name of John Mussolino, Tratico was convicted of extortion at Grand Rapids in 1909. The pardon will be considered at the next meeting of the board.

Slayer Changes His Mind.

Jackson.—Martin Johnson, the self-confessed slayer of Ole Sandager at Lakefield last fall, who has all along announced an intention to plead guilty, has changed his mind. The grand jury has returned an indictment, charging him with murder in the first degree, but when arraigned, he entered a plea of not guilty and asked for a trial. Judge Quinn appointed E. H. Nichols to defend him, and it is thought the defense will be based upon alleged insanity. No date for the trial has yet been fixed.

New Town Named Oreland.

Brainerd.—Oscar J. Carlsen and associates of Deerwood have platted a new town named Oreland on the south range of the Cuyuna about three miles south of Deerwood and half a mile from the new Adams mine on the Cuyuna Northern railway. The county commissioners have approved the plat. Large ore bodies lie in the immediate vicinity of Oreland.

School Will be Finished.

Albert Lea.—At a special meeting of the electors of the school district, composed of this city and some outlying country, it was unanimously decided to authorize the board of education to issue additional bonds to the amount of $30,000 to complete and equip the schoolhouse in course of construction.

Feed Too Coarse for Young Stock.

Rushmore. — Farmers are having trouble in feeding corn to young stock, especially calves and yearlings. Where no hay is fed the food seems too coarse. One man lost nine yearlings in a week, and many have lost from one to three.

Scarlet Fever in Three Homes.

Litchfield.—Three homes in this city are quarantined for scarlet fever. The authorities are making every effort to stamp out the disease.

Blast Hurts Little Falls Man.

Little Falls. — Verne Carpenter, an auto repairman, was fatally injured when an automobile gasoline tank exploded. The building was destroyed by the fire which followed, together with six automobiles and repair tools. The loss is estimated at $12,000.

Pine Island. — The agricultural department of the Pine Island schools is holding a corn show for the counties of Dodge, Olmsted, Goodhue and Wabasha.

SALE DISCUSSED

DAVID N. WINTON SAYS WHITE EARTH BUYERS, "DIDN'T CUT HEADS OFF."

GIVES POSITIVE OPINION

Testifies That He Was Told Agreement Had Been Reached by Some. Other Witnesses at Hearing.

Minneapolis, Minn.—David N. Winter, a wealthy lumberman of Minneapolis, gave it as his opinion at the White Earth reservation hearing that a few buyers of timber at the Crookston sale in November, 1900, "got together and didn't cut each other's heads off."

This opinion was the most startling development of the day's session and marked an advance in the quality of the evidence which is being presented to prove a combination at the sale for the purpose of exclusive bidding opportunities. Mr. Winton was the first witness to express a positive opinion in favor of the theory of the representatives of the department of justice that there was such a combination. He testified also that another had told him that there was an agreement on the part of some of the buyers not to "cut each other's throats." He could, however, neither recall the name of his informant nor suggest the names of those who entered into the understanding.

Another witness, Luther Davies, merchant of Oshkosh, Wis., testified that while the sale was on he bid in some land and entered into an agreement with Hovey C. Clarke to sell it to him at an advance of $5,000, without investing a cent himself. He asserted that he and Clarke had no understanding as to bidding.

A second Minneapolis lumberman of prominence, Richard H. Chute, admitted in an open manner that the company of which he was the head had evaded a state law in its purchase of some land at the sale by bidding for it, through him, in his name. He denied knowledge of any combination among bidders.

A spirited show of feeling marked the hearing and created considerable diversion. The persons responsible were John J. Lynch, a witness, and Gus Beaulieu. The latter's attempt to interrogate Lynch met with a flat refusal which required the diplomacy of Representative Graham to overcome. A declaration of bad feeling between the witness and the man from the reservation was one incident, and the passage of insinuations another, of the quarrel.

Names Puzzle Graham.

Some of the names which designate natural features of the state have proved a source of amusement to Representative Graham of the investigating committee.

Thief River Falls and Rum river have both been named in the investigation. In the case of each the committee chairman has raised his brows.

"Is that the place where all these pillagers come from?" he asked Mr. Burch, when Thief River Falls was mentioned, and when the words Rum river broke from the lips of Richard H. Chute, a witness, Mr. Graham remarked that it was a wonder everybody around here didn't move up there. "Down south, where they are going in for irrigation, that river wouldn't have much show," he said.

Winona.—Arrangements have been completed by Rev. Father Griffin for holding a two weeks' mission at the procathedral, commencing on Feb. 25.

St. Cloud.—Officer Joseph Dimler, for interfering with Patrolman Emil Lepinski in the act of arresting Dimler's brother, has been suspended for thirty days.

Fergus Falls.—Thomas Glanders, a merchant of Frazee, filed a bankruptcy petition in the United States court here, placing his assets at $677 and his liabilities at $1,883.

Minneapolis.—A night fire in commission row did $75,000 damage. Streams of almost priceless butter poured from the building with oranges and apples floating on the surface.

Winona. — A large portion of the mail stolen in the pouch taken from the Milwaukee depot here the night of Jan. 4 has been returned, having been tied up in a paper parcel and dropped

Rochester.—Beginning Monday, the agricultural department of the Pine Island schools had a corn show, in which the counties of Dodge, Olmsted, Goodhue and Wabasha complete for prizes.

Washington, D. C. — A subpoena will be immediately issued, requiring the presence of W. A. McGonagle, president of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway, before the steel committee.

Duluth.—The frozen body of Frank Blato was found in the woods near Brookston. The man was overcome by the cold while trying to reach a cedar camp several miles from the place, where he was found.

Litchfield.—The notion dealing firm of Selhaver & Shute, with stores at St. Cloud and Willmar, has gone into bankruptcy with liabilities of perhaps $8,000 and assets of half that amount. Fred. P. Bolles, Minneapolis, was selected trustee.

Duluth. — Fire in the Commercial club building caused a loss of $6,000. The damage to the building is estimated at $1,500 and the loss on the contents of the club $4,500. The fire started in a cigar store. Few people were in the club at the time. The loss is covered by insurance.

Duluth.—Labor agents of Duluth report that they are unable to get men enough to supply the demand. Eight agencies report a total of 1,800 men wanted for woods and other work. The wages offered for woods work have advanced somewhat over last November. The agents complain that many unemployed men do not want work.

Belle Plaine.—The old Belle Plaine hotel was almost totally destroyed by fire. The loss was about $13,000. How the fire originated is unknown, but when discovered it had gained considerable headway. Hampered by the cold weather, the fire department had trouble in checking it, but confined the flames to the upper stories. Damage to the lower story was mostly by water. The building is one of the oldest in the town. It has been on fire fourteen times, but never before did the fire get beyond control.

Minneapolis.—The Minneapolis automobile show to be held in the National Guard Armory Feb. 17-24, is the fifth annual show of the Minneapolis Automobile Show Association, and advance information is to the effect that there will be more of interest than ever before. Every inch of available space was taken within half an hour's time when the drawing for space was held and since that time the management has been obliged to refuse admittance to nearly a score of firms who were late with their applications. Hundreds of automobiles, gasoline and electric, pleasure and commercial, and accessories will be on display. There will be elaborate decorations, singing and band concerts.

RAILROAD MAN WRITES REMARKABLE LETTER.

In 1903 and 1904, I was a terrible sufferer for about five months with kidney and bladder trouble. I could not sleep nights. One doctor said I was going into consumption and gave me up to die. Had two other doctors but received no help from either of them and am sure I would have been in my grave had I not seen your advertisement in the "Marinette Daily Eagle Star." After taking several bottles of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root I was entirely cured.

In the last two years I have been a railroad fireman and have passed two examinations for my kidneys successfully so that I know that my kidneys are in excellent condition now as a result of your great preparation.

Yours very truly,
GEORGE KENSLER,
109½ 13th Ave. So., Minneapolis, Minn.

Personally appeared before me this 25th of September, 1909, George Kensler, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

When the Flag Looks Good.

"I have been in countries where the laboring man had meat once a year; sometimes twice—Christmas and Easter. And I have seen women carrying upon their heads a burden that no man would like to carry, and at the same time knitting busily with both hands. And those women lived without meat; and when I thought of the American laborer I said to myself: 'After all, my country is the best in the world.' And when I came back to the sea and saw the old flag flying in the air, it seemed to me as though the air from pure joy had burst into blossom."—Robert G. Ingersoll.

SURPRISED DOCTOR.

Illustrating the Effect of Food.

The remarkable adaptability of Grape-Nuts food to stomachs so disordered that they will reject everything else, is illustrated by the case of a woman in Racine, Wis.

"Two years ago," she says, "I was attacked by a stomach trouble so serious that for a long time I could not take much of any sort of food. Even the various kinds prescribed by the doctor produced most acute pain.

"We then got some Grape-Nuts food, and you can imagine my surprise and delight when I found that I could eat it with a relish and without the slightest distress.

"When the doctor heard of it he told me to take several small portions each day, because he feared I would grow tired of it as I had of all other food.

"But to his surprise, (and that of everybody else), I did not tire of Grape-Nuts, and became better day by day, till, after some weeks, my stomach entirely recovered and I was able to eat anything my appetite craved.

"My nerves, which had become so weakened that I feared I would become insane, were also restored by the Grape-Nuts food in connection with Postum which has become our table beverage. I appreciate most gratefully and thankfully the good that your food preparations have done me, and shall be glad to answer any letters inquiring as to my experience." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Alvah Eastman, editor of the St. Cloud Journal-Press, has announced his candidacy for the republican nomination for congressman at large.

The prohibitionists suffered a severe deafeat in the decision of the supreme court declaring that liquor may be shipped from one state into dry counties of another state though prohibited by laws of the dry states.

Though the announced purpose of the investigation to inquire into the cause for the present low stage of water in the Red Lake river was defeated, much good may indirectly come from them. The advantages of the construction of dams to control the flow of water in the river were clearly set forth in the statement of the committee of the Grand Forks commercial club. "The Red Lake river could be brought, by a series of dams, to a nearly uniform level or unvarying stage through most of the year."

Progress of Socialism

In the last issue of Hampton's Columbian magazine, Charles Edward Russell, candidate for governor of New York on the socialist ticket in 1910, is accorded eleven full pages for an article on "Socialism, Where it Stands Today," which is profusely illustrated. The article is perhaps of special interest to Crookston because Crookston is mentioned in it twice as being among the growing list of American cities that has a socialist mayor.

The growth of socialism has been so remarkable that no man with brains can ignore it. For years the press of the country, Russell claims and with good reason, tried to ignore socialism and would scarcely give the briefest mention of anything that required the use of the word "socialist," unless it was in connection with a murder or outrage of some kind.

With a state like Ohio having twenty-nine socialist mayors, New York twenty-eight, and many others a substantial number, and with the socialists organized upon the most substantial basis of any political party ever known in the world's history, the powers that be might just as well sit up and take notice, and make a little memorandum in their book that here is something to be reckoned with.

The Times stated two years ago that some of the slogans of socialism would be adopted by the dominant parties soon or they would cease to be the dominant parties. Few who are keeping tag on the political wig-wagging on the horizon have failed to see the significance of the thousands enrolling under the banner of socialism.

Many who have helped elect a socialist candidate, however, are not socialists. They never joined the socialist party and never will, but they took that means of administering a slap to the party they have affiliated with, as a warning that certain abuses must cease, and that domination by any corrupt gang or other influence that was spreading outside its own bailiwick must cease, and fair treatment must be accorded to every individual.

People have voted the socialist ticket, not because they believed in socialism, or even pretended to know what it would mean or bring about, but because they wanted to defeat the other party. They voted on the theory that any change must be a change for the better. When the rank and file of voters get in that frame of mind then it is time that the old parties got their cue.

The rank and file cannot be humbugged on the same things all the time. Meaningless "planks" and hollow promises can no longer turn the tide of votes. The people will never be satisfied till the goods are delivered. The old flim-flam game has been going on so long that only when the dominant party really accomplishes something that is for the benefit of the laboring classes will there be any response in the vote line.

At intervals some political makes an announcement favoring something advocated by the socialists. "Government ownership of telegraph systems, to be operated in connection with the postoffice department, is advocated by Secretary Hitchcock. President Taft has O. K'd the plan.

This is significant only as it means a granting of a demand of the people, because the telegraph companies and the express companies of the country have been in the class of legalized brigands, openly robbing the people legally.

We analyze the situation briefly as follows: If the people cannot get justice any other way, they will vote with the socialists, with utter disregard of what the result would be. Rather than submit to unreasonable domination or be dictated to by any power, they will revolt and socialism will score still greater victories.

Wise is that political leader who does not shut his eyes to the handwriting on the wall, and who will fight for those principles which the people are demanding of their public servants, and if the demands of the people are not granted, then it will serve the stiff necked reprobates exactly right if socialism does sweep the land.

No man was created to wear a yoke, and if this "land of the free and home of the brave" would be made a joke of and disgraced by political hypocrites and domineering money grabbers, then put it down in your little red note book the ranks of the socialists will continue to swell. Shutting our eyes to a danger does not avoid the fatal clash. As well stick your head in a sandpile.—Crookston Times.

There is a prize for you as well as others, too, at the firemen's mask ball Feb. 9.

Give the Boy a Chance

This year the state is offering $800 in prizes for the boys who can grow the most corn on one acre of land. In addition to the cash prizes, the Minneapolis Tribune has offered a scholarship for one year at the school of agriculture at St. Anthony Park, as a sweepstakes prize for the champion corn grower of the state.

This contest will mean a great deal to the boys and to agriculture in the state. It will stimulate an interest in corn growing and in better crops, which can be aroused in no other way. Every boy who follows the rules of the contest and carries it through to completion will be stronger for having done so. The boy who establishes a yield record for his county adds to the value of land in his locality, shows what the soil can be made to produce by the practice of good methods.

Every farmer who has a boy between the ages of 10 and 18 years can afford to give him an acre of ground for this contest. Every father should not only give his boy the use of the land, but he should encourage him to enter the contest, furnish him with seed, advise him in his selection, and in the method of preparing the land and cultivating the crop. Give the boy a chance to see what he can do. If he wins a prize for production, or gets his name on the state honor roll for crop production, he has accomplished something worth while, and deserves great credit.

The rules for this contest will be issued soon. The extension division is anxious to reach as many boys as possible by means of this contest. Everyone interested in the development of the boy should cooperate with the extension division by boosting for this contest.—O. M. Olson, Extension Div. Minn. College of Agriculture.

Boys in Pool Halls

A mother recently addressed the Open Court on the danger of allowing young boys to frequent pool halls at all hours. The Herald's attention is called to the fact that this subject is fully covered by a law adopted at the last session of the legislature.

Chapter 183 of the general laws for 1911 prohibits "all persons under the age of 18 years, or who are minor pupils in any school," from playing pool or billiards in or frequenting any public pool or billiard room. It also provides that boys who violate this law may be fined. Better still, it provides that proprietors of pool or billiard halls who allow boys under 18 to frequent their places of business may be fined or sent to jail. An amendment excepts from these provisions boys who have the written consent of parents or guardians.

This seems to be law enough to cover the subject; but of course no law is useful unless it is enforced. Interested parents will have no trouble in seeing that this law is enforced.—Duluth Herald.

Treasures in Mexico

According to Consul Magill of Mexico that country is rich in rare curios, especially in copper and gold luster ware, which can be bought for bullion price. Carvings in ivory, fans, and ornaments done in the highest art can be picked up for a song. Old jewels in settings of centuries past are quite plenty. But he advises care in the selection, just as one should be careful to select golden grain belt beers for their summer beverage or table assistant to digestion. Once tried, never forgotten. Order of Alex Thompson, Crookston, or of your dealer.

He Wants to Show His Old Friends

On his way home to Chicago last week James Ward made the statement at Crookston that he would like to make a flight from Crookston to his home in St. Hilaire with a side trip to Thief River Falls. He has made an offer that will no doubt be accepted. He wants to give his parents and old-time friends an opportunity to see him in action as a birdman and he is willing to make the flights for the bare expense of shipping his machine and bringing his men here.

He begins his 1912 season's work in June and suggests some time in that month as the date for the proposed flights here.

HIT HIM IN TWO PLACES.

The Way Cicero Treated His Devoted Admirer Patrarch.

In the early autumn of 1358 Petrarch suffered an accident which may be narrated in his own words. "You shall hear," he writes to a friend, "what a trick Cicero, the man whom I have loved and worshiped from my boyhood, has just played me. I possess a huge volume of his letters, which I wrote out some time ago with my own hand because there was no original manuscript accessible to the copyists. Ill health hindered me, but my great love of Cicero and delight in the letters and eagerness to possess them prevailed against my bodily weakness and the laboriousness of the work. This is the book which you have seen leaning against the doorpost at the entry to my library. One day while going into the room thinking about something else, as I often do, I happened inadvertently to catch the book in the fringe of my gown. In its fall it struck me lightly on the left leg a little above the heel. 'What! My Cicero,' quoth I, bantering him, 'pray what are you hitting me for?' He said nothing, but next day as I came again the same way he hit me again, and again I laughed at him and set him up in his place. Why make a long story? Over and over again I went on suffering the same hurt, and, thinking he might be cross at having to stand on the ground, I put him up a shelf higher, but not till after the repeated blows on the same spot had broken the skin and a far from despicable sore had resulted. I despised it, though, reckoning the cause of my accident of much more weight than the accident itself. At last, when the pain was too much not only for my wit, but for sleep and rest, so that to neglect the thing any longer seemed not courage, but madness, I was forced to call in the doctors, who have now for some days been fussing over this really ridiculous wound, not without great pain and some danger to the wounded limb, as they insist, though I think you know just what reliance I place on their prognostications either of good or evil. So this is how my beloved Cicero has treated me. He long ago struck my heart, and now he has struck my leg." —From H. C. Hollway-Calthorp's "Petrarch."

No Satisfaction.

"I am afraid I will have to give up smoking."

"The doctor order it?"

"No; my wife is beginning to like the odor of a good cigar."

Sailing by Candle Time.

"It did me good," observed a young girl who had just returned from England, "to see in real life one of the old customs my grandfather used to tell me about—the burning of the time candle at an auction. In Berkshire the old custom still prevails, and when an auction is in progress and an article is put up for bidding a short length of candle is lighted as the bidding begins. The shouting continues until the candle burns out, and the last bid before it flickers its last is the one that takes the cake. I don't know but what it has an advantage over the 'Going, going, gone!' variety, but it is fearfully slow and un-American."—Exchange.

Necessary.

"Dear me," exclaimed the lady, "that's twice you have dropped that cut glass pitcher within five minutes!"

"I know it, ma'am," replied the maid, "but it didn't break the first time."—Chicago Record-Herald

Popular in Every State

The seventy-seventh year of its existence finds the Toledo Blade more popular than at any period during its long and successful career. It is now read each week by more than a million people. The Blade's field is national and goes into every state and territory in the United States, thereby giving it an unquestionable right of claiming to be the greatest national weekly newspaper in America.

The Weekly Blade is distinctly a family newspaper. The one object of its publishers has always been to make it fit for the American home, for the fireside, and of interest to every member of the family. To fulfill this purpose it is kept clean and wholesome. The news of the world is handled in a comprehensive manner, and the various departments of The Blade are edited with painstaking care. The Household page is a delight to the women and children; current affairs are treated editorially without prejudice: the serial stories are selected with the idea of pleasing the greatest number of fiction lovers; the Question Bureau is a scrap-book of information; the Farmstead columns are conducted with the purpose of giving the patrons a medium for the exchange of ideas and information on farm topics. No department is neglected, but every feature is taken care of with the idea of making The Blade worth many times the price of subscription—one dollar a year.

LOMBARD PIANOS
The Pianos With The Sweetest Tone

Praised by Press and Pulpit

No Piano has ever been more enthusiastically endorsed. The Artistic Case, the Easy, Responsive Action, and above all the deep, sweet, rich Tone, captivates performer and listener. The united verdict is that ∴ ∴ ∴ ∴

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Parviance, Editor McNairny County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

DAKOTA BUSINESS COLLEGE

Every person needs a business education and it costs no more to get it at this great Business and Shorthand Training School, under model office conditions, than at one of the small questionable ones. The results are, however, very different. 350 D. B. C. pupils went to excellent positions in banks and offices this year—over 400 will do so next year. All Fargo banks and 685 others employ D. B. C. pupils as cashiers, tellers or bookkeepers. No other school offers such endorsement.

Our $50 course prepares for business life, or for position as clerk or bookkeeper. Our new $35 course in Commerce and Banking (endorsed by Bankers' Association) supplies cashiers and tellers for the Northwestern banks, and bookkeepers and credit men for the larger concerns. The shorthand course (under an expert reporter) trains court reporters and high grade stenographers. The stenographers for the U. S. District Court, N. D. Supreme Court, 3d Judicial District, and the Cass Co. Court are D. B. C. pupils. Can other schools offer this proof of superior training?

The D. B. C. has built a magnificent new building (15,000 square feet of space) is seated with roll top desks, has 40 typewriters, adding machines, billers, money changers, etc. Our pupils deal with each other and with [illegible] magnificently equipped offices, using aluminum money. Our courses are fascinating and practical. The Northwest has no other school like the D. B. C. [illegible] Next term begins [illegible]

THE PEEVISH CHILD NEEDS TREATMENT

When a child sulks drowsily, or is fretful, it is usually due to some slight disorder of the digestive organs, and a mild laxative is very often all that is necessary to restore cheerfulness and buoyancy of spirits.

In cases where the use of a gentle, effective laxative stimulant is indicated, many of the best physicians are now prescribing Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This preparation is admittedly the perfect laxative, being mild, yet positive in its action on the bowels, and far preferable to violent cathartics and purgative waters. It is very pleasant to the taste and is an ideal remedy to regulate and strengthen the stomach, liver and bowels. Its easy, natural action makes it especially desirable in the case of children, a dose at bed-time being sure to have the desired result next morning, with no attendant unpleasantness or discomfort.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold by druggists everywhere in 50c and $1.00 bottles. If you have never tried this splendid remedy, write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 201 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., for a sample. He will be very glad to send a trial bottle without any expense to you whatever.

Not a Lively Fish, at Best.

One of the porters on the train out of Salt Lake City was an impassive-looking negro, who had a ready, if inaccurate, answer to almost any question put him by the passengers. It was hard to tell whether he believed all that he said or whether he was having fun with his questioners.

One man, on first catching sight of the lake, asked if there were any fish in it.

"No, sah," said the porters, "dere ain't no fishes in dat lake, sah. Dey done tried ter see ef dey couldn't have fishes in dare, but dey wouldn't stay alive. De fishes dat stayed alive de longest was salt mack'r'l, but dey wa'n't very prosp'rous, sah."—Youth's Companion.

"Those Youthful Prodigies."

"Will wonders never cease?" said Jones to his wife; "Here is an account of a six-year-old boy who can work the most difficult problems in algebra."

"Remarkable!" admitted Mrs. Jones, "but I know a four-year-old girl that knows Greek. Where does your little wonder live?"

"In Boston. Where does your linguistic marvel live?"

Mrs. Jones gazed out of the window with a far-away look in her eyes as she answered: "In Greece."—National Food Magazine.

RED CROSS FOUNDER

Clara Barton Celebrates Ninetieth Birthday Anniversary.

Failing Health of Woman Who Conceived Idea of Aiding Wounded Soldiers During Civil War Prevents Celebration.

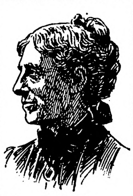
Washington.—Miss Clara Barton, famous the world over as a Red Cross worker, reached her ninetieth birthday anniversary Christmas day. Congratulatory messages from friends and admirers in many parts of the world were received at the home of the famous nurse at Glen Echo, Md., a few miles from this city.

Friends and neighbors of Miss Barton contemplated having a celebration of her anniversary, but all plans in this direction were abandoned because of the precarious condition of her health.

Miss Barton has been failing ever since her serious illness last winter. Of the friends who called at Glen Echo only the most intimate were permitted to see her.

Few women of America have had a more active or more interesting career than Clara Barton. She was born in Oxford, Mass., December 25, 1821, the daughter of Capt. Stephen Barton, who fought under Gen. Anthony Wayne. In her early career she was a school-teacher. She founded a free school at Bordentown, N. J., which, beginning with six pupils, quickly grew until it numbered nearly 600. This work she gave up to accept a place in the patent office at Washington, which she held until the outbreak of the Civil war.

After giving up her government position Miss Barton advertised in a newspaper in Worcester, Mass., that she would receive stores and money for wounded soldiers at the front, which she personally would distribute. Her appeal was liberally answered, and she began her great relief work.



Clara Barton.

She continued with the soldiers in Virginia during nearly the entire period of the war, being head nurse of the hospitals among the armies on the James.

Miss Barton went to Europe in 1869, and was abroad when the Franco-Prussian war broke out. She lost no time in going to Strassburg and beginning the work of nursing the wounded soldiers. She proceeded later to Paris and rendered assistance in relieving distress at the time of the commune.

The American Association of Red Cross was formed in 1881, and Miss Barton was chosen its first president, which position she continued to fill until the reorganization of the society several years ago, when, realizing that she was no longer young enough to direct the affairs of the society, she yielded the management to other hands.

During the more than twenty years that Miss Barton sustained the movement in America, she visited numerous scenes of disaster, such as Johnstown after the flood, Galveston after the tidal wave, sections where forest fires had denuded the country and impoverished its people, or where the abundant waters of the Mississippi had overflowed, carrying death and desolation to thousands.

It is to be earnestly hoped that Miss Barton will live to witness many more Christmas days. She is comforted and sustained in her declining days by the prayers and blessings of many who have benefited by her gentle ministrations, and by the knowledge of good work accomplished.

CAN'T TELL HIS SONS APART

Marvelous Texas Twins Who Exchange Sweethearts and the Latter Don't Know It.

Fort Worth, Texas.—John Cobb Harris, a wealthy Mansfield farmer, came to Fort Worth to make a new will, because he was unable to tell his twin sons apart. The will he destroyed gave John Harris certain property and Cobb, the other twin, other realty, but Harris had divided his property just opposite to his own desires.

Harris' sons are 22 years of age and among the most remarkable twins in the country. Both are six feet six inches tall and muscular. With their hats on their father cannot tell one from the other, but John is a little more bald than his brother.

The twins keep a common bank account and always speak of "our money," "our horse" and even "our girl," as they frequently play a joke on their sweethearts by exchanging them.

Once Wealthy, Dies in Road.

Newburg, N. Y.—Drivers of an ash wagon recently found the frozen body of Brayton W. Bennet, fifty-five years old, in the road running through the city dump. Bennet, who was once one of the city's most prosperous furniture merchants, lived in the city and town home. He had received a short leave of absence and was returning to the institution when the extreme cold overtook him.

SUFFERED FOURTEEN YEARS.

A Terrible Case of Dropsy and How It Was Cured.

Mrs. W. R. Cody, 403 Tenth St., Lewiston, Idaho, says: "I was so lame and sore I could hardly move. Headaches were frequent and my whole body bloated. I had chills and hot flashes and my ankles swelled so I could scarcely wear my shoes. Kidney secretions bothered me and my nerves were unstrung. I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills and soon the swelling diminished. The backache and other troubles quickly disappeared, and I was completely cured."

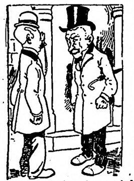
THE WAY NOWADAYS.



Hoax—My daughter has reached the age when a girl begins to think of marriage.

Joax—Just seven years old, eh?

The Thin Girl's Temper.

No thin woman can afford to lose her temper. "Nothing," says a good authority, "will make you so angular or give your face such an undesirable look as the free indulgence of your own will." A girl who was thin to a really painful degree gained 30 pounds in 60 days on the following regime: Twelve hours' sleep a day; a well-ventilated and cold room to sleep in, with plenty of fresh air all night; light down coverlets for warmth and hot-water bags at the feet if they are cold; loose, light clothing at all times, with plenty of space about the chest, shoulders and waist; a diet of cereals, cocoa, fresh fruits or starchy vegetables, potatoes, beans, etc., milk and cream—everything of a warming, fat-producing nature in the way of food; warm baths, though not too frequently.

An Every-Day Creed.

I desire to radiate health, cheerfulness, sincerity, calm courage and good will. I wish to live without hate, whim, jealousy, envy or fear. I wish to be simple, honest, natural, frank, clean in mind and clean in body, unaffected, ready to say "I do not know" if so it be, to meet all men on an absolute equality, to face any obstacle and meet every difficulty unafraid and unabashed. I wish others to live their lives, too, up to their highest, fullest and best. To that end I pray that I may never meddle, dictate, interfere, give advice that is not wanted, nor assist when my services are not needed. If I can help people I'll do it by giving them a chance to help themselves; and if I can uplift or inspire let it be by example. That is to say, I desire to be radiant—to radiate life.—Elbert Hubbard.

THE HOME LIFE OF THE SETTLER

WESTERN CANADA AFFORDS ALL THE COMFORTS AND MANY OF THE LUXURIES.

A young lady of Wisconsin secured a certificate at the Milwaukee office of the Canadian Government, and on presenting this to the ticket agent of the railway at the Canadian boundary line she secured a ticket at a reduced rate which carried her to Edmonton, Alberta, from which point, about forty miles, she had friends. This was a couple of years ago, and the young lady is now married to one of the promising young farmers of the district.

In writing of her trip to the Milwaukee representatives of the Canadian Government she says: "I enjoyed my trip up here very much, and expect to go out to our homestead in the Pembina district next spring." To the housewife the information that she has "put up twelve quarts of raspberries" is important, as they "picked them themselves," and they might have picked ten times the quantity if they had required them, for there is no country where wild fruit grows in such abundance. The letter goes on to say, and this is interesting from a woman's standpoint, "the country is very beautiful." Speaking of the friends with whom she went up to live, she says: "They certainly have a beautiful farm and house"—they had been there about four years, also going from Wisconsin—"they have about twenty acres of oats and barley, five acres alfalfa, three acres potatoes and I don't know how many of vegetables. I think they have about forty acres under cultivation altogether. They are now draining a slough which they will afterwards plow and put into fall wheat. They also have a large herd of cattle, and Mrs. C. has about 100 chickens. They make on an average of 30 pounds of butter every week. I never saw such grand cream."

Now these people are enjoying life in Alberta; they have a splendid climate, excellent prospects, and are happy that they are part and parcel in the working out of the upbuilding of a new country, that will take its place amongst the progressive countries of the century. Numbers of letters that express satisfaction as extreme as the one quoted appear in literature sent out by the Canadian Government and which may be had on application to any of its agents.

During the year 1911 the greatest percentage of increase among the different forms of anti-tuberculosis work was among the open-air schools for anemic and tuberculous children. On January 1, 1911, there were only 29 open-air schools in operation or provided for in the entire country. On January 1, 1912, there were 91, an increase of 214 per cent. Sixty-two new schools have been established or provided for this past year. This entire number of open-air schools have been established since January 1, 1907.

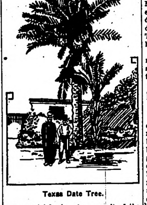
DATE GROWING IN TEXAS

Federal Government Aiding Development of Fruit in Southern Part of Lone Star State.

Fort Brown, Tex.—The federal government is lending valuable assistance to the development of the date growing industry in South Texas. In the government plant testing gardens at Fort Brown are a number of varieties of date palms which are said to be doing as well as in the countries where these fruit bearing trees are native.

There are already many producing date palms in the lower border region of Texas, but it was not until the last few years that steps began to be taken to place the industry on a commercial basis. As a result of the success that has been attained at the Fort Brown reservation in growing the palms many people of this section have planted large groves of the trees and some of them have already come into bearing. A co-operative date farm, conducted by the United States department of agriculture, was also established near Laredo, Tex., a few years ago. Four acres of the palms have been planted and a large part of them are in bearing. The yield of some of the trees is enormous, often amounting to as much as 500 pounds of the delicious fruit.



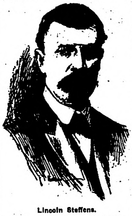
Texas Date Tree.

One of the requirements of successful date growing is an abundance of water and plenty of sunshine. There must also be a minimum of cold weather. Rich soil is, of course, necessary. All of these elements are found in the region. Some of the seeding date palms on the ranches and farms of this section have been producing abundant crops of fruit for many years, but it was not until the government took hold of the matter and began to demonstrate the possibilities of the industry from a commercial standpoint that it was taken hold of on a scale commensurate with the profitable returns that it promises to bring the growers.

MAN WHO SUGGESTED PEACE

Was Long Time Finding Out What He Was Good For, But Finally Landed High.

New York.—It took Lincoln Steffens a long time to find out what he was good for. He spent his youth in California hunting and having a good time generally. He was graduated from the University of California and then he went to Europe, where he studied in the Universities of Heidelberg, Leipzig, Berlin and the Sorbonne. He topped that study off by marrying a fellow student at Sorbonne and going to London, where he spent much time in research work in the British museum. Then he considered himself ready to enter the field of letters. He was made editor of McClure's after several years of newspaper work.



Lincoln Steffens.

One day Mr. McClure, just back from abroad, entered Steffens' office and said without preamble: "Steffens, you're getting out a rotten magazine. You don't know anything about the country. Don't you realize you are living in the United States? Go out and see something."

Steffens did. He had imagination and enthusiasm and had at last become limbered up mentally after his long years of academic study. He had energy and an unlimited supply of questions. The result of that trip was "The Shame of the Cities," a series of exposures of municipal graft that made him famous.

Fell 425-Year-Old Tree.

Palouse, Wash.—Another immense tree in the white pine belt of northern Idaho was cut by the Potlatch Lumber company in the woods eight miles east of Bovill. The tree was 207 feet high and measured eight feet in diameter at the base. It is said to have been 425 years old.

There were no limbs on the first 70 feet of the tree, which was pulled down with a donkey engine, and the log scale of measurement showed 28,900 feet.

It was shipped to the big lumber mill at Potlatch, three logs making one car load.

TOO EXCITING FOR CROKER

Ex-Tammany Chief, Like So Many Others, Succumbed to the Fascination of Stevenson.

The ideas of Richard Croker do not run on bookish lines. Regretting this circumstance and considering that a taste for literature, once inculcated, might be a source of pleasure in his advanced years, a journalistic friend who crossed the Atlantic with the one-time chieftain of Tammany hall not long ago cornered him in the steamship's library one evening and obtained a reluctant permission to read "Treasure Island" to him.

Much to his friend's encouragement, Mr. Croker listened with unfeigned interest until the lights went out and apparently enjoyed the narration of the exciting events of John Morgan, Billy Bones, Black Dog, John Silver and the others. Wherefore, finding Mr. Croker in the library the next evening, the journalist again produced his volume of Stevenson and drew up a chair. But the one-time Tammany chieftain lifted a protesting hand.

"Don't read that book to me any more," he said. "I couldn't get to sleep last night for thinking about those fellows."

DISFIGURED WITH CRUSTS

"Some time ago I was taken with eczema from the top of my head to my waist. It began with scales on my body. I suffered untold itching and burning, and could not sleep. I was greatly disfigured with scales and crusts. My ears looked as if they had been most cut off with a razor, and my neck was perfectly raw. I suffered untold agony and pain. I tried two doctors who said I had eczema in its fullest stage, and that it could not be cured. I then tried other remedies to no avail. At last, I tried a set of the genuine Cuticura Remedies, which cured me of eczema when all else had failed, therefore I cannot praise them too highly.

"I suffered with eczema about ten months, but am now entirely cured, and I believe Cuticura Remedies are the best skin cure there is." (Signed) Miss Mattie J. Shaffer, R. F. D. 1, Box 8, Dancy, Miss., Oct. 27, 1910.

"I had suffered from eczema about four years when boils began to break out on different parts of my body. It started with a fine red rash. My back was affected first, when it also spread over my face. The itching was almost unbearable at times. I tried different soaps and salves, but nothing seemed to help me until I began to use the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. One box of them cured me entirely. I recommended them to my sister for her baby who was troubled with tooth eczema, and they completely cured her baby." (Signed) Mrs. F. L. Marberger, Drehersville, Pa., Sept. 6, 1910.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

In a certain country village, where co-operation has a firm hold on the inhabitants, and where the "trading check" habit also flourishes, one little girl proudly called to another:

"We've got a new baby at our house!"

"Where did you get it?" was the reply.

"Oh, the doctor brought it."

"Now why," queried the thrifty little sympathizer gravely, "didn't you buy it at the store and get either a dividend or a trading stamp? The doctor doesn't give either, does he?"

Escaped.

NEW LAWS NEEDED

PRESIDENT ASKS IMMEDIATE ATTENTION TO WANTS OF PUBLIC DOMAIN.

MOST IMPORTANT OF ALL

Legislation in Interest of Alaska is Imperative — Homestead Laws Need Revising—Leasing Law Recommended—Would Probe Cost of Living.

Washington, Feb. 2.—The president's special message on the work of the interior department was read to congress today.

There is no branch of the Federal jurisdiction which calls more imperatively for immediate legislation than that which concerns the public domain, and especially the part of that domain which is in Alaska.

The progress under the reclamation act has made clear the defects of its limitations, which should be remedied. The rules governing the acquisition of homesteads, of land that is not arid or semi-arid, are not well adapted to the perfecting of title to land made arable by government reclamation work.

I concur with the secretary of the interior in his recommendation that, after entry is made upon land being reclaimed, actual occupation as a homestead of the same be not required until two years after entry, but that cultivation of the same shall be required, and that the present provision under which the land is to be paid for in ten annual installments shall be so modified as to allow a patent issue for the land at the end of five years' cultivation and three years' occupation, with a reservation of a government lien for the amount of the unpaid purchase money. This leniency to the reclamation homesteader will relieve him from occupation at a time when the condition of the land makes it most burdensome and difficult, and at the end of five years will furnish him with a title upon which he can borrow money and continue the improvement of his holdings.

I also concur in the recommendation of the secretary of the interior that all of our public domain should be classified and that each class should be disposed of or administered in the manner most appropriate to that particular class.

The chief change, however, which ought to be made, and which I have already recommended in previous messages and communications to congress, is that by which government coal land and phosphate and other mineral lands containing non-metalliferous minerals, shall be leased by the government, with restrictions as to size and time, resembling those which now obtain throughout the country between the owners in fee and the lessees who work the mines, and in leases like those which have been most successful in Australia, New Zealand and Nova Scotia. The showing made by investigations into the successful working of the leasing system leaves no doubt as to its wisdom and practical utility. Requirements as to the working of the mine during the term may be so framed as to prevent any holding of large mining properties merely for speculation, while the royalties may be made sufficiently low, not unduly to increase the cost of the coal mined, and at the same time sufficient to furnish a reasonable income for the use of the public in the community where the mining goes on. In Alaska, there is no reason why a substantial income should not thus be raised for such public works as may be deemed necessary or useful.

There is no difference between the reasons which call for the application of the leasing system to the coal lands still retained by the government in the United States proper and those which exist in Alaska.

I am not in favor of government ownership where the same certainty and efficiency of service can be had by private enterprise, but I think the conditions presented in Alaska are of such a character as to warrant the government, for the purpose of encouraging the development of that vast and remarkable territory, to build and own a trunk line railroad, which it can lease on terms which may be varied and changed to meet the growing prosperity and development of the territory.

For some years past the high and steadily increasing cost of living has been a matter of such grave public concern that I deem it of great public interest that an international conference be proposed at this time for the purpose of preparing plans, to be submitted to the various governments, for an international inquiry into the high cost of living, its extent, cause, effects, and possible remedies. I therefore recommend that, to enable the president to invite foreign governments to such a conference, to be held at Washington or elsewhere, the congress provide an appropriation, not to exceed $20,000, to defray the expenses of preparation and of participation by the United States.

The magnitude and complexity of modern industrial disputes have put upon some of our statutes and our present mechanism for adjusting such differences —where we can be said to have any mechanism at all—a strain they were never intended to bear and for which they are unsuited. What is urgently needed today is a re-examination of our laws bearing upon the relations of employer and employe and a careful and discriminating scrutiny of the various plans which are being tried in several of our own states and in other countries. This would seem to be the first natural step in bringing about an adjustment of these relations better suited to the newer conditions of industry.

My attention has been called to the injustice which is done in this country by the sale of articles in the trade purporting to be made in Ireland, when they are not so made, and it is suggested that the justice of the enactment of a law which, so far as the jurisdiction of the federal government can go, would prevent a continuance of this misrepresentation to the public and fraud upon those who are entitled to use the statement in the sale of their goods. I think it to be greatly in the interest of fair dealing, which ought always to be encouraged by law, for congress to enact a law making it a misdemeanor, punishable by fine or imprisonment, to use the mails or to put into, interstate commerce any articles of merchandise which bear upon their face a statement that they have been manufactured in some particular country when the fact is otherwise.

DULUTH IS CALLED LOSER

SAYS TWIN CITIES BENEFITS BY LAKE AND GRAIN RATES.

Minneapolis, Not Being Ready to Testify, Secures Adjournment to Washington.

Duluth, Minn., Jan. 27.—At the resumption of testimony in the lake-and-rail case before Commissioner James Harlan before the interstate commerce commission, G. Roy Hall, traffic expert for the traffic commission of the Duluth Commercial club, submitted data intended to prove that the natural head of the lakes commercially had been moved 150 miles inland to Minneapolis and St. Paul. Duluth, he alleged, had been discriminated against by a 15c differential "since the building of the first railroad into this territory" —the old Lake Superior & Mississippi railroad which was organized, he inferred, by Minneapolis capital, and defaulted in 1875. This line made the 15c differential and it has come down that way to the present time, he stated.

Because of this 15c differential Minneapolis and St. Paul have had an enormous commercial advantage over Duluth, he continued. Because this condition has existed for many years, Mr. Hall went on, there seemed no reason why it should continue.

He attacked the "free storage of freight in railroad warehouses which has become an institution" and asked that the custom be abolished.

"The city of Duluth asks the commission to ignore the cry of the railroads, the boat lines, and the Twin City jobbers of 'Let Us Alone,'" he said.

"The whole scheme of lake-and-rail rates is fictitious," he averred.

Duluth's case was brought to an end yesterday. Summed up it is that the whole structure of lake-and-rail rates is discriminating against Duluth and preferential to the Twin Cities.

Subpoenas are out for rate men of western railroads, but they have not been found.

The hearing was adjourned until Feb. 16, at Washington.

Duluth had submitted its testimony and had presented its exhibits when Minneapolis, claiming they were not ready, asked for an adjournment.

Commissioner Harlan then stated that if the case were not of such vital importance he would demand that the Minneapolis testimony be put in here and now, but that he believed the commerce commission would not want him to force such an issue. Therefore he adjourned the hearing until Feb. 16 at Washington, when Minneapolis will give its testimony.

DOUBTS VALUE OF BONDS

Royalton Banker's Attorneys Contend Securities are Sound.

Little Falls—The bone of contention in the trial of H. J. Schwartz, the Royalton banker, charged with accepting deposits after the bank was insolvent, is whether or not, $9,000 worth of Western Granite company bonds are of any value as assets. The State bank of Royalton held these bonds and listed them as assets of the bank. State Bank Examiner Chase holds that bonds have no market value and cannot be counted as assets. In order to show that Western Granite company paper has a par value, Clarke Eldred of St. Cloud, took the stand for the defense. Eldred has worked the quarries of the company and claimed that the property was very valuable. On cross-examination by Assistant Attorney General Edgerton, Eldred admitted that practically no monumental stone had been taken from the quarries of the company in the past two years. Crushing rock had been quarried, however.

J. E. Casner, deputy auditor Benton county, testified that the assessed valuation of the property was $3,000. Officials of the company state that the value of quarries is $100,000 and that its bonded indebtedness is $50,000.

CLAIM BANK SOLVENT

Attorneys of H. J. Schwartz of Royalton Say They Have Evidence.

Little Falls. — Five full court days have been consumed in taking state's testimony in the case of H. J. Schwartz, charged with taking deposits after the state bank of Royalton became insolvent. Evidence shows that the bank's assets, according to the bank examiner's report, to have totaled $144,000. The bank officers claim assets of $170,000. The deficiency according to evidence was due to worthless paper carried by the institution.

The defense says it will bring evidence to show that paper considered worthless by the state department is perfectly good and that the bank was solvent when closed. Deputy Examiner Brenwahl on the stand admitted on cross examination, that the bank was solvent, so far as he knew on Aug. 2. The institution closed its doors two days later.

TEDDY SENTIMENT

SUPPORT PLEDGED TO COLONEL IF HE IS CHOSEN AT THE G. O. P. PRIMARIES.

HANNA IS A PROGRESSIVE

Progressive Resolutions Pay Compliment to Him as Party Leader.—Much Depends on Gathering at Fargo.

Fargo. — With representative men from both the stalwart and progressive wings of the Republican party in North Dakota present in the city, all intent on profiting by the probable advent of Theodore Roosevelt, the latest presidential possibility, into the race, the political pot boiled merrily in Fargo.

At a meeting of the candidates for delegates to the Republican national convention, indorsed by the State Progressive Republican league, resolutions were adopted pledging support to Roosevelt in the national convention in the event that he becomes the primary choice of North Dakota Republicans. The resolutions read:

"Efforts are now being made by interested parties to place us in a position of hostility to Theodore Roosevelt and his possible candidacy. In this connection we wish to say to the voters of North Dakota that we have at all times recognized Theodore Roosevelt as the head and front of the progressive movement in the United States, and should he become a candidate for the presidency and his candidacy be indorsed by the voters of the state at the primary we will support him in the Republican national convention.

"We will support him not only by virtue of the mandate of the people, but loyally and enthusiastically as a splendid representation of the principles of progressive Republicanism."

Stalwarts in Conference.

Congressman L. B. Hanna came on a flying trip from Washington. The fact that National Committeeman James Kennedy has been called from an important business undertaking at Spokane, and noting the prominence of the stalwart Republicans here induces to the belief in outside circles that the whole plan of battle relating to both state and national campaigns will be definitely decided upon at this gathering, the nucleus of the whole situation being the election of Hanna as governor.

It is freely stated in the hotel lobbies that two important political results of this stalwart meeting will be the formal launching of a Roosevelt boom under the supervision of Congressman Hanna, and that Hanna will take a flying leap into the progressive Republican waters, and come up a full-fledged insurgent, and attempt as such to assume the leadership of that wing of the party, setting up his votes for wool, farmers' free list, and cotton bills in the extra session as prima facie evidence of the sincerity of his conversion.

ARREST STRIKE LEADER

J. J. Ettor Charged With Being Accessory to Murder.

Lawrence, Mass. — Charged with being an accessory to murder, Joseph J. Ettor of New York, leader of the great textile strike, was arrested by officers of the state police. He was not allowed to give bonds and was locked up in a cell at the police station.

The charge against the strike leader is in connection with the death of Anna Lopizo, a striker, who was shot during an outbreak. The bullet which caused her death was fired by some one in the crowd of strike sympathizers and was aimed at the ground, but rebounded and struck the woman.

With the exception of an outbreak, when a Syrian striker, John Remi, was so seriously injured that he died at the hospital, the textile workers' situation was quiet. All but three of the mills are in operation.

All orders for help will be sent in to him, and any person out of work will be provided with jobs either in this city or at outside points. No loafers will be allowed to hang about. Superstitious Waiter.

A man dining at a cafe observed that though he had ordered one dozen oysters, he was served with only eleven. The next evening the same thing occurred again. Then the diner became somewhat irritated.

"Why," he demanded of the waiter, "do you serve me only eleven oysters when I order a dozen?"

The waiter bowed apologetically. "I didn't think you'd wanting to be sitting thirteen at table, sir."

Who the Heathen Be.

Father Bernard Vaughan was condemning a somewhat acrimonious religious argument.

"Disputes of this kind," he said, "remind me forcibly of a little girl.

"'What are the heathen, Jenny?' her Sunday school teacher asked this little girl.

"'The heathen,' the child replied, 'are people who don't quarrel over religion.'"

Man of the Present.

"A man has to be up-to-date to do anything nowadays."

"Yes," replied Mr. Dustin Stax. "When I talk to an investigating committee I find it desirable not to dwell needlessly on the past."

GRAND TO LIVE

And the Last Laugh is Always the Best

"Six months ago I would have laughed at the idea that there could be anything better for a table beverage than coffee," writes an Ohio woman, "now I laugh to know there is.

"Since childhood I drank coffee freely as did the other members of the family. The result was a puny, sickly girl; and as I grew into womanhood I did not gain in health, but was afflicted with heart trouble, a weak and disordered stomach, wrecked nerves and a general breaking down till last winter, at the age of 38, I seemed to be on the verge of consumption.

"My friends greeted me with 'How bad you look! What a terrible color!' and this was not very comforting.

"The doctors and patent medicines did me absolutely no good. I was thoroughly discouraged.

"Then I gave up coffee and commenced Postum. At first I didn't like it, but after a few trials and following the directions exactly, it was grand. It was refreshing and satisfying. In a couple of weeks I noticed a great change.

"I became stronger, my brain grew clearer, I was not troubled with forgetfulness as in coffee times, my power of endurance was more than doubled.

"The heart trouble and indigestion disappeared and my nerves became steady and strong.

"I began to take an interest in things about me. Housework and home-making became a pleasure. My friends have marveled at the change and when they enquire what brought it about I answer 'Postum, and nothing else in the world.'" Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

And now they have drawn the name of Congressman Steenerson into the disreputable mix up over Indian matters at the White Earth agency. Mr. Steenerson should square himself at once with his constituents. If he did or did not receive an allotment of Indian land on the strength of his adoption into the tribe, he should state. The people want to know.

That county ditch bonds are county obligations for the payment of which the county credit is pledged has been established by a decision handed down by the supreme court last week in a case that went up from Roseau county. The decision makes the law clear on a point which, had the decision been the other way, would have brought to a stand-still immense ditching operations.—Gazette.

After less than six months of congressional life, Representative Martin Littleton of New York announces his purpose of retiring at the end of his present term. Mr. Littleton is disappointed in congress and congress is, too, dissappointed in Littleton. He is disgusted with congress for passing a resolution having for its purpose the forcing of the president to make public the names of all those who urge the appointment of individuals to the United States bench. He thinks such a rule is obviously unconstitutional as it no doubt should be declared from the viewpoint of the interests.

Speaking of presidential candidates Collier's says:—The republicans have a number of strong possible candidates. Mr. Hughes has made a statement so definite that it probably will stop all consideration of his name, in spite of the fact that he would make a tremendously strong run and a sound and powerful President. Colonel Roosevelt and Senator La Follette have behind them long records of tested courage, wisdom, and usefulness. Senator Cummins is an able man, and there are other republicans who might be successful dark horses. In the democratic party the situation is altogether different. There the whole fight is centered on Governor Wilson. He is the one candidate of whom the special interests are afraid, because they think he may be both nominated and elected. What they may later do among the other candiates is uncertain. Their first business is to kill Wilson.

A Good Measure

The house of representatives passed an act requiring the president to make public all the recommendations on which appointments to federal judgeships, from the supreme court down, are made. The democrats mostly voted "aye," the republicans mostly voted "no."

This is a very good measure, and the senate ought to pass it. Certainly no harm can come from it. Certainly the a right to know all about know all about who has a part in picking the judges who pass on their litigation.

It's a good thing, from our viewpoint, that this measure is not made retroactive. A good many federal judgeships go back to the days when railroads were the greatest power in politics, and when, therefore, they had a good deal to say about the selection of federal judges. If this measure had been made retroactive, therefore, it might go far to account for the bias shown by some federal judges.—Duluth Herald.

What They're After

It is no famished longing for news which keeps the New York newspapers at their frantic task of attempting to smoke out Mr. Roosevelt. They would much prefer to print the story of a prominent light of the Great White Way who has adorned her poodle with earrings, or to conduct a crusade against the "Grizzly" dance in Hoboken as being competitive to Manhattan.

Their interest in Mr. Roosevelt's position toward the presidential nomination is far more fervent than any eagerness to supply the country with exact information. The interest is personal. They don't want Mr. Roosevelt to run.

A deep and abiding hate exists in the offices of New York newspapers against Mr. Roosevelt. They have never truly liked him, even when they have supported him. He is too American for them. He smacks too much of the flavor of the country that is west of Buffalo, a small and detestable section in the opinion of New York. From time to time, Mr. Roosevelt has stepped upon the toes of New York editors either by worrying them by his attitude toward Wall street or by his frankness in pointing out their indecency, their yellow streaks, and their sniveling hypocrisy.

The game of badgering Mr. Roosevelt is to force him, if it can be done, into saying that "under no circumstances will I accept." But even should the New York newspapers succeed in irritating the ex-president into crossing that bridge before he came to it, they wouldn't be happy. They'd still pull the blankets up over their heads o' nights until after the party convention.

The Kipp Concert

The Kipp string quartet gave four performances Wednesday during the day to the schools and in the evening gave their public concert at Imperial hall. The proceeds, after expenses were paid, were divided with the school. The music played was fine, every number being witten by one of the great composers. It is not often that St. Hilaire has the opportunity to receive a treat like this. Violin solos, played by Miss Hazel Kipp, and the piano playing by Miss Winifred, were feature. The latter acted as accompanist in all of the pieces, except those in which she played the violincello. Her violincell solo was fine.

Mr. Kipp in a short talk told of the origin and purpose of the Kipp quartet. For two years the Kipps have have been traveling over the state of Minnesota, trying to create a taste among school children for standard music, and pioneering a bill which will be brought up at the coming session of the legislature, which will provide for the organization and support by the state of high school quartets or concert companies, which will travel over the state giving free concerts in the different schools. The object of this is to inculcate a taste for good music in the minds of the children. The schools organizing these companies will send their players to a committee of three people in the state who will examine them and determine whether or not they are capable of doing this work As soon as a quartette has been organized it will be sent on the road and its expenses paid by the state.

America's Greatest Weekly
THE TOLEDO BLADE
TOLEDO, OHIO
The Best Known Newspaper in the United States
Circulation 240,000
Popular in Every State
No Whiskey Advertising

The seventy-seventh year of its existence finds the Toledo Blade more popular than at any period during its long and successful career. It is now read each week by more than a million people. The Blade's field is national and goes into every state and territory in the United States, thereby giving it an unquestionable right of claiming to be the greatest national weekly newspaper in America.

The Weekly Blade is distinctly a family newspaper. The one object of its publishers has always been to make it fit for the American home, for the fireside, and of interest to every member of the family. To fulfill this purpose it is kept clean and wholesome. The news of the world is handled in a comprehensive manner, and the various departments of The Blade are edited with painstaking care. The Household page is a delight to the women and children; current affairs are treated editorially without prejudice: the serial stories are selected with the idea of pleasing the greatest number of fiction lovers; the Question Bureau is a scrap-book of information: the Farmstead columns are conducted with the purpose of giving the patrons a medium for the exchange of ideas and information on farm topics. No department is neglected, but every feature is taken care of with the idea of making The Blade worth many times the price of subscription—one dollar a year.

No Piano has ever been more enthusiastically endorsed. The Artistic Case, the Easy, Responsive Action, and above all the deep, sweet, rich Tone, captivates performer and listener. The united verdict is that

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

DAKOTA BUSINESS COLLEGE

Every person needs a business education and it costs no more to get it at this great Business and Shorthand Training School, under exact office conditions, than at one of the small, questionable ones. The results are, however, very different. 350 D. B. C. pupils went to excellent positions in banks and offices this year—over 400 will do so next year. All Fargo banks and 685 others employ D. B. C. pupils as cashiers, tellers or bookkeepers. No other school offers such endorsement. [illegible]

Our $50 course prepares for business life, or for position as clerk or bookkeeper. Our new $35 course in Commerce and Banking (endorsed by Bankers' Association) supplies cashiers and tellers for the Northwestern banks, and bookkeepers and credit men for the larger concerns. The shorthand course (under an expert reporter) trains court reporters and high grade stenographers. The stenographers for the U. S. District Court, N. D. Supreme Court, 3d Judicial District and the Cass Co. Court are D. B. C. pupils. Can other schools offer this proof of superior training? [illegible]

The D. B. C. has built a magnificent new building (36,000 square feet of space) is seated with roll top desks, has 60 typewriters, adding machines, billers, money changers, etc. Our pupils deal with each other and with magnificently equipped offices, using aluminum money. Our courses are fascinating and practical. The Northwest has "No other school like the D. B. C." [illegible] Next term begins soon. For book[illegible] [illegible]

BURN BUILDING TO KILL GERM

Only Way to Get Rid of Them, and Occasion Was Made a Good Object Lesson.

A ramshackle building in Winston Salem was recently burned at the request of the local Anti-Tuberculosis league, because it was said to be alive with tuberculosis germs and could not be properely fumigataed.

For days before the building was burned huge placards announcing the hour of destruction were hung about in prominent places. Among other things the placards said: "Within the past 15 months two men who sold fruit, etc., here have died of tuberculosis, but unconsciously left millions of tuberculosis germs by careless spitting. The building is so open that it cannot be effectively fumigated. The only practical means of disinfecting is by fire."

At the appointed hour, while mullions of tuberculosis germs were being burned, 5,000 pamphlets telling how to prevent consumption, were distributed to the crowd looking on.

A DIFFERENCE.

The Romancer—When you have money, people will shake you by the hand—

The Philosopher—When it's gone they'll shake you altogether.

"Evil Eye" Based on Fact.

Most people have heard of the "Evi Eye," and now we are informed by Charles L. Smith, a noted New York refractionist, that the superstition arose because everyone, without knowing it, has one eye that is different in power and activity from the other. He designates it the "dominant eye," and according to whether it is the left or the right children will grow up left-handed or right-handed. It is sheer cruelty, and may entail life-long misery, to force a child to become ambidextrous. Such a course may result in wrecking the nervous system, and can only be cured by a reversal of the process so that the "dominant eye" may regain natural and undisputed sway. Men who are ambidextrous had better keep a strict guard over their actions lest they should be credited with the "evil eye."

Cremation Among the Franks.

An interesting archaeological discovery was made lately near Brecht (Belgium), where the remains of what was evidently a Frankish cemetery have been found. The main interest in the discovery lies in the fact that clear traces are to be seen in the cemetery of cremated remains, as well as of bodies buried in the ordinary way, whereas hitherto it has always been believed that cremation was not practiced amongst the Franks.

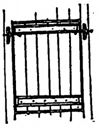
STORM DOOR FOR HOG HOUSE

Animals Will Soon Learn Way to Get Out or In—Slatted Affair Used in Summer.

Here is a storm door for a hog house that has given me fine results, says a writer in the Missouri Valley Farmer. Make your door fit the opening and staple loosely an old endgate rod under the top cross piece. Then put up a bracket on each side for the ends of the rod. For summer, a slatted door may be made on the same plan. To teach the hogs how to operate the door, prop it up and drive them in, then let drop in place. They will soon find their way out and a few more trials will teach them to open it coming or going.



A Double Action Hog Door.

JUDGE SHEEP FOR ITS WOOL

Portion Just Over Animal's Heart Bears Finest Fleece, While Coarsest Is Over Thigh.

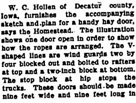
To judge sheep for wool production one should remember that the long wool breeds show coarser fiber than those of the short wools, says an Oregon bulletin. This coarseness should not be allowed to become extreme. The fleece should be thick and clean; the fiber strong, bright and free from dark or greased spots. In the medium wools a thicker fleece is desirable—thickness sufficient to turn rain. The fibers, as in the long wools, should be relatively long, clean, lustrous and contain an abundance of grease.

To examine a fleece, the portion just over the heart is noted to discover the finest wool and that on the thigh the coarsest. There should be as little difference in the fleece on these parts as possible. To open the fleece, place hands palm down on the fleece, and, pushing down slightly, pull the hands apart. This breaks the fleece without tearing. If the fleece is heavy it breaks on a smoother line than if light, when the fibers are quite likely to be intertangled.

HAY DOOR IN BARN IS HANDY

When Put in Right They Are Sure to Give Entire Satisfaction and Cannot Go Wrong.

W. C. Hollen of Decatur county, Iowa, furnishes the accompanying sketch and plan for a handy hay door, says the Homestead. The illustration shows one door open in order to show how the ropes are arranged. The V-shaped lines are wind guards two by four blocked out and bolted to rafters at top and a two-inch block at bottom. The stop block at hip stops the trucks. These doors should be made nine feet wide and nine feet long in two pieces, each piece four and one-half feet wide. If these doors are put up right they should give absolute satisfaction and can't go wrong. They can easily be handled by one man.



End Hay Door.

Protect Sheep From Dogs.

A Minnesota farmer says that he keeps dogs away from his flock by putting up in his pasture the dummy of a man holding a stick for a gun. This dummy is taken down every morning and put up again in the evening at different places from night to night. He says a sheep-killing dog will not go near enough to the dummy to discover that it is a bogus man.

Sheep should be protected from dogs at night by putting them into the sheep barn or inclosing them in fine weather by a high barb wire fence.

Every sheep owner who discovers a stray dog on his place should not hesitate to fill him full of buckshot. He is a trespasser and the law will not touch a man who kills him.

Corn for Growing Pigs.

A successful grower of swine says that he finds corn for growing pigs, in connection with milk and shorts, better than corn at any other age. After his hogs have passed the "pig" age he reduces the corn allowance until finishing time. He considers skim milk the best of all feeds for all hogs of all ages and conditions. Milk gives swine appetite for more feed, as well as furnishing valuable nutrients.

Good Feed for Cattle.

Chaffing fodder and straw add nothing to their nutritive value, but with proper arrangements it is more convenient to feed cut fodder, and when mixed with corn chop and wheat bran, horses, cows and sheep will eat cut straw and corn fodder as greedily as good mixed hay.

DRAFT HORSE IS PROFITABLE

Breeding of Animal Has Come to Be Money-Making Adjunct to Diversified Farming.

The breeding of the draft horse has come to be a very profitable adjunct to diversified farming, and at no time during the last fifteen or twenty years has the price been higher for good draft and heavy farm horses.

While the automobile may, to a certain extent, have replaced the horses for city delivery, writes George P. Grout of the Minnesota station, still the bulk of the farm work is done with horses; and the prices for good stock are as high or higher than ever. There is not the demand for medium quality and light weight horses that there used to be, but good, smooth draft and heavy farm horses are bringing good prices.

There is litle reason why the farmer should not continue to raise horses of this kind, since brood mares and stallions, too, for that matter—will produce stronger and better colts for having been kept steadily at work on the farm.

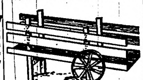
On the home farm we have raised some of the cleanest, best colts and worked the mares right along. There are certain conditions under which it does not seem to be practical to put the breeding stock into harness, but on many farms these conditions are not met. Where a farmer must rely almost wholly on hired help to drive his teams, it may not be practicable to put pure-bred stock into harness. If the farm boy shows an interest in horses, raise some good drafters.

Put a good harness on them, and tell the boy this is his team to work, and there will be no question about the care they will get. You will find the boy after a day's work out currying off the horses, making sure they are comfortable. I speak from experience, and know that when these horses are offered for sale they will bring a good price.

CHUTE FOR HOGS ON WHEELS

Device Is Easily Handled and May Be Placed Wherever It May Be Wanted for Use.

The sketch shows a handy hog-chute on wheels which I have used for several years, writes John D. Walter in the Farm and Fireside. The uprights are of two-by-fours, five feet high for upper end and four feet high for lower end. The five-foot ones are placed one and one-half feet from end of chute, and the four-foot ones are placed three feet from end. The floor is one-inch oak lumber two and one-half feet wide inside, and is nailed on two-by-fours, which are spiked to the uprights two feet six inches from bottom of uprights to floor at upper end, and at lower end fourteen inches from bottom of uprights to floor. One-inch boards are nailed underneath the two by-four where the floor is on. Cleats are nailed on floor to keep hogs from slipping. The wheels are from an old corn-planter, and the axle is from an old cultivator arch. The arch is fastened under the floor with wire. This hog chute can be handled easily by taking hold of upper end. You can shove it wherever you want it, and if it is any distance, just hook it behind a wagon, and it will come along.



Hog-Chute on Wheels.

Sheep on the Farm.

A great deal has been said, and said rightly, on the subject of the advantages of keeping sheep on every farm. The sheep has several good points in which it excels all other domestic animals, and consequently it is to the benefit of every farmer to keep them. It is a refined animl, nd not a gross feeder, so that there is not the great amount of labor that attends the growing and fattening of the hog for example. Then too he is a close grazer, and will find a good living where other animals would starve. He will get fat on weeds which would otherwise tax the land heavily.

Skimmed Milk.

I find that the skimmed milk just from the separator still fresh and warm is worth twice as much as milk from pans or returned from the factory, says a writer in an exchange. It agrees better with the stock and keeps them in health and growing rapidly.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

Corn fodder is hardly as good for horses as kaffir corn.

Young pigs are peculiarly subject to various kinds of intestinal worms.

Colts and calves often develop small warts in large numbers about the face.

Sore mouth will sometimes attack sheep in pens and run through the entire flock.

There is a possibility of underfeeding an animal as well as overfeeding for best results.

If your heart is in the right place you will see that your animals are made comfortable for the winter.

Horses cannot now be grown as cheap as they were when land was half the price and grain half the price.

A blockish-built mare with a large barrel on short legs is likely to produce a better foal than the tall, leggy kind.

Lambs that are four weeks old may be pushed rapidly for market by feeding oats and bran with some ground corn.

The best ration for the steers depends largely on the weight of the steers, the feeds available and the prices of the same.

Idle horses which are getting all the oat straw and corn stover they wish to eat should receive enough of this mixture to keep them up in good flesh.

ENDED THE SPELLING LESSON

Bobby's Education, Under Aunt's Tutelage, Afterward Proceeded Under Different Lines.

Miss Thompson, whose form nature has endowed with all-too-ample curves, was giving her little nephew a lesson in spelling the other day. He had spelt b-e, be, and h-e, he, and now she was trying to get him to tell her what m-e, spelt.

"Listen, Bobby," she said earnestly. Then closing her lips she pronounced the sound of a long m, and opening them, the sound of a long e. "What does that spell?"

Bobby looked at her and shook his head. Again she tried, and this time, while pronouncing the sounds, she vigorously tapped her own rotund chest with her plump forefinger.

"Mmum, ee. What letters am I saying and what do they spell?" she asked, still vigorously tapping her chest.

"I don't know what the letters are," replied Bobby, watching the plump forefinger, "but I guess they spell Fat."

BABY'S HAIR ALL CAME OUT

"When my first baby was six months old he broke out on his head with little bumps. They would dry up and leave a scale. Then it would break out again and it spread all over his head. All the hair came out and his head was scaly all over. Then his face broke out all over in red bumps and it kept spreading until it was on his hands and arms. I bought several boxes of ointment, gave him blood medicine, and had two doctors to treat him, but he got worse all the time. He had it about six months when a friend told me about Cuticura. I sent and got a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. In three days after using them he began to improve. He began to take long naps and to stop scratching his head. After taking two bottles of Resolvent, two boxes of Ointment and three cakes of Soap he was sound and well, and never had any breaking out of any kind. His hair came out in little curls all over his head. I don't think anything else would have cured him except Cuticura.

"I have bought Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap several times since to use for cuts and sores and have never known them to fail to cure what I put them on. Cuticura Soap is the best that I have ever used for toilet purposes." (Signed) Mrs. F. E. Harmon, R. F. D. 2, Atoka, Tenn., Sept. 10, 1910. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept L, Boston.

Fishes Survived Drought.

A curious drought survival by fishes is reported from France. The ditch or moat of Monaco, completely dried up last summer, although usually a canal three miles long and fifty feet wide, with five feet of water. All carp, tench, perch and pike disappeared, leaving dry mud. A recent sudden rainfall, however, supplied a little water, and the fishes were actually seen rising—as lively as ever—from the mud in which they had buried themselves.

Washington, D. C.—Another investigation of the department of agriculture involving orders of Secretary Wilson and Solicitor McCabe, similar in many respects to the recently concluded McCabe-Wiley controversy, but which embraces charges of suppressed reports and influence of land speculators over government officials, is to be instituted by the house committee on expenditures in the agricultural department.

Circumstances, smoldering for months, relating to exploitation of Florida Everglade lands, millions of acres of which have been sold throughout the country by syndicates in the past few years, burst into a flame before the committee following the summary dismissal from the government service by Secretary Wilson of C. G. Elliott, chief engineer of the drainage division of the department, and Assistant Engineer A. D. Morehouse, and the suspension of F. E. Singleton, an accountant, on a technical charge of transference of public funds.

Representatives Frank Clark of Florida and E. R. Bathrick of Ohio, who have instigated the investigation, charging the congressional committee that officials of the department of agriculture had been influenced by Florida Everglade land promoters in the suppression of a report on the condition of the lands made by the drainage department; that Chief Engineer Elliott was threatened by agents of the land promoters unless he would revise a circular letter to the public which did not contain laudatory references to the lands they were selling, and that upon his refusal, the circular and a subsequent fuller report were suppressed by the order of Secretary Wilson and that later, Engineers Elliott and Morehouse were removed from office.

McCabe Before Committee.

Solicitor McCabe, who was called before the house committee, of which Representative Moss of Indiana is the chairman, denied that the dismissal of the department officials was in any way caused by the Florida land case and declared that the action was taken following charges that the dismissed men had misapplied funds. All the papers relating to this feature of the case he turned over to the department of justice for possible prosecution.

The charges involving the dismissed men were reported to have been made to Solicitor McCabe recently by J. O. Wright, a former subordinate of Elliott, but at present chief engineer of the board of trustees of the internal improvement fund of the state of Florida. Wright made a favorable report upon the Everglade lands and soon afterward resigned from office to enter the employ of the state of Florida.

Representative Clark said that Secretary Wilson would be summoned as a witness and that he would be asked concerning an interview he had with the Florida representative some time ago, in which the secretary is said to have admitted that he had suppressed the report on the Everglade lands. Mr. Clark charges this was done at the request of the land companies. He said that together with four Florida citizens he called on Secretary Wilson to ask why the report was suppressed.

One of these men was W. R. Hardess of Jensen, Fla., who recently made a statement that Secretary Wilson said:

"I am not running this office for the protection of fools who do not know any better than to buy something that they never saw and do not know anything about."

Before the house committee Representative Clark outlined the charges, stating that in 1907 the department of agriculture was flooded with requests from people throughout the country regarding the condition of the Florida Everglade lands which syndicates were exploiting.

J. O. Wright and a corps of engineers of the drainage department were sent to Florida by Chief Engineer Elliott to make a survey and to compile a complete report. Here, according to Representative Clark, began the trouble that has led up to the present controversy.

The circular sai dto have been suppressed by Secretary Wilson, also will be in evidence before the committee.

Purposes of Circular.

This circular was made up on account of a public demand for information, while the printed report from Engineer Wright, which was bulky, was being awaited. Engineer Elliott outlined portions of the circular, unfavorably to the exploitation schemes of the land syndicate, which he declared Howe and Will demanded that he retract. The circular in the main recited the government reclamation and drainage plans for the Everglades and included many favorable references to the prospects.

The charge against the discharged officials is that several years ago they ran short in the appropriation for the drainage division because funds had been irregularly loaned to the irrigation division of the department. Drainage work was in progress in North Carolina and a private contractor was engaged who finished the work and was compensated in the next year's appropriation, being carried on the pay roll as an employe.

Singleton, who is suspended, is declared to have suggested this means of carrying on the uncompleted work. The total was about $800, but no financial gain accrued to any of the officials in the transaction.

Washington.—Reduction in the cost of food supplies was urged before the house committee on interstate commerce as a reason for the passage of the Webb bill to establish a bureau of markets in the department of commerce and labor.

The house authorized its committee on expenditures in the war department to go outside of Washington to seek evidence in the monopoly of army shoe contracts by a Massachusetts manufacturing concern.

Representative Gardner, Republican of Massachusetts, objected unavailingly to the conduct of the investigation by the committee.

A bill to make it illegal for employers of labor, during presidential elections to threaten employes with a shut down of factories or reduction of wages should certain candidates or parties be successful, was introduced by Representative Pepper, Democrat, of Iowa. A fine of $1,000 or imprisonment for not less than one year are provided as penalties in the bill.

Washington, D. C.—Republicans in congress caucused and named the committee which will conduct the coming congressional campaign. Insurgent and regular Republicans fraternized in a manner not seen since the party revolt that sheared Speaker Cannon of his power in the preceding season. As a result the leaders were enthusiastic over the outlook for victory in the coming struggle to wrest from the Democrats the control of the house.

Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire, a regular, presided over the deliberations. Representative Frank P. Woods of Iowa, a leading insurgent, was among the first to hold out the olive branch of peace. He introduced a resolution extolling the work of Representative William B. McKinley of Illinois as chairman of the committee, and urging that he be re-elected to that position.

This was followed by general applause. Mr. McKinley has been recognized as one of the staunchest of the old guard, and is a close personal friend and admirer of Cannon. The resolution was adopted unanimously.

A meeting of the committee will be called within a few days, at which officers and an executive sub-committee will be named.

WIFE DESERTS HIM

WOMAN IN TEXAS HOMICIDE CASE WILL NOT TESTIFY IN FAVOR OF HUSBAND.

WILL GO BACK TO BOYCE

Rev. Snead, Father of Prisoner, Says He Urged Son to Leave His Wife. —Her Father With the Defense.

Fort Worth, Texas. — Mrs. Lena Snead refused to testify to save her husband, J. B. Snead, the Amarillo banker, who is being tried here for the murder of Captain A. G. Boyce. Her decision winds up a battle which has been waged for three days. Woman's love for an affinity triumphed. At the conclusion, Mrs. Snead said that she fully expected to obtain a divorce, rejoin Albert Boyce, with whom she eloped, and settle in Western Canada on a big ranch.

Attorney McLean for the defense announced in court that Mrs. Snead would not testify because she is insane and her testimony would be useless, a remark which brought smiles from the prosecuting attorneys and frowns from the three Boyce brothers. Snead himself regarded it as the merest incident. He was reading a newspaper when the announcement was made.

The defense introduced 50 telegrams exchanged between Captain Boyce and his sons in Texas, and Albert Boyce during his flight across the continent and back to Winnipeg. One of the messages by Henry Boyce, a Dalhart banker, authorized a Kansas City bank to wire Albert $15,000 while he was in Winnipeg, although he left Fort Worth with $100,000. The defense offered these messages to prove all the Boyces were united in the plot to keep Boyce with Mrs. Snead.

Two men, both in their seventies, took the stand to save the life of the millionaire prisoner. They were Rev. J. T. Snead of Georgetown, a Baptist preacher, father of the defendant, and Captain Thomas Snyder, father-in-law of Snead. They faced the ordeal with fortitude, but the storm of questions fired by the prosecution's attorneys left both men near a state of collapse. Captain Snyder went tottering to his chair after he had finished.

Mrs. Snead's father testified he met his daughter in Minneapolis, following the elopement and that she begged him to take her to his Clayton, N. M., home as she feared Snead would force her again into a sanitarium. Snyder refused his daughter's request, he said, because he thought it best for her.

Rev. J. T. Snead then took the stand. "If Beal (his son) had taken my advice, he would have saved $75,000 and kept his good name," declared Rev. Mr. Snead. "I told Beal he had better give Lena a divorce without alimony, but he insisted he loved her. Once he contemplated divorce, but wanted to allow Lena big alimony. Later he refused to separate from her. Murder, hate and waste of money is the result."

RELICS OF THE MAINE

Municipalities, Societies and Relatives of Survivors to Get Souvenirs.

Washington, D. C. — The collier Leonidas has arrived at Annapolis loaded with a great assortment of relics of the wrecked battleship Maine, which are to be distributed among municipalities, societies and relatives of survivors of the Maine. About 50 tons of coal which the Leonidas loaded from the wrecked battleship is being discharged at Annapolis, where it will be tested at the engineering laboratory to determine the effect upon the coal of 13 years submersion in salt water.

The Leonidas will bring to the navy yard here the main mast of the battleship, which is to be placed in the National cementery at Arlington, over the graves of the victims of the catastrophe.

AFTER THE GRIP PURIFY THE BLOOD

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Are the Best Blood Builder and Will Cure You as They Cured This Woman.

It is of the utmost importance to your health, if you have suffered from the grip, that you cleanse the blood of the lingering germs and put it in condition to resist disease.

After the acute attack the sufferer is left with a debilitated system, is short of breath upon the slightest exertion and is affected by every change of weather. The system is in such a weakened condition that it is powerless to resist the attack of such diseases as pneumonia and bronchitis.

This is a condition which emphatically calls for a tonic for the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best medicine for this purpose for they act directly on the blood which they cleanse of all impurities. They tone up the nerves and give health and strength to the debilitated system.

The debility which follows an attack of the grip can only be cured by making the blood rich and red. This Dr. Williams' Pink Pills never fail to do promptly and it explains how they cured Mrs. F. R. Boyd, of No. 607 South Ninth street, Minneapolis, Minn. She says:

"I was never well after an attack of the grip a few years ago until I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before this I had found nothing that helped me. I was all run down, pale and thin. My appetite was poor and my head ached continually. I didn't feel like myself at all.

"Someone finally recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to me and I found them just the medicine for my case. They gave me a hearty appetite and a good, clear color. I got back my vitality and was soon a well woman. I can safely say that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do all that is claimed for them. I heartily recommend them."

If you are suffering from after-effects of the grip or other wasting disease, try the remedy that has cured so many stubborn cases, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, upon receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. A copy of our booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," is free on request.

Felt Rather Fat.

"Mamma, I had the nicest dream," said little Mary, aged six, just after waking in the morning.

"What was it?" mamma asked.

"Why, I dreamt I was a young lady," the child explained.

"That felt pretty good, didn't it?" the mother remarked.

"Yes," was the reply. "But I felt rather fat."

When people begin to say to a woman, "How young you are looking," it's a sign she is getting old.

Considering the experience of "Poor Lo," perhaps those Esquimos reported by Stofanson as never having seen a white man are not so unfortunate, after all.

Among the congressmen who voted for the metal tariff revision were Representatives Davis and Lindbergh. Among those who voted against its passage were Representatives Anderson, Miller, Volstad, and Steenerson.

A strong effort is being made to induce Senator La Follette to withdraw from the race for the presidency and at this writing it looks as though it might succeed. Mr. La Follette's failing health and physical inability to stand the strain of the strenuous campaign is being urged as the reason for his withdrawal. The effort is in the interest of Roosevelt.

Already it appears probable that Kansas, Missouri, New Jersey, Michigan, West Virginia, Illinois and South Dakota will send Roosevelt delegations to this year's convention. That is a very nice nucleus to start with; and if that probability later develops into an apparent certainty, Minnesota, New York, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Nebraska, Oklahoma and other states beyond the Rockies are pretty sure to fall into line and join the chorus of "Teddy! Teddy! Four more years of Teddy!"

La Follette's Wild Words

It is charitable to believe that Senator La Follette's vicious and wholesale attack upon the newspaper press of the nation in his talk to the magazine publishers was the first manifestation of the nervous breakdown from which he is now unhappily suffering. A well man could scarcely have made an outbreak so unjust. There are newspapers that are servile lackeys of Special Privilege; but there are such magazines, too. To assail all the newspapers for the sins of some, and to acquit all magazines of sinning though some of them offend gravely, is no fairer than it would be to condemn a church organization because it has bad sheep in its flock.—Duluth Herald.

Reliable Sporting News

It is a curious and significant fact that men who can be satisfied with sensational and inaccurate news in other departments will instantly resent the falsifying of sporting news. Those interested in the sporting events of the usually regard the Chicago Record-Herald as a model of reliability in this field, as in all others. Whether it be baseball, football, boxing, racing, or any other line of athletic or outdoor sports, you can always find a good, breezy, unbiased and accurate report of it in the Record-Herald.

It is a pleasure, therefore, to see that this old reliable paper has permanently expanded its sporting department to fill four full pages every day in the week. We refer to the "green sheet," which has become a daily as well as a Sunday feature. The recent enormous increase in the circulation of the Record-Herald is believed to be partly due to this new and popular supplement, which is practically a complete daily newspaper of the world's sporting events, local and telegraphic, professional and amateur, with its own outfit of cartoons and illustrations. It has a large staff of experienced editors and reporters, each a specialist in his own line, each trained to see straight and write the truth without bias.

One of the best things about the "green sheet" is the fact that, without encroaching upon its regular sporting news, it is able to give more space to such subjects as angling, hunting, automobiling, yachting, golf, etc. The Record-Herald has legitimately earned its place as the favorite paper among lovers of sport.

Treasures in Mexico

According to Consul Magill of Mexico that country is rich in rare curios, especially in copper and gold luster ware, which can be bought for bullion price. Carvings in ivory, fans, and ornaments done in the highest art can be picked up for a song. Old jewels in settings of centuries past are quite plenty. But he advises care in the selection, just as one should be careful to select golden grain belt beers for their summer beverage or table assistant to digestion. Once tried, never forgotten. Order of Alex Thompson, Cookston, or of your dealer.

One Form of Heroism

A small boy once wrote that pins had saved thousands of lives by people not swallowing them.

Down in North Carolina a native wounded his neighbor in the breast and the neighbor, in due time, gave up the ghost. The murderer was indicted, sent to jail, and brought to trial. But he was soon free again because his attorney showed the court that the word breast was spelt "brest" in the indictment, and that inasmuch as there is no such thing as a "brest" in even the most remote darts of the human anatomy, his client ought immediately to be discharged. The court agreed with him.

The letter "a" has saved the life of a citizen of North Carolina by the clerk not using it.—Toledo Blade.

Krueger-Hurley

An event which is of interest to many friends in Red Lake Falls is the marriage of Miss Ella Krueger of this city and Mr. Henry M. Hurley of East Grand Forks, which occurred at Crookston on Wednesday, Jan. 31. The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Krueger, pioneer residents of the city, is a charming and estimable young woman whose many friends in Red Lake Falls are pleased to offer to her and to the fortunate Mr. Hurley sincere congratulations and best wishes on this happy occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Hurley will reside at East Grand Forks and will be at home to their friends after February fifteenth.—Red Lake Gazette.

The bride is a sister of Carl Krueger of this place.

Fog and Sound.

In a fog at sea the toll of a bell buoy is singularly grave and solemn, well matched by the weird note of a whistling buoy. Unfortunately the value of both is lessened in foggy weather from there being but little motion of the sea. Nothing, too, is more difficult than to distinguish in a fog the direction from which a sound comes. This is in part due doubtless to the interference offered to the straight course of the waves carrying the sound, but also probably to the absence of the normal, although unsuspected, co-ordination of eye and ear in locating the origin of sound. The assistance of the eye on sea and land is instinctively given to the ear in many different ways. In a fog the ear has only itself to trust to.—London Spectator.

Describing a Railroad.

The Pall Mall Gazette in 1890 asked its readers to name the worst railway in England. And one English kicker answered thus: "Sir—The Southeastern railway is the very worst railway in the world. The engines are asthmatic. Its lamps are trimmed by foolish virgins. Its fares are excessive. Its carriages let in the snow in winter and are furnaces in summer. Its motto is unpunctuality. Its principal station is approached through the neck of a bottle. It ruins the temper, destroys the digestion and enables one to realize the horrors of Dante's 'Inferno.' I am, sir, yours obediently, the Worm Who Turns."

WHAT A LAWSUIT BROUGHT ABOUT.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, 1909, by T. C. McClure.]

Farmer Jepson, widower, lived four miles from Akron on the country road, and Jane Schofield, widow and farmer, lived three miles west of him on the Red Bridge road. They had lived thus for five years and only knew each other by name. The five years might have become twenty had not an old lop horned cow stepped in to give the parties an introduction.

The cow was owned by the widow. Besides being lop horned she was bobtailed, wild eyed and had various bad habits, one of which was jumping six rail fences and wandering about nights. These promenades sometimes led her miles away and into strange pastures. The first time Farmer Jepson saw her she was in the midst of his cornfield and had cleared about half an acre of the juicy stalks. He was a good man, but he swore at her and called her names. He also tried his best to kill her on the spot. A week later the cow called again to see how the corn was coming on, and after half killing her the farmer sent word that if she was not kept at home he would sue her owner for damages.

"And who is Farmer Jepson that talks so big, I'd like to know!" exclaimed the widow as she got the message by a hired man. "If he thinks he's the biggest toad in the puddle let him go right ahead and sue. Two can play at that game. I'm not allowing my live stock to bother my neighbors, but I'm not going to sit up every night in the week to see that that old cow don't get out. You go back and tell him that I'm not afraid of any ten men like him."

"Oh, she ain't, hey!" exclaimed the farmer when the hired man had returned with the word. "Waal, we'll see about that. I'm no hand to complain of my neighbors, but I'm not going to have their cows in my corn and then take sass to boot. If that old critter of a cow steps hoof on my land again there'll be a lawsuit to make things rumble."

The cow didn't hurry matters any. She waited until Mr. Jepson had transplanted his cabbage plants and they had got fairly growing, and then she called one night and helped herself to 250 of them, and two days later the widow learned that suit had been commenced by Farmer Jepson to recover $250 damages.

"So he's sued me, has he?" observed the widow, as she doubled up her fists and fire came to her eyes. "Well, we'll see who comes out ahead!"

Plaintiff and defendant each secured a lawyer, and of course each attorney assured his client that he had the best kind of a case and was sure to win. After two or three adjournments the case came to trial, and it was in the courtroom that plaintiff and defendant first saw each other. Both were surprised, and both said something to themselves. What the farmer said was:

"Waal, by thunder! I expected to see a fat and homely old two fisted widder, and I find her a good looking little bit of a female who ought to be sitting on a husband's knee. Wish I'd seen her before I begun this suit."

"Lands o' massy, but he hain't no mean looking man!" exclaimed the widow after a look at the farmer. "Why, they said he was a big boss and bluffer and wanted to bulldoze me 'cause I'm all alone in the world. Say, now, but they are all wrong. He hain't the kind to bluff and pitch in. Wish he'd have come to see me about the old cow. If he had I'd have chained her up. Wonder how hard he'll swear agin me!"

She was soon to know. The plaintiff's lawyer in opening the case said it was an aggravated case of trespass and damage and that the sum mentioned wasn't really half what they should have sued for. Then he went on to tell of what a defiant woman the defendant was and wound up by stating his hopes that the jury would render a verdict without leaving the box. Then the plaintiff was called to the witness chair, and, to the surprise of the widow and the disgust of his lawyer, he said he had forgotten the message the woman returned to him. He followed that up by declaring that his feelings had simply been shocked and that he had fully recovered from the shock in a minute and a half. As to the corn and cabbage, perhaps $10 would pay the bill.

"You jackass, but you have lost your case!" hissed his lawyer as the witness stepped down with a smile in the direction of the widow, whose lawyer was whispering to her:

"Now, you get up there and give us some hot talk and your case is won."

There was no hot talk from the widow. On the contrary, she cooed like a dove. She admitted to the ownership of the jumping, predatory cow, but was quite willing to pay reasonable damages. She didn't doubt the plaintiff's shocked feelings and was sorry for them and wished he had hit the old cow with the ax. One of the results of the suit was a verdict for 6 cents' damages, and another was that Farmer Jepson said he would call at her home for the money. He kept his word. A week later he drove up to the door and after an hour's interview was asked to call again. Three months later his disgusted lawyer was heard to exclaim:

"Prettiest case I ever had and dead sure of a verdict, and Jepson knocks it all in the head by falling in love with the defendant. Yes, they were married yesterday."

All Getting In.

"They've had a consultation of physicians over him."

"He must be a pretty sick man."

"No; he's not very sick, but he has wads of money."—Pittsburg Post.

To Fit the Occasion.

"Let me spin you a yarn while I'm shaving you, sir,"
Said the barber, baldheaded and hoary,
And the man with thin locks said, "All right, go ahead,
But make it a hair raising story."

Deception of Wild Birds.

Falcons—hawks, the largest species—can compress their features and look very thin if they think it necessary to do so. As to the owls, they can hump into any position they think most suitable. It is useless to look for these self preserving traits in any of the family kept in zoological collections, for the birds are so accustomed to see large numbers of people passing and repassing or standing in front of them that they treat the whole matter with perfect indifference. They know that at a certain time their food will be brought to them and that they are otherwise perfectly safe. The raptores in a wild state have a bloom on their plumage, like the bloom on a bunch of grapes, which is not so often seen when in captivity.

Every earnest promoter can always be counted on to be faithful to his own interests.

It is a curious circumstance that those people who have plenty of nerve are very seldom nervous.

There are some things that have the one drawback of being too comfortable to be really good.

It keeps most of us taxed to the full of our capacity to get an income, anyway.

Hed as manager for the coming year was made some time ago.

A party of great (moving picture) renown has seen fit to become peeved because of his failure to annex some of the long-green from the Firemen's mask ball, and has gone on a rant as to how the people of St. Hilaire should patronize local talent, meaning of course himself. Practicing what you preach is a virtue, but we cannot see the connection between the sermon delivered at the last show and the act of tieing a horse by one foot on the streets of St. Hilaire all night to save 15 cents livery accommodation.

Mask Ball

There was a big attendance at the masked ball last evening. The music by the Red Lake Falls orchestra was first class, and notwithstanding the crowd, the dancing went along nicely until about four this morning. The prizes were awarded as fallows:

LOMBARD PIANOS
The Pianos With The Sweetest Tone

Praised by Press and Pulpit

No Piano has ever been more enthusiastically endorsed. The Artistic Case, the Easy, Responsive Action, and above all the deep, sweet, rich Tone, captivates performer and listener. The united verdict is that

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

Do Not Buy a Piano Until You Have Investigated the Lombard.

DAKOTA BUSINESS COLLEGE

Every person needs a business education and it costs no more to get it at this great Business and Shorthand Training School, under exact office conditions, than at one of the small questionable ones. The results are, however, very different. 350 D. B. C. pupils went to excellent positions in banks and offices this year—over 400 will do so next year. All Fargo banks and 685 others employ D. B. C. pupils as cashiers, tellers or bookkeepers. No other school offers such endorsement.

Our $50 course prepares for business life, or for position as clerk or bookkeeper. Our new $85 course in Commerce and Banking (endorsed by Bankers' Association) supplies cashiers and tellers for the Northwestern banks, and bookkeepers and credit men for the larger concerns. The shorthand course (under an expert reporter) trains court reporters and high grade stenographers. The stenographers for the U. S. District Court, N. D. Supreme Court, 2d Judicial District and the Cass Co. Court are D. B. C. pupils. Can other schools offer this proof of superior training?

The D. B. C. has built a magnificent new building (25,000 square feet of space) is seated with roll top desks, has 60 typewriters, adding machines, billers, money changers, etc. Our pupils deal with each other and with magnificently equipped offices, using aluminum money. Our courses are fascinating and practical. The Northwest has no other school like the D. B. C. Next term begins soon. For booklet write,

Esther Was Alarmed.

Esther, a five-year-old daughter of North side parents, heard much about the dangers of diphtheria, and was eager to observe every precaution to keep from coming into contact with it, that she and her two brothers might not "catch it."

One day she insisted on going to the grocery on the corner to spend her penny, and was warned by her mother not to stop and play with any children she might meet on the way. After having been gone only a few minutes, she rushed into the house much excited, exclaiming as she entered:

"Mamma, you must keep 'ose boys away from Mr. A.'s house, 'cause they have diphtheria and have a sign up."

Her mother said: "Is that so? What does the sign say?"

"It says f-o-r s-a-l-e," said Esther.—Indianapolis News.

SEVEN YEARS OF MISERY

How Mrs. Bethune was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Sikeston, Mo. — "For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I had cramps, backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband's told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do all my own housework, work in the garden and entertain company and enjoy them, and can walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the week. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl, and tell them what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

Remember, the remedy which did this was Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means have failed. Why don't you try it?

Both Wrong.

A ludicrous story is told of an Edinburgh baillie, whose studies in natural history seems to have been limited. The following case came before him one day:

A man who kept a ferret having to go into the country, left the cage with the ferret in charge of a neighbor till he should return. The neighbor incautiously opened the cage door, and the ferret escaped. The owner was very angry, and brought a claim against him for damages.

The following was the decision of the learned baillie: "Nae doot," he said to the neighbor; "nae doot ye was wrang to open the cage door; but," he added, turning to the owner, "ye was wrang, too. What for did ye no clip the brute's wings?"

PIMPLES COVERED HIS BACK

"My troubles began along in the summer in the hottest weather and took the form of small eruptions and itching and a kind of smarting pain. It took me mostly all over my back and kept getting worse until finally my back was covered with a mass of pimples which would burn and itch at night so that I could hardly stand it. This condition kept getting worse and worse until my back was a solid mass of big sores which would break open and run. My underclothing would be a clot of blood.

"I tried various remedies and salves for nearly three years and I was not getting any benefit. It seemed I was in eternal misery and could not sleep on my back or lean on a chair. I was finally given a set of the Cuticura Remedies and inside of two weeks I could see and feel a great relief. I kept on using Cuticura Soap, Ointment and also the Resolvent, and in about three or four months' time my back was nearly cured and I felt like a new being. Now I am in good health and no sign of any skin diseases and I am fully satisfied that Cuticura Remedies are the best ever made for skin diseases. I would not be without them." (Signed) W. A. Armstrong, Corbin, Kan., May 26, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

Found a Friend in Lincoln

When coming from the reunion banquet of the One Hundred and Thirty-seventh Ohio volunteer infantry, which took place at the Grant hotel, Louis P. Bentley of Ludlow, Ky., after hearing eulogies of the war heroes, and especially of Abraham Lincoln, remarked to Alexander Hill, Sr.: "You did not know that for some months I was once a member of Abraham Lincoln's family, did you?"

"No, how did that happen?" asked Mr. Hill eagerly.

Then in a burst of patriotic pride and confidence, Mr. Bentley told the story which he has always kept to himself and family from an undue sense of modesty, which explains why Miss Ida Tarbell did not find him in writing her book, "He Knew Lincoln."

"It was in 1858," said Mr. Bentley, the other day, repeating his story, "and I was a boy of 18 who had learned the printing business and was staying in Decatur, Ill., then a town of about 3,000 inhabitants, and could not find work. I was boarding at the Ogelsby house, the only hotel in town, and had paid my last $5 for board and was feeling about as blue as any one can feel under those circumstances. Stephen A. Douglas, then the Democratic senator from Illinois, was a candidate for re-election and his opponent, a young lawyer named Lincoln from Springfield, and he were having a series of five addresses, which have since become so famous. Both parties were in the hotel at that time to hold a debate that night, and Douglas, the man of the hour, was upstairs in the hotel parlor with a bottle of whisky, a box of cigars and surrounded by admiring friends who came to call upon him.

"There was great excitement in the town, and it centered in the hotel, but I was feeling too blue to care about it and sat in the office downstairs, not caring to speak to any one. A tall raw-boned man sat near me as much unnoticed as myself, all hunched up in his chair, whittling a little piece of wood.

"Presently he began to ask me questions and I replied in the briefest of monosyllables.

"'Do you belong here?' he asked.

"'No,' I replied.

"'How long have you been here?'

"'About a year.'

"'What are you doing?'

"'Nothing.'

"'That is not a good thing for a young man of your age to do. Can you find work?'

"'No,' I replied, feeling very rebellious against fate.

"'What do you do when you are working? Have you a trade?'

"'Yes; I am a printer,' I answered, wishing this man would stop his questions.

"'Well, young man,' he said kindly, 'I have an interest in a newspaper in Springfield, and if you come back with me tomorrow I will see if the foreman of the printing room cannot give you a job. Will you come?'

"'I do not know, I will see,' I answered feeling more kindly toward this curious gentleman.

"'Don't you want a job?' he asked quickly.

"'Yes, I do,' I answered, but I did not tell him the reason for my not accepting his offer. I had no means to go to Springfield, sixty miles away. It was the first time that I was broke and I hated to own it.

"He said nothing more, and that night after the debate, where there were as many as a half million people present in proportion to the size of the town, I came face to face with him again in the hotel office.

"'Well, young man,' he said, 'are you going with me?'

"Then I confessed the reason why I could not.

"I knew then that my friend was Abraham Lincoln, the young Republican candidate for senator, who had debated with Stephen A. Douglas.

"It was near midnight and the steamboat was due to leave in a short time.

"'You come with me, anyhow,' said Mr. Lincoln, 'and I will take care of you.'

"I did not require much urging, and went to my room to collect my small belongings and joined his party.

"We arrived in Springfield the next morning and Mr. Lincoln took me to his home, giving me the only vacant room in his house, and I ate breakfast with the family. After that he took me to his law office and had a talk with his partner, Mr. Herndon; then we went to the printing office of the Illinois State Register,—the paper in which he had an interest, and we had a talk with the foreman. The latter, after asking me to write something, said he was sorry, he saw I knew the work, but there was no position that he could give me at present, promising me, however, the first chance of work. At that my spirits, which had risen, dropped down again to a still lower ebb, until my benefactor said:

"'Now, I am going to be away a great deal on this campaign and Mr. Herndon will be very busy, so how would you like to stay in the office and answer the questions of visitors for $4 a week?' That was before the day of stenographers.

"I did not think there was so much money in the world, so I accepted the offer gladly and remained a resident of the Lincoln household for nine weeks. Mrs. Lincoln's aunt was going to make them a visit and as I had the only vacant room in the house he would make arrangements for me to stay with a lady across the street, who had two young men boarding with her, if I did not care. I suppose Mr. Lincoln paid my board all the time I was there as well as my salary, for I know I did not pay any. Then one day the foreman sent for me to work on a brief, and when it was finished, to my great delight, paid me full journeyman's wages. Altogether I remained in Springfield four months, going from there to St. Louis, where I went into a printing office; but I soon returned to Cincinnati and to Ludlow, where I have lived for nearly sixty years."

Mr. Bentley never had an opportunity to renew his acquaintance with Abraham Lincoln, but never forgot the helping hand which he extended to the lonely, despondent boy that night in Decatur, which played such an important part in the history of the great president himself.

WAS READY WITH AN ANSWER

How Lincoln's Ingenious Mind Framed Effective Reply to Objections Against Emancipation.

Perhaps no story of Lincoln's was told under graver conditions and with more emphatic application than that which closed the famous interview on the steamer River Queen, at Hampton Roads, between Mr. Lincoln, Secretary Seward and the peace commission of the Confederacy. The discussion had reached its kernel, slavery.

The southern argument, in all its impressive force, was brought forward. If the south were to consent to a peace on the basis of emancipation of the slaves, the entire structure of southern society would be plunged into irremediable ruin. No work would be done, nothing would be cultivated; whites and blacks alike must starve, for the freed slaves, accustomed to overseers, would undoubtedly abstain wholly from labor.

The president waited for Seward to make some effective rejoiner. But the experienced statesman could find no cogent reply. At length, Lincoln framed the answer, in a story culminating in a phrase that gave common currency to a colloquialism, coined among the log cabins of negroes and poor whites.

"Gentlemen," addressing the commissioners, "your statement of the conditions reminds me of a man out in Illinois, by the name of Case, who undertook to raise a very large herd of hogs. But, as they grew, it became too big a job to feed them. Finally he planted an immense field in potatoes; and, as soon as the potatoes were fairly grown, turned the whole herd into the field. The hogs did their own digging, and he leaned over the fence, proud of his idea. A neighbor came along.

"'Well, well, Mr. Case,' he remarked, 'this is a grand idea. But butchering time is 'way off in December, and the frost comes easily. Before you are ready to kill those hogs, the ground will be frozen a foot deep.'

"Case scratched his head, and thought it over; but there was only one answer, and he gave it.

"'I suppose it'll go pretty hard with their snouts; but all I can see for it is, root, hog, or die.'"

SAW WITH PROPHETIC EYE

In a Letter President Lincoln Said Good Government Must Come From Schools.

Prof. Theodore W. Hunt, Princeton, '65, in recalling some stirring events through which his class went during the civil war, makes public a letter which Abraham Lincoln wrote in acceptance of the honorary degree of doctor of laws which the trustees conferred on him in 1864, the New York Press says. The letter follows:

"Executive Mansion, Washington, Dec. 27, 1864.—To Dr. John Maclean—My Dear Sir: I have the honor to acknowledge the reception of your note of the 20th of September, conveying the announcement that the trustees of the College of New Jersey have conferred upon me the degree of doctor of laws. The assurance conveyed by this high compliment that the course of the government which I represent has received the approval of a body of gentlemen of such character and intelligence in this time of public trial is most gratifying to me. Thoughtful men must feel that the fate of the civilization on this continent is involved in the issue of the contest. Among the most gratifying of the proofs of this conviction is the hearty devotion everywhere exhibited by our schools and colleges to the national cause. I am most thankful if my labors have seemed to conduce to the preservation of those institutions under which alone we can expect good government, and in its train sound learning and the progress of the liberal arts.

"I am, sir, very truly, your obedient servant,
A. LINCOLN."

HOUSEWORK IS A HEAVY BURDEN

The woman who "keeps house" has enough to do when she is in good, sound health, but if she is weak, tired all the time, and suffering from morn to night with an aching back, house-work becomes a heavy burden.

Many women who were afflicted in this way say that Doan's Kidney Pills have made life easier for them.

Women are subject to kidney disease. The clothing they wear, the work they do, the worry and strain of bearing and rearing children, the lack of proper exercise; all tend to it.

Backache, bearing-down pains, headache, dizzy spells, faintness, fits of "blues," and other troubles often thought to be peculiar to the sex, are found frequently in kidney disease. When any one of these ills appears, together with a discolored condition of the kidney secretions, with passages too frequent, scanty or burning, just make up your mind that your kidneys are weak, and be quick to help them.

Doan's Kidney Pills have helped a great many weak women through the trying times when kidney disease means so much added misery. They do not disturb the stomach or bowels, and contain no poisonous, dangerous nor habit-forming drugs. Doan's are harmless for children too.

When Kidney Troubles Keep You in Misery Day and Night

Every Picture Tells A Story

"I just can't get up!"

The following case is typical of the cures effected by Doan's Kidney Pills. Grateful testimony is the best evidence.

DRIVEN ALMOST CRAZY.

A Terrible Tale of Kidney Suffering.

Mrs. H. W. Heagy, 1515 L St., Bakersfield, Cal., says: "My kidney trouble began in the fall of 1907. I used remedy after remedy prescribed by physicians but no relief came and I was in despair. On account of the numbness and grating sensation I could not lie down comfortably and some nights I was not in bed half an hour. I became so nervous and restless I hardly knew what to do. Hot waves came over me like a flash and I became so dizzy that I staggered. I had a feeling as if there was gravel in my bladder, the kidney secretions acting too freely at times, while again they were very scant and accompanied by terrible pain. I cannot describe the suffering I endured for over two years. Finally I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and while I did not notice much relief for a week or so, I continued persistently and when I had taken eight boxes I was feeling fine. The numbness and smarting finally left, the kidney secretions became clear and natural and my health improved one hundred percent. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me at a time when it seemed that I would go crazy and I never can express my gratitude."

THE CARELESS GROCER

Blundered, and Great Good Came of It.

A careless grocer left the wrong package at a Michigan home one day and thereby brought a great blessing to the household.

"Two years ago I was a sufferer from stomach troubles, so acute that the effort to digest ordinary food gave me great pain, and brought on a condition of such extreme nervousness that I could not be left alone. I thought I should certainly become insane. I was so reduced in flesh that I was little better than a living skeleton. The doctors failed to give me relief and I despaired of recovery.

"One day our groceryman left a package of Grape-Nuts food by mistake, so I tried some for dinner. I was surprised to find that it satisfied my appetite and gave me no distress whatever. The next meal I ate of it again, and to be brief, I have lived for the past year almost exclusively on Grape-Nuts. It has proved to be a most healthful and appetizing food, perfectly adapted to the requirements of my system.

"Grape-Nuts is not only easily digested and assimilated, but I find that since I have been using it I am able to eat anything else my appetite fancies, without trouble from indigestion. The stomach trouble and nervousness have left me, I have regained my plumpness and my views of life are no longer despondent and gloomy.

"Other members of my family, especially my husband, (whose old enemy, the 'heart-burn,' has been vanquished) have also derived great benefit from the use of Grape-Nuts food and we think no morning meal complete without it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Numerical Logic.

"What makes you think Jones is on his feet again in the factory?"

"I noticed he had so many hands."

WOMEN AND HEALTH.

Women are beginning to realise more fully that good health is not to be found in the use of cosmetics and face powders. The appearance of health may follow facial treatment, but health itself lies much deeper than the surface.

Most important to the health of every woman is regularity of the bowels and digestive organs. The weary eyes, bad breath, frequent headaches, pimples and general air of lassitude, is in most every case due to constipation or indigestion, or both. There are various remedies prescribed for this condition, but the easiest, most pleasant and certainly effective, is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin known to druggists as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This simple remedy is far preferable to harsh salts and cathartics and violent purgative waters that disturb the whole system without affording more than temporary relief.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a tonic laxative, mild in its action, pleasant to the taste and positive in its effect, strengthening the muscles of stomach and bowels so that after a short time these organs regain the power to perform their natural functions without assistance.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold by druggists everywhere in 50c and $1.00 bottles. If you have never tried it, write for a sample to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 201 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.; he will gladly send a trial bottle without any expense to you whatever.

Riches do not make a man happy; it is what he gets out of them.

He Ought to Get It.

"On what grounds do you seek a divorce from your wife?" asked the lawyer.

Washington Statue in Boston Public Gardens

More About the English Home of the Washingtons

A PROPOSITION seriously engaging the attention of the English people and press is that Sulgrave manor, in Northamptonshire, the home of George Washington's ancestors, shall be purchased by public subscription in both countries as a visible monument to the cordial relations existing between the two great branches of the English-speaking race. Sulgrave is the place in England most closely associated with the name of Washington. It is true that George himself attached little importance to this fact. In the early days of the American republic, ancestry was despised much more than is now the case. In 1788 he refused to accept the dedication of a book on heraldry because a portion of the community were "clamorously endeavoring to propagate an idea that those whom they wished invidiously to designate by the name of 'well-born' were meditating in the first instance to distinguish themselves from their compatriots and to wrest the dearest privileges from the bulk of the people." Ancestry today is much more regarded in America than it was a hundred years ago. Washington knew very little about his own forefathers. When he was asked about them by the garter king-at-arms, he said the first of his family in Virginia had come from one of the northern counties in England, Yorkshire or Lancashire, or even one still further north. Later there was much disputation about his family tree, but it was finally agreed that the Washingtons of Sulgrave and Brington did actually spring from the Washingtons of Warton in Lancashire, a place on the Westmoreland border. Several generations of Washingtons of Warton are recorded, and one of these was the father of Laurence Washington, mayor of Northampton in 1532 and 1545. This Laurence Washington had for mother the daughter of Robert Kytson of Warton, and a sister of Sir Thomas Kytson of Hengrave in Suffolk. This proved a matter of very considerable importance in their history, because it brought them into connection with the Spencers of Althorp and Wormleighton, through the marriage of Sir Thomas Kytson's daughter, Catherine, to Sir John Spencer of Wormleighton, whose grandson, Sir Robert Spencer, was created Baron Spencer of Wormleighton in 1603. In process of time the Washingtons of Sulgrave appear to have got into financial difficulties. Laurence Washington entered the wool trade, perhaps induced to do so by the fact that Lord Spencer was one of the great flock-masters of his day. This Laurence acquired great riches in the wool trade. In 1539 he became possessed of the manor of Sulgrave for the sum of £321 14s. 10d., and subsequently he purchased additional property. He had many sons, of whom the oldest was Robert, the ancestor of George Washington. He succeeded his father in 1585, when he was of the age of forty. He does not seem to have been so prosperous as his father, and yet seems to have been able to send both his sons, Christopher and William, to Oriel college, Oxford, where they were in 1588, the year of the Great Armada. Robert's eldest son was named Laurence, probably after the mayor of Northampton, and in 1610 he, in agreement with his son, agreed to sell Sulgrave to their cousin, Laurence Makepeace. The second Laurence Washington then removed to Brington, near Northampton, his father, perhaps, going with him, though the latter was buried in the family vault at Sulgrave. Laurence Washington had seventeen children, two of whom rose to high positions and were knighted—Sir William Washington of Packington in 1622, and Sir John Washington of Thrapston in 1623. But the younger members of the family were becoming impecunious. This, then, was the connection of the family of Washington with Sulgrave manor. It is a very interesting one. The manor could not be properly described as one of the stately homes of England. It was built at a good time, but it is not a very fine example of the period. Nevertheless, a single glance at the pictures of the really grand old place will show how essentially English are the architecture and its surroundings. It would have been a very befitting action had it fallen to the lot of the celebrants in Great Brittain to think first of Sulgrave and to have offered it as a free gift to the United States. The inhabitants of the latter could have made good use of it. It has long been the object of many a pilgrimage on the part of Americans in Europe, and it might have been a rallying ground and a center where objects of interest to them could be collected. Something of the kind may yet be done; but perhaps it is better that all of those who are interested in keeping the centenary of the signature of peace should take a share in the acquisition of this memorial of Washington.

Volunteer Fireman

True Public Spirit of the First President Is Shown in Significant Action Recorded

One of the facts in the history of George Washington which most historians fail to mention is that he was a volunteer fireman. About 1750 he enrolled himself in the volunteer fire company at Alexandria, Va.

It is related that on more than one occasion when Washington learned that there was a fire in the vicinity of Alexandia which had called out the firemen he mounted his horse and rode thither from Mount Vernon. The records of the place show that when the volunteer fire department was organized each member agreed "out of mutual friendship" to carry to every fire "two leathern buckets and one great bag of oxnaburg or wider linen," which was the primitive means of extinguishing a fire.

The Friendship Fire company of Alexandria was organized in 1774, at which time Washington was a delegate to the Continental congress in Philadelphia. The members of the company, remembering Washington's former services as a fireman, elected him an honorary member at their first meeting, and forwarded him a copy of the minutes.

To show his appreciation of the compliment, he at once made a thorough inspection of the different kinds of fire engines in use in Philadelphia, and upon his second return there in 1775, he bought from one Gibbs a small fourth-class engine for 80 pounds and ten shillings, and just before he set out for Boston to become commander-in-chief of the Continental army sent this little engine as a present to the Friendship company.

Washington did not lose his interest in fire matters through his elevation to position and power. Upon his retirement to Mount Vernon, after his second term as president, and when his fame spread around the world, he continued to take active interest in the volunteer fire department, and aided it in many ways.

Gets a Relic of Washington.

The notes from which Washington delivered his farewell address are bequeathed to Miss Lizzie C. Faxon of Dedham, Mass., by the will of her grandmother. Miss Faxon is a descendant of Thomas Jefferson and has a valuable collection of Jefferson letters and papers.

PROFIT IN SUGAR BEETS.

Winona County Tiller Shows Minnesota Soil Suitable for Growing.

Winona.—That the growing of sugar beets in Winona county is profitable is indicated by the success of A. F. Miller.

Mr. Miller operates the old Fifield farm, four miles west of the city. From his fifty-five and one-half acres of land last year the yield averaged eighteen and one-half tons an acre. The total value of the crop was $5,190.26 and the net amount received after seed and hand labor charges had been deducted was $3,916.26, or $70.50 an acre.

The cost of growing an acre of beets is about as follows:

Plowing, $1.50; preparing and seeding, $2.25; cultivating, $3; lifting, $1.50; hauling eighteen and one-half tons at 60 cents, $10.95, bringing the total cost to $19.20. The amount is earned by the farmer and his team. Deducting this amount from Mr. Miller's check for $70.56 an acre leaves $51.36 an acre for use of land and profit, or on his fifty-five and one-half acres a net sum of $2,850.48.

The sugar industry is increasing rapidly in this section, where conditions have proven advantageous for their growth. When the industry was first started Illinois, Iowa and Nebraska were considered best suited to the production of the beets. But at present Mr. Miller is one of those Winona county farmers who has shown that beets can be successfully grown here.

A man who has made a happy home for his wife and children, no matter what he has not done in the way of achieving wealth and honor, if he has done that, he is a grand success. If he has not done that, and it is his own fault, though he be the highest in the land, he is a most pitiable failure. We wonder how many men, in a mad pursuit of gold, which characterizes the age, realize that there is no fortune which can be left to their families as great as the memory of a happy home.—Waubun Forum.

There are any number in Minnesota who do not believe the Roosevelt movement in this state is on the square and there is grounds for their suspicion. They have a hunch that the movement for the "Big Stick" is a blind for a Taft delegation, uninstructed of course and so made up that it will be easily handled by those in charge of the convention. Half a dozen papers over the state have aired their suspicions as to the movement, and one influential weekly has gone so far as to condemn the action of several local politicians who have been circulating a petition for the organization of a progressive league with Mr. Roosevelt as its patron saint. Those active in the movement, it was pointed out, were out and out Taft men, and the voters were warned to beware of their smooth talk.

Abraham Lincoln

When the inspired oration which heads this column on this one hundred and third birthday of Abraham Lincoln came to its close, not a sound came from the immense throng gathered to dedicate a soldiers' burying ground, though it had but latdly applauded to the echo the polished phrases of one of the greatest orators of his time.

So Lincoln, who like all truly great men was humble, left the place overwhelmed by the conviction that he had failed to rise to the occasion. Yet the words of the orator are forgotten, while the words of the great commoner, whose rugged beauty of mind and soul and splendid strength of character had their roots in the life of the common people whom he loved so well, are immortal.

In honor, on this anniversary of his birth, the greatest man this land has given to the world, it is well to remember that this re-born nation is itself his greatest monument, and that the splendor of his word and deed "consecrated him far above our power to add or detract."

To celebrate this anniversary, it is enough if "we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."—Duluth Herald.

The County Board

The county commissioners were in session Feb. 9 and 10. The chief business of importance which received the consideration of the officials was the sale of ditching bonds. Ditching bonds to the amount of $145,000 were sold to C. L. Dobner, president of the First State Bank of Thief River Falls.

In the matter of the petition of Nels Burtness and others for the annexation of territory in sections 35 and 36 Rockbury township, to school district No. 26, Friday, March 29, was set as the day of hearing.

Treasures in Mexico

According to Consul Magill of Mexico that country is rich in rare curios, especially in copper and gold luster ware, which can be bought for bullion price. Carvings in ivory, fans, and ornaments done in the highest art can be picked up for a song. Old jewels in settings of centuries past are quite plenty. But he advises care in the selection, just as one should be careful to select golden grain belt beers for their summer beverage or table assistant to digestion. Once tried, never forgotten. Order of Alex. Thompson, Cookston, or of your dealer.

CONTINUOUS SHOWS.

They Were Started by B. F. Keith in a Boston Store.

It was in the month of January, 1883, that Mr. B. F. Keith, who had been studying the show business with farseeing eyes for many years, presented, in a store that he had leased in Boston, the first continuous show ever seen on any stage. He paid his performers $20 a week for a single turn and $40 for double and required them to give eight or nine turns a day. His "top liner" or chief attraction was a pound and a half baby. The doors of his playhouse were thrown open at noon, and from that time until half past 10 at night the performance went on without interruption.

Patrons were allowed to spend the entire day in the theater, and at first so many availed themselves of this opportunity to get a substantial filling of amusement at a small cost that Mr. Keith realized that he must either abandon the idea of a continuous entertainment or else invent some method by which the audience could be driven out of the building and place made for those outside who were waiting for admittance. Necessity is the mother of invention, especially when it is mated with sharp Yankee wit, and it was thus that what is known as "the chaser" came into the world.—James L. Ford in McClure's Magazine.

The Lowly Singer.

The humble poet goes about
In very modest raiment.
If he could coin his tuneful words
He'd gladly make a payment
On rags that glisten as the sun
And raise an awful holler,
But now he has to be content—
He hasn't got a dollar.

For him the sun unfolds its light,
For him the stars are gleaming,
And so he cannot waste his time
On profit bearing scheming.
He must remain content to get
The robin's morning greeting
And not disturb his high flown thoughts
With vulgar things like eating.

Were he disposed to drop a peg
And lower his profession
Things might be drifting round his way
In quite a long procession.
Would he write ads. instead of songs
Extolling pills or bacon
He'd rake in coin; but, oh, his art
Would have to be forsaken!

No; he will go along his way,
Wrapped in his inspiration.
Let sordid poets sing of soap;
His theme is all creation.
So take him gently by the hand
And lead him to the table,
And then the poet's appetite
You'll find was but a fable.

His Dreadful Price.

"I have just had some swell photographs taken."

"I hope that they do you justice."

"Thanks, awfully, but that's not what's troubling me."

"What is?"

"How I am ever going to do the photographer justice?"

An Oversight.

"The constitution is a grand old document."

"Yes, but they wrote it too soon."

"Why so?"

"They should have waited until automobiles had been invented and made it unconstitutional to run a fellow down."

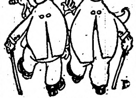
How It Happened.

"Take it from me"—

"No, I won't take a single thing from you!"

Here a lively scrap ensued.

Why She Was Mad.



"She doesn't speak to me."

"Why?"

"Because when she asked me what I thought of her complexion I told her it was very fair, but I could tell her a better brand."

For They Can.

"You can't always tell."

"Then there is one thing certain."

"What is it?"

"That you aren't a woman."

Substantial.

The joy of ready money,
The clinch of cash in hand,
Is something that the dullest
Can always understand.
There may be other pleasures
And other forms of bliss,
But there is none, I venture,
So sure enough as this.

In looking at the posies,
In going for a walk,
In taking in a lecture
To hear a fellow talk
And all such simple doings
Some pleasures may attend,
But there is no enjoyment
Like having cash to spend.

In love and its allurements
The one of youthful mind
Some feelings highfalutin
May very often find,
But when he pays the preacher
And starts to buy the hash
Things run on more serenely
If he can scatter cash.

Then here's to ready money,
The useful friend of man!
It gets him into places
No other booster can.
It gets him into places
And gets him out again
If he has ever handy
The twenty of the ten.

LAZY JOY FOR LITTLE WORK.

Six Months' Labor Enables Them to Loll in Indolence For a Year and a Half—Combing the Islands For Men For the Sugar Plantations.

A happy-go-lucky, stand up and fall down, genial, inconsequential spirit animates the West Indian negroes in their labors and in their begging. From the sweating toilers on the dock at Macoris loading sugar into the steamers, with their warning cry, "Bee-low!" to the men in the hold, to the grinning boys hauling their fishing boats up on the beach at Dominica, they live from day to day and take no thought of the morrow. A West Indian negro with $50 will live for a year and never do a stroke of work.

And why not? His living costs him only 9 cents a day. He has his little cabin for the occupancy. A mango tree grows in his yard, and he can pick plantains by the road at will. If he is too lazy to bake 5 cents will buy bread for the family for the day, and a few cents more will buy a dozen small fish and one large one. A single garment does for the women, and $5 will clothe the man for a year, while the pickaninnies run as God made them.

The West Indies are the paradise of the happy loafer. Every year the islands are combed from end to end for hands to work the great sugar plantations in Santo Domingo, and at that the negroes must often be practically kidnaped to get them on the boats.

In November of each year the sugar boats, little sloops and schooners that spend the remainder of the year trading among the islands get into the Santo Domingo negro trade. Their captains and supercargoes, when they have them, and the owners go up and down the islands telling the negroes that on a certain day the vessel will sail for Santo Domingo and take all who want to go to work on the sugar plantations.

Take the little island of St. Martin's for illustration. For a week the island is combed, and on the appointed day a dozen sloops and schooners are crowded into Marigot bay. The night before the negroes have begun to stream into the little town that sleeps through the year, waiting for this one day to bring it to life. Boards are laid across boxes, and rum and whisky are set out to arouse the negroes to the pitch that will carry them out to the vessels bound for the plantations.

All day the men stream into the town, traveling barefooted along the sandy roads, swept in by the sailors, singing their song of riches to be had for the asking. Ahead of the men walk their women, toting heavy boxes on their heads, while the men are dressed in their best, with a cocky straw hat perched on one ear, swinging a dandy cane and carrying their shoes in their hands. At the outskirts of the town they put on their shoes and swing gayly up to the open air bars on the beach.

The women lug the big boxes down to the beach and wail at being left alone until they, too, become filled with the excitement of the scene and urge their men folks on. The men hang back and laugh and drink and deny that they are going.

"Is you goin', Big Tawm?"

"Naw, Ah ain' goin'. Ah jus' come tuh see."

"Yas, yo' is goin', Big Tawm. Git in dat boat."

"Come on heah, boy. Ya, ha!"

And all the time the rowboats, loaded to the gunwales, are plying back and forth between the shore and the sloops. By sundown the beach is swept clean and six little sloops and a schooner make sail and drift out of the harbor on a dying breeze, loaded down with a thousand black men and women, who will wake in the morning with a raging thirst. Then woe be to the captain who has not filled his water casks, for there is sure to be at least one body to be given to the sharks after the fight around the butts!

When the vessels drop anchor off Macoris the plantation foremen come off and look over the cargoes and pay the shipmasters $2.50 each for passage money, for the negroes. Then the blacks are herded ashore and are credited with 30 cents a day for a month for working from sunrise to sunset in the cane fields. By that time the $2.50 passage money is paid back. Then they receive their 30 cents a day in cash for the next six months until the cutting and grinding season is over, when the sloops show up again and take them to their homes for $2.50 each, paid in advance.

The foremen collect from the plantation owners 63 cents a day each for pay for the black hands, but with their share of the money the negroes can live for a year and a half before they have to think of doing another day's work. And they do it. Year after year the trade is plied, and the islands are combed for men for the plantations, and year after year the negroes return home to eighteen months of lazy joy.—New York Tribune.

Groundhog.

Teacher was telling her class little stories in natural history, and she asked if any one could tell her what a groundhog was. Up went a little hand, waving frantically.

"Well, Carl, you may tell us what a groundhog is."

"Please, ma'am, it's sausage."—Everybody's Magazine.

English Etchings.

The title of reverend was first used in England in 1057.

Employment will be given to 18,000 men if England's plan is carried out of afforesting 150,000 acres a year.

England is getting warmer. The average temperature has risen just over a degree in the past half century.

The brewery at Burton-on-Trent, England, covers 100 acres. The yearly income is over $25,000,000. Seven hundred carloads of ale are forwarded daily.

No Satisfaction.

"I am afraid I will have to give up smoking."

"The doctor order it?"

"No; my wife is beginning to like the odor of a good cigar."

DAKOTA BUSINESS COLLEGE
Every person needs a business education and it costs no more to get it at this great Business and Shorthand Training School, under exact office conditions, than at one of the small questionable ones. The results are, however, very different. 350 D. B. C. pupils went to excellent positions in banks and offices this year—over 400 will do so next year. All Fargo banks and 635 others employ D. B. C. pupils as cashiers, tellers or bookkeepers. No other school offers such endorsement.
Our $50 course prepares for business life, or for position as clerk or bookkeeper. Our new $35 course in Commerce and Banking (endorsed by Bankers' Association) supplies cashiers and tellers for the Northwestern banks and bookkeepers and credit men for the larger concerns. The shorthand course (under an expert reporter) trains court reporters and high grade stenographers. The stenographers for the U. S. District Court, N. D. Supreme Court, 3d Judicial District and the Cass Co. Court are D. B. C. pupils. Can other schools offer this proof of superior training? [illegible]
The D. B. C. has built a magnificent new building (25,000 square feet of space) is seated with roll-top desks, has 60 typewriters, adding machines, billers, money changers, etc. Our pupils deal with each other and with magnificently equipped offices, using aluminum money. Our courses are fascinating and practical. The Northwest has "No other school like the D. B. C." Next term begins soon. For booklet write F. LELAND WATKINS [illegible]

What the Copy Boy Wrote.

Representative Dan Anthony of Kansas, publisher of the Leavenworth Times, once had an office boy who yearned to know how to use a typewriter—which accomplishment, the boy figured, would make him a regular reporter.

Anthony turned an old broken-down machine over to him, says the Washington Herald, and bade him learn to run it.

"What'll I write?" the boy asked.

"Oh, just take some sentence, any sentence at all," Anthony told him, "and see how long it will take you to fill a page with it."

The boy set to work. An hour or two later Anthony chanced to notice the page on which the lad had been working. From top to bottom of the sheet, and from margin to margin, the boy had written one sentence over and over again until there was scarcely a white spot visible on the paper. The sentence the boy had selected to practice with was: "Who the —— invented school?"

Referred to the Lexicographer.

A TROUBLE MAKER

Coffee Poison Breeds Variety of Ills.

A California woman who didn't know for twenty years what kept her ill, writes to tell how she won back her health by quitting coffee:

"I am 54 years old," she says, "have used coffee all my life, and for 20 years suffered from indigestion and insomnia. Life was a burden and a drag to me all the time, and about once a year my ailments got such hold upon me that I was regularly 'sick in bed' for several weeks each time.

"I was reluctant to conclude that coffee was the cause of my trouble, but I am thankful that I found out the truth.

"Then I determined to use Postum exclusively—for a week at first—for I doubted my ability to do without coffee for any length of time. I made the Postum carefully, as directed, and before the week expired had my reward in a perceptible increase in strength and spirits.

"Seeing the good that my short experiment had accomplished, I resolved to continue the use of Postum, cutting out the coffee entirely. This I did for nine months, finding, daily, increased cause for gratification at my steadily improving health. My indigestion gradually left me, my sleep returned, I gained 26 pounds in weight, my color changed from sallow to a fresh, rosy hue and life became a blessing.

"Then I thought I would try coffee again, and did so for a few weeks. The punishment for deserting my good friend, Postum, was a return of my old troubles.

"That taught me wisdom, and I am now and shall be all my life hereafter using Postum exclusively and enjoying the benefits it brings me." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

FIGHT ON TYPHOID

Efforts Being Made to Check Spread of Disease.

Soldiers in the Regular Army, Officers and Enlisted Men in the Navy, and Hundreds of Militiamen Are Being Vaccinated.

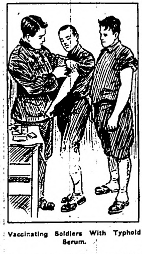
Washington.—The government has demonstrated that typhoid fever prevalent all over the United States, and a tremendous tax upon the life as well as the finances of the nation, may be prevented by vaccination. It has already made thousands of men immune to the disease and thousands more should be vaccinated against the ravages of the life-sapping disease, according to eminent scientists in the employ of the government.

At present, soldiers in the regular army, officers and some enlisted men in the navy, and hundreds of militiamen are submitting to vaccination against typhoid. When one realizes, that, out of 1,500 soldiers inoculated with typhoid vaccine in Texas last year in a district in which many unvaccinated persons died of the disease, not one contracted the malady, one is impressed with the remarkable success of the life-saving serum.

Typhoid fever is the bane of all large cities. Small towns are often decimated by an epidemic of the disease. Travelers fall prey to the noxious typhoid germs in all sections of the country. Under present conditions of sanitation, save in few places, no one is proof against an attack of the often fatal typhoid germs.

Cities have spent millions upon millions of dollars in trying to fight typhoid fever by creating pure water supplies. In some cases, such as in Washington, for instance, millions were spent in purifying the water supply so as to reduce the mortality from typhoid fever without, however, succeeding in lowering the death rate from the disease.

In small towns, where typhoid epidemics have taken away a large percentage of the inhabitants, steps have been taken by sanitary engineers to prevent future epidemics. In many cases, however, these preventive methods have been useless, for the fever has broken out anew at times when the people felt most secure against its ravages.



Vaccinating Soldiers With Typhoid Serum.

Typhoid vaccine, therefore, has been hailed as a blessing by dwellers in these small towns, although it has not been used by them to any great extent.

According to eminent government officials, the annual toll of typhoid fever in the United States, which runs well up into the thousands, is an absolute waste of life. Were 10,000 lives claimed annually by football, by boxing, by war, by fire-fighting, or by persons being caught by fire in moving picture theaters, the people of the country would rise up in wrath and demand that such fatalities cease without any delay. Take delirous typhoid fever, which, when not fatal, often leaves its victims handicapped for life, and the people are more tolerant, although the disease may be prevented, as may the fires in moving picture shows or the fatal accidents on football fields.

While anti-typhoid vaccination is absolutely infallible under certain limitations in the protection of the individual, the government and many of the public health officers in the larger cities of the country are of the opinion that anti-typhoid vaccination should not, at this time at least, become general in the big cities. They fear, that, should the citizens of a large city become vaccinated as a whole against typhoid fever, the city as a whole would become careless in sanitary matters.

The government wants it distinctly understood that typhoid vaccination should not lessen the sanitary precautions at the bedside in cases of the fever, the disinfections of the typhoid excreta in the household, the keeping of water supplies, both private and public, free from contamination, the purification of public water supplies where impurities are indicated, and the supervision of the production and sale of milk, and other foodstuffs.

Health officers are well aware that, the moment there is the least let-up in the enforcement of sanitary regulations, epidemics follow.

Mouse Bites Woman.

Lawrence, Ind.—Miss Nora M. Frenzelmeier, aged thirty-one, a trained nurse, is in a serious condition, suffering with blood poisoning.

Miss Frenzelheier attempted to kill a mouse with a stick of stove wood. She crippled the little animal and when she picked it up the mouse bit her on the right hand.

Her hand will probably have to be amputated to check the spread of the infection.

FINAL RESULT OF IMPURE BLOOD

The System Is Left Weak, Run Down and Helpless Against the Attacks of Disease.

If you need strength, if your blood is thin, your digestion disordered, it will pay you to investigate the merits of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the remedy that has transformed so many weak, anemic, dyspeptic, ambitionless people into strong, healthy, hungry men and women.

Mrs. Lena May Roberts, whose address is R. F. D. No. 3, Aberdeen, So. Dakota after several months of suffering finally found the right tonic in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says:

"For months after the birth of my baby, I suffered terribly from a general breakdown in health. I was in bed for three months and after that was able to be up only part of the time. I was sick all over, being pale, weak and thin. My appetite was gone and my head ached most of the time. Oftentimes there seemed to be a rush of blood to my head and I would faint away. I was very nervous and was not strong enough to do any work.

"As the treatment I was taking did not help me, I began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which a friend said had helped her. After taking a few boxes, I began to get well rapidly. I continued using them for a time and am now as well and strong as ever in my life."

The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in general debility lies in their direct response to the needs of the blood. Their work is to make new blood. That they do this well is shown by the gradual disappearance of the symptoms and the return of color and health. They lay the foundation for permanent health in the future.

For the same reason these pills have cured anemia, after-effects of the grip and fevers, rheumatism, indigestion, and nervousness, dizziness, neuralgia and St. Vitus' dance, and are recommended wherever a tonic for the blood and nerves is needed.

A valuable booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," containing fuller information about rheumatism and other diseases of the blood will be sent free upon request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

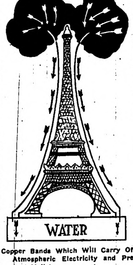
EIFFEL TOWER STOPS STORMS

Famous Structure Has Been Turned Into a Huge Instrument for Protecting the Country.

Paris.—The famous Eiffel tower, long celebrated as the highest structure in the world, has been turned into a huge instrument for protecting the country from hailstorms.

French scientists hold the theory that hailstorms are due to electrical disturbances in the atmosphere, and they have fitted the great tower with an apparatus which will carry off the atmospheric electricity. This apparatus consists of two great bands of copper 28 inches wide. The ends are furnished with projecting points and reach from the summit of the tower without shores and fastenings along two columns which go into the ground, in contact with the enormous conduit of water that works the elevators. By this means communication is established between the gigantic structure and the earth.



Copper Bands Which Will Carry Off Atmospheric Electricity and Prevent Hailstorms.

The tower thus finds itself transformed into an electric Niagara, the bands of copper serving to make a connection between the earth and the clouds charged with electricity.

A hailstorm is usually characterized by the formation of very high cumulus clouds, strong surface winds, considerable lightning and thunder and heavy rains. It appears probable that it is formed either in the front of an advancing cool wave or in connection with a local thunderstorm or tornado.

OLDEST CIVIL WAR VETERAN

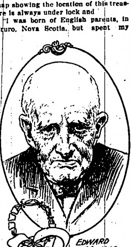
Edward Munroe, 103 Years Old, Living in London, Tells of His Service Under Farragut.

London.—In a little basement room, down an alleyway, off Holloway road, Islington, lives Mr. Edward Munroe, centenarian sailor, who, born in Nova Scotia on September 3, 1809, believes he is the oldest veteran of the American Civil war.

Mr. Munroe is wonderfully well preserved, and although riches have passed him by he lives now on the little pension granted by the United States government, he is as cheerful as a carefree boy. He delights to talk of the battles of the Civil war and speaks proudly of the admirals under whom he served, but he cherishes above all the memory of Admiral Farragut, and a faded photograph of the great sailor is his dearest possession.

Mr. Munroe, who spent 70 years on the sea, in the navy and in the merchant marine, like all sailors who hark back to the day of the clipper, has fought pirates, and when he lay in the hospital in Rio Janeiro, he says, an old pirate entrusted him with the secret of golden loot hidden by a master pirate. That secret is still locked in old Mr. Munroe's breast and the map showing the location of this treasure is always under lock and key.

"I was born of English parents, in Truro, Nova Scotia, but spent my early days in Philadelphia," said the veteran. "I made my first sea voyage at the age of fourteen, and for 70 years have been a sailor, first in the merchant service and then in the American navy, changing again and again from one service to the other.



"My first ship in the American navy was the wooden sloop John Adams. After four years in the navy I went back to the merchant service and then again into the navy. I spent a long time, too, chasing pirates.

"Once, when I was in hospital in Rio Janeiro," said Mr. Munroe impressively, "I lay next to an old pirate, one of Lafitte's Gulf of Mexico band. He was dying and he gave me the map of the spot where Lafitte buried a large part of his loot about 75 miles from New Orleans, on the Louisiana coast. I made an agreement last year with an English captain to hand the plans over to him, but he did not fulfil his contract, so I have broken off the negotiations."

COST OF GRAIN GROWING IN CENTRAL CANADA

A careful canvass made of a number of men farming in a large way indicates that even with the extreme expense of harvesting the crop, which has been caused by the bad weather and difficulty in threshing, wheat has been produced and put on the market for less than 55 cents a bushel. The average freight rate is not over 13 cents per bushel. This would make the cost of production and freight 68 cents and would leave the farmer an actual margin on his low-grade wheat of 17½ cents and for his high-grade wheat of 19½ cents; and though this is not as large a profit as the farmer has every right to expect, it is a profit not to be despised and which should leave a very fair amount of money to his credit when all the expenses of the year have been paid, unless the value of low-grade wheat sinks very much below its present level. A matter of importance to the prospective settler is that of the cost of production. The following table has been prepared after careful investigation:

Interest on 320 acres, value $30 per acre, 3 years at 6 per cent interest	$1,720.00
Interest on horses, machinery, wagons, ploughs, harrows, etc., to operate 320 acres—say $2,500 for 3 years	450.00
Getting 320 acres ready for crop first year, doing one's own work, with hired help, about $3.50 per acre	1,120.00
Getting 320 acres ready for crop, second and third year, about $1.25 per acre per year, or $2.50 per acre 2 years one's own work and hired help	800.00
Seed per year, wheat, per acre $1.25, 3 years	1,200.00
Seeding, 320 acres, 25 cents per acre, 3 years	240.00
Twine, 320 acres, 30 cents per acre, 3 years	288.00
Harvesting, 320 acres, 30 cents per acre, 3 years	288.00
Marketing, 320 acres, estimate 20 bushels per acre per year for 3 years, 3 cents per bushel, or 9 cents per bushel for 3 years	576.00
Threshing 320 acres, estimate 20 bushels per acre per year for 3 years, 6 cents per bushel per year or 18 cents for 3 years	1,152.00
Total	$7,834.00
Cr.
By wheat crop farm 320 acres for 3 years, average 20 bushels per acre per year for 3 years, or a total of 60 bushels, = 19,200 bushels at 80 cents per bushel	$15,360.00
Balance to credit of farm after 3 years operation, $2,563.00 per year	7,526.00

"To operate 480 acres would cost less in proportion, as the plant required for 320 acres would do for the larger farm, and the interest on plant for the extra 160 acres would be saved."

The figures given may be open to criticism, but they will be found to be reasonably accurate, with a fairness given to the expense columns. There are those who profess to do the work at a much less cost than those given.

Effete Briton.

Booth Tarkington, the American playwright and novelist, is a very early riser, and, when the English playwright and novelist, Arnold Bennett, visited him at his charming residence in Indianapolis, Mr. Tarkington said, the first evening at dinner:

"I believe in the simple life. I get up with the sun. Will you take a ten-mile walk with me at six o'clock tomorrow morning?"

"Thank you, Mr. Tarkington," the Englishman answered, "but I don't walk in my sleep."

WELCOME WORDS TO WOMEN

Women who suffer with disorders peculiar to their sex should write to Dr. Pierce and receive free the advice of a physician of over 40 years' experience—a skilled and successful specialist in the diseases of women. Every letter of this sort has the most careful consideration and is regarded as sacredly confidential. Many sensitively modest women write fully to Dr. Pierce what they would shrink from telling to their local physician. The local physician is pretty sure to say that he cannot do anything without "an examination." Dr. Pierce holds that these distasteful examinations are generally needless, and that no woman, except in rare cases, should submit to them.

Dr. Pierce's treatment will cure you right in the privacy of your own home. His "Favorite Prescription" has cured hundreds of thousands, some of them the worst of cases.

It is the only medicine of its kind that is the product of a regularly graduated physician. The only one good enough that its makers dare to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper. Don't trifle with your health. Write to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y.,—take the advice received and be well.

PEOPLE SUPREME SAYS ROOSEVELT

EX-PRESIDENT DECLARES HUMAN RIGHTS SHOULD COME BEFORE ALL OTHERS.

MAKES SPEECH AT COLUMBUS

Addresses Members of Ohio Constitutional Convention—Favor Big Business Under Proper Control—Advocates Direct Nominations.

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 21.—That human rights are supreme over all othe rights and that wealth should be the servant, not the master, of the people, was the keynote of an address delivered today by ex-President Roosevelt before the members of the Ohio constitutional convention in session in this city. He declared that unless government was truly representative it was not representative at all. Referring to trusts he said that big business corporations should not be discouraged but that laws should be enacted by the government for their strict supervision.

After acknowledging the honor accorded him in inviting him to address the delegates, Mr. Roosevelt said:

Country Belongs to People.

"I believe in pure democracy. With Lincoln, I hold that 'this country, with its institutions, belongs to the people who inhabit it. Whenever they shall grow weary of the existing government, they can exercise their constitutional right of amending it.' We progressives believe that the people have the right, the power, and the duty to protect themselves and their own welfare; that human rights are supreme over all other rights; that wealth should be the servant, not the master, of the people. We believe that unless representative government does absolutely represent the people it is not representative government at all. We test the worth of all men and all measures by asking how they contribute to the welfare of the men, women and children of whom this nation is composed. We are engaged in one of the great battles of the age-long contest waged against privilege on behalf of the common welfare. We hold it a prime duty of the people to free our government from the control of money in politics. For this purpose we advocate, not as ends in themselves, but as weapons in the hands of the people, all governmental devices which will make the representatives of the people more easily and certainly responsible to the people's will. . . .

"I am emphatically a believer in constitutionalism, and because of this fact I no less emphatically protest against any theory that would make of the Constitution a means of thwarting instead of securing the absolute right of the people to rule themselves and to provide for their own social and industrial well-being. All constitutions, those of the states no less than that of the nation, are designed, and must be interpreted and administered, so as to fit human rights.

Supreme Power in People.

"I hold it to be the duty of every public servant, and of every man who in public or private life holds a position of leadership in thought or action, to endeavor honestly and fearlessly to guide his fellow-countrymen to right decisions; but I emphatically dissent from the view that it is either wise or necessary to try to devise methods which under the Constitution will automatically prevent the people from deciding for themselves what governmental action they deem just and proper. . . . Constitution-makers should make it clear beyond shadow of doubt that the people in their legislative capacity have the power to enact into law any measure they deem necessary for the betterment of social and industrial conditions.

Mr. Roosevelt declared that in the past too much attention had been paid to the accumulation of prosperity but that the future more attention should be given to its proper distribution.

"The only prosperity worth having," he declared, "is that which affects the mass of the people. I hold it to be our duty to see that the wage-worker, the small producer, the ordinary consumer, shall get their fair share of the benefit of business prosperity. But it either is or ought to be evident to every one that business has to prosper before anybody can get any benefit from it. Therefore I hold that he is the real progressive, that he is the genuine champion of the people, who endeavors to shape the policy alike of the nation and of the several states so as to encourage legitimate and

While the anti-trust law was good as far as it went, Mr. Roosevelt declared that by itself it could accomplish but a trifling part of the government regulation that was necessary. In his opinion the nation and states must co-operate, and he referred to the leading part that Wisconsin, under the direction of Senator LaFollette, had taken. Continuing he said:

"All business into which the element of monopoly in any way or degree enters, and where it proves in practice impossible totally to eliminate this element of monopoly, should be carefully supervised, regulated and controlled by governmental authority; and such control should be exercised by administrative, rather than by judicial, officers. No effort should be made to destroy a big corporation merely because it is big, merely because it has shown itself a peculiarly efficient business instrument. But we should not fear, if necessary, to bring the regulation of big corporations to the point of controlling conditions so that the wage-worker shall have a wage more than sufficient to cover the bare cost of living, and hour of labor not so excessive as to wreck his strength by the strain of unending toil and leave him unfit to do his duty as a good citizen of the community.

Favors Direct Nominations.

Speaking of direct nominations and the initiative and referendum, he said:

"I believe in providing for direct nominations by the people, including therein direct preferential primaries for the election of delegates to the national nominating conventions.

"I believe in the election of United States senators by direct vote. Just as actual experience convinced our people that presidents should be elected (as they now are in practice, although not in theory) by direct vote of the people instead of by direct vote through an untrammeled electoral college, so actual experience has convinced us that senators should be elected by direct vote of the people instead of indirectly through the various legislatures.

"I believe in the initiative and the referendum, which should be used not to destroy representative government, but to correct it whenever it becomes misrepresentative. If in any state the people are themselves satisfied with their present representative system, then it is of course their right to keep that system unchanged; and it is nobody's business but theirs. But in actual practice it has been found in very many states that legislative bodies have not been responsive to the popular will. Therefore I believe that the state should provide for the possibility of direct popular action in order to make good such legislative failure."

Referring to the recall, the speaker said he did not believe that there was any great necessity for it as regards short-term elective officers, but believed it should be generally provided, but with such restrictions as would make it available only when there was a widespread and genuine public feeling among a majority of the voters.

One recall, however, Mr. Roosevelt declared himself heartily in favor of, the recall of decisions on constitutional questions which the people thought were wrong.

People Fit to Rule.

Mr. Roosevelt took issue with many eminent lawyers who do not believe in our American system of government, and in this connection said: "I take absolute issue with all those who hold such a position. I regard it as a complete negation of our whole system of government; and if it became the dominant position in this country, it would mean the absolute upsetting of both the rights and the rule of the people.

"I do not say that the people are infallible. But I do say that our whole history shows that the American people are more often sound in their decisions than is the case with any of the governmental bodies to whom, for their convenience, they have delegated portions of their power. If this is not so, then there is no justification for the existence of our government; and if it is so, then there is no justification for refusing to give the people the real, not merely the nominal, ultimate decision on questions of constitutional law."

In conclusion the speaker said: "Keep clearly in view what are the fundamental ends of government. I hope that not only you and I but all our people may ever remember that while good laws are necessary, while it is necessary to have the right kind of governmental machinery, yet that the all-important matter is to have the right kind of man behind the law. A good Constitution, and good laws under the Constitution, and fearless and upright officials to administer the laws—all these are necessary; but the prime requisite in our national life is, and must always be, the possession by the average citizen of the right kind of character. Our aim must be the moralization of the individual, of the government, of the people as a whole. We desire the moralization, not only of political conditions but of industrial conditions, so that every force in the community, individual and collective, may be directed toward securing for the average man, and average woman, a higher and better and fuller life, in the things of the body no less than those of the mind and the soul."

On Both Sides.

That fine artist, Legros, had always declined to learn English, but he took an inconsistent step, he had himself naturalized. The incident gave occasion to one of his best replies—and, though an austere painter, he was a jovial wit. "Well, Legros, how do you feel?" asked a friend on the morrow of the naturalization. "Why, particularly happy," Legros answered: "Yesterday I had lost the Battle of Waterloo, and today I have won it."—London Chronicle.

Leap Year.

Leap year, it has been complained by some one, seems to have been named on the same principle as the "Meeting of the Waters" at Killarney—which is a place where two streams do not meet, but part. A leap year ought to be a year in which we jump over a day—a 364 day year. One explanation is that all the days after February 29 jump forward one day in the week more than usual. The Romans used to call it a "bissextile year," and the French still do so.

ROBBED OF $25,000

HEART OF NEW YORK'S FINANCIAL DISTRICT IS SCENE OF DARING HOLDUP.

VICTIMS BADLY BEATEN

Three Highwaymen Leap Into Machine—Secure Loot and Then Make Their Escape in a Waiting Automobile.

New York, N. Y. — Twenty-five thousand dollars in currency was stolen from a taxicab in the heart of the financial district by three highwaymen, who sprang into the vehicle and overpowered W. F. Smith and Frank Wardell, messengers of the East River National bank. Both messengers were badly injured and the robbers escaped with the money, $15,000 in $5 bills and $10,000 in $100 bills. The currency was being transported from the Produce Exchange bank in the lower part of the city.

The taxicab had proceeded up Broadway without mishap when, for some unexplained reason, the chauffeur turned west on Rector street into Church street, skirting the side and rear of Trinity churchyard.

About midway of the old cemetery three men sprang from the curb. One jumped on the chauffeur's seat; the other two got into the vehicle. The man on the seat pressed a revolver in his overcoat pocket against the side of the chauffeur, Gino Martini, and commanded him to drive swiftly on without making an outcry.

Inside the vehicle the two robbers were belaboring the bank messengers over the head. Smith, one of the messengers, is 61 years old, and he was bleeding, and almost unconscious when the taxicab reached Park place, a few blocks north. Wardell was badly beaten about the head, but was not so seriously hurt.

At Park place the highwaymen jumped from the taxicab, bearing a tin box which they had wrested from the messengers, and which contained the currency. In a flash they had sprung into a big black automobile which appeared to be awaiting their coming and were quickly lost in the maze of traffic.

Martini, the taxicab chauffeur, continued to run his machine until he found a policeman. Here he gave the alarm and the two injured messengers were taken to a police station. Smith's condition was so serious that he was removed to a hospital. Wardell's scalp was badly laverated, but because of his youth he stood the fight well.

The taxi was owned and driven by Gino Martini and had been used many times by the officials of the East River bank to transfer cash and securities. Martini told the police that he did not suspect any danger, even when the men leaped into the cab, as he thought they might simply want to ride.

"The man who got by me," he said, "jabbed the gun into my side. 'Keep on a-going,' he hissed at me, 'and if you make a sound or turn, I'll fill you full of lead.' When I felt the gun against my ribs, I gave the car the power. Then I heard the door slam, and I could feel the struggle going on inside the cab, but I did not dare look around.

"We whizzed past two policemen, but I was so scared that I was afraid to make a sound. As I neared Park place the man beside me said: 'Slow down and stop at the corner.' I did as I was told and he jumped off and streaked for the black automobile that was standing there. I felt the door of the taxi open and I saw the other two men jump out and run over to the car, the engine of which had been started. They disappeared before I could tell anybody what had happened."

After questioning Martini at length, the police took him and his taxicab to headquarters. There the fingerprint experts of the department went over the machine in an effort to find fingerprints which might give them a clue.

A Hospital for Diseases of the Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Established At White Bear Lake.

Prominent St. Paul specialists have taken over the White Bear Hospital and are the first to give Minnesota and the N. The Hospital has an accommodation for forty-five patients, is steam heated, electric lighted and has a modernly equipped operating room. It is beautifully located on the shores of White Bear Lake, free from the din and roar of the city and easily reached by steam and electric cars. The reputation and large practice of the physicians in charge are too well known in the Northwest to need any recommendation. That the Minnesota Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Hospital will be welcomed by the people of the Northwest is evident by the number of patients that are already coming from long distances to secure the services of these specialists as well as the conveniences of this up-to-date hospital.—"White Bear Life."

RAISE POSTAL RATES

PRESIDENT CONCURS IN RECOMMENDATION REGARDING SECOND-CLASS MAIL.

SENDS MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Transmits Postmaster General's Report Which Shows Profit in Postal Department for First Time in History—Parcel Post Is Urged.

Washington, Feb. 22.—A raise in the rate on second-class mail matter is recommended in the annual report of the postmaster general which was transmitted to congress today, accompanied by a special message from the president. For the first time in the history of the department a profit is shown for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911.

Accompanying the document was the report of the commission on second-class mail matter appointed by joint resolution of congress on March 4 of last year and a brief message of the president, in which he called attention to the principal features of the two reports.

The report of the commission on second-class mail matter makes the following recommendations:

1. The rate of 2 cents a pound on copies mailed by publishers to subscribers, to news agents, and as sample copies, and by news agents to their subscribers or to other news agents.

2. The rate of 1 cent for each 4 ounces for copies mailed by other than publishers and news agents; that is, the present transient rate.

3. The present free-in-county privilege retained, but not extended.

The commission also recommended that the cent-a-copy rate for newspapers other than weeklies and for periodicals not exceeding 2 ounces in weight, and the 2-cent-a-copy rate for periodicals exceeding 2 ounces in weight, when mailed at a city letter-carrier office for local delivery, be abolished.

As to the effect and adequacy of the proposed increase of 1 cent a pound in postage the commission says:

"Such an increase will not, in the opinion of the commission, bring distress upon the publishers of newspapers and periodicals, or seriously interfere with the dissemination of useful news or information. A reasonable time should be allowed, after the rate is fixed, before it is put into effect. While the new rate will be very far from compensating the government for the carriage and handling of second-class matter, it will to some extent relieve the existing burden and result in a more equitable adjustment of rates."

Both the president and the postmaster general concur in the recommendations.

President Taft again concurs in the recommendation of the Postmaster General for the adoption of a parcel post system, suggesting the inauguration of such a service on rural routes and in the city delivery service first.

Hitchcock's recommendation for government ownership of the telegraph lines under the supervision of the postal service is not approved of by the president. Regarding this he says:

"There is only one recommendation in which I can not agree—that is one which recommends that the telegraph lines in the United States should be made a part of the postal system and operated in conjunction with the mail system. This presents a question of government ownership of public utilities which are now being conducted by private enterprise under franchises from the government. I believe that the true principle is that private enterprise should be permitted to carry on such public utilities under due regulation as to rates by proper authority rather than that the government should itself conduct them. This principle I favor because I do not think it in accordance with the best public policy thus greatly to increase the body of public servants."

The report of the Postmaster General is full of statements of changes in the organization and methods of the postal service made since the last annual report, and of tentative drafts of legislation embodying certain recommendations of the department which need legislation to carry them out. It also calls attention to the fact that the revenues for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1911, amounted to $237,879,823.60 and that the expenditures amounted to $237,660,705.48, making a surplus of $219,118.12.

The report shows that the postal savings system was begun experimentally in January, 1911, and that it has now been extendod so as to include 7,500 presidential post offices, which includes practically all of the post offices of that class. Preparations are also being made to establish the system at about 40,000 fourth-class offices. The deposits in 11 months have reached a total of $11,000,000, distributed among 2,710 national and state banks.

Wonderful Experiences.

"When I was out in the country last summer," said the beautiful chorus girl, "I milked a cow."

"Oh, you haven't anything on me," replied the artist's model. "I visited an aunt of mine in the country last fall, and one evening I helped her wash the dishes."

An Empty Tradition.

"Pop, why are you called the head of the family?"

"It is merely a courtesy title, my son."

RHEUMATISM A DISEASE OF THE BLOOD

The Treatment Which Is Most Successful Is Directed Toward Building Up and Purifying the Vital Fluid.

That rheumatism is a disease of the blood is shown by the fact that it is hereditary in certain families, and that there is a marked thinning of the blood immediately following its attack.

In the following brief statement are described symptoms which every patient will recognize and the means by which a cure was effected in this case is described with equal fidelity.

If you are suffering from any form of rheumatism with loss of flesh and strength, and thinning of the blood, the remedy that was so effective here deserves a thorough trial.

"About fifteen years ago," says Mrs. Rhoda Pettit, of Louisville, Neb., "after exposure to dampness and wet and being in a run-down condition from overwork, I began to suffer from inflammatory rheumatism. Both my father and mother were sufferers from the same disease. My right side was afflicted and had I no use of my right limb. The cords of the limb seemed to be drawn up. Often the pains would shift from one part of the body to another and, while they were worse in my right limb, they were very severe through the small of my back. There was a sensation as though I was being cut with a knife. My limbs and feet were swollen so that I could not put on my shoes. I suffered intense agony all of the time and when the attacks were severe I was confined to bed for weeks. My stomach was in bad shape. I was troubled with heartburn and gas. I lost weight and my strength was all gone.

"I took medicine from a doctor and tried several other remedies and liniments but nothing helped me until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had taken them only a short time before I could feel the new blood and after a fair trial I was able to walk. The pills made me a strong, healthy woman and I am entirely cured of the rheumatism. I know I would not be living today if I had not tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y. The genuine are sold only in packages bearing the full trade-mark.

Mean People.

Henry Russell, the head of the Boston opera, was describing his foreign tour in search of talent.

"They were mean people," he said of the singers of a certain city. "I could do no business with them. They thought only of money."

Mr. Russell smiled.

"They were as bad as the man who discovered the Blank theater fire.

"The first intimation the box office had of this fire came, at the end of the third act, from a fat man who bounded down the gallery stairs, stuck his face at the ticket window and shouted breathlessly:

"'Theater's afire! Gimme me money back!'"

Among the Ancients.

Democritus had just announced the theory that the visible universe is merely the result of the fortuitous concourse of atoms.

"Subject, of course," he said, "to the approval of Mr. Gompers."

For he did not wish to be drawn into a magazine controversy over it.

Read Mr. Roosevelt's speech, on the first page of this paper.

The followers of Senator LaFollette still insist that he is not out of the presidential fight.

Bemidji elected a socialist mayor and one socialist alderman. The socialists are slowly but steadily gaining in this state, as they are throughout the nation. There is no use in trying to blind our eyes to this fact.

A decision of much importance to the dairy interests of the state was handed down by the supreme court last week. The law prohibiting discrimination in the purchase of butterfat and cream by offering higher prices at one point than at another is held to be constitutional.

Only congress, and not the supreme court of the United States, may object to the initiative and referendum method of legislation, so the court decides. The tribunal held that the question of whether a state still maintained a republican form of government, guaranteed by the federal constitution, after it adopted the initiative and referendum method, was a political problem for congress and not a judicial one for the courts.

The inference from all this cannot be escaped: Wherever the Republican party is prosperous, it is progressive. It is prosperous because it is progressive. Wherever the republican party is successful, the republican voters demand Roosevelt. If Taft gets the nomination, he will get it from democratic states. If the republicans want a candidate who will cause states to go republican, they will name Roosevelt; if they want a candidate who will cause and has already caused states to go democratic they will name Taft.—Collier's.

Senator Kenyon of Iowa has introduced a bill whose effect would forbid railroads and express companies to carry liquor into prohibition states. The antiliquor laws in many states are rendered futile by the ability of the distillers to set up local agents who can take orders and have cases and bottles of liquor sent direct to the consumer by express from outside the state. A similar bill was introduced in congress some years ago and would have passed if it had ever reached a vote. Speaker Cannon, however, disposed of it by packing the committee in charge of it with men from whom he exacted a promise not to report this particular bill.—Collier's.

Big Business would be all right if it did not arrogate to itself corrupting privilege, and no business is legitimate that allows a single one of its directors to accumulate $100,000,000. Andrew Carnegie made out of steel several times that sum, and he boasted that he made an additional forty-seven millionaires, some of them worth more than $100,000,000 each. Those gigantic profits were the fruits of extortion. Capital got too much, labor too little, and the consumers were spoliated to create an odious plutocracy whose magnates dwell on Fifth avenue within a pistol shot of want and squalor and misery and pain, disease and death, and then prate of equility and "Triumphant Democracy," and all of it is nothing but amass of canting, lying rot.—Collier's.

La Follette's Nature

You cannot make him more lonely than always he has been. Men will ask him to cease being true to type for a little while, to give them a rest from his intensity, his fierce handling of the sore spots in human consciousness. But he gives them no rest. He has no gentler speeches, no playful interludes. He has driven himself hard at the flinty opposition till he has become stern and solitary. One thing he sees, one thing he does, sometimes with overemphasis, sometimes with heat and rage, sometimes wearily and unwisely, but still driving on as if himself driven by overmastering command. Many men grow tired of him, for the novelty of his onslaught stales, and they turn to blither champions. To carry through to the end an unflinching, sturdy attack on privilege, on established power in any of its worldly manifestations, means that the fighter is scarred and broken before he has half finished his fight. The forces he has challenged will surely reach some personal weakness of his. He, like all mankind, is human and falls of perfection. His enemies are eager to proclaim him a warrior with a rusty blade. He invites bitter reprisal in making the fight at all. It may be that the world shall read "his victory in his children's eyes," but sometimes he must wonder if all the anxious striving is worth the cost. He pays for what his country gains.—Collier's

Lose in Legal and County Printing

In a talk before the members of the Northern Minnesota Editorial association at Long Prairie, Charles T. Kelley, editor of the Menagha Journal, told how the publishers of this state were each year losing money through accepting legal and county printing at less price than they were entitled to. Among other things he said:

"In the thirty-one counties embracing the territory covered by this organization, I think it is safe to say that through unbusinesslike methods of the publishers, the fraternity loses, absolutely throws away, in legal printing alone, fully $30,000 annually. This money is not given under the guise of charity and the printers have no one to blame but themselves for this enormous leak in their legitimate income. The word "Charity" in this paragraph reminds me of an incident that happened about the time I made up my mind to enter the profession that led to fame and fortune (?).

"A well-to-do farmer came into the court-house one day, his mission being the sale of tickets on a steer he was raffling. One of the county officials, tossing out the required amount, exclaimed sarcastically: 'This is for charity, I suppose.' 'Oh, no,' said the vendor; 'it is for a steer.'

"Now, we printers do not even get a chance on a steer when we cut prices on legal printing, or on any other work for that matter. Take the county printing, for instance; there are not one-third of the counties where the legal rate is paid, and of our thirty-one counties there are only about five where a just distribution is made among the publishers. In some counties probate notices are run at a flat rate of $4.00 or $4.50 when the legal rate will average $6.35—just a dead loss to the publisher of from five to seven dollars on an estate.

"I have pointed out a few of the numerous radical defects in our system, or rather lack of system, regarding an important item in the newspaper business. Now the uppermost question is: 'How can we best overcome these defects and put our work on a business basis?'"

The Butter Question

John McCabe, assistant state dairy and food commissioner, gave an interesting talk recently on butter prices. He said, among other things:

"Fifteen million pounds of butter produced in Minnesota was bought up a year ago at an average of 20 cents per pound and put in storage in order to bring about deficiency in the open market and so enlarge the sales of oleomargarine, the makers of which control the great bulk of the cold storage plants of the country."

It was McCabe's opinion that it will continue to be held in storage, thus helping to maintain the surface scarcity of butter. He stated very frankly that his department could do nothing toward putting a stop to creating such a condition. He made it plain that the situation developed only because the makers of oleo had cornered butter—locked it up, in fact—and so forced large sales of their product at prices that have shown an increasing scale.

"I want to say for the dairymen of this state that they actually made more butter last year than the year before, and that butter would not have been so high this winter but for this deliberate storing of 15,000,000 pounds and so creating a great deficiency where in fact none would have otherwise existed. Therefore, let us hear no more about the retailer or the middleman being responsible for this 'increased cost of living.' It is this combination of oleomargarine interests and cold storage plants."

In this connection we quote as follows from a communication recently received from an agent of a New York commission house by A. J. Hed, manager of the local creamery:

"I arrived in New York Tuesday, the 13th, and have been watching the market tumble from day to day since that time. It was then quoted at 35 cents, but at present is down to 29 cents with indications of going still lower. Butter has been piling up in every commission house in the market. The jobbers and retailers are bitterly complaining of no trade, caused by the misrepresentations in the daily papers about the butter trust, etc.

"A large retailer told me that before this agitation when the retail price of butter was 43 to 44 cents, consumers bought the butter without a word, but when these uncalled for misrepresentations came out in the daily papers they began to sit up and take notice and decided that they were paying too much and dropped out entirely, and the Lord only knows at what price they will commence buying again—there aren't any butter dealers who know how."

How It is Done

A station agent, living a short distance from Fergus Falls, was discussing freight matters with a representative of the Journal the other day and made some remarks that are worth consideration.

"The mail order houses," said he, "make the railway men more trouble than all the other business men combined. They send out their catalogues, offering things at prices that look cheap, and obtain numerous orders for goods but you would be surprised at the number of articles that are refused when they arrive. Almost every day articles come in, and the purchasers, on coming to secure them, find they are of inferior quality and order them back. This is where the railway man's trouble begins. The mail order houses, particularly one of the well known Chicago concerns, make it a practice to claim that they never received the goods in return and to try to make the purchaser pay for them. The purchaser comes to us and tells us that he has a letter from the mail order concern saying that the goods were not received and that he is liable for them, and then we have to get busy and begin tracing them. Tracing a piece of freight is a slow process, and while it goes on the purchaser calls on us every little while and wants to know if we have found it. It generally requires several weeks and perhaps a month or two for us to prove delivery of the returned goods."

The man who buys his goods at home can see what he is getting, and in nine cases out of ten he gets better value than he does by patronizing the outside concerns.—Ex.

The seventy-seventh year of its existence finds the Toledo Blade more popular than at any period during its long and successful career. It is now read each week by more than a million people. The Blade's field is national and goes into every state and territory in the United States, thereby giving it an unquestionable right of claiming to be the greatest national weekly newspaper in America.

The Weekly Blade is distinctly a family newspaper. To fulfill this purpose it is kept clean and wholesome. The news of the world is handled in a comprehensive manner, and the various departments of The Blade are edited with painstaking care. The Household page is a delight to the women and children; current affairs are treated editorially without prejudice; the serial stories are selected with the idea of pleasing the greatest number of fiction lovers; the Question Bureau is a scrap-book of information; the Farmstead columns are conducted with the purpose of giving the patrons a medium for the exchange of ideas and information on farm topics. LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

DAKOTA BUSINESS COLLEGE

Every person needs a business education and it costs no more to get it at this great Business and Shorthand Training School, under exact office conditions, than at one of the small questionable ones. The results are, however, very different. 250 D. B. C. pupils went to excellent positions in banks and offices this year—over 400 will do so next year. All Fargo banks and 685 others employ D. B. C. pupils as cashiers, tellers or bookkeepers. No other school offers such endorsement.

Our $50 course prepares for business life, or for position as clerk or bookkeeper. Our new $35 course in Commerce and Banking (endorsed by Bankers' Association) supplies cashiers and tellers for the Northwestern banks, and bookkeepers and credit men for the larger concerns. The shorthand course (under an expert reporter) trains court reporters and high grade stenographers. The stenographers for the U. S. District Court, N. D. Supreme Court, 3d Judicial District and the Cass Co. Courts are D. B. C. pupils. [illegible]

The D. B. C. has built a magnificent new building (25,000 square feet of space) is seated with roll top desks, has 60 typewriters, adding machines, billers, money changers, etc. Our pupils deal with each other and with magnificently equipped offices, using aluminum money. Our courses are fascinating and practical. The Northwest has no other school like the D. B. C. [illegible]

FOR EVERY FAMILY MEDICINE CHEST

To the head of every family the health of its different members is most important, and the value of an agreeable laxative that is certain in its effect is appreciated. One of the most popular remedies in the family medicine chest is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that is known to druggists and physicians as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This preparation is mild and gentle in its action on the bowels, yet positive in its effect. A dose of Syrup Pepsin at night means relief next morning, while its tonic properties tone up and strengthen the muscles of stomach, liver and bowels so that these organs are able in a short time to again perform their natural functions without help.

Druggists everywhere sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in 50c and $1.00 bottles. If you have never tried this simple, inexpensive, yet effective remedy, write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 201 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and ask for a sample bottle. Dr. Caldwell will be glad to send it without any expense to you whatever.

But Mamma Didn't.

Little Mabel was always tumbling down and getting hurt, but as soon as her mother kissed the bumped forehead Mabel would believe it cured and cease crying. One day she accompanied her mother to the Union depot, and while they were seated in the crowded waiting room an intoxicated man entered the door, tripped over a suitcase, and fell sprawling on the floor. The attention of every one was attracted to the incident, and in the sudden silence following the fall Mabel called out:

"Don't cry, man. Mamma 'll kiss oo, and 'en oo 'll be all right."—Lippincott's Magazine.

LAWYER CURED OF ECZEMA

"While attending school at Lebanon, Ohio, in 1882, I became afflicted with boils, which lasted for about two years, when the affliction assumed the form of an eczema on my face, the lower part of my face being inflamed most of the time. There would be water-blisters rise up and open, and wherever the water would touch it would burn, and cause another one to rise. After the blister would open, the place would scab over, and would burn and itch so as to be almost unbearable at times. In this way the sores would spread from one place to another, back and forth over the whole of my upper lip and chin, and at times the whole lower part of my face would be a solid sore. This condition continued for four or five years, without getting any better, and in fact got worse all the time, so much so that my wife became alarmed lest it prove fatal.

"During all this time of boils and eczema, I doctored with the best physicians of this part of the country, but to no avail. Finally I decided to try Cuticura Remedies, which I did, taking the Cuticura Resolvent, applying the Cuticura Ointment to the sores, and using the Cuticura Soap for washing. In a very short time I began to notice improvement, and continued to use the Cuticura Remedies until I was well again, and have not had a recurrence of the trouble since, which is over twenty years. I have recommended Cuticura Remedies to others ever since, and have great faith in them as remedies for skin diseases." (Signed) A. C. Brandon, Attorney-at-Law, Greenville, O., Jan. 17, 1911.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

Subject for the Minister.

According to reports gathered by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, practically 10 per cent. of all deaths in church congregations are caused by tuberculosis. In a study of 312,000 communicants of 725 chuches in which there were 7,000 deaths in 1910, the death rate among these church members was found to be 2.24 for every thousand communicants. This is higher than the rate for the registration area of the United States, which was 1.60 in 1910.

"While these statistics,' says the national association, "are not comparable from the point of view of accuracy with those of the bureau of census, sufficient credence may be given to them to indicate that one of the most serious problems the ordinary church has to consider is that of the devastation of its membership by tuberculosis. Every minister in the United States should give this subject some attention during the week preceding or that following April 28 Tuberculosis day."

Newspaper Is the Medium.

"The importance of this whole question of publicity to the consumer is growing on the manufacturer. He sees his competitor or some man in another line turning the trick of publicity and he sit up and thinks. He is gradually realizing that localized, crystalized publicity in the home is what pays best and that he can only get that through the newspaper."—The Daily Club.

Man and His Happiness.

"Man is the creator of his own happiness; it is the aroma of a life lived in harmony with high ideals. For what a man has, he may be dependent on others; what he is, rests with him alone. What he obtains in life is but acquisition; what he attains, is growth. Happiness is the soul's joy in the possession of the intangible."—From Self-Control by William George Jordan.

THE DOCTOR HABIT

And How She Overcame It.

When well selected food has helped the honest physician place his patient in sturdy health and free from the "doctor habit," it is a source of satisfaction to all parties. A Chicago woman says:

"We have not had a doctor in the house during all the 5 years that we have been using Grape-Nuts food. Before we began, however, we had 'the doctor habit,' and scarcely a week went by without a call on our physician.

"When our youngest boy arrived, 5 years ago, I was very much run down and nervous, suffering from indigestion and almost continuous headaches. I was not able to attend to my ordinary domestic duties and was so nervous that I could scarcely control myself. Under advice I took to Grape-Nuts.

"I am now, and have been ever since we began to use Grape-Nuts food, able to do all my own work. The dyspepsia, headaches, nervousness and rheumatism which used to drive me fairly wild, have entirely disappeared.

"My husband finds that in the night work in which he is engaged, Grape-Nuts food supplies him the most wholesome, strengthening and satisfying lunch he ever took with him." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

BIG K. OF C. CEREMONY.

Joint Initiation of La Crosse and Winona Councils Attract 400 Knights.

Winona.—Four hundred Knights of Columbus from many cities in this section were attracted to Winona by the joint initiation ceremonies of the La Crosse and Winona councils. The visitors came from St. Paul, La Crosse, Plainview, Wabasha, Kellogg, Arcadia, Red Wing, Rochester, Minneapolis and other cities.

The ceremonies opened in the morning, when the entire delegation of Knights gathered at the local clubrooms and marched in a body to the Procathedral, where they attended mass and listened to the sermon delivered by the Right Rev. Bishop P. R. Heffron. In the afternoon a class of fifty-two were initiated into the second and third degrees at the St. Joseph's hall.

The feature of the day was the banquet at the Philharmonic hall. Six hundred Knights were present. Rev. Father Griffin of Winona acted as toastmaster. Toasts were responded to by Joseph Boshert, La Crosse; J. J. Fitzpatrick, Winona; John F. Dogherty, La Crosse; John E. Barry, St. Paul; James Keating, Wabasha; Edward Eabut, La Crosse; Richard A. Randall, Winona, and Martin J. Ryan of St. Paul. The feature address of the evening was that of Mr. Barry of La Crosse, who spoke on "A Knight of Columbus," in which he extolled the principles which underlie the order.

BEAULIEU CLOSES CASE.

Testimony in Indian Land Inquiry Deals With the Timber Sales.

Detroit.—Gus Beaulieu closed his testimony which is being before the congressional committee which is investigating timber matters of the White Earth agency, by submitting corroborating witnesses. It was shown that former estimates of timber in the Red lake territory were inaccurate, because, it was said, the estimators were incompetent. In one case a section had been returned as agricultural land when it had 385,000 feet of timber. The first report was by the Douglas corps under Secretary Hoke Smith.

The witnesses Mr. Beaulieu called were William O'Neil, superintendent of logging of the ceded Chippewa lands; Edward Warren, a timber expert; Joseph Roy; Jack Radbit, a mixed blood; B. L. Fairbanks, a White Earth merchant and former timber buyer; Shay Day, a nearly full-blood Indian, a Civil war veteran and a self-supporting retired farmer; John W. Carl, farmer and land man of Mahnomen; and Chi Mah Qua, a mixed blood.

The testimony related to logging operations and to the suspected collusion among bidders for the Indian timber.

TO BRING SETTLERS

Special Rates Announced to Minnesota During March and April.

Minneapolis. — Announcement was made by the Northern Pacific of special homeseekers' rates to Minnesota points the first and third Tuesdays from March to November, inclusive, on the basis of a fare and a half for the round trip. The minimum rate will be $8.

This is the first time the Northern lines have announced a low rate for such an extended period since the 3-cent rate was previously in effect: They were in only a short period last fall.

Indications point to a heavy movement to Minnesota this summer. From 1,000 to 2,000 people are reported daily as visiting the Northern Pacific exhibit car, now touring in Missouri. Much interest is shown in Minnesota products.

FAST TIME TO DULUTH.

Soo Is to Run From Twin City in Three Hours.

Duluth.—It is learned here that it is the intention of the Soo Line to reduce the time between Duluth and the Twin City by about an hour. The present fastest time is four hours and fifteen minutes, and the time contemplated by the Soo is "about three hours." It is expected, however, that the Soo line will not be the first to inaugurate the fast service, as the Northern Pacific and Great Northern will have plenty of time to anticipate it. The Omaha cannot think of competing because of its greater mileage. The Soo line's Duluth-Twin City passenger service will be inaugurated in the spring, and its fast service as soon as the new roadbed is right.

IOWA DAIRY TRAIN.

Experts Take Stock, Model Barn and Stalls to Albert Lea.

Albert Lea.—The Rock Island dairy special was brought here. There are lecturers of acknowledged ability with the train, and their outfit consists of three head of cattle, sample stalls and stanchions and a model dairy barn. The train remained here all night, leaving for Rake, Iowa. The train is being run for the Iowa Dairy association.

Train Service Suspended.

Pipestone.—The night passenger train service from Jackson, Minn., through Pipestone to Madison, S. D., on the Milwaukee road, has been suspended owing to a shortage of coal. Officials say they will probably be able to restore the service on March 1.

Pipestone.—The city council has passed an ordinance prohibiting boys under 18 from playing pool or billiards in any poolroom in the city. All school students not of age are prohibited from playing pool or billiards.

ROAD TO TWIN CITIES

Interstate Project Presented by South Dakota Warmly Seconded.

Redwood Falls.—At recent conventions at Deadwood and Huron in South Dakota, an organization was formed to construct an interstate highway from the Yellowstone park to the Twin Cities by way of Deadwood, Huron, Brookings, S. D., and Lake Benton, Marshall, Redwood Falls, Morton, Fairfax, Winthrop, Gaylord, Arlington, Green Isle, Norwood, Waconia, Excelsior, into the Twin Cities and to Chicago. It is also expected that the highway will be constructed westward to the Pacific coast.

The Minnesota portion of the highway is already under construction Several months ago, the Commercial club of Redwood Falls appointed a road committee consisting of A. R. A. Laudon, A. C. Dolliff and Joseph Tyson, to undertake the task of agitating the construction of such a highway. The efforts of the committee met such enthusiastic support that the line has been mapped and the various boards of commissioners of the counties through which the road will pass have adopted resolutions laying such a state road under the state road law. At the Huron convention A. R. A. Laudon of Redwood Falls was made a member of the interstate committee.

The South Dakota people will begin the construction of their portion as soon as spring opens. The highway will be so constructed as to avoid sharp turns, with easy grades forty feet wide, the graveled part to be twenty feet wide.

EDITORS IN MINNEAPOLIS.

Annual Gathering of the Minnesota Association.

Minneapolis. — Minneapolis entertained the forty-sixth annual convention of the Minnesota Editorial association Thursday and Friday of last week. More than 200 editors attended. A feature of the meeting was a dinner given at the Commercial Club dining room Thursday night, this being the first function given an outside gathering by the newly organized Minneapolis Civic and Commerce association. Thursday night the visiting newspaper men and their wives were given an opportunity to see "The Balkan Princess" at the Shubert as guests of printers' supplies dealers of the city.

The convention opened with an address of welcome by Mayor Haynes and a response by S. Y. Gordon, president of the association. GRAIN CASE IS SETTLED.

The Commerce Commission Decides Against Minneapolis Firm.

Washington, D. C. — The interstate commerce commission in deciding a case laid down the principle that an award for reparation should be made only to the person actually damaged.

A grain commission concern of Minneapolis, was overcharged by the Chicago & North Western railway on a shipment of wheat and flax seed. The charges exacted by the road were paid by the commission concern, which charged the full amount to a customer. Later, the commission house demanded a refund of the overcharge from the railroad through a proceeding before the interstate commerce commission.

The commission condemned the excessive rate exacted, but refused to grant reparation to the shipper because he had not been damaged.

Another Iron Range Road.

St. Paul. — Amendments to articles of incorporation filed at Brainerd show ambitious plans of the Cuyuna Northern road in Crow Wing county, tapping the Cuyuna range. A line is to be built from near Deerwood to the Northern Pacific between Fort Ripley and Brainerd. One is to be extended from Deerwood northwesterly to the Mississippi, thence along the river to Brainerd, and another from the latter point northeasterly to the Northern Pacific between Deerwood and Aitkin.

Washington, D. C. — President Taft it was reported, has begun the negotiation of a new reciprocity treaty with Cuba.

FLAX GROWING IS PROFITABLE

WESTERN CANADA FARMERS BECOMING RICH IN ITS PRODUCTION.

So much has been written regarding the great amount of money made out of growing wheat in the prairie provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, Western Canada, that many other products of the farms are overlooked. These provinces will always grow large areas of wheat—both spring and winter—and the yields will continue to be large, and the general average greater than in any other portion of the continent. Twenty, thirty, forty, and as high as fifty bushels per acre of wheat to the acre—yields unusual in other parts of the wheat growing portions of the continent—have attracted world-wide attention, but what of oats, which yield forty, fifty and as high as one hundred and ten bushels per acre and carry off the world's prize, which, by the way, was also done by wheat raised in Saskatchewan during last November at the New York Land Show. And then, there is the barley, with its big yields, and its excellent samples. Another money-maker, and a big one is flax. The growing of flax is extensively carried on in Western Canada. The writer has before him a circular issued by a prominent farmer at Saskatoon. The circular deals with the treatment of seed flax, the seeding and harvesting, and attributes yields of less than 20 bushels per acre, to later seeding, imperfect and illy-prepared seed. He sowed twenty-five pounds of seed per acre and had a yield of twenty-nine bushels per acre. This will probably dispose of at $2.50 per acre. Speaking of proper preparation of seed and cultivation of soil and opportune sowing, in the circular spoken of there is cited the case of a Mr. White, living fourteen miles south of Rosetown, "who had fifteen acres of summer fallow a year ago last summer, upon which he produced thirty-three bushels to the acre, when many in the district harvested for want of crop. Now, there can be no proper reason advanced why such a crop should not have been produced on all the lands of the same quality in the adjacent district, provided they had been worked and cared for in the same manner. This year (1911) the same man had one hundred acres of summer fallow, had something over 3,800 bushels of wheat. He also had 1,800 bushels of oats and 300 bushels of flax."

There are the cattle, the horses, the roots and the vegetable products of Western Canada farms, all of which individually and collectively deserve special mention, and they are treated of in the literature sent out on application by the Government agents.

Creature of Habit.

After Suffering with Kidney Disorders for Many Years.

Mrs. John S. Way, 209 S. 8th St., Independence, Kans., says: "For a number of years I was a victim of disordered kidneys. My back ached constantly, the passage of the kidney secretions was irregular and my feet and ankles badly swollen. Spots appeared before my eyes and I was very nervous. After using numerous remedies without relief, I was completely cured by Doan's Kidney Pills. In view of my advanced age, my cure seems remarkable."

Husband—What's the mater, dear? Why do you look so worried?

Wife—Oh, I've just got everything all ready for Mrs. Neatleigh's visit. I've done up all the curtains and pillow shams and bureau covers and centerpieces, and they're all spick and span.

Husband—Well, if everything is in such apple pie order why look so disconsolate about it?

Wife (bursting into tears)—Oh, I just know, as soon as she sees them, she'll know I cleaned everything all up because she was coming!—Judge.

"Isn't your husband getting a fearfully bad disposition?" asked Mrs. Shortsoot.

Girls

Read About These Three Girls. How Sick They Were and How Their Health Was Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Appleton, Wis.—"I take pleasure in writing you an account of my sickness. I told a friend of mine how I felt and she said I had female trouble and advised me to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as she had taken it herself for the same trouble with wonderful results. I had been sickly for two years and overworked myself, and had such bad feelings every month that I could hardly walk for pain. I was very nervous and easily tired out and could not sleep nights. I had dizzy spells, and pimples came on my face. But I have taken your Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has restored my health. I think it is the best medicine in existence."—Miss Cecilia M. Bauer, 1161 Lawrence St., Appleton, Wis.

A SCHOOL TEACHER'S GRATITUDE:

Geneva, Iowa.—"I have been teaching school for some years and I have neglected my health because I was too busy with my work to attend to myself properly. I suffered greatly every month and was on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

"I wrote to you about my condition and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the Blood Purifier as you recommended. These remedies have done wonders for me and I can highly and widely recommend them to every suffering woman."—Miss Minnie Shaver, R. F. D. No. 1, Geneva, Iowa, c/o Sam Erickson.

A COLORADO GIRL'S CASE:

Montrose, Col.—"I was troubled very much with irregular periods. Sometimes two months would elapse. I suffered severe headache, was weak and nervous, could eat scarcely anything.

"I took both Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier and the result was wonderful. I feel like another person.

"I think your remedies are the best on earth and cannot express my thankfulness to you for what they have done to me. I help my neighbors when they are sick, and I shall always recommend your medicines."—Miss Ella McCandless, Montrose, Col.

Is it not reasonable to suppose that a medicine that did so much for these girls will benefit any other girl who is suffering with the same troubles?

Does it not seem the only sensible thing to give such a medicine at least a trial? You may be sure that it can do you no harm, and there are lots of proof that it will do you much good.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine, made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Waste Paper in Paris.

Paris police give strict attention to the act against throwing waste papers and refuse upon the streets. An absent-minded old gentleman carelessly dropped a hundred-franc note from his waistcoat pocket, whereupon a sharp-eyed policeman requested the old gentleman to give him his name and address or submit to arrest. But when the offender reached into the gutter and picked up the wastepaper and opened it before the policeman's eyes he was let off with an apology and a profound bow.

OLEO TAX MUST GO

REPRESENTATIVE HAUGHEN BELIEVES MAJORITY IN HOUSE WILL PASS THE MEASURE.

PREVENT SUBSTITUTION.

Iowan's Bill Already Introduced Represents Wishes of the Dairy Men.—Other Congressional News.

Washington, D. C. — The dairymen of the country are awakening to a realization that the Democratic majority in the house is so friendly to liberal legislation in the interests of oleomargarine that a bill is pretty certain to be favorably reported by the agricultural committee and pass the house, removing the tax from oleomargarine and attempting to prevent fraudulent substitution of oleomargarine for butter by labels on packages. The committee probably will vote on the bill in ten days.

Representative Haughen of Iowa, who has introduced a bill which represents the wishes of the dairymen, said that in his opinion, the Democratic bill giving oleomargarine a better chance in the trade will pass the house. Mr. Haughen has presented what will come to be known as the "dairy bill."

The Haughen bill contains two or three drastic provisions intended to protect the butter business, chief among which is the retention of the proposition that oleomargarine, when it enters interstate commerce, shall be subject to the laws of each state or territory in which it enters, and shall be liable to seizure if sold in violation of the laws of such states. The other proposition is the prohibition of the use of any milk, cream, butter, or butter fat in the production of oleomargarine, and another provision is added to the special taxes which are imposed upon manufacturers and wholesale dealers, a clause creating a hotel or restaurant which serves oleomargarine as a retail dealer, subject to a tax of $6 a year. This proposition is that every person, including keepers of these various eating houses, hotels, restaurants, etc., where food is sold, who serves oleomargarine, shall not only pay the special tax as a retail dealer, but shall continually display in the room where oleo is served as a substitute for butter a sign in letters a foot high the words, "Oleo Is Served Here."

Bill authorizing use of Red Cross in other than war times unanimously passed.

Money trust investigation soon will be made by two divisions of banking committees, one to investigate the charges of the existence of a money trust, the other the Aldrich currency plan.

Ways and means committee agreed to report favorably free sugar bill with excise bill for income tax.

Bill imposing heavy fines and taxes on and prohibiting the import and export of white phosphorus matches favorably reported by ways and means committee.

Bill passed granting American citizenship to Porto Ricans.

To provide for carrying out an agreement under which South Dakota school lands will be exchanged for national forest land of equal area and value, President Taft has signed a proclamation which makes it possible for the state to select immediately 60,143 acres of land from the Harney and Sioux national forests.

This will permit of indemnity selection by the state in place of school lands lying along and within the boundaries of the Black Hills' national forest, which will become part of the forest.

Washington, D. C. — A bill to put sugar on the free list, eliminating $53,000,000 in all customs revenue, and another to extend the present corporation tax to include individuals and co-partnerships having an income of $5,000 a year or over, were ratified by the Democratic caucus of the house.

The excise tax, so-called by the ways and means committee, is in effect an income tax. The bill is so drawn that it is expected to comply with the supreme court's decision against the constitutionality of an income tax. Its effect would be to tax every person who earns more than $5,000 a year, on the excess of $5,000 at the rate of 1 per cent.

The estimate of Chairman Underwood and members of the ways and means committee is that the proposed excise tax would bring in a revenue of between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 a year. Placing sugar on the free list, the Democratic leaders estimate will reduce the price of sugar to the consumer about a cent and a half a pound.

The secret that members of the ways and means committee had been so closely guarding for several days was the provision to extend the corporation tax. In the caucus that bill was not seriously opposed.

The free sugar bill, however, was bitterly assailed by representatives from Louisiana, the sugar cane state, and representatives from sugar beet growing states who were absolved from the bond of the caucus. No roll call on the ratification of the bills was demanded. Majority Leader Underwood announced that the bills would be reported to the house in a few days.

"We simply took the corporation tax law and rewrote it to include individuals and co-partnerships," Mr. Underwood said. "The bill, to illustrate, simply means that I, whose business is that of a member of congress, will pay to the government 1 per cent of my salary income over $5,000. The salary of a congressman is $7,500. I would therefore pay an excise tax of $25 a year."

The president of the United States, should the proposed bill become a law, would pay 1 per cent on $70,000 or $700, his salary being $75,000.

Railroads will be subjected to heavy fines for intimidating employes who seek to join labor unions or for "blacklisting" discharged employes, by the terms of a bill introduced by Representative Stevens of Minnesota. The bill would amend the railroad rate law and provide penalties of from $100 to $1,000 for violations of the new section. It was referred to the interstate and foreign commerce committee.

The senate adopted a resolution calling on President Taft to submit to it all the correspondence with Colombia dealing with the acquisition of the Panama canal zone by the United States.

The resolution was offered by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska who urged its adoption in a speech in which he charged former President Roosevelt with participation in a conspiracy to foment the resolution by which Panama was lost to Colombia and the canal zone became the property of this country. There was no division on the vote of adoption.

Washington, D. C. — Patent medicines and other patented articles may be sold without reference to the prices fixed by the patentee. This was the opinion handed down by Justice Wright in the equity court when he refused the application of a drug manufacturing concern for an injunction to prevent a local druggist from cutting prices without the manufacturers' permission. The court declared that the patentee of an article could control the price by which it should be sold by a "licensee," but that once the article has found its way to the open market by outright purchase all right to fix the price passed from the patentee.

What vinegar is in the United States is determined by a decision of the government pure food board, signed by Secretary of Agriculture Wilson. The decision holds that when natural vinegars are diluted with water to reduce their acidity, the label must indicate this fact and that no vinegars may be diluted to an acidity of less than 4 grams of acetic acid per 100 cubic centimeters or approximately 4 per cent.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson has approved a decision of the pure food board which holds that no cherries may be labeled "Maraschino" unless they are Marasca cherries preserved in Maraschino, a liquor prepared by distillation of the Marasco cherry.

Washington, D. C.—An investigation to determine whether there is a "money trust" in the United States operating through or in connection with the national banks, was ordered by the house by a vote of 270 to 8. While Republican regulars and insurgents protested that the inquiry as proposed was a "sham" and a "delusion," the Democratic forces united in support of a compromise "money trust" resolution, and succeeded in securing all but eight Republican votes in its support.

Usage of Panama to Stifle Rates.

In an effort to preserve and promote the interests of the government by the protection and development of full, fair, open and profitable use of the Panama canal by the ships of commerce and war of all people and all nations the house interstate and foreign commerce committee embarked on a general investigation of charges of ship trusts, subsidies and other rumors of impropriety in the usage of the canal after it is opened.

Government To Consult Trade Boards.

Washington, D. C. — President Taft has taken the initiative in a movement to bring business men of the country into touch with the government for advice and counsel in the administration of laws, the enactment of new statutes and the development of commerce. Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor, has called a convention of delegates from commercial organizations in Washington April 15. Invitations have been sent to 1,000 local chambers of commerce.

ATTACKS THE PRIMARY

Heyburn Cites Stephenson's Case as Example of Its Inefficiency.

Washington, D. C. — The primary election system, adopted by many states, was attacked in the senate during consideration of the election of Senator Stephenson of Wisconsin. Senator Heyburn declared the primary opened the way for "graft," while it was condemned as "unsatisfactory" by Senators McCumber and Overman. Senators Borah and Bristow defended the law.

JAIL SUFFRAGETTES

SCORE SENTENCED IN LONDON WITH 150 OTHERS TO BE ARRAIGNED.

PRISON MAY COME NEXT

London Is Like City in State of Siege—Grave Danger That Bloodshed May Result From Tactics of Women.

London, England.—Hard labor was the portion meted out to a score of suffragette leaders, arrested for participating in a demonstration when they were arraigned in the several police courts. The sentences varied from one to six months, according to the nature of the offense charged. Among the prisoners sentenced was Miss Alice Wright, an American residing in Paris.

Most of the magistrates served notice on the women that hereafter all sentences will include hard labor, a new departure. This will mean riotous scenes within the prisons, as the women say they simply will not work.

One million women have brought about a situation that threatens to overshadow the great labor troubles. The demonstrations of the women advocates of equal suffrage have reached a point where the police can no longer prevent or control them. Violence of a type peculiarly aggravating has been ordered by the leaders, and wholesale arrests, instead of checking it, have merely enhanced the determination of the women.

Outcome May Be Bloodshed.

There is grave danger that the outcome will be bloodshed. It is known that Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst and others of the leaders of ultra-militant body hope that this will come. As she was led away to her cell last week, Mrs. Pankhurst declared the cause would have been advanced ten years had she been killed.

City Looks Like Siege.

The city looks as if it were in a state of siege. Nearly every big store window is boarded up. The banks maintain special guards outside to keep the women away. The entire metropolitan police is on continual duty. Everyone is kept moving and women suspected of planning violence are rushed to the police station to be searched.

The Times demands that all of the leaders of the suffragettes be prosecuted on charges of conspiracy to break the law. This is a felony punishable by sentences up to seven years. The government hesitates to act thus severely, although the demand is joined in by the shopkeepers, whose property has been destroyed. The women hope this action will be taken. If it is, they say, they are sure to win, as they insist Englishmen will never consent to their wives and daughters being made felons.

The Bow street magistrte has 150 cases against suffragettes still to deal with, 87 of them arising from the serious riots of last Friday, when the accused caused damage of $25,000 and the others in connection with last night's disturbance.

REFUGEES AT EL PASO

American Women and Children Safe, After Peril in Mexico.

El Paso, Texas. — One hundred and fifty Americans, mostly women and children from the American lumbering town of Madera, were brought into El Paso by the Mexican Northwestern railroad from Pearson, their first stopping place after leaving Madera.

With the exception of a small hospital staff at Pearson, every American woman and child in the towns of Madera and Pearson, Mex., is on United States soil.

These assert that for weeks they practically have been isolated and living in a state of terror, with neither wire nor train communication, with mails demoralized and almost constantly menaced by marauding bands. Business at Madera they declare is nil.

Torreon.—A construction train on the line of the abandoned Mexican International railroad, which was sent out under escort of a body of volunteers, was attacked by rebels near Matamoras, state of Coahuila, a few kilometers east of here. Twenty-five of the escort were killed.

NERVOUS HEADACHE

And Numbness in the Hands and Arms.

This Iowa Woman Was in a Serious Condition and Her Cure Will Interest Many.

A cure of unusual interest and importance is related by Mrs. J. H. Morgan, of Correctionville, Iowa. After being a hopeless sufferer from sick headaches, she is now entirely free from attacks. She tells of her cure by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as follows:

"Some years ago I was in a terribly nervous and run-down condition and suffered greatly from nervous headaches. I was treated for three months by a specialist in Chicago, who advised me to wear glasses, but he did not help me. My head seemed as though it would burst, and I had frequent dizzy spells, I was in despair of getting well until I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and began taking them. A few boxes cured me and since then I have used them as a family medicine.

"Before the birth of my last child I suffered untold agony with pain and numbness in my hands and arms up to the shoulders. My hands were so swollen and the muscles so sore that I could hardly dress myself. For a time I could not close my left hand. During the day if I kept moving the pain did not seem to be so bad, but my hands were always numb. I again used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and found them good for this trouble also, as they entirely relieved me."

Unless properly treated sick headache is a disease of many years duration, as it occurs before the twentieth year in two-thirds of the cases and recurs with more or less regularity until the fiftieth year or later. It is usually hereditary and is probably directly caused by a defect in the process which changes the food we eat into blood. Most sufferers are troubled with obstinate constipation which makes it necessary to use a laxative.

An ideal combination treatment is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and the new laxative pills, Pinklets. This treatment is fully described in a little booklet, "The Treatment of Sick Headache," which is free on request, together with a sample of Pinklets, the little laxative pills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are for sale at all druggists, or will be mailed to any address, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

The report by Major Shunk on the situation at the head of Red Lake river says that no log jam exists that calls for action by the government.

Do you have an opinion as to whether Taft or Roosevelt ought to be the nominee? (The question is merely rhetorical; not since the civil war has there been a public question on which so many people have held deep and aggressive convictions.) Do you believe you ought to have a right to express your opinion at the polls? With presidential primaries you will have the chance: without them, the choice between Taft and Roosevelt will be made by the bosses.

Speaker Champ Clark has surrendered absolutely to Underwood. He is speaker only in the empty forms which go with office. He is co-operating with Underwood in maintaining the reactionary control of the house and in carrying out a legislative and political program outlined by business. Clark may receive the democratic presidential nomination, yet he has dodged questions on his attitude toward the initiative, referendum, and recall. He has parted company with his old friend, William J. Bryan.

President Taft has sent another message to congress, and in this newspapers come in for his attention. He would have the postage on newspapers and magazines doubled. The president wants more revenue for the postoffice department. If he could put a stop to the sending of campaign literature and seeds under the frankling privilege and secure a decent rate from railroads for the transportation of mails there would be no necessity for raising the rate on newspapers. This move on his part will not make him more popular with the fraternity.—Rochester Post and Record.

The Minnesota state socialists platform demands unrestricted equal suffrage for men and women, the initiative and referendum recall for all elective and appointive officers, reapportionment of legislative and congressional districts of the state, according to population, and the abolition of the state senate; also the free use of school houses and other public buildings for the discussion of public questions and for social purposes, the establishment in the University of Minnesota of an extension course by means of lectures and pamphlets to instruct the workers of the state in the co-operative method of obtaining the necessities of life with a view to relieve the high cost of living, a maximum eight-hour working day for workers in factories, miners and government employes, municipal and state, and for state insurance.

Why Didn't Taft Say It

Why could not Mr. Taft just as well have said those things? Why would it have not been more fitting for that trumpet repetition of true American principles to have come from the White House, from the official head of the nation, rather than from a business office than from a private citizen? That is the present puzzle of the political situation. Colonel Roosevelt reasserts the basic principles of free government, and the entire country rises as if it had heard them for the first time, a vast refreshment sweeps the nation, and men feel stronger faith in the people's right and ability to rule than they have felt for months. So simple is the situation that it requires only the sturdy reassertion of elemental principles to inspire the whole country.

It is almost absurd to ask if there lives an American who does not believe that American government means precisely the things declared by Roosevelt. He has stated no more than the political conviction of the fathers, as these were humanized and applied by Lincoln, and as they appear today in the natural course of progress. For government is not a thing carved in stone, but the outgrowth of the ever progressing popular mind and conscience; it is progressive because it is alive; it changes because it grows—and its normal process of growth is from the good to the better and from the better to the best. It does not depart, to be sure, from the basic principles on which our idea of free government rests, but it frees those principles from their time limitations, it fits the institutional clothing to the principles' growth in stature.

Progressiveness, as we know that term in politics, does not signify departure, but growth, maturity, enlarged scope and increased ability. The old-time principles of our government are capable of almost endless expansion; they are so instinct with life that it is impossible to conceive the people ever outgrowing them, for they keep pace with the enlarging vision of the age. The symbol of free government is a seed that grows into a great liberty tree which adapts itself to changing seasons without ever changing its nature, that gives shade and fruit in its time. But there is in America a backward party which regards government as a carven statue, a fixed and limited and lifeless institution, incapable of growth, of adaptability, of increase.

The reason Mr. Taft does not say the thoughts which have just stirred the nation is that to him the government is bound between the leather covers of law books; it is not the great throbbing pulse of a living, growing sentiment, a sentiment of varied and constantly increasing human aspects, but always true to its magnetic pole of fundamental principle. The government to him is encased in great marble buildings in Washington; but to Theodore Roosevelt the government is erected in the hearts and consciences and minds of the people.

Had Mr. Taft confessed his faith in the people, had he assured us of his belief in the homely truths on which our government is founded, had he not hesitated to say that the combined thought and conviction and desire of the American people as a whole is the greatest and wisest direction any government could have, it would not have remained for a private citizen to enunciate the principles which the very office of the presidency exists to uphold.

Platitude! Platitude! The critics of Roosevelt sneer. "We heard it all in the history classes at school," they will say. Yes, yes, but it is such platitudes that spell the faith of the people, that hold the nation intact, and the determination of the people is to take them out of the "history classes at school" and enthrone them in the high places of power. These are the platitudes which established government by the people, of the people, and for the people on the earth. These are the platitudes that maintained the union. These are the platitudes which a decade ago whipped entrenched wealth towards its proper place as a subordinate servant, and not the authoritative ruler of human life. These are the platitudes which win men to new daily dedications of themselves to the stern duties of citizenship, and which will transform the world. How hungry the people are for their live and enlivening repetition! How they leap with joy when one man is simple enough and strong enough to translate these platitudes into daily action! How they respond to the recital of this creed of our national faith! But what a pity is that the president, who of all men ought to lead in this noblest of recitals, is silent, is hesitant, seems even doubtful as to the truth of it all.—Detroit News.

His Opinion of the Critics

We copy the following from the St. Paul Daily News. It is self explanatory:

"In your issue of The Daily News, Feb. 27, appears the article signed by 'P. P. M. C,' to which I refer.

"The article is a bad jumble of words that says nothing whatever, and so permits of no reply. He calls or refers to socialists as 'red pests—human abominations, bringing evil wherever they appear; greater curse than trusts,' etc., and then states that he has closely observed these 'false brethren' for the last fifteen years—also, that 'he knows what he is talking about.' There are such people, I'm sorry to say, whose method of argument lies solely in abuse and villification; whose perverted mentality permits of no other recourse, and whose imitation of what his mother thought would develop a mind is quite vacant.

"I would suggest to the brother that socialism ('red pests') plans to take such cases as his, when quite young, and train them to put their minds and hands to work at something useful.

Purim as a Shekel Day

On Sunday, March 3, the Jewish people the world over celebrated their holiday called "Purim." On that day the Jewish people of the olden times through the great sacrifice of "Esther" regained their independence.

Now this holiday is not given the prominence it formerly was, but the Zionists everywhere are working towards the restoration of a Jewish nation in Palestine, and are again trying to make this holiday one of a national importance, and to do this they have set it apart as "Shekel" or money day.

Purim was impressively observed in Grand Forks and Fargo, as well as most other towns in the northwest.

DAKOTA BUSINESS COLLEGE

Every person needs a business education and it costs no more to get it at this great Business and Shorthand Training School, under exact office conditions, than at one of the small questionable ones. The results are, however, very different. 350 D. B. C. pupils went to excellent positions in banks and offices this year—over 400 will do so next year. All Fargo banks and 685 others employ D. B. C. pupils as cashiers, tellers or bookkeepers. No other school offers such endorsement.

Our $50 course prepares for business life, or for position as clerk or bookkeeper. Our new $85 course in Commerce and Banking (endorsed by Bankers' Association) supplies cashiers and tellers for the Northwestern banks, and bookkeepers and credit men for the larger concerns. The shorthand course (under an expert reporter) trains court reporters and high grade stenographers. The stenographers for the U. S. District Court, N. D. Supreme Court, 3d Judicial District and the Cass Co. Court are D. B. C. pupils. Can other schools offer this proof of superior training?

The D. B. C. has built a magnificent new building (35,000 square feet of space), is seated with roll top desks, has 60 typewriters, adding machines, billers, money changers, etc. Our pupils deal with each other and with magnificently equipped offices, using aluminum money. Our courses are fascinating and practical. The Northwest has "No other school like the D. B. C." Next term begins soon. For booklet write F. LELAND WATKINS, Pres. Watkins Blk., Fargo, N. D.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say good-bye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining, or too frequent passage of urine; the forehead and the back-of-the-head aches; the stitches and pains in the back; the growing muscle weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin; sluggish bowels, swollen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps; unnatural short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency?

I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend on, and if you want to make a quick recovery, you ought to write and get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $3.50 just for writing this prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. INCREASE BY GREAT NORTHERN REDUCES RAIL TAX DECREASE

Revenue of State From Gross Earnings Impost Is Only $226,331.49 Lower Instead of the More Than $300,000 Expected by Officials.

With the Great Northern, the last of the railroads to report, reporting an increase in gross earnings of $1,111,274, the state faces a decrease in the 1911 revenue from railroads of $226,331.49. This loss is less than had been anticipated. Earlier reports showed a decrease of more than $300,000.

Most of the larger roads showed a decrease in returns this year, the Rock Island, Omaha, Soo and Great Northern being the only ones of the larger lines to report any considerable increase. The Soo was the largest gainer, due largely to the inlcerase in its lines. It reported an increase in gross earnings of more than $1,500,000. The Great Northern is next in increase. The Omaba increased its business $323,071.05 and the Rock Island gained $33,767.82.

Steel Roads Fall Off.

The principal losses were on the two steel corporation roads on the iron range. These two companies reported a decrease of nearly $7,000,000 in their 1911 business from that of 1910. The Northern Pacific reported a loss of more than $200,000 in its 1911 business, and the St. Paul, Minneapolis & St. Louis and North-Western lines all report losses.

A large part of the gain made by the Great Northern is in the business formerly handled by the iron range roads. The shipments in ore are said to have fallen off but a little less than half in the last year. The Great Northern will pay into the state treasury today $982,788.91, or an increase of $44,450 over last year's tax.

1910 an Unusual Year.

That the conditions this year are about normai and the decrease is due to unusual shipments in 1910 are shown by comparing the figures for the last four years. In 1908 the state received from its gross earnings tax $3,115,027.19. In 1909 the tax amounted to $3,640,568.93. In 1910 it was $3,896,091.74 and in 1911, $3,670,760.25. This shows 1911 $30,000 ahead of 1909, when conditions were normal.

The following table shows the earnings and taxes of the roads in 1910 and 1911:

MILLARD HALL BURNED

Dental Building at University of Minnesota.

Minneapolis. — Millard hall, the dental building at the University of Minnesota, was destroyed by fire at an early hour. It was one of the smaller buildings on the campus, and probably worth about $150,000. The insurance is about half that.

Dean Owre, head of the dentistry department, said that the instruments and appliances in the building, owned by the university, were worth $25,000. There were 240 dental students. The senior and junior classes, about half the total number, owned their own instruments, valued at about $250 each. The 120 freshmen owned instruments valued at about $50 each. The losses of the students will be total, it is believed, as there was no insurance on their property. Mr. Owre, Dr. Brown and other teachers and professors had much personal property, including instruments and books, all burned.

Millard Hall had a fire record unbeaten on the campus and by few buildings in the city. Twice before it was a prey of the flames, and a third time it was endangered when the adjoining anatomy building burned.

INSPECTOR IS "STUNG"

Can Only Get Inspection Fee by Civil Action, Says Weeks.

St. Paul.—Complaint reached the office of Governor Eberhart from A. H. De Long, boiler inspector at Litchfield, that he had inspected a threshing machine boiler belonging to F. H. Porter, found it safe, placed his seal on it, and that now Porter refuses to pay the $3 inspection fee. The communication was referred to Assitant Attorney General Weeks, who replied that the only way for the deputy boiler inspector to get his fee is through civil action.

Recall Petitions Filed.

Mankato.—Petitions were filed here asking for a recall election on mayor and four commissioners, who comprise the city council under the commission form of government. Those sought to be ousted are Mayor Charles T. Taylor and Commissioners Bangerter, Humiston, Lamm and Henline. The petitions were filed by E. V. Watters, former street commissioner, who was removed last fall, and contains in all 456 names, or nearly 180 more than the necessary 15 per cent of the votes cast in the last election.

Two Graduated From Normal.

Mankato.—The winter term at the state normal school closed, and two young ladies were graduated from the elementary course for high school graduates, Irma Schade of St. Peter and Anna Erickson of Canby. The presentation of diplomas was made by Resident Director John C. Wise, in the absence of President C. H. Cooper, who had not returned from the annual meeting of the superintendents' section of the National Educational association at St. Louis.

Dual Power Proposals Perplex.

Rochester.—The city council is considering the electric light and power proposals of the Zumbro Power company of this city, and the Consumers' Power company of Chicago. Each has made a proposition. Should the Zumbro company receive the contract, it would mean the building of a lake seven miles south of this city, which would provide a summer resort.

Library Popular At Bemidji.

Bemidji.—Fifteen thousand books were issued from the Bemidji public library the past year. Nearly one-half were taken by children. This is the second year of the operation of the free public library, which is housed in a $15,000 solid brick building, constructed with funds donated by Andrew Carnegie.

VISITS SPRING VALLEY

Bracken Won't Call Health Board to Consider Trachoma Cases.

St. Paul.—Dr. H. M. Bracken, secretary of the state board of health, was at Spring Valley, where he delivered an address. When the board of health met January 9, it set March 19 as its next meeting date. Because of the proximity of that meeting, no special session will be called to take up the trachoma cases, reported among Indians on the White Earth reservation.

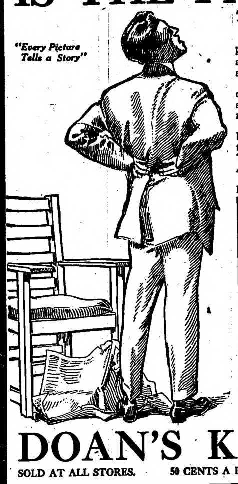
IS THE PAIN THERE?



"Every Picture Tells a Story"

Then Your Kidneys May Be Weak and in Need of Quick Attention

Backache is enough cause to suspect the kidneys. The kidneys are in the small of the back. Congested kidneys swell and throb. The back naturally aches. It hurts to bend or stoop or to sit down.

Kidney trouble may come on all unnoticed. A cold, a chill, a fever, a strain or irregular habits may start it While sick kidneys can be cured in the beginning, it is a serious matter when dropsy, gravel or Bright's disease sets in.

Doan's Kidney Pills have made a reputation in the cure of backache, and kidney and bladder ills. The best proof is the testimony of the users. Here are two typical testimonials. Thirty thousand others are being published in the newspapers. A postage stamp will bring you reports of cases nearer home.

MRS. MARY I. REMINGTON.

A Resident of Gilroy, Cal.

Cured of Serious Case at a Critical Period.

"I suffered so severely from pain and soreness over my kidneys," says Mrs. Remington, "that it was a task for me to turn in bed. My kidneys acted very freely but secretions were retarded and scalded in passage. I was weak and much run down.

"After taking other remedies without benefit, I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and was completely cured. I was going through the critical period of a woman's life at the time, and after using Doan's Kidney Pills there was a miraculous change for the better in my health."

SHELDON SMITH.

Prop. Arlington House, Woodland, Cal.

Cured of Serious Case and Feels Like a Boy, Despite His 76 Years.

"Three years ago I was almost helpless," said Mr. Smith, "Kidney secretions scalded terribly and obliged me to arise ten to twelve times a night. My left limb became so stiff and sore I could hardly walk—just hobbled around with a cane.

"I had almost every complaint that diseased kidneys produce and Doan's Kidney Pills cured them all. At the age of 76 I feel like a boy, and enjoy health and comfort. Can anyone wonder at my gratitude?"

COLD COMFORT FOR MOTHER

Comment of Boston Belle on Young Man's Conduct Was Icy in the Extreme.

General F. D. Grant, at a Washington's birthday dinner in New York some years ago, told a story about a young Boston Tory.

"This Tory," he said, "fought during the Revolution neither on one side nor on the other. He took a pleasure trip on the Continent, and he didn't come back home again until the war was over.

"He was treated very coldly by society on his return, and this grieved his good old mother to the heart.

"The dear old lady tried to explain the matter one afternoon to a Boston belle.

"'Naturally, as the head of the family,' she said, 'my son could not take part in the war. To him fell the duty, perhaps the more arduous duty, of protecting his mother and sisters and looking after the interests of the estate.'

"'O, madam,' said the belle, with an icy smile, 'you need not explain. I assure you, I'd have done exactly as your son did—I'm such a coward!'"

HANDS WOULD CRACK OPEN

"About two months ago my hands started to crack open and bleed, the skin would scale off, and the good flesh would burn and itch dreadfully. When my hands first started to get sore, there were small blisters like water blisters which formed. They itched dreadfully, it just seemed as though I could tear the skin all off. I would scratch them and the skin would peel off, and the flesh would be all red and crack open and bleed. It worried me very much, as I had never had anything the matter with my skin. I was so afraid I would have to give up my employment.

"My doctor said he didn't think it would amount to anything. But it kept getting worse. One day I saw a piece in one of the papers about a lady who had the same trouble with her hands. She had used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and was cured. I decided to try them, and my hands were all healed before I had used one cake of Cuticura Ointment. I am truly thankful for the good results from the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, for thanks to them I was cured, and did not have to lose a day from work. I have had no return of the skin trouble." (Signed) Mrs. Mary E. Breig, 2522 Brown Street, Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 12, 1911.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura." Dept. L, Boston.

HAIL AMUNDSON AS DISCOVERER

NORWEGIAN EXPLORER CABLES THAT HE FOUND POLE ON DEC. 14.

SCOTT STORY A MISTAKE

Remained Three Days To Secure Proofs—Will Return Home Through the Northwest Passage.

Christiania, Norway. — Captain Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, has cabled two local newspapers from Hobart, Tasmania, that he reached the south pole on Dec. 14, 1911.

The dispatch is as follows:

"Pole reached fourteenth-seventeenth December."

Captain Amundsen sent a second cable denying having telegraphed that Captain Scott of the British expedition had reached the south pole or that he had telegraphed anything at all about Scott.

Honor Goes to Amundsen.

The honor for the achievement of reaching the south pole must now be given to the Norwegian explorer until Lieutenant Scott announces the results of his expedition.

Captain Amundsen has, for many years, been considered one of the most daring and competent of explorers. A sailor from youth he started polar research at the age of 25, when he participated in the Belgian antarctic expedition under command of Gerlache. He was first officer of the vessel, and the voyage lasted from 1897 to 1899. On his return he made up his mind to continue polar research, but this time, he decided to go to the north in an endeavor to discover the northwest passage.

He prepared himself for the task by undergoing a course of two years' study in magnetism and meteorology, after which he sailed for the north from Christiania on board the Gjoa, with a crew of only eight men, June 16, 1903.

Proceeding to Lancaster sound he sailed past Cape Adelaide and King William land and Ross strait. The vessel wintered in that part. For many months Amundsen drifted along, and finally, on August 26, met an American whaler to the east of Cape Bathurst. He ultimately brought his little vessel through the Behring strait and thus, for the first time, accomplished the northwest passage.

During the voyage he determined exactly the position of the magnetic pole. Altogether he was three years away from Norway.

The Fram, which Captain Amundsen selected for his latest expedition, has been used for many years in arctic explorations. From 1893 to 1896, during the expedition of Dr. Fridjof Nansen, she covered a journey of about 7,000 miles in the Arctic ocean, 3,000 miles of this being accomplished while she was frozen solid in the ice. She was not damaged at all during this voyage.

Telegrams of congratulations in the name of King Haakon of the Norwegian government and of the Geographical society here were forwarded to Captain Amundsen at Hobart. His majesty has consented to the use of his name and that of Queen Maud on the maps of the newly discovered territory in the Antarctic. This city is gayly decorated with flags and bunting in honor of Captain Amundsen's accomplishment.

Amundsen Makes Denial.

Hobart.—Captain Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, denies having telegraphed anything regarding Captain Robert Scott or the British expedition.

Captain Amundsen, up to the present, is the only member of the antartic expedition who has landed from the Fram. Nobody is allowed to go on board the vessel under any pretext whatever. The explorer says he is pleased with the results of his expedition but otherwise maintains absolute silence on the subject.

Captain Amundsen intends to stay at Hobart for a few days. He will then go to Australia and give a few lectures there, afterward departing for Europe by the circuitous route of Buenos Aires, then around Cape Horn up to Bering Straits, and through the Northwest passage and the Arctic ocean.

Dr. Cook's Comment.

New York:—Dr. Frederick A. Cook heard the news of the discovery of the south pole at his uptown hotel, where he had just returned from a lecture tour. "It is not only possible that Scott and Amundsen crossed each other, but it is likely that both men met at the pole," said Dr. Cook, with a smile. "Captain Scott, at the very latest, ought to be heard from in ten days."

SCIENTIST TALKS ON INDIANS

SAYS HIS REQUEST FOR BETTER CONDITIONS WAS REFUSED.

Declares Lumber Companies Sought to Prevent Delivery of His Affidavits.

Washington, D. C. — Warren King Moorehead, an ethnologist and scientist of Andover, Mass., and a member of the Indian commission, appeared before the Graham investigating committee and explained at length his experiences among the White Earth Indians, where he went to give relief and to gather statistics to present to the Indian office in Washington so that they might aid in helping this Northwestern tribe.

Mr. Moorehead said that in 1908 he went to the Indian authorities in Washington and told them of the bad state of affairs among the Chippewas in the vicinity of Leech Lake, Cass Lake and Red Lake, Minn. He asked to be sent there as a special agent to ameliorate their condition, and was greatly disappointed when refused. Subsequently, said Mr. Moorehead, the bureau sent three agents to the White Earth to make a report on the situation, but none had yet been made.

"Finally, with the aid of funds from the Indian commission, of which I am a member, and other funds donated by philanthropists, I went to White Earth in 1909," said the witness, "and conducted an investigation. I found that the Indians were sick and diseased and that they had been swindled out of their lands. No full report of this condition, it seems, has ever been made to the government, and I was opposed on many sides. I gathered 100 affidavits concerning the land situation to take to Washington. I was informed that the lumber interests would attempt to intercept me and prevent delivery of the affidavits, but by leaving over a round-about route I got out safely.

"In April, 1909, I called on Commissioner Leupp and begged him to establish a hospital for the White Earth Indians, and I called attention to the unsanitary condition of the Pine Point boarding school, and the prevalence there of trachoma. I urged that the paupers be fed by the government, but my appeals were not approved of by Assistant Commissioner Valentine."

Mr. Moorehead next told of the "Darwin Hall case." Darwin Hall, he explained, was a state senator in Minnesota desirous of being appointed Chippewa commissioner.

"Mr. Hall had nothing in his favor," said Mr. Moorehead, "but he was recommended by Senator Moses Clapp. He opposed my investigations on the White Earth reserve and was plainly in sympathy with the interests. He was appointed and instructed to move the Mille Lac Indians to a better locality. He had them assemble in camp, preparatory to being moved, and then deserted them, leaving them congregated in camp for several weeks without sufficient food or shelter. He was removed after an exposure of his conduct was made before the Indians' Rights association at Boston."

Mr. Moorehead said that the minors in the White Earth schools had been given scarcely any protection, and as a consequence had been swindled. He said the neglect of the superintendents had been such that forgery and even perjury had been practiced in swindling the minors. He made a plea for immediate medical aid, and for legislation which will tie up the Indians' property so it cannot be conveyed out of their possession.

WILL FIGHT TYPHOID

State Board of Health Takes Vigorous Measures to Protect Two Harbors.

St. Paul.—An epidemic of typhoid fever in Two Harbors, where already 100 persons have become infected with the disease, has moved the State Board of Health to adopt stringent measures to curb the spread of the disease. Dr. A. J. Chesley of the department of epidemiology of the board left for that city after a hurry up call in which more than twenty-five new cases since March 1 were reand Senator Cashman explained the state laws affording state aid in road building. He pointed out that country taxpayers need not fear the 1-mill tax ported by telephone. Dr. Chesley, J. A. Childs, engineer to the board, and H. A. Whittaker, board chemist, spent last week in Two Harbors, where a hypochlorite plant for disinfecting of the water supply was installed.

The larger number of the cases originated in February, but more than twenty-five new cases devoloping has brought the total beyond the hundred mark. The board of health has stationed a trained visiting nurse in the city to advise the citizens as to precautionary measures. Dr. Chesley will distribute throughout the city a circular letter pointing out the best means of curbing the spread of the epidemic.

SHRINKAGE IS SMALL

State Butter Tests Do Not Support the Contention of Wholesalers.

St. Paul. — The butter shrinkage tests just completed by the state department of weights and measures at the old Capitol did not bear out the contention of the wholesalers that a pound of butter would shrink one-half ounce in twenty-four hours. On the contrary the tests showed that the shrinkage in thirteen days was only seven thirty-seconds of an ounce per pound.

The butter tested was packed in pound cartons and was purchased by the department immediately after it was packed. It was kept at a constant temperature of 40 degrees Fahrenheit.

The tests will be continued by the department in connection with moisture tests until a positive basis for shrinkage has been arrived at. It is the belief of the chemists that the reason for the high shrinkage rate shown by some butter is that it contains a very high percentage of water in the first place. The creamery men, in many instances, do not work their butter now like they formerly did and therefore little of the water is worked out of it, they contend.

City Sealer W. M. Peterson has made arrangements for conducting a thorough shrinkage test, which will be entirely distinct from the tests now being conducted by the state department.

46 ARE ARRAIGNED

DEFENDANTS CHARGED WITH UNLAWFUL TRANSPORTATION OF DYNAMITE.

LONG CONTEST BEGUN

Motion to Quash the Indictments Denied—Only Eight of Fifty-four Men, Accused of Conspiracy, Are Absent.

Indianapolis, Indiana. — Forty-six labor union leaders, charged with unlawful interstate transportation of dynamite and nitroglycerin, alleged to have been used in a five-year campaign of terrorism against the "open shop" in the structural industry throughout the country, were arraigned in the federal court.

Demurrers to indictments against the defendants were filed before Judge A. B. Anderson by counsel for the indicted men. Elijah Zoline of Chicago, one of the attorneys for the defense, began the argument in support of a motion to quash the indictments on the ground that many of them charged the same offense of conspiracy to illegally transport explosives.

Judge Anderson interrupted Mr. Zoline with a statement that the motion to quash the indictments on the ground of confusing multiplicity was absurd.

Indictments Are Attacked.

Attorney Alfred Hovey then attacked the indictments, denying there was a showing that the defendants had unlawfully conveyed explosives on passenger trains. He declared there was no violation of federal statute unless explosives were transported on common carriers concealed in marked packages and maintained the indictments did not so state.

Never before in the history of the federal courts had so many men been indicted in a single proceeding, and because of the wide interest in the case the courtroom was crowded before Judge A. B. Anderson came to the bench.

Eight Defendants Absent.

The absent defendants were John J. McNamara, James B. McNamara, Ortie E. McManigal, Eugene A. Clancy of San Francisco, former member of the executive board of the Iron Workers, and Olaf A. Tveitmoe, secretary of the building trades council of California, under indictment and bond in that state; John J. McCrary, former member of the executive board of the Iron Workers' association; whereabouts unknown, and John R. Carroll and Edward E. Phillips of the Iron Workers' union of Syracuse, N. Y., resisting removal to Indianapolis.

HEALTH FOR THE CHILD.

The careful mother, watching closely the physical peculiarities of her children, soon learns that health is in a great measure dependent upon normal, healthy, regular bowel action. When the bowels are inactive, loss of appetite, restlessness during sleep, irritability and a dozen and one similar evidences of physical disorder are soon apparent.

Keep the bowels free and clear and good health is assured. At the first sign of constipation give the child a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at bed-time and repeat the dose the following night, if necessary. You will find the child will quickly recover its accustomed good spirits, and eat and sleep normally.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is far preferable to salts, cathartics and purgative waters which are harsh in their action. Syrup Pepsin acts on the bowels easily and naturally, yet positively, and causes no griping or discomfort. Its tonic properties build up the stomach, liver and bowels, restoring their normal condition.

Druggists everywhere sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in 50c and $1.00 bottles. If you have never tried this remedy, send for a sample to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 201 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. He will gladly send a trial bottle, without any expense to you whatever.

Shot With a Knife.

Years ago in a stock performance of a famous old melodrama, the villain, Charles Wolcott, suddenly discovered that he had left his revolver in the dressing room. In much confusion, he fumbled in his pocket and found a penknife which, he figured, would do just as well for the bloody deed. Imagine his consternation when, after plunging the blade into the hero's breast, that player failed to change his lines and screamed at the top of his voice: "Heaven forgive you! I'm shot."

Romance of the Rail.

"Sir," she said, angrily, "you are going too far!"

But she didn't object to accompanying him as far as Schenectady.

FROM THE NORTH COUNTRY

Where the Winters Are Cold and the Snows Deep.

Writing from the vicinity David Harum made famous, a man says that he was an habitual coffee drinker, and, although he knew it was doing him harm, was too obstinate to give it up, till all at once he went to pieces with nervousness and insomnia, loss of appetite, weakness, and a generally used-up feeling, which practically unfitted him for his arduous occupation, and kept him on a couch at home when his duty did not call him out.

"While in this condition Grape-Nuts food was suggested to me, and I began to use it. Although it was in the middle of winter, and the thermometer was often below zero, almost my entire living for about six weeks of severe exposure was on Grape-Nuts food with a little bread and butter and a cup of hot water, till I was wise enough to make Postum my table beverage.

"After the first two weeks I began to feel better and during the whole winter I never lost a trip on my mail route, frequently being on the road 7 or 8 hours at a time.

"The constant marvel to me was how a person could do the amount of work and endure the fatigue and hardship as I did, on so small an amount of food. But I found my new rations so perfectly satisfactory that I have continued them—using both Postum and Grape-Nuts at every meal, and often they comprise my entire meal.

"All my nervousness, irritability and insomnia have disappeared and healthy, natural sleep has come back to me. But what has been perhaps the greatest surprise to me is, the fact that with the benefit to my general health has come a remarkable improvement in my eye-sight.

"If a good appetite, good digestion, good eye-sight, strong nerves and an active brain are to be desired; I can say from my own experience, use Grape-Nuts and Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Captain Amundsen has nailed the Norwegian flag on the south pole. The United States sends congratulations; having been itself discovered by Norwegians, there is much satisfaction here that the last of the undiscovered of the earth's surface also falls to the glory of Norway.

The parcels post will shortly come up in congress for discussion and will soon become a law. What its advocates need to be vigilant about now is to see that it shall be a real parcels post, fathered by its friends, not a denatured near-parcels post, put forward by its enemies to allay the public demand, and designed rather to help than to hurt the express companies.—Colliers.

Mr. Roosevelt says that if an official cannot carry out the will of the people in the way they wish to see it done there is no reason under the sun as to why the recall should not be applied. If the judges show marked tendencies towards rendering the majority of their decisions in favor of "big business" there is no reason on earth why the people, who are supposed to rule, should not sidetrack them. There is no issue that will attract the votes the people as such a stand on such a question.

What! Success Ruinous for Mankind?

Life is perpetual motion. When action of the body ceases, that is death. Life is achieved. It is not given by one to another. Neither mortal nor eternal life is a gift. You work to live. Lie down and never stir again of yourselves, and the end is here, no matter how many servants come and go to serve you.

We work for success. And yet success has ruined almost all who have succeeded, says Mrs. Elbert Hubbard in McCall's for March. Individuals, nations have risen from poverty and want to affluence, to position where they could control circumstances connected with their welfare. When ease and luxury were within their reach, few have resisted their lure. Hard necessity has been man's best friend. He has grown through exercise. Yet when man has had the opportunity to choose, he has rarely been wise enough to see that the methods used to develop him thus far, are the methods to follow if he wishes to be well.

We have been told that Heaven is an ideal. Also that Heaven is a goal where everything is provided and much of it. Eternal rest, ease, luxury, angels for servants, and nothing to do are requisites for happiness and immortality, according to some interpreters of the Bible. Places where there is little work, much to spend in ease and luxury, have seemed to be the suburbs to Paradise. And this teaching and the natural pull of inertia have led people and nations to death. The few who have acquired the work habit, and the very wise few who have foreseen and have understood the sure penalty for inaction, have escaped. Not to succeed, but forever be in the struggle, has saved and kept virile the people who have preserved the race.

Officeholders and Politics

Congressman McKinley, who four years ago was using methods as nearly similar as he could make them to get delegates for Joe Cannon and against Judge Taft, is writing federal officeholders requesting them to do what they can for Mr. Taft, "consistent with their duties."

We are curious to know just what federal officeholders have duties which can possibly be consistent with dropping the office work and going out to herd delegates for anybody.

The postmaster, presumably, is supposed to look after the local branch of the postoffice department. Herding delegates is no part of the official duties of postmaster. Participating in partisan—and factional partisan—politics has been called "pernicious activity," and most people applauded the president who used the phrase. In point of fact a man holding any public position should attend to the duties of that position. He has no more right to use his office for political purposes than an employe of a private business has to use his position for purposes having no bearing on the success of the business to which he owes all his loyalty.

But this, of course, is counsel of perfection. We haven't reached the stage yet where anybody will heed it. Federal officeholders have felt free to drop the public's business at any time when political exigency called, and undoubtedly they will feel free to do the same thing this year. Indeed, there are evidences that they are not only feeling free to do this, but that they are doing it.—Duluth Herald.

Much Sought as a Star

Marcus Kellerman, baritone soloist with the St. Paul Symphony orchestra, which will start on its 2,000 mile spring trip on a special Great Northern train March 24, will be one of the principals with the Metropolitan Opera company next season. Gatti-Casazza, general manager of the big New York company, has tried to get Kellerman as one of his stars for a number of years, but the artist chose to remain in concert work, traveling with the Damrosch orchestra.

Kellerman, in spite of his German name, is decidedly an American. He has great confidence in the American's future in the music world and thinks that the great singers and composers of the next ten years will be Americans.

"The idea that grand operas cannot be sung in English is absolute rot," said Mr. Kellerman. "They can be sung in English as well as in German, French, or Italian. Victor Herbert has proven this with his 'Natoma.' The American composer has not been given a chance. His work is just beginning to be recognized. The New York and Chicago opera companies have more Americans on their lists of singers than any other nationality and the list is constantly growing."

Kellerman is a protege of Charles P. Taft, brother of the president. It was Mr. Taft who heard Kellerman sing when he was a youngster in Cincinnati and immediately furnished the money to send him abroad for study.

He will appear with the St. Paul Symphony orchestra at Thief River Falls on March 29.

Getting Drier

Crookston, Minn., March 13.—Early returns on yesterday's election in this section indicate that the "drys" made a pretty clean sweep in the Red river valley.

On the St. Vincent line there is but one wet town, Argyle, just this side of the Canadian boundary, which went wet by one vote.

On the Warroad line only two towns north of Thief River were wet, Middle River and Warroad, and on the east line the first wet town east of Crookston is Bagley.

The only wet towns that stay wet are Argyle by one vote; Warroad 90 votes; Bronson 17 votes. The dry towns which voted and stayed dry are Hallock by 51; Stephen by 34; Mentor by 10; Roseau by 47; Twin Valley by 60; McIntosh by 47; Felton by 8; Climax by 13; Halstad by 26.

Rag Doll Social

Mrs. August Swenson and Mrs. Erick Anderson will entertain the Young People's society of the Swedish Lutheran church Friday evening, March 22, at Imperial hall. Instead of the usual program there will be a rag doll social. All are cordially invited.

American Buyer in London.

"My American accent came near to taxing me just $430 on my last trip to London," remarked a clubman. "When I tried to buy a certain bulldog pup there the kennel man priced it at $500, as he had me sized up as an American and, in his regard, an easy mark. I made a deal with a cabby at the hotel stand, who went around and bought the same pup for me at $60, a very fair price, as the dog will never be a show winner. I gave a $10 tip to the cabman, so I made $430 by employing an agent who called his hansom an 'ansom and his horse an 'orse."—New York Sun.

Jackdaw and Magpie.

In England the daw is hardly ever mentioned but as Jack, yet daw and not jackdaw is the proper name of the species. It is suggested that the pie owes the "mag" to some corruption of Margaret or Meg. To mag is to chatter, but whether the verb was derived from the name or the name from the verb is a question. It is more than probable that the Jim Crow of America (the old name for a negro boy) was brought across from England in the days when a crow was Jim, as a swallow was Dick.—London Standard.

Selling by Candle Time.

"It did me good," observed a young girl who had just returned from England, "to see in real life one of the old customs my grandfather used to tell me about—the burning of the time candle at an auction. In Berkshire the old custom still prevails, and when an auction is in progress and an article is put up for bidding a short length of candle is lighted as the bidding begins. The shouting continues until the candle burns out, and the last bid before it flickers its last is the one that takes the cake. I don't know but what it has an advantage over the 'Going, going, gone' variety, but it is fearfully slow and un-American."—Exchange.

Necessary.

"Dear me," exclaimed the lady, "that's twice you have dropped that cut glass pitcher within five minutes!"

"I know it, ma'am," replied the maid, "but it didn't break the first time."—Chicago Record-Herald

Trouble Ahead.

A north country coroner is said to be waiting the suicide of a local poet who wrote about clasping "the two tremulous hands" of his ladylove, but which the printer made to read "the two tremendous hands."—London Mail.

A Small Horror.

The weasel is one small horror. Astonishingly strong, apparently fearless and as persevering as an ant, when once he has settled to the track of a rabbit that particular bunny is indeed in grave peril. The rabbit seems to know it, too, and the knowledge to half paralyze him, for he seldom attempts the one saving chance—a straightaway, long sustained run at top speed. And the end of the patient, if-we-do-but-wait-the-hour sort of pursuit! 'Tis indeed bloody murder. The fiend within angel garb finally toils within deadly distance. There is a snakelike stroke, most likely aimed at the big vein near the butt of the rabbit's ear. Once there, the brute sticks leechlike to the blood sucking, while the trembling, wailing rabbit totters aimlessly about till its drained body falls limply to pay its tax to mother earth.—Edwin Sandys in Outing Magazine.

All Getting In.

"They've had a consultation of physicians over him."

"He must be a pretty sick man."

"No; he's not very sick, but he has wads of money."—Pittsburg Post.

To Fit the Occasion.

"Let me spin you a yarn while I'm shaving you, sir,"
Said the barber, baldheaded and hoary,
And the man with thin locks said, "All right, go ahead,
But make it a hair raising story."

People in Thief River Falls should not allow the St. Paul Symphony orchestra to get away, as a performance by such an organization is not only a great treat but an advertisement for the city, and the Spectator predicts a large attendance from nearby towns.

Little Miss Peggy Ives invited a number of her little friends Wednesday afternoon to help her celebrate the fifth anniversary of her birthday. The little ones were treated by their hostess to a very delicious lunch and they all enjoyed themselves to the utmost.—Thief River Falls News.

Another treat will probably be offered the people of Thief River Falls and vicinity in the way of a concert by the St. Paul Symphony orchestra at the auditorium in that city some time this spring. Such bookings are a credit to a city many many times the size of Thief River Falls and deserve a liberal patronage.

Last Saturday morning the Boy Scouts of Thief River Falls, with their leader, Rev. Boyden, took a hike down the St. Hilaire road on the east side about three or four miles, built a fire in the woods and cooked coffee and had their lunch. They then crossed the river and returned home on the west side. This was the first hike for the boys and it is needless to say that they hope it won't be the last.—News.

We are informed that during the debate Monday evening The Spectator was criticized for an alleged "intentional" error in the announcement of the entertainment. We will say that we have carefully compared the printed notice with the copy handed us and find an exact agreement, word for word. We might state that the notice was not handed in until Saturday after we had begun to print, and the press was stopped to get the announcement into our columns. We are at a loss to understand why anyone would go out of his way to give utterance to such a sneaking little slur.

No Piano has ever been more enthusiastically endorsed. The Artistic Case, the Easy, Responsive Action, and above all the deep, sweet, rich Tone, captivates performer and listener. The united verdict is that ∴ ∴ ∴ ∴

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

DAKOTA BUSINESS COLLEGE

Every person needs a business education and it costs no more to get it at this great Business and Shorthand Training School, under exact office conditions, than at one of the small questionable ones. The results are, however, very different. 350 D. B. C. pupils went to excellent positions in banks and offices this year—over 400 will do so next year. All Fargo banks and 635 others employ D. B. C. pupils as cashiers, tellers or bookkeepers. No other school offers such endorsement.

Our $50 course prepares for business life, or for position as clerk or bookkeeper. Our new $35 course in Commerce and Banking (endorsed by Bankers' Association) supplies cashiers and tellers for the Northwestern banks, and bookkeepers and credit men for the larger concerns. The shorthand course (under an expert reporter) trains court reporters and high grade stenographers. The stenographers for the U. S. District Court, N. D. Supreme Court, 3d Judicial District and the Cass Co. Court are D. B. C. pupils. Can other schools offer this proof of superior training?

The D. B. C. has built a magnificent new building (25,000 square feet of space) is seated with roll top desks, has 60 typewriters, adding machines, billers, money changers, etc. Our pupils deal with each other and with magnificently equipped offices, using aluminum money. Our courses are fascinating and practical. The Northwest has "No other school like the D. B. C."
Next term begins soon. For booklet write.

HIS MODESTY OF HIGH ORDER

Tinker, of Course, Loved His Neighbor as Himself, but That Wasn't Too Much.

Lord Tankerville, who is sending his son to an American school, said the other day in New York:

"There are too many Englishmen—and English boys as well—who develop, in the presence of a lord, a painful and unnatural modesty. Their modesty reminds me of a village tinker.

"This tinker had a rather crusty disposition, and his pastor said to him one day:

"'My man, you should love your neighbor as yourself.'

"'Yes, sir,' said the tinker.

"But the pastor had in mind a nasty black eye that the tinker had given the bricklayer next door, and so he went on:

"'Do you, though, do you, honestly, love your neighbor as yourself?'

"'Yes, sir; oh, yes, sir,' said the tinker; and he added, 'but I'm a modest man, yo see, and, to tell the truth, I ain't a bit stuck on myself, sir.'"

DREADED ATAXIA

What Active Treatment With Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Accomplished in a Recent Case.

Mr. Francis M. Poole, a harness maker, of Garvin, Lyon Co., Minn., says: "My illness started in 1902, with sharp pains all through my limbs. At first I thought it was rheumatism but the pains kept getting more and more severe and I grew steadily worse. Later a numbness came over my feet. It gradually extended up my legs to my spine and waist. By this time I had lost all control of my legs. Next my bladder and bowels were affected and I lost all control of them. At this stage of the disease I was perfectly helpless and from November, 1905, to April, 1906, I was confined to the bed. My memory was so affected that I thought I would lose my mind. I looked just like a dead person. My lips and finger nails were blue. I suffered with terrible sharp, shooting pains and could get relief only from the use of morphine.

"I was treated by five St. Paul doctors. All of them pronounced my case locomotor ataxia. One said I could not live a year and another told my wife all he could do for me was to give medicine to relieve the pain. I was discouraged and, when my brother-in-law urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, I did so willingly for he had read of their curing a case similar to mine. I started to take the pills in March, 1906, while I was still confined to bed. I took several boxes when I felt a slight change for the better and had a healthier look. I was finally able to go to the country but kept on with the treatment. The bluish color left my lips and my eyes became brighter. I took the pills a long time and the next spring in May I could walk around. In June I went to work although still weak. I kept on gaining and am now working without the return of a symptom of my former trouble and without losing a days' work. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People absolutely cured me and I want all fellow sufferers to know of my wonderful recovery."

Those who are interested in the treatment which cured this case should have our booklet, "Diseases of the Nervous System," which will be sent to every nervous sufferer upon request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50 by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

"WHY SHOULD I USE CUTICURA SOAP?"

"There is nothing the matter with my skin, and I thought Cuticura Soap was only for skin troubles." True, it is for skin troubles, but its great mission is to prevent skin troubles. For more than a generation its delicate emollient and prophylactic properties have rendered it the standard for this purpose, while its extreme purity and refreshing fragrance give to it all the advantages of the best of toilet soaps. It is also invaluable in keeping the hands soft and white, the hair live and glossy, and the scalp free from dandruff and irritation.

While its first cost is a few cents more than that of ordinary toilet soaps, it is prepared with such care and of such materials, that it wears to a wafer, often outlasting several cakes of other soap, and making its use, in practice, most economical. Cuticura Soap is sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, but the truth of these claims may be demonstrated without cost by sending to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston, for a liberal sample cake, together with a thirty-two page book on the skin and hair.

Of Course.

FIND WHITE TRIBE

Arctic Natives Evidently of European Origin.

Stefansson-Anderson Expedition Discovered New People, Very Few of Which Ever Had Seen a White Man.

New York.—From the far north, in the neighborhood of Coronation Gulf and Victoria Island, have come messages from Stefansson and Anderson, leaders of the Arctic expedition now making a tour of exploration for the American Museum of Natural History and the Geological Survey of the Canadian government.

In May, Stefansson crossed over to Victoria Land, where he discovered a Scandinavian like people called the Ha-Ne-Rag-Mi-Ut. They are described as a North European people. One of the Alaskian Eskimo guides said in commenting upon their appearance:

"They are not Eskimo; they are 'fo'c'sle' men. Two of them had chin beards described as light and turning to red, and all had light eyebrows."

Most interesting perhaps of their experiences are the discoveries of several races of "new people" and ruined villages formerly occupied by Eskimos and apparently abandoned from twenty-five to fifty years ago.

The inhabitants of these villages engaged in whaling, judging from the bones of whales scattered about. At Cape Boxley, last May, the explorers came upon a village of about forty snow houses, which apparently had recently been abandoned. Sled trails led north toward Victoria Land, which is visible across the strait everywhere east of Point Mise.

"As the explorers of the last century never found people near here, I suppose the village and trail are evidence of visits of Victoria Land people, who had come across the strait to get driftwood," says one member of the expedition in an account of the trip. Later, the expedition discovered another village in the snowy region of the north and saw people out sealing in the middle of Dolphin and Union Strait. One of the members of the expedition then approached the newly discovered people and after a narrow escape of being knifed by one of the party, friendly negotiations were undertaken.

Home of the Fo'c'sle.

There were thirty-nine members of the group, a small part of the A-Ku-Li-A-Kat-Tag-Mi-Ut. According to the explorers neither they nor their forefathers had ever seen a white man. The winter home of these people is in the middle of the strait north of Cape Bexley, but in the summer they hunt inland south of the cape.

It was discovered by members of the expedition that of the one thousand Eskimos on the two sides of Coronation Gulf and Dolphin and Union straits, not more than twenty men had ever seen a white man, thus representing less contact with the white race than the people of any part of the explored Arctic.

The Cape Parry region, full of game sixty years ago, is now gameless and deserted and the Copper Mine region has not 10 per cent. of the number of caribou of Richardson's time. It is estimated that in ten years it will be practically impossible to live on the country while taveling in these remote wilds.

WAR TEST FOR AEROPLANES

Italian Army Authorities Plan to Use Many in Their Conflict With the Turks.

There are thirty-two aeroplanes and as many army aviators attached to the Italian army in Tripoli and Cyrenaica, and several aeroplanes will accompany the Italian expedition into the interior. For their use portable sheds have been constructed and they will be carried on camels.

The military authorities have discovered that aerial service in time of war is so severe on the nerves that if it is continued for three months steadily the aviator suffers from nervous breakdown. In order to rest the aviators orders have now been given for them to take turns and make flights on alternate weeks.

Bomb throwing from aeroplanes in flight has not proved altogether a success and the risks incurred by the aviator, who, besides piloting his machine, has to handle the bombs, are so great that the military authorities have discontinued bomb throwing for the present. As all the Italian army aeroplanes are built to carry only the pilot, it is impossible for the aviators to take along an artillery officer as passenger to handle the bombs.

Two army dirigibles have been sent to Tripoli to replace those damaged during a storm and early next month both may be able to make a flight over the desert. Experiments at bomb throwing from airships will then be started and if they prove successful the aeroplane service will be limited to reconnaissances while the dirigibles will be used exclusively for bomb throwing.

As soon as the snow falls the plow is put in use before the snow packs. This method prevents heavy ice forming in the gutters, which would have to be dug out by hand when the thaw starts.

Washington.—Brigade General Bixby, chief of the army engineers, submitted to Senator McCumber his report on the Red River situation in which he says that in the opinion both of himself and Major Shunk no log jam exists in that river, or in Red River lake, which calls for action by the government. The real cause of the trouble there, the report says, is the unusual dearth of water, and that the logs complained of are merely stranded through this cause. The report finds no ground for instituting proceedings against the lumber company owning the logs.

Kenyon.—While Sever Sunde was experimenting with an old unused shotgun, it accidently exploded, severely lacerating both hands. Several pieces of bone were removed. The gun was one that had not been used for many years and was an heirloom. It was blown into fragments.

Counterfeiter Gets Stiff Sentence.

William Fink, a Brooklyn, N. Y., dealer in drugs, was sentenced by the New York Court of Special Sessions, to imprisonment in the penitentiary at hard labor, for four months. The charge was counterfeiting the trade-mark for Carter's Little Liver Pills, in violation of the penal law.

The Carter Medicine Company detected the counterfeit before any quantity of the spurious goods had been placed upon the market. In sentencing Fink, Judge Deuel laid special stress upon the injury done to the public when a remedy so well known as Carter's Little Liver Pills is counterfeited and put on the market. He imposed the sentence not only as the proper punishment of Fink himself, but in order to deter others from the commission of like frauds in the future.

DR. WILEY HAS QUIT

GOVERNMENT FOOD EXPERT QUITS HIS POST AS GOVERNMENT CHEMIST.

PUBLIC HEALTH BUREAU

Capital Surprised By Report of Resignation—Doctor to Devote Rest of Life Working for New Department.

Washington, D. C.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the United States bureau of chemistry, handed his resignation to Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, and announced that he would devote the rest of his life to urging the creation of a national health department, entirely separate from any other branch of the government service.

Dr. Wiley said he had several offers under consideration. One is from a lecture bureau, and others are of an editorial and commercial nature. He declared positively that he would not enter business. Already he has agreed to deliver a series of lectures in Kansas and Colorado and at various points in the east.

Asked whether he would be a candidate for head of the proposed federal health department for which he announced he was going to work, he declared that he would not be, that he had held all the government positions he cared to fill.

President Taft sent telegrams broadcast to the heads of universities and colleges throughout the country, asking them to recommend a successor to Dr. Wiley. The president said he hoped in this way to get a consensus of opinion as to the best and most available chemist.

Despite the fact that rumors had been current for several weeks that the government's pure food expert was about to leave the service, the actual news of Dr. Wiley's resignation came as a big surprise to official Washington.

It is known that Wiley for a long time had been unhappy in his connection with the department of agriculture. It is rumored that his action was taken because Secretary of Agriculture Wilson refused to dismiss Dr. F. L. Dunlap, associate chemist, Wiley's antagonist on the pure food question. It is asserted that only a week ago Wiley submitted an ultimatum to Wilson that either Dunlap must be dismissed or he would resign. Wilson refused to dismiss Dunlap, Dunlap refused to resign, and therefore Wiley made good his threat. He has been hampered in the administration of his office and harassed by the other officials. The recent Wiley-Wilson-McCabe controversy was but an outcropping of the friction that long has existed. A house committee that recently investigated affairs of the department complimented Dr. Wiley in the highest terms and scored his enemies in the department. He entered the service of the government as chief chemist in 1883, serving in that capacity continuously until now.

Washington, D. C.—The Democratic free sugar bill passed the house, 198 to 103. Its passage was helped by 24 Republican votes, although this was offset by the defection of seven Democratic votes against the bill by members from Louisiana and Colorado.

At the last moment, Representative Martin, one of the Colorado members, blocked an attempt to fix plans for consideration of the excise tax bill, which througha taxtion of incomes is expected to make up the revenue lost by free sugar measure.

Leader Underwood was at no time embarrassed by the tactics of the opposition. The bill went through as originally framed. A score of amendments were voted down as fast as they were put up.

Representative Mondell of Wyoming, Republican, sought to amend the measure by making it become effective only after receipt of a report on the sugar industry by the tariff board; Representative Broussard of Louisiana, submitted an amendment leaving the duty as it is fixed at present, but abrogating the Cuban preferential, Representatives Good and Poudy, Iowa; Lenroot, Wisconsin, and Morris, Nebraska, strove to have incorporated a clause providing for a bounty on sugar, especially that produced from beets.

All amendments met the same fate.

The debate was marked by occasional flashes of extreme bitterness on both sides. Democratic members from sugar producing states accused their colleagues of working ruin to the sugar industry, while Republican progressives seized the opportunity to give their tariff views.

The Republicans who supported the bill were:

Representatives Anderson, Davis, Lindberg, Miller, Nye, Steenerson and Volstead of Minnesota; Good, Kendall and Woods of Iowa; Murdock and Young of Kansas; Hanna and Helgeson of North Dakota; La Follette and Warburton of Washington; McKenzie and Prince of Illinois; Cary of Wisconsin; Dyer of Missouri; Howland of Ohio; Kent of California; Lafferty of Oregon; Norris of Nebraska, and Sells of Tennessee.

The Louisiana and Colorado members, all Democrats, voted against the measure.

Agricultural Bill Is Passed.

The second filibuster within four days preceded the passage of the agricultural appropriation bill in the house. The measure, which carried approximately $15,800,000, was delayed in its final legislative stage in the house by Minority Leader Mann. He led a bitter fight against it in an effort to obtain added appropriations for the national forests and to eliminate those voted for drainage purposes. In both his contentions the Republican leader lost. The bill now goes to the senate.

Washington, D. C. — The Democratic excise bill to virtually tax everybody's income when it is $5,000 or more a year passed the house 250 to 40. The Democrats voted solidly for it and carried 80 Republican votes with them. Forty regular Republicans were the opposition.

The bill now goes to the senate where its fate is problematic. Many senators declared that if upon analysis they found the house measure would tax all classes of people alike, they would support it. Democratic senators with a few exceptions are expected to vote for it. Democratic Leader Martin expressed the hope that the Democratic senators and the progressive Republicans might put the bill through. Republican leaders are depending upon the president's veto to check revenue revision bills from the house.

The excise bill though primarily intended to produce anywhere from $20,000,000 to $60,000,000 a year to make up for the losses on free sugar is also expected to be one of the offsets to general pension legislation which seems sure to be enacted.

Democratic Leader Underwood held his majority intact through the passage of the bill. Not one Democratic vote was cast against it, and the measure was passed exactly as framed.

With the free sugar bill and excise tax bills out of the way Democratic members of the ways and means committee are free to tackle again the wool schedule which is considered the knottiest problem they have to deal with at this session of congress. The committee will begin work with the free raw wool sentiment strong.

The house passed the rivers and harbors appropriation bill carrying upwards of $26,250,000. The vote for it was unanimous.

The senate agreed to adjourn on Saturday in time to participate in the Maine memorial exercises.

Washington, D. C. — Prospects of a coal strike stirred members of both houses of congress to action. Senator Townsend introduced a bill to provide a federal investigation of any controversy affecting interstate commerce, and Representative Esch proposed a similar measure in the house. Senator Townsend's bill is similar to one he introduced when a member of the house several years ago.

HOLDUP MEN MASKED

Four Robbers Blow Safe of Mobile and Ohio Passenger.

Corinth, Mississippi. — Mobile & Ohio passenger train No. 4, northbound, was held up and the express safe blown open and robbed seven miles south of Corinth by four heavily armed masked men. After accomplishing the robbery, the quartet took to the dense underbrush of the Tuscumbia river bottoms. Bloodhounds have been telegraphed for and a posse has been organized to take up the pursuit.

It is reported the safe contained considerable money and valuables. One report is that $60,000 in currency was obtained.

MAINE DEMOCRATS MEET

Local Option for Cities and Towns Indorsed.

Augusta, Maine. — Local option for cities and towns; a $2,000,000 bond issue for good country roads; a public utilities commission and adequate employers' liability legislation were the principal policies outlined in the platform adopted by the Democrats of Maine at the biennial state convention.

The local option plan advocates the adoption of an amendment to the constitution as an addition to the prohibitory amendment. It provides that the prohibitory amendment shall not apply to cities in which places the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors may be permitted under such regulations as the legislature may provide.

Washington, March 20.—The senate has agreed to vote on the general service pension bill on the legislative day of Thursday, March 28.

LAFOLETTE MAKES A CLEAN SWEEP

PLURALITY IN NORTH DAKOTA IS ESTIMATED AT FIFTEEN THOUSAND.

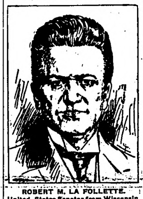
GET BILLING COUNTY

Where Roosevelt Was Once a Rancher—Charge That the Democrats Defeated Ex-President Is Denied.

Fargo, March 20.—The returns indicate a victory for La Follette over Theodore Roosevelt in the first presidential primary of the year by a vote of about two to one. United States Senator Gronna, acquainted with the returns, estimates the result at a majority of about 15,000 for La Follette who has carried about two-thirds of the counties.

Election day was not marked by any sensational incidents. The weather was of the zero character and in the northwestern part a snow storm was raging. A heavy vote was polled. In spite of that, the normal Republican vote was not brought out.

Supporters of Colonel Roosevelt are declaring that the Democrats carried the election for La Follette. Before this can be successfully advanced the vote cast must be compared with the normal vote cast. It appears that it will fall below the normal. City elections were being held throughout the state and these indicate that the Democrats were kept busy among themselves. In spite of that many Democrats undoubtedly voted for La Follette, but not enough to materially affect the result.



ROBERT M. LA FOLLETTE.
United States Senator from Wisconsin.

The strength of the Lo Follete vote is a surprise to the LoF ollette supporters themselves. They had expected strength in the eastern part of the state but were prepared for a heavy loss on the slope district where Roosevelt formerly lived.

La Follette had carried Billings county, the former home of Colonel Roosevelt and lost Medora, Roosevelt's home town, by only 7 votes. The early returns indicate that La Follette has won in the second district in which George M. Young of Valley City is a candidate for congress. This district was the one invaded first by Senator La Follette in his speaking tour. When Theodore Roosevelt's name was first suggested, the second seemed to be in line for Roosevelt. Geo. M. Young was said to be the only man in Valley City for La Follette. Mr. Young stated that the second district would give La Follette a majority of 8,000.

A telegram of congratulation was sent to Senator La Follette from Fargo upon his success in carrying the state. Another telegram was sent to L. B. Hanna, stalwart candidate for governor, which contained the grim word "Next." The result of presidential contest is likely to have a serious result on the state fight that is still to come. Congressman Hanna, who is the stalwart candidate for governor, took up the Roosevelt boom as a probable winner.

105 MINERS KILLED

ONLY ELEVEN MINERS RESCUED FROM TOMBS IN DEPTH OF THE EARTH.

ACCIDENT IN OKLAHOMA.

Accumulation of Dust and Gas Cause Terrific Explosions in Mine of Bois Coal Co. Near Town of McCurtain.

McCurtain, Oklahoma.—One hundred and five lives is now accepted as an approximately accurate count of the human toll taken when mine No. 2 of the San Bois Coal company here was wrecked by an explosion. Of 116 men of the day shift only 11 are known to be alive. The others are entombed behind the debris.

Among the unaccounted for are members of a surveying party, headed by W. D. Roper of Clio, S. C. Forty-three Americans were employed in the mine.

The explosion occurred shortly after 9 o'clock. Those on the surface heard a faint rumble and an earth tremor. When those nearest to the mouth reached the opening a cloud of smoke and dust belched forth. Then came tense moments of waiting for those in the mine to emerge. Frank Fields, a miner, was the first to stagger out. He was walking in an entry and heard the explosion, he said. Nine other miners escaped through a "man way." A "rope rider" who was coming to the surface when the explosion occurred, was the eleventh man to escape.

The systematic work of penetrating the mine was begun. Half a hundred rescuers worked in relays. They brought four bodies from the mine. It was reported that a rescuing party had found 16 more bodies.

The explosion was caused, according to mine experts, from either accumulated gas or coal dust.

NINE KILLED IN BLAST.

Gas Explosion, Caused by Mine Settlings, Shakes Dunmore, Penn.

Scranton, Pennsylvania. — In a gas explosion caused, it is thought, by mine settlings, nine persons were killed and two injured in Dunmore, near here. Two families comprising two women and seven children were either blown to pieces in the explosion or burned in the fire that followed and destroyed three houses.

The dead are:

Mrs. John Calvella and her five children, Rose, aged 3; Dominick, 8; Lucy, 11; Lizzie, 14; William, 20.

Mrs. Vito Summa, Mrs. Cavella's daughter and her two children, Mary aged 7 and Frank, 4.

The body of Mary Summa was found in the limbs of a tree fifty feet from the scene of the explosion a half hour after the accident.

More than twenty dwellings near the scene of the explosion were badly damaged by the concussion and the flying timbers and scores of persons were thrown out of their beds and bruised.

During the past week mine settlings in the neighborhood of the Cavella home have caused alarm. Only a few days ago the cellar dropped out of a house on the opposite side of the street and several miners climbed to the surface on ladders let down by women of the house. Dunmore police say that the gas from a broken main caused by the settlings came into the cellar of the Cavella home where it gathered in a dense volume and exploded when it came in contact with an oil lamp that was burning in the house.

PLOT TO KILL KNOX.

Several Prominent "Liberals" in Nicaragua Will Be Executed.

New Orleans, Louisiana.—As the result of the alleged discovery by the government of Nicaragua of a plot to assassinate Secretary of State Knox on the occasion of his recent visit to the capital of that country it is not improbable that several prominent "liberals" will be put to death, according to advices received here from Bluefields.

Thirteen dynamite bombs placed beneath the roadbed over which Secretary Knox's special train traveled from Corinto to Managua, and connected with an electric battery were discovered by government agents and will be used as evidence against the conspirators.

Two-score Zelayists or "liberals" are confined in the penitentiary at Managua and are held incommunicado pending the termination of the present investigation by the government.

MAN & HORSES BURNED.

Heavy Loss Results When Lantern Causes Fire in Loaded Stock Car.

Duluth, Minn.—Alex Pastent, a Stillwater woodsman, and a carload of horses were cremated in a car that was destroyed by fire at Willow River. The horses were valued at $4,000 and were the property of H. G. Farmer of Stillwater. Pastent is said to have been intoxicated and went into the car, where he had no business, with a lighted lantern.

REGULATING THE STOMACH

That Important Organ Works According to the Quality of the Blood That Is Furnished to It.

There is the most intimate relation between the condition of the blood and the activity of the stomach. The blood depends upon the stomach for a large part of its nourishment; while every act of digestion, from the time the food enters the stomach until it is digested and assimilated by the blood, needs plenty of pure, well-oxidized blood. The stomach works only according to the quality of the blood.

The most common cause of indigestion is anaemia, or lack of blood. Indeed there is not a single disturbance of the health of the body nor any form of exhaustion or lowered vitality, that may not lead to stomach trouble. Disordered blood is the one common cause of indigestion. Thin, impure blood weakens the muscles of the stomach and lessens the product of the glands which furnish the digestive fluids.

Nothing will more promptly cure indigestion than plenty of pure, well-oxidized blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People increase the red corpuscles, the oxygen-carriers of the blood, until the blood is rich and red. A thorough trial of these pills gives a hearty appetite, perfect digestion, strength and health.

Mrs. Emma M. Mayne, of No. 635 Second avenue, Clinton, Iowa, says: "I had just worked myself out bringing up a family of five children and, while in this run-down condition, I took sick with some kind of stomach trouble. I doctored with several physicians and saw a specialist in Chicago but received little help. I could not eat anything with relish and could not sleep. I would have deathly sick spells and would vomit. I had terrible headaches and dizzy spells. I got very thin and my friends thought I was going into consumption. I doctored for a year or so without help. While visiting a niece she told me that she took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, so I tried them. They soon helped me and a few boxes entirely cured me."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50c. per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

COLDS AND CHILLS BRING KIDNEY ILLS

Colds, chills and grip strain the kidneys and start backache, urinary disorders and uric acid troubles. Doan's Kidney Pills are very useful in the raw spring months. They stop backache and urinary disorders, keep the kidneys well and prevent colds from settling on the kidneys. Mrs. E. A. Bennett, Johnson Ave., Los Gatos, Cal., says: "If I took cold or overworked, I had such severe pains through my back, I could hardly move. My limbs ached until I scarcely knew what I was about, and headaches and dizziness distressed me. I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and was entirely relieved. It is over two years since I have had any kidney trouble to speak of."

There is nothing unexpected in Manager McKinley's announcement that Mr. Taft will be renominated. What else could he say and hold his job?

If the people want a progressive governor this year they will have to attend the caucuses. It is in the caucuses that the cause of progressive politics will rise or fall. If the people do not attend the caucuses and, there see that the right men are sent to the county conventions, the bosses will name the delegates, and all the people can do next fall will be to choose between the candidates selected by the bosses. Attend the caucuses, and see that your neighbor does too.

Roosevelt and the Tariff

Though the people are about to vote in one state on his presidential candidacy, and will soon vote on it in other states, Col. Roosevelt still is silent on the tariff.

If his candidacy fails, the cause of its failure may be found about equally divided between this significant neglect of a vitally important subject and the fact that almost everywhere the ring organization which controls republican conventions is for Taft and against Roosevelt.

The tariff is the biggest concrete issue before the people, and the most vital.

The failure of the Taft administration to produce tariff revision downward is its greatest and least excusable failure.

Yet Col. Roosevelt refuses to take advantage of this splendid opportunity to strengthen his own position and to accent the weakness of the Taft position by taking a firm stand on the tariff and pointing out the conspicuous failure of the Taft administration to provide the relief it promised.

Roosevelt's manager, Senator Dixon, voted 126 times with Senator Aldrich in the framing of the shameful Payne-Aldrich-Taft tariff law, which ranked him with Smoot and Lodge and Gallinger as one of the most consistent supporters of a rule or ruin tariff policy.

Small wonder, then, that the Roosevelt campaign isn't sweeping the country as it was expected to do.—Duluth Herald.

Booklet about Products Exposition

Illustrated with twenty-two halftone views of state and sectional exhibits at the land show of the Northwest Development league, a booklet has just been issued telling about the northwestern products exposition to be held in Minneapolis Nov. 12 to 23. Forrest Crissey, the well known writer and contributing editor of the Saturday Evening Post, has written a part of this booklet for the management, telling what a "land products exposition" is and why it is the best form of advertising and the most interesting of all shows.

This booklet says the northwestern products exposition has been organized "to give information about the American northwest; to create a knowledge of the possibilities, opportunities, and fascinations of the wonderland of America" and "to exploit in the most truthful and authentic way the resources and potentialities of Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington, and Oregon."

Will A. Campbell, secretary of the Northwest Development league, who managed the "land products show" in St. Paul last year, will be general manager of the northwestern products exposition and has opened an office in the Security Bank building, Minneapolis, where the business of organizing the enterprise will be conducted.

Odd Fellows Party

The series of Odd Fellows parties given this winter by the Odd fellows was concluded last Saturday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Henry Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Lyman, and Mr. Smith entertained.

The head prizes were won by Mrs. Carl Steen and Dr. Swanson. Mrs. G. W. Hooper and Mr. O. F. Post carrying away consolation prizes.

The pleasant evening passed all too quickly at the close of which a delicious lunch was served, and on departing for home the ladies generously expressed their appreciation of the good times these parties have afforded them this year as well as former seasons.

St. Paul Symphony Orchestra March 29

Definite arrangements have been made at Thief River Falls for the appearance of the St. Paul Symphony orchestra of fifty-five finished musicians in two concerts on March 29.

The orchestra, under the personal direction of L. W. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railway company, with Walter H. Rothwell as conductor, is making a tour of the northwest and thus affording all musicians and lovers of music a great treat which should be taken advantage of, as it is not often that organizations of this class and size come within reaching distance.

Arrangements are being made to run a special train from Crookston on the Great Northern as well as on the Winnipeg line of the Soo, and under such conditions it is safe to say that the house will be filled the same as it was last spring when the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra visited that city.

Marcus Kellerman is one of the principal soloists from whose press notices we quote the following:

BARITONE HAS VOICE AND ART.

No singer has impressed the public or corps of music critics to a great extent in so short a time as Marcus Kellerman, the bass-baritone soloist with the St. Paul Symphony orchestra, which will tour the northwest, leaving St. Paul March 21 aboard a special Great Northern train. This young man, whose career is already one carrying the musical hallmark of distinction, has conquered exacting America through his superb voice, an art matching the organ and an intelligence such as might be expected from one having so noble a head and physique.

Barely thirty years of age, Kellerman is a native American, having been born in Cincinnati. Some of his most pronounced successes occurred in Germany, where he sang leading baritone roles for three years at the Berlin royal opera. Although his contract called for a five years' engagement, Kellerman abandoned his brilliant, promising operatic career to engage in lieder and oratorio singing. The superlative successes he has already won in this country indicate that concert patrons here are fortunate, even though opera has lost an artist of the first rank.

Kellerman's musical training has been unusually thorough and complete, beginning with his study of the organ. It was during his work as an organist that he discovered his remarkable voice and appreciating that increased opportunities offered in the field of song he prepared himself for the task, finishing his preparation abroad in a manner that brought the approval of the composer, Richard Straus, through whose efforts he was secured for the opera at Berlin.

Making Them Settle

G. A. Aubol, deputy revenue collector, finished covering his territory in northwestern Minnesota last week. He has collected about $3,000 in fines and penalties from saloon keepers who have been in the habit of selling liquor by the keg to farmers and others—which in lots of five gallons or over puts them in the wholesaling class. Many persisted after being warned and the result was the $50 wholesale tax and $25 penalty, netting $75 in each case. Mr. Aubol is now covering nearly his whole territory to secure the corporation tax report, which has not been sent in by a great number of corporations and which must be sent in by the last of the month.

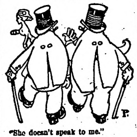
How It Happened.

"Take it from me"—

"No, I won't take a single thing from you!"

Here a lively scrap ensued.

Why She Was Mad.



"She doesn't speak to me."

"Why?"

"Because when she asked me what I thought of her complexion I told her it was very fair, but I could tell her a better brand."

For They Can.

"You can't always tell."

"Then there is one thing certain."

"What is it?"

"That you aren't a woman."

Substantial.

The joy of ready money,
The cinch of cash in hand,
Is something that the dullest
Can always understand.
There may be other pleasures
And other forms of bliss,
But there is none, I venture,
So sure enough as this.

In looking at the posies,
In going for a walk,
In taking in a lecture
To hear a fellow talk
And all such simple doings
Some pleasures may attend,
But there is no enjoyment
Like having cash to spend.

In love and its allurements
The one of youthful mind
Some feelings highfalutic
May very often find,
But when he pays the preacher
And starts to buy the hash
Things run on more serenely
If he can scatter cash.

Then here's to ready money,
The useful friend of man!
It gets him into places
No other booster can.
It gets him into places
And gets him out again
If he has ever handy
The twenty or the ten.

Proposals.

"Has he proposed yet?"

"Not in so many words."

"That's no answer. Proposals never do come in words. They consist of sighs, hems, haws and gurgles."—Cleveland Leader.

Guns.

The Germans were the inventors of the first gun. About 1378 Schwartz, a German machinist, manufactured numerous crude guns which were brought into use by the Venetians in 1392. It is a strange fact that cannon were made before small firearms. At Amberg there is still a piece of ordnance marked with the date 1303. Cannon were first used in war at the battle of Crecy, in 1346. It was not until 1544, however, that they were made in England.

Well Turned.

"How old are you?" asked the insurance agent of the lady.

It was thoughtless of him, and her indignant "Sir!" brought him straightway to his senses.

"Of course, you will understand," he went on, "that we have to be careful about making contracts. I merely wished to assure myself that you are legally of age."

Easy.

"What can a doctor do when he gets a patient who neither drinks nor smokes?"

"Tell him to stop eating certain things. Everybody eats."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

LOMBARD PIANOS
The Pianos With The Sweetest Tone

Praised by Press and Pulpit

No Piano has ever been more enthusiastically endorsed. The Artistic Case, the Easy, Responsive Action, and above all the deep, sweet, rich Tone, captivates performer and listener. The united verdict is that

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

DAKOTA BUSINESS COLLEGE

Every person needs a business education and it costs no more to get it at this great Business and Shorthand Training School, under exact office conditions, than at one of the small questionable ones. The results are, however, very different. 350 D. B. C. pupils went to excellent positions in banks and offices this year—over 400 will do so next year. All Fargo banks and 655 others employ D. B. C. pupils as cashiers, tellers or bookkeepers. No other school offers such endorsement.

Our $50 course prepares for business life, or for position as clerk or bookkeeper. Our new $35 course in Commerce and Banking (endorsed by Bankers' Association) supplies cashiers and tellers for the Northwestern banks, and bookkeepers and credit men for the larger concerns. The shorthand course (under an expert reporter) trains court reporters and high grade stenographers. The stenographers for the U. S. District Court, N. D. Supreme Court, 3d Judicial District and the Cass Co. Court are D. B. C. pupils. Can other schools offer this proof of superior training?

The D. B. C. has built a magnificent new building (35,000 square feet of space) is seated with roll top desks, has 60 typewriters, adding machines, billers, money changers, etc. Our pupils deal with each other and with magnificently equipped offices, using aluminum money. Our courses are fascinating and practical. The Northwest has "No other school like the D. B. C." Next term begins soon. Free booklet. [illegible] F. LELAND WATKINS, Pres. [illegible]

Sick Women

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured many cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Here are five letters from southern women which prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

LETTER FROM VIRGINIA.

Elliston, Va.—"I feel it my duty to express my thanks to you and your great medicine. I was a sufferer from female troubles and had been confined in bed over one third of my time for ten months. I could not do my housework and had fainting spells so that my husband could not leave me alone for five minutes at a time.

"Now I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier. Whenever I see a suffering woman I want to tell her what these medicines have done for me and I will always speak a good word for them."—Mrs. Robert Blankenship, Elliston, Montgomery Co., Va.

LETTER FROM LOUISIANA

New Orleans, La.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was troubled with hot flashes, weak and dizzy feelings, backache and irregularities. I would get up in the morning feeling tired out and not fit to do anything.

"Since I have been taking your Compound and Blood Purifier I feel all right. Your medicines are worth their weight in gold."—Mrs. Gaston Blondeau, 1541 Polymnia St., New Orleans, La.

LETTER FROM FLORIDA.

Wauchula, Fla.—"Some time ago I wrote to you giving you my symptoms, headache, backache, bearing-down, and discomfort in walking, caused by female troubles.

"I got two bottles of Lydia E Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a package of Sanative Wash and that was all I used to make me a well woman.

"I am satisfied that if I had done like a good many women, and had not taken your remedies, I would have been a great sufferer. But I started in time with the right medicine and got well. It did not cost very much either. I feel that you are a friend to all women and I would rather use your remedies than have a doctor."—Mrs. Mattie Hodnot, Box 406, Wauchula, Florida.

LETTER FROM WEST VIRGINIA.

Martinsburg, W. Va.—"I am glad to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done wonders for my mother, daughter and myself.

"I have told dozens of people about it and my daughter says that when she hears a girl complaining with cramps, she tells her to take your Compound."—Mrs. Mary A. Hockenberry, 712 N. 3rd St., Martinsburg, W. Va.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM VIRGINIA.

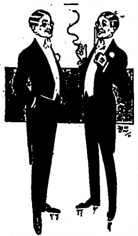
Newport News, Va.—"About five years ago I was troubled with such pains and bloating every month that I would have to go to bed.

"A friend told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I soon found relief. The medicine strengthened me in every way and my doctor approved of my taking it.

"I will be glad if my testimony will help some one who is suffering from female weakness."—Mrs. W. J. Blatton, 1020 Hampton Ave., Newport News, Va.

Why don't you try this reliable remedy?

SUBTLE HUMOR.



Cholly—What's the time, old chap? I've an invitation to dinner at seven, and my watch isn't going.

Gussie—Why, wasn't your watch invited, too, deah boy?

Naturally.

Robert, at the age of twelve, was much puzzled over one question in his examination paper on civics. It ran, "If the president, vice president, and all the members of the cabinet should die, who would officiate?" Racking his brain in vain to remember the order of succession, a happy thought came to him, and he wrote:

"The undertaker."—Woman's Home Companion.

Summing It Up.

"Was the charity ball a success?"

"Oh, yes, indeed. They say the gowns must have cost a half million at least."

"And how much was raised for charity?"

"Why, nearly $700. Wasn't that fine?"

A Quarter Century

Before the public. Over Five Million Free Samples given away each year. The constant and increasing sales from samples proves the genuine merit of Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic powder to be shaken into the shoes for Tired, Aching, Swollen Tender feet. Sample free. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

Up to the Minute.

"Well, she has succeeded in doing the latest thing, anyhow."

"What's that?"

"Eloped with her father's aviator."

Poor Henry.

"Peck claims that when he married he was mislead."

"Yes, and now he is Mrs.-led."

His Only Complaint.

Senator Beveridge, at a luncheon in New York, was talking about the child labor problem.

"Children are so plucky and so cheerful," he said, "we don't realize how horribly overworked they are till it's too late—till their bodies and minds are stunted irretrievably.

"I was once talking to a tiny errand boy at the height of the Christmas shopping season. He was working, I knew, 17 hours a day. As he walked sturdily along with a mountain of parcels piled on his thin, narrow shoulders, I said to him:

"'Do you like your job?'

"'Yes, sir,' he said; 'I like it fine. Only—'

"Here he grinned up at me gayly from beneath his load.

"'Only I'm afraid I'm doing an automobile truck out of a job.'"

A Drop of Blood

Or a little water from the human system when thoroughly tested by the chief chemist at Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., tells the story of impoverished blood—nervous exhaustion or some kidney trouble. Such examinations are made without cost and is only a small part of the work of the staff of physicians and surgeons under the direction of Dr. R. V. Pierce giving the best medical advice possible without cost to those who wish to write and make a full statement of symptoms. COEDS TO GET VOTES

Will Represent States That Have Woman Suffrage at Mock Convention.

Minneapolis. — Militant suffragists among the coeds at the University of Minnesota swept down on the Good Government club and demanded that they be allotted delegates to the mock national political convention at the university on March 20 to nominate a candidate for President of the United States. The suffragists, twelve in number, stampeded the club while it was in executive session, and fiery speeches were delivered by three of their cohorts, Miss Tillie Will, Miss Dorothy Loyhed and Miss Mary L. Burns. "Give us places in the delegations from the states that have advanced for enough to have women suffrage, if we cannot try and do something for poor, old, mossy Minnesota," said Miss Burns. The feminine voices were heard and their wishes deferred to. The club, after hearing the addresses of the three girl students, decided that they were entitled to sit in the convention and accordingly voted that the girls could serve as delegates from those six states that now enjoy equal suffrage.

BAILEY MAKES INQUIRIES

Investigates the Burning of Bachelor's Home Near Cass Lake.

Cass Lake.—Thayer C. Bailey, who is connected with the state fire marshal's office was in Cass Lake and started an investigation into the burning of the home of Michael Henry, a bachelor. The fire occurred in Mr. Henry's absence. It is reported certain persons have said they know who was responsible for the fire, but were afraid to tell.

During the recent campaign here various rumors were circulated regarding the disposition of a certain $50 bill which had been marked and passed in connection with the Puposky attempt at arson. Mr. Bailey is checking up these rumors, as well as others concerning the purported stay of Mike Davis for a time in the office of a Cass Lake citizen who supplied him with the necessaries of life.

MEETING FOR FARMERS

Virginia Commercial Club Will Hold Conference In April.

Virginia.—President F. E. Lister of the Commercial club is planning to call a convention of Farmers' clubs and farmers, as well as various Commercial clubs of the range to be held in this city about the middle of April for the purpose of discussing road construction into the various farming communities over the range. Chairman R. L. Griggs of the road committee of the Commercial club has been assured by the county commissioners that the road through to Cook and Angora as well as other northern points, will be completed this year and made in passable condition, and that it is probable a road will be completed to the Wolf farming region next summer.

CREAMERY FOR CLOQUET

Farmers and Business Men Each Subscribe Half of Funds Required.

Cloquet.—A mass meting of farmers called by the Commercial club to hear A. J. McGuire talk on co-operative creameries and dairying was well attended. He talked for an hour, urging dairying as the most profitable branch of farming for this section of the state. After the address, Postmaster Fred D. Vilbert called for subscriptions to shares and over sixty at $25 each were disposed of. The creamery is to be opened by May 15, and it is expected the farmers will put up half the funds, and the business men the other half. The First National bank agreed to stand the expense of purchasing two pure bred Guernsey sires for dairy purposes.

THE COLONEL IS COMING

Roosevelt Will Make Six Speeches in Minnesota.

Washington, D. C. — Minnesota will be included in the itinerary of Colonel Roosevelt, who will soon start on a stumping tour of the West. While details of the prospective trip are not available it is announced by the Colonel's managers that he will make at least six speeches in Minnesota. He will appear in St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth, and other towns yet to be designated.

BULLETIN FOR SEED MEN

Farmers to be Notified Where Grain Can be Procured.

Minneapolis.—To offset the threatened shortage of seed grain in Minnesota and the Northwest, Prof. C. P. Bull, secretary of the Minnesota Field Crop Breeders' association, is issuing bulletins containing the names of farmers growing pedigreed grains from whom seed can be obtained. In this way it is expected that thousands of farmers without seed grain will avail themselves of the opportunity of buying the very best grain at reasonable rates.

It is estimated in this bulletin that Minnesota, figuring on the basis of the 1910 census, must have the following amounts of seed for her staple crops: Corn, 2,004,068 acres, 300,581 bushels; wheat, 3,276,911 acres, 4,096,139 bushels; oats, 2,977,258 acres, 6,000,000 bushels; barley, 1,573,761 acres, 3,147,522 bushels; flax, 358,426 acres, 205,055 bushels; rye, 266,567 acres, 399,850 bushels; potatoes, 223,692 acres, 2,684,304 bushels; timothy, 780,375 acres, 200,000 bushels; alfalfa—the demand for seed, with the acreage uncomputed, is greater than the supply.

The bulletin adds, when the figures have been given, that it is believed fully twice the amount of wheat will be necessary to plant the 1912 crop, since it is not believed by experts that the acreage has decreased 50 per cent, as the census figures would attempt to establish. It is stated that the acreage will be far greater than it was in 1910 or 1911, and that it is probable that far more seed will be needed to plant nearly every crop.

DAMAGE SUIT NOW ON TRIAL.

Former Mankato Teacher Asks $10,000 From School Superintendent.

Mankato.—The trial of the $10,000 damage suit of Harold K. Chance against Professor F. J. Sperry, superintendent of the city schools, for alleged libel in making a report to the school board of the former's alleged incompetency as a teacher and disloyalty, upon which report he was removed from his position, has begun in the district court and is attracting much attention. Mr. Chance was engaged as an instructor in the high school last September, and his removal occurred in December. Since then he has been employed in newspaper work in Minneapolis. He alleges that the superintendent and high school principal, Professor J. G. Norby, became unfriendly to him because he aspired to the latter's position when he heard a vacancy was likely to occur, and claims the derogatory report was made maliciously. This is denied strenuously by Professors Sperry and Norby. Mr. Chance has subpoenaed fifteen high school students as witnesses. The defense does not expect to use any student testimony, but will have other teachers and school board members as witnesses.

St. Croix Improvement Likely.

Washington.—Improvement of the St. Croix river, both in the matter of navigation and power is contemplated in an agreement made by Representatives Stevens of Minnesota and Lenroot of Wisconsin. This agreement is the outcome of a bill by Mr. Lenroot authorizing the construction of what is known as the Nevers dam in the St. Croix near Sunrise, Minn.

Mr. Stevens has a bill pending, providing for the construction of a dam in the same vicinity by the Markham-Kelsey interests. These two measures were introduced at the last session of congress. The interstate commerce committee reported the Stevens bill.

At a conference Messrs. Lenroot and Stevens decided to submit the question to the war department for arbitration. The war department will be asked to decide whether the Nevers dam or the Markham-Kelsey dam shall be constructed.

The war department will also be requested to make a survey of the St. Croix from Taylor's Falls to the head water of the river, both as to navigation and power. A survey of the river from Prescot to Taylor's Falls is authorized in the river and harbor bill now pending before the house. The war department will also be asked to make a recommendation looking to the construction of works that will prevent the recurrence of floods in the St. Croix.

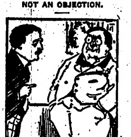
Timber Sale Bill Passed.

Washington, D. C. — The senate passed a bill which has already passed the house, providing for the sale of timber on northern Minnesota land which was burned over in the forest fires of 1910. The sale is to be under the supervision of the secretary of the interior and where the timber is on a homestead to which the settler has not received a title, he is to receive a portion of the proceeds immediately, and the remainder when he gets a patent. The bill now goes to the president for signature.

NOT AN OBJECTION.



Mr. Hardhead—I have called, sir, to ask for the hand of your daughter.

PHYSICIAN SAID ECZEMA CAME FROM TEETHING

"When my little girl was about eight months old, she was taken with a very irritating breaking out, which came on her face, neck and back. When she first came down with it, it came in little watery-like festers under her eyes, and on her chin, then after a few days it would dry down in scaly, white scabs. In the daytime she was quite worrysome and would dig and scratch her face nearly all the time.

"I consulted our physician and found she was suffering from eczema, which he said came from her teething. I used the ointment he gave me and without any relief at all. Then I wrote for a book on Cuticura, and purchased some Cuticura Soap and Ointment at the drug store. I did as I found directions in the Cuticura Booklet, and when she was one year old, she was entirely cured. Now she is three years and four months, and she has never been troubled with eczema since she was cured by the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. (Signed) Mrs. Freeman Craver, 311 Lewis St., Syracuse, N. Y., May 6, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

What Is In a Name?

A Chicago man who hardly knew one tune from another made the mistake of taking a knowing woman to a concert at Orchestra Hall. The selections were apparently unfamiliar to him, but when the "Wedding March" of Mendelssohn was being played he began to evince some interest.

"That sounds familiar," he said. "I am not strong on those classical things, but that's a good one. What is it?"

"That," gravely replied the woman, "is the 'Maiden's Prayer.'"

CHICAGO PACKERS ARE ACQUITTED

GOVERNMENT LOSES SUIT TO PROVE THAT DEFENDANTS FORMED MONOPOLY.

TRIAL COST OVER $600,000

Verdict in Case Against Ten Chicago Packers Comes as Surprise—Jury Is Out Nineteen Hours.

Chicago, March 27.—Not guilty was the verdict which the jury returned in the trial of the ten Chicago packers, accused by the government of violation of the criminal sections of the Sherman anti-trust act. The verdict was returned before United States District Judge Carpenter after the jury had deliberated more than nineteen hours.

The ten defendants acquitted are:

Swift Group.

Louis F. Swift, president of Swift & Co.

Edward F. Swift, vice president of Swift & Co.

Charles H. Swift, director of Swift & Co.

Francis A. Fowler, manager dressed beef department, Swift & Co.

Armour Group.

J. Ogden Armour, president Armour & Co.

Arthur Meeker, director and general manager, Armour & Co.

Thomas J. Connors, director and general superintendent, Armour & Co.

Morris Group.

Edward Morris, president Morris & Co.

Louis H. Heyman, manager beef department, Morris & Co.

Edward Tilden, president of the National Packing company.

All Defendants in Court.

All the defendants were in court when the verdict was reported. The verdict came as a surprise to many who had been watching the case.

In the trial the government contended:

That prior to 1902 prices were fixed, shipments regulated and territory divided by the old beef pool which met every Tuesday.

That after the old beef pool dissolved in 1902 the packers held secret meetings at each others' homes.

That the National Packing company, sence its organization in 1903, has been used as the "clearing house" for the alleged combination.

That the packers adopted a test cost and margin system which was used in the purchase of cattle and the sale of fresh meat.

That the allowances made for by-products in figuring the test cost were inadequate and the "cost" used by the packers was fictitious and higher than the actual cost.

That the representatives of the different companies in New York, Boston and other eastern cities exchanged information in regard to prices and shipments and telegraphed the figures to their superiors in Chicago.

That the violation of the Sherman law by the packers has been continuous and practically uninterrupted since 1898.

The trial was one of the longest criminal trials in the history of the federal courts. It began Dec. 6, 1911, and the jury was sworn in Dec. 19. The first witness was called by the government Dec. 26. The government put forty-nine witnesses on the stand and introduced 1,488 documents in evidence. The record of the case contains 5,000,000 words.

It is estimated that the trial cost the packers $500,000, and the government about $100,000.

SOO TRAIN WRECKED.

Six Coaches of Passenger No. 106 Derailed Near Belgrade, Minn.

Belgrade, Minn., March 27.—Passenger train No. 106, eastbound, on the Soo Line, due in Minneapolis about 7 a. m., was wrecked three miles east of Belgrade. Six cars left the track on a twenty-foot embankment, and some of them rolled into the ditch below. Two sleeping coaches, the diner, a day coach, smoker and baggage car were derailed.

A dozen persons were injured, but only one seriously—A. Linderholm, a stock buyer of this place. He was badly cut and bruised about the head, and will probably lose the sight of one eye. Conductor Anger of Minneapolis was slightly hurt. The baggageman happened to be out of his car or otherwise he would probably have been killed.

The accident is supposed to have been caused by a defective rail. The track was torn up a distance of a quarter of a mile.

Vancouver Policeman Is Killed.

Vancouver, B. C., March 27.—Police Constable Byers, was shot and almost instantly killed by Oscar Amil Larson in Larson's shack. Later, when two other officers came to arrest Larson, he turned the weapon upon himself and, although he fired four shots, all of which took effect, he is still alive in the hospital. Only one of the shots is dangerous and physicians say Larson may survive. The shooting followed a row between Larson and his brother.

MORE JEWELRY IS SEIZED

SPECIAL AGENTS OF GOVERNMENT TIGHTEN NET.

Diamonds, Watches, Laces and Other Articles Seized in North Dakota.

Cando, N. D., March 27.—Operations of Special Agent George Foulkes in connection with the Minneapolis jewelry smuggling case reached Cando, when he made a seizure of $3,200 worth of diamonds, watches, rings, rugs and laces in the home of a prominent citizen, whose name has been withheld. Mr. Foulkes spent two days here, and the seizure is believed to have important bearing on one of the branches of work carried on by the alleged smuggling syndicate.

Checks also are said to have been issued covering the valuables seized, and the jewelry in question has been placed under the department labels.

One Suspect At Minot.

Minot. — Special treasury officers captured one of the purchasing and carrying agents of the twin city jewelry smuggling ring. David Elves, a special customs officer, and David McClennan, in the same service, were in the city, with a third man accompanying them. The trio left here for Devils Lake to meet Special Agent Foulkes. Special Agent McClennan, according to a report from Portal, boarded the train in that place and the supposed smuggler was approached by the two officers near Bowbells. The agent had some jewelry in his possession, but the federal officers refuse to discuss the affair.

Foulkes After Warrants.

Grand Forks. — Connecting links which will compete the government's chain of evidence against jewelry smugglers who have been operating extensively across the Canadian border, are being welded by special officers of the treasury department operating along the frontier.

Special Agent Foulkes, under whose direction the work is being handled, was in Grand Forks, bound for Fargo, where he will lay information before the United State district attorney and ask for warrants.

The head of the smuggling concern, who is hurrying on to Minneapolis from some eastern point, will be met there by Mr. Foulkes. Just who he is cannot be learned. Mr. Foulkes refuses to give any information about the case.

Officer on Minnesota Boundary.

International Falls, Minn.—Special Officer Charles S. Horn has been here the last two days, but his operations have been closely guarded. So far as known, no steps toward arrests have been made.

Seventy-nine Men Trapped In Mine.

Welsh, W. Va., March 27.—An explosion in the mine of the Jed Coal and Coke company at Jed, six miles south of here, imprisoned seventy-nine men, of whom ten have been taken out alive and one dead. Rescuing parties are making frantic efforts to reach the other miners and there are high hopes that the remaining sixty-eight may be recovered alive. The cause of the explosion is not yet known. Two mine rescue cars have been ordered to Jed. The state mine inspector already is on the scene.

Chicago Grain Market.

Chicago, March 27.—A broadening demand reported at Liverpool brought about renewed firmness here today in the market for wheat. Cables told of a steady decrease in stocks at the British port and referred significantly to purchases on the part of millers. Unfavorable weather in Argentina, making the movement of the crop difficult, acted also in favor of the bull side. There was fear, too, that ocean freight rates would be dearer unless the coal miners' strike in England were ended soon. The opening was ⅛c off to ⅛c higher. May started at $1.02⅛@1.03, the same as last night to ⅛c up, touched $1.02¾ and rallied to $1.02⅞.

Longs were unloading corn, prices had poor support. Liberal receipts and lack of shipping call furnished the reason. May opened ⅛@¼c down at 71¾@72c, sagged to 71⅝@71¾c and rallied to 72c.

The oats market took color from corn. Trade was slow and easy in tone. May started unchanged to ⅛c higher at 53⅛@53¼c, and descended to 53⅛c.

Provisions advanced with hogs. Offerings were only fair. Initial sales ranged from 2½@7½c higher with July delivery $16.92½ for pork, $9.82½ for lard and $9.52½@9.55 for ribs.

Orozco's Forces Defeated.

Mexico City, March 27. — The advance of General Orozco toward Torreon and Mexico City has been checked according to advices received by the war department here today. It is stated that late advices from Jimines declared that, after being routed, and with Commander General Jose Gonzales Salaz, a suicide, the federal troops re-formed the broken ranks, threw themselves upon the rebels with redoubled fury and administered a crushing defeat to the Orozco command.

TAFT WINS THE N. Y. PRIMARIES

PRESIDENT'S SUPPORTERS CLAIM 83 OUT OF 90 DELEGATES TO CONVENTION.

ROOSEVELT GETS ONLY 7

Organization Candidates in Practically Every District Are Elected—Colonel Men Dissatisfied.

New York, March 27. — State-wide Republican primaries for delegates to the Republican national convention at Chicago resulted in the election of organization candidates in practically every district where there was a contest. Claims that at least 83 of the 90 delegates will be for Taft and not more than 7 for Roosevelt were made by State Chairman William Barnes, Jr., and John W. Hutchinson, director of the eastern branch of the National Taft bureau.

Chairman Charles H. Duell of the Roosevelt city committee declared that the primaries characterized by "a complete breakdown of the election machinery had been a farce." He asserted that an effort would be made by the Roosevelt committee to secure "a real primary in this city with a full expression of Republican opinion."

As to the result of the balloting, Chairman Koenig said:

"With 132 election districts missing, President Taft in the primary contest in New York county received 29,402 and Colonel Roosevelt 14,011.

"This indicates that the president has beaten Colonel Roosevelt in this city by more than 2 to 1. It was the most remarkable victory ever achieved by the organization when we consider that Colonel Roosevelt is a resident of New York. We hope now that the primary contest is over and that all Republicans will unite in support of the president."

County Chairman Koenig claimed victory in his own district, by a vote of 980 to 70 and declared the returns from about 10 per cent of the election districts indicated a ratio of voting of about 8 to 1 against the opposition. He claimed the election of organization delegates in every district.

The primaries opened at 3 p. m. amidst great confusion, owing to the delay in delivering the ballots in many voting districts.

In one case on the West side, the police officially reported that the ballots designed for use at 18 polling places did not arrive until about 6 p. m., and in the three-hour wait, some early-comers left the polls. The polls closed at 9 p. m. There was further embarrassment because the green ballots for the Democratic primaries were delivered to many places instead of the Republican pink ones. It was well into the evening before the mix-ups were straightened out.

President Britt of the board of elections declared that the delay was due largely to the eleventh hour litigation which the Roosevelt committee began over the position of delegates on the ballots, resulting in court orders which handicapped the printer.

It was the first trial of the new primary law and the working of it had been looked to with special interest on this occasion. Ballots ranged from 10 to 14 feet long and so great had been the haste to get them out that in some cases they were in sections, there having been lack of time to paste them together.

FIEND AT MINNEAPOLIS.

Girl Strangled on the Street, in Defense of Her Honor.

Minneapolis. — Minneapolis was shocked Sunday morning by the discovery of the mute evidences of the most horrible crime in her history. The mutilated, bloody and defiled body of Alice Matthews, a twenty-one year old mill girl was found on the sidewalk, two doors from her home and the police are absolutely at sea for a clue.

Miss Matthews who has borne an unblemished reputation, spent the evening with two girl chums up town and left the street car four blocks from her home at 11:30. Several neighbors heard her struggles and cries and one or two even saw her and a man, but thought it was either a lovers' quarrel or two drunken men and did not interfere. One woman summoned a policeman, but he misunderstood the order over the phone and searched the wrong street. A younger sister of the dead girl, returning from a party at 2 a. m. stumbled over the body, but also took it to be a drunk man and hurried on. In the morning the woman who had called the police, saw the body still there and was horrified on making an examination to discover it was a neighbor girl.

The autopsy showed that death was due to strangulation, and was accompanied by a criminal assault.

The girl was noticed by another passenger on the street car talking to a man wearing a long dark overcoat and soft felt hat, and the two alighted together at the end of the line.

HILL FOR TEST FARMS

Will Rent Land, Furnish Seed, Pay for Work and Give Crop.

Litchfield. — Fifteen or twenty demonstration farms of from three to five acres each will be conducted in the vicinity of Litchfield, under the auspices of James J. Hill and the Great Northern railroad. Each farmer will be furnished free seed, will be paid for the work he does on the demonstration plots, will be paid a rental of $8 for the use of the land and will be allowed the crops. In return, however, the farmer must co-operate with Mr. Hill and the experts to be sent out by him. The crops grown well be decided in conference with the farmers interested and will answer to the needs of the community.

Mr. Hill will establish between 300 and 500 of such demonstration farms. The work will be carried on near ten or fifteen towns in the state, but mostly in the Red River Valley. This is one of the most comprehensive farming plans yet attempted.

Mr. Hill is giving the matter of these demonstration farms his personal attention. Professor F. R. Crane of the University of Wisconsin will be in immediate charge of the work and he will be assisted by the students from the agricultural colleges of Wisconsin and of this state. He will be here soon to meet all farmers interested in the matter. It is aimed to have the plats so close together that they may be easily visited during the course of a day's travel.

In his address here last week, Mr. Hill stated that "every time something was sold off the farm a part of the farm was sold with it." It was his opinion that with good care and right treatment land should yield 10 per cent on a valuation of $125 an acre, or $12 an acre net.

MURDERER CAUGHT.

Sixteen Year Old Minneapolis Boy Killed Settler At Mora.

Mora. — Eugene Thomas, a sixteen year old Minneapolis boy is in jail at Grantsburg, awaiting grand jury action for the confessed murder of R. N. Winters, a settler in this county, last week.

Winter's body was found last Tuesday in his cabin door, with two bullet holes. A boy's mitten was found inside. Inquiry traced the mitten to the Thomas boy who had been visiting in the neighborhood and the lad was arrested at Minneapolis and brought here. He made a full confession, saying he had long held an ambition to become a bandit, acquired through novel reading. When he quarreled with his uncle here, he decided it was a good time to begin and was engaged in rifling Winters' cabin when he returned home and the boy shot him without warning, and departed. He apppears wholly unconcerned over his situation.

TEN TONS OF FISH

Catch From Minnesota Lakes Sells at 15 to 18 Cents a Pound.

Lakefield.—The Booth Packing company that has had a crew fishing in Heron Lake, north of this village, has discontinued fishing and shipped all its tackle. The last catch netted over 10,000 pounds. In all more than ten tons of fish have been taken. Buffalo, carp, redhorse and sheepshead were the only varieties they were allowed to take. These are shipped to eastern markets where they command a good price. The idea common among many that they go to the canneries and come back in the guise of salmon, is said by the manager of the nets not to be true as these fish command too high a price to permit of this being done. The catch is sold at from 15 to 18 cents a pound.

WOLVES & FOXES FEAST

Fish Seeking Air Provide Good Eating For Wild Animals.

Duluth.—C. G. Hartley, a capitalist and mining man, just returned from the northern part of the state, says the wolves and foxes are feeding on the fish in the inland lakes, killing vast quantities of them.

The lakes have been frozen over so tight that all air was excluded until the recent thaws and the fish were smothering for want of oxygen. Breaks began to show recently and to these the fish crowded for breath. The wild animals became aware of the conditions and repaired to the holes to feast. Illegal fishers, also, are cutting holes and taking out great numbers of bass and pike.

How does President Taft think the New York soapbox compares with that of North Dakota?

The result of the ten years of litigation against the packers accused of forming a food trust was not very encouraging to those who, whatever the result in in court, are morally convinced that there are men exercising a power over the food supplies of the country and their prices that ought not to be tolerated for a minute.

ROOSEVELT HITS TAFT SOPHISTRIES

Arguments of the President Torn to Tatters.

TO RULE IS PEOPLE'S RIGHT

Colonel Declares His Confidence in Plain People—Should Have Power to Redress Own Wrongs—Shows Up Inconsistencies of His Opponents.

New York, March 21.—Former President Roosevelt delivered an address last night in Carnegie hall before an enthusiastic and demonstrative audience. He refuted with characteristic vigor and logic the arguments made against his Columbus speech by President Taft and others. He said:

"The great fundamental issue is now before the Republican party and before our people can be stated briefly. It is, Are the American people fit to govern themselves, to rule themselves, to control themselves? I believe they are. My opponents do not. I believe in the right of the people to rule. I believe that the majority of the plain people of the United States will, day in and day out, make fewer mistakes in governing themselves than any smaller class or body of men, no matter what their training, will make in trying to govern them. I believe again that the American people are as a whole capable of self-control and of learning by their mistakes. Our opponents pay lip loyalty to this doctrine, but they show their real beliefs by the way in which they champion every device to make the nominal rule of the people ashamed. I have scant patience with this talk of the tyranny of the majority. Whenever there is the tyranny of the majority, I shall protest against it with all my heart and soul. But we are today suffering from the tyranny of the minorities. It is a small minority that is grabbing our coal deposits, our water powers and our harbor fronts. A small minority is fattening on the sale of adulterated foods and drugs. It is a small minority that lies behind monopolies and trusts. It is a small minority that stands behind the present law of master and servant, the sweatshops and the whole calendar of serial and industrial injustice. It is a small minority that is today using our convention system to fit the will of the majority of the people in the choice of delegates to the Chicago convention.

Is the People's Right.

"My opponents charge that two things in my program are wrong because they intrude into the sanctuary of the judiciary. The first is the recall of judges and the second the review by the people of judicial decisions on certain constitutional questions. I have said again and again that I do not advocate the recall of judges in all states and in all communities. The integrity of our judges, from Marshall to White and Holmes—and to Cullen and many others in our own state—is a fine page of American history. But—I say it soberly—democracy has a right to approach the sanctuary of the courts when a special interest has corruptly found sanctuary there, and this is exactly what has happened in some of the states where the recall of judges is a living issue. Is it not equally plain that the question whether a given social policy is for the public good is not of a judicial nature, but should be settled by the legislature, or in the final instance by the people themselves?

"The president of the United States, Mr. Taft, devoted most of a recent speech to criticism of this proposition. He says that it is 'utterly without merit or utility, and instead of being in the interest of all the people and of the stability of popular government, is sowing the seeds of confusion and tyranny.' (By this he, of course, means the tyranny of the majority, that is, the tyranny of the American people as a whole.) He also says that my proposal (which, as he rightly sees, is merely a proposal to give the people a real instead of only a nominal chance to construe and amend a state constitution with reasonable rapidity) would make such amendment and interpretation 'depend on the feverish, uncertain and unstable determination of successive votes on different laws by temporary and changing majorities,' and that 'it lays the ax at the foot of the tree of well ordered freedom and subjects the guarantees of life, liberty and property without remedy to the fitful impulse of a temporary majority of an electorate.'

Is Wholly Unfounded.

"This criticism is really less a criticism of my proposal than a criticism of all popular government. It is wholly unfounded, unless it is founded on the belief that the people are fundamentally untrustworthy. This is the question that I propose to submit to the people. How can the prevailing morality or a preponderance of opinion be better and more exactly ascertained than by a vote of the people? The people must know better than the court what their own morality and their own opinion is. I ask that you, here, you and others like you, you, the people, be given the chance to state your own views of justice and public morality and not sit meekly and have your views announced for you by well-meaning adherents of outworn philosophies, who exalt the pendantry of formulas above the real needs of human life.

"Mr. Taft's position is the position that has been held from the beginning of our government, although not always so openly held by a large number of reputable and honorable men, who, down at bottom, distrust popular government, and when they must accept it, accept it with reluctance and hedge around it with every species of restriction and check and balance so as to make the power of the people as limited and as ineffective as possible. Mr. Taft fairly defines the issue when he says that our government is and should be a government of all the people by a representative part of the people. This is an excellent and moderate description of an oligarchy. It defines our government as a government of all of the people by a few of the people.

"I am not speaking jokingly nor do I mean to be unjust, for I repeat that many honorable and well-meaning men of high character take this view and have taken it from the time of the formation of the nation. Essentially this view is that the constitution is a straight-jacket to be used for the control of an unruly patient—the people. Now, I hold that this view is not only false, but mischievous, that our constitutions are instruments designed to secure justice by securing the deliberate but effective expression of the popular will, that the checks and balances are valuable as far and only so far as they accomplish that deliberation, and that it is a warped and unworthy and improper construction of our form of government to see in it only a means of thwarting the popular will and of preventing justice.

The Real Trouble.

"Mr. Taft says that 'every class should have a 'voice' in the government. That seems to me a very serious misconception of the American political situation. The real trouble with us is that some classes have had too much voice. One of the most important of all the lessons to be taught and to be learned is that a man should vote not as a representative of a class, but merely as a good citizen.

"Mr. Taft again and again, in quotations I have given and elsewhere through his speech, expresses his disbelief in the people when they vote at the polls. In one sentence he says that the proposition gives 'powerful effect to the momentary impulse of a majority of an electorate and prepares the way for the possible exercise of the grossest tyranny.' Elsewhere he speaks of the 'feverish uncertainty' and 'unstable determination' of the laws by 'temporary and changing majorities,' and again he says that the system I propose 'would result in suspension or application of constitutional guarantees according to popular whim,' which would destroy, 'all possible consistency' in constitutional interpretation. I should much like to know the exact distinction that is to be made between what Mr. Taft calls 'the fitful impulse of a temporary majority,' when applied to a question such as that I raise and any other question. Remember that under my proposal to review a rule of decision by popular vote, amending or construing to that extent the constitution, would certainly take at least two years from the time of the election of the legislature which passed the act.

Then Becomes a "Whim."

"In one of Mr. Taft's speeches he speaks of 'the voice of the people as coming next to the voice of God.' Apparently, then, the decision of the people about the presidency after four months' deliberation, is to be treated as 'next to the voice of God,' but if after two years of sober thought they decide that women and children shall be protected in industry, or men protected from excessive hours of labor under unhygienic conditions, or workers compensated when they lose life or limb in the service of others, then their decision forthwith becomes 'whim' and 'feverish' and 'unstable' and an exercise of 'the grossest tyranny' and the 'laying of the ax to the foot of the tree of freedom.'

"That is the old, old, doctrine which has been acted upon for thousands of years abroad and which here in America has been acted upon, sometimes openly, sometimes secretly, for forty years by many men in public and private life, and I am sorry to say by many judges; a doctrine which has in fact tended to create a bulwark for privilege, a bulwark unjustly protecting special interests against the rights of the people as a whole. This doctrine to me is a dreadful doctrine for its effect is, and can only be, to make the courts the shield of privilege against popular rights. Naturally, every upholder and beneficiary of crooked privilege loudly applauds the doctrine. It is behind the shield of that doctrine that crooked clauses creep into laws, that men of wealth and power control legislation.

"Remember I am not discussing the recall of judges—although I wish it distinctly understood that the recall is a mere piece of machinery to take the place of unworkable impeachment which Mr. Taft in effect defends, and that if the days of Maynard ever came back again in the state of New York I should favor it. I have no wish to come to it, but our opponents when they object to all efforts to secure real justice from the courts, are strengthening the hands of those who demand the recall. In a great many states there has been for many years a real recall of judges as regards appointments, promotions, reappointments and re-elections, and this recall was through the turn of a thumbscrew at the end of a long-distance rod in the hands of great interests. I believe that a just judge would feel far safer in the hands of the people than in the hands of the interests.

"My remedy is not the result of a library study of constitutional law, but of actual and long-continued experience in the use of governmental power to redress social and industrial evils. Again and again earnest workers for social justice have said to me that the most serious obstacles that they have encountered during the many years that they have been trying to save American women and children from destruction in American industry have been the courts. That is the judgment of almost all the social workers I know and of dozens of parish priests and clergymen and of every executive and legislator who has been seriously attempting to use government as an agency for social and industrial betterment. What is the result of this system of judicial nullification? It was accurately stated by the court of appeals of New York in the employees' liability case, where it was calmly and judicially declared that the people under our republican government are less free to correct the evils that oppress them than are the people of the monarchies of Europe. To any man with vision, to any man with broad and real social sympathies, to any man who believes with all his heart in this great democratic republic of ours, such a condition is intolerable. It is not government by the people, but mere sham government, in which the will of the people is constantly defeated. It is out of this experience that my remedy has come, and let it be tried in this field. When as the result of his education and debate a majority of the people have decided upon a remedy for an evil from which they suffer and have chosen a legislature and executive pledged to embody that remedy in law and the law has been finally passed and approved, I regard it as monstrous that a bench of judges shall then say to the people: 'You must begin all over again. First, amend your constitution (which will take four years); second, secure the passage of a new law (which will take two years more); third, carry that new law over the weary course of litigation (which will take no human being knows how long); fourth, submit the whole matter over again to the very same judges who have rendered the decision to which you object. Then, if your patience holds out and you finally prevail, the will of the majority of the people may have its way.' Such a system is not popular government, but a mere mockery of popular government. It is a system framed to maintain and perpetuate social injustice, and it can be defended only by those who disbelieve in the people.

Now Have Different Meanings.

"The decisions of which we complain are, as a rule, based upon the constitutional provision that no person shall be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law. The terms 'life, liberty and property' have been used in the constitutions of the English speaking peoples since Magna Charta.

"Until within the last sixty years they were treated as having specific meanings: 'property' meant tangible property; 'liberty' meant freedom from personal restraint, or, in other words, from imprisonment in its largest definition. About 1870 our court began to attach to these terms new meanings; now 'property' has come to mean every right of value which a person could enjoy, and 'liberty' has been made to include the rest to make contracts. As result, when a state limits the hours for which women may labor, it is told by the courts that this law deprives them of their 'liberty' and when it restricts the manufacture of tobacco in a tenement, it is told that the law deprives the landlord of his 'property.' Now, I do not believe that any people and especially our free American people, will long consent that the term liberty shall be defined for them by a bench of judges. Every people has defined that term for itself in the course of its development. Friends, our task as Americans, is to strive for social and industrial justice, achieved through the genuine rule of the people. This is our end, our purpose. The methods for achieving the end are merely expedients to be finally accepted or rejected according as actual experience shows that they work well or ill.

Is But an Instrument.

"The leader for the time being, whoever he may be, is but an instrument to be used until broken and then to be cast aside, and if he is worth his salt he will care no more when he is broken than a soldier cares when he is sent where his life is forfeit in order that the victory may be won. In the long fight for righteousness the watchword for all of us is spend and be spent. It is of little matter whether any one man fails or succeeds, but the cause shall not fail, for it is the cause of mankind. We, here in America, hold in our hands the hope of the world, the fate of the coming years, and shame and disgrace will be ours if in our eyes the light of high resolve is dimmed, if we trail in the dust the golden hopes of men. If on this new continent we merely build another country of great but unjustly divided material prosperity we shall have done nothing, and we shall do as little if we merely set the greed of envy against the greed of arrogance and thereby destroy the material well-being of all of us. To turn this government either into government by plutocracy or government by a mob, would be to repeat on a larger scale the lamentable failures of the world that is dead. We stand against all tyranny, by the few or by the many. We stand for the rule of the many in the interest of all of us, for the rule of the many in a spirit of courage, of common sense, of high purpose, above all in a spirit of kindly justice toward every man and every woman."

Rural School Notes

The following named teachers received certificates as a result of the last examination:

FIRST GRADE.

Melvin O. Skarsten, Grit, Minn.

SECOND GRADE.

Robert Jackson, St. Hilaire.

LIMITED.

Harold L. Holmes, " "

A large number of credits was obtained by other applicants. A harder application to study and renewed efforts at the summer training school, to begin June 24 in this city, will probably land the coveted prize, the certificate at next examination.

The state high school board examinations were held Monday and Tuesday in the following rural districts:

District No. 37, High Landing, Herbert Swift, conductor.

District No. 219, Thief River Falls, Miss Clara L. Backe, conductor.

District No. 25, Thief River Falls, Miss Katie B. Dahl, conductor.

Districts Nos. 154 and 35, Hazel, Miss Anna Paulson, conductor.

"Several of these schools did splendidly in last year's examinations. We hope for equally good results this year, although perhaps not as many graduates.

The agricultural department of the local high school, in conjunction with the extension division of the university farm, St. Paul, is making a laudable effort to diffuse useful knowledge regarding agriculture among our rural schools.

This week Mr. Walter Haskin, teacher of agriculture at the Lincoln building, and Mr. Bugbee, working under the auspices of the extension division aforesaid, have made the rounds of some of our schools. It is the kind of work and knowledge we need.

I had the good luck to attend one of these meetings at Highlanding on Thursday afternoon. I must say it was an inspiration to all present. The school house, presided over by Mr. Swift, was filled to overflowing by the pupils, parents, and farmers of the three adjoining schools. It is lectures like these that make us feel encouraged and interested in the farms.

I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairny County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

THE SAFE LAXATIVE FOR ELDERLY PEOPLE

Most elderly people are more or less troubled with a chronic, persistent constipation, due largely to lack of sufficient exercise. They experience difficulty in digesting even light food, with a consequent belching of stomach gases, drowsiness after eating, headache and a feeling of lassitude and general discomfort.

Doctors advise against cathartics and violent purgatives of every kind, recommending a mild, gentle laxative tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, to effect relief without disturbing the entire system.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the perfect laxative, easy in action, certain in effect and, withal, pleasant to the taste. It possesses tonic properties that strengthen the stomach, liver and bowels and is a remedy that has been for years the great standby in thousands of families, and should be in every family medicine chest. It is equally as valuable for children as for older people.

Druggists everywhere sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in 50c and $1.00 bottles. If you have never tried it send your name and address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 201 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and he will be very glad to send a sample bottle for trial.

All of That.

"Who is Nat Goodwin?"

"He's the center of the All-America marriage team."

For constipation use a natural remedy. Garfield Tea is composed of carefully selected herbs only. At all drugstores.

44 Bu. to the Acre

is a heavy yield, but that's what John Kennedy of Edmonton, Alberta, Western Canada, got from 40 acres of Spring Wheat in 1910. Reports from other districts in that province showed other excellent results—such as 4,000 bushels of wheat from 120 acres, or 33 1-3 bu. per acre. 25, 30 and 40 bushel yields were numerous. As high as 132 bushels of oats to the acre were threshed from Alberta fields in 1910.

GOPHER NEWS NOTES.

Minnesota Events of the Week in Condensed Form.

Minneapolis. — Colonel Theodore Roosevelt will speak in Minneapolis and St. Paul March 28 or 29.

Winona.—March 29 has been definitely fixed as the time John L. Sundean will come to Winona and represent the insurgency in the ranks of Modern Woodmen rate. It is expected all ten camps in Winona county will be represented.

Winona.—In the current number of the Winona Courier, the official organ of the Catholic diocese of Winona, Bishop Heffron devotes an article to the consideration of the state training school at Red Wing, in which he urges segregation of the worst boys from the ordinary run of inmates there.

Mora.—Eugene Thomas, a sixteen year old degenerate of Minneapolis is being held to the grand jury for the murder of R. N. Winters, a homesteader. The lad, who admits having desired to become a bandit, was robbing the man's cabin when discovered, and shot him on the spot. He has made a full confession.

Minneapolis. — The most horrible crime in the city's history came to light Sunday morning when the body of Alice Matthews, a young girl, was found two doors from her home. She had been assaulted and strangled. Several neighbors had heard her cries without heeding, thinking it was drunk men trying to get home. The police are without a clue.

Elbow Lake—A. H. Foss of this place has invented and secured a patent on a rotary engine that may be operated by either steam or gasoline. The engine has no crank shaft, no cranks of any kind, no cam rods and no cam shaft. It has a revolving gas intake and exhaust valves. Each cylinder has three pistons; explosions occur in each cylinder at the same time, and there are nine explosions for each revolution. The engine is a radical departure from types of gasoline engines now used for automobiles. For using steam all that is necessary is to take out the spark plugs and insert ordinary plugs.

Cass Lake.—Robert Jarvis has erected three cottages on Little Wolf Lake, two and one-half miles west of Cass Lake, which he has already rented for the summer season to tourists. He will erect as many cottages on his lake frontages as he can get tenants for. The chief drawback heretofore to getting a larger number of tourists to come here for the summer has been a dearth of cottages. Many cottages will be erected as soon as the snow is off the ground on Neshota beach, near the Indian mission. The colony at the beach will consist of Thief River Falls families and people who live in North Dakota on the Soo line.

Fergus Falls.—An interesting lawsuit has just been tried in Wadena. Gus. E. Johnson of Aldrich township, has been trapping wolves near his home. One trap was not securely anchored, and a wolf got away with it. A short time afterwards, H. E. Baker, one of his neighbors, found the wolf and the trap attached and shot it. Johnson learned of this, and at once went to Baker, and demanded the return of the trap, the pelt of the wolf, and the bounty. Baker cheerfully returned the trap and offered to divide the bounty, but Johnson was not satisfied and went into court. The case was tried before a jury and Johnson won, securing everything he demanded.

Winona. — St. Joseph's church of Winona, one of the oldest Catholic parishes in the diocese of Winona, is making elaborate preparations for the celebration of their golden jubilee. The church in Winona was organized on August 15, 1862, as a mission, under Rev. Father J. Venn, then the pastor at Caledonia. It was organized as a parish a few years later. Today its owns a solid block of buildings, including the finest parochial school building in the diocese. The general committee in charge of the celebration which is to be held in the late summer, organized and decided to send personal invitations to all of the clergy of the diocese and to all of the former members of the congregation who are scattered throughout the nation.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Hon. William Jennings Bryan was in a national, nonpartisan mock political convention nominated as the "people's" candidate for president of the United States, when delegates of University of Minnesota students, representing 5,000 students and "every state in the Union," assembled in the armory hall and conducted the most notable political convention in the history of the university. About 1,600 persons, including delegates, attended.

The convention was literally a "wild" one, with an almost continuous uproar from 7:30 until after midnight. It demonstrated the sudden changes of political fortune, when North Dakota presented a solid delegation of four in the convention which stood staunchly by Roosevelt and voted for him to the end.

Washington.—An amendment to the river and harbor bill providing for a preliminary survey of the Baudette river between Baudette and Spooner, was added to that measure of the floor of the house just before the measure was passed. The survey was recently petitioned for by commercial bodies of the two cities with a view to se- between them.

Winona.—A. C. Loomis, who has been at the head of the Lewiston schools eight years, has resigned. H. R. Leonard, director of agriculture there the past year, has been chosen as his successor.

International Falls. — Much excitement has been caused by the alleged discovery of gold and copper in paying quantities near Northome, on the property of an iron company, which was being drilled for iron ore. The gold-bearing quartz was struck at a depth of 100 feet below the surface. The drill has bored sixty feet in the quartz. Assay reports hold the quartz to be worth $150 a ton.

Hastings.—John Dempsey of Inver Grove had both legs cut off just above the ankle by a freight train on the Rock Island track. He is expected to recover.

MERE GIRL IS RULER

Grand Duchess Marie Succeeds Father on Throne.

Although Luxembourg's New Sovereign Has Not as Yet Reached Her Eighteenth Birthday She Is to Head Smallest Nation.

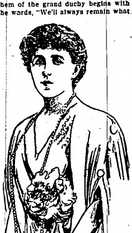
Berlin.—By the death of William Alexander, Grand Duke of Luxembourg, the crown of the little principality passes to his eldest daughter, the Grand Duchess Marie, a girl who has not yet reached the eighteenth anniversary of her birth.

This young girl may in the near future have to wrestle with some very complicated international problems of the greatest importance. The years of her childhood have been gloomy, and it cannot be said that the outlook is very bright for Luxembourg as a nation.

For the last ten years the grand duchess's father, Wilhelm Alexander, had been an invalid. A few weeks after his accession to the throne he was stricken with apoplexy. For five years he had seldom been removed from his bed and his wife, the Princess Maria Anna, Infanta of Portugal, and his daughters hardly ever left the castle of Hohenberg in upper Bavaria, where in the peace of the mountains and forests physicians were trying to save him from his fate. In the city of Luxembourg as well as in Berlin, Munich and Vienna the grand duchess and her children were strangers. They could not with propriety attend any social functions. The grand duke, too weak to be brought back to his own country, found himself to all purposes an exile in Bavaria. This is why, except the fact that she is a rather gifted musician, very little is known concerning the personality of the young duchess.

For the first time in its history Luxembourg will have a ruler born on its own soil. Grand Duchess Marie was born in the capital on June 14, 1894. One of the smallest independent nations in the world, Monaco alone having a smaller area, Luxembourg had always been ruled by foreign princes.

Strangely enough the national anthem of the grand duchy begins with the words, "We'll always remain what we are" "Mir welle bleiwe wat mir sin." Every day at the hour of noon the chimes of the Luxembourg Cathedral repeat this refrain.



Grand Duchess Marie.

Nevertheless, history tells us that Luxembourg was successively Spanish, Austrian, French, German, Dutch, Belgian and what not? Since the tenth century, when Charlemagne's dominions were dismembered and when some robber baron intrenched on the rocky hills of Brock called himself Sire of Luxembourg, the little country has been a pawn on the European chessboard, being included in the victor's plunder after every big battle.

TRIBE HAS ADOPTION DANCE

Writer Tells of Curious Ceremonial of Taking a Child Into Shawnee Family.

New York.—The adoption dance is one of the ceremonial dances of the Shawnees. This is quite different from any one of the festive dances. They come many miles around and camp; their faces are painted and their persons are decorated with beads.

They dance all day and night without eating. A bonfire is built in the center of the camp and they dance around this. The fire is kept burning about the same all the time. This serves also as their light.

The adoption dance is rather quiet, more so than the other dances. The women do most of the singing, says a writer in the Red Man, and sing very low. They dance around in a circle in twos. The men dance together in front, and the women together in the rear.

The two leaders in front are usually the ones who are adopting the child. They carry tin pails; in these are rubber balls, which bounce and keep time with the drummers. This is all the music they have to dance by. If a large crowd is assembled they may have two or three drums.

At these dances good order is kept. No drunkenness is allowed. The dance is in a grove, and if one does not behave decently they tie him to a tree for the rest of the dance. After the dance they have a great feast which lasts all day, and visitors, and all others who attend the dance, are invited to partake of the feast.

FOR SCIATIC RHEUMATISM

Try the Treatment That Cured This Pronounced Case in Minneapolis After Other Treatments Failed.

Sciatica is neuralgia of the sciatic nerve. Its origin is generally rheumatic and is the direct result of taking cold. For this reason the disease is commonly known as "sciatic rheumatism." That Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure this disease is shown by numerous cases like that of Mrs. J. B. Hansen, of No. 221 Twentieth Ave., So., Minneapolis, Minn. She says:

"A few years ago following an attack of the grip I was taken with sciatica. For six years I suffered untold agony and thought it would be a blessing to me if I could only die. There were sharp, shooting pains in both of my limbs and my shoulders and arms were affected also but not so severely. If I moved about quickly, the pain would catch me so that I had to scream. My limbs would swell until I could hardly walk. I also had a terrible dull pain in my back which was often unbearable. I was confined to bed for a week or two at a time. While suffering from the sciatica I was further run-down by weakness common to women of my age.

"I received so little relief from the doctor's medicine that I became discouraged and quit it. My husband urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as he had read how they had cured cases like mine. I felt better after I had taken the pills a short time but took several boxes until I was certain I was cured. I give this statement of my cure thinking that other sufferers may be helped as I was through using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

The tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills succeeds where other treatments fail because it is based on the sound medical principle that the health of the nerves depends on pure, red-blood.

Every person who is interested in the home treatment of nervous disorders should send for a new edition of our booklet entitled, "Diseases of the Nervous System, Their Nature, Symptoms and Treatment." Address the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are for sale at all druggists, or will be mailed to any address, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y

Exposing Children to Disease.

In an article on the treatment of sick children in the Woman's Home Companion the author, Dr. Roger H. Dennett, a famous New York specialist on the diseases of children, says: "Never, never, never expose the child to any contagious disease in order that he may have it once and be done with it. Even the so-called simple children's diseases, such as measles or whooping cough, have a death rate that is appalling.

Modern Journalism.

Arthur Brisbane, the editor, praised at a dinner in New York, the educative value of moving pictures.

"But of course," he said afterwards, "the moving picture will never equal the newspaper as an educative force.

"The newspaper not only reports news—in dull seasons it makes news as well. A famous editor put this news-making feature very neatly before a cub reporter when he said:

"'If a dog bites a man it isn't news. But, if a man bites a dog, it is. Whenever you can't find a man biting a dog, go and bite one yourself.'"

Financial Cripples.

They were taking the visitor from up-state around Manhattan, showing him the sights. The big automobile rolled past many wonderful buildings, all of which the host pointed out with some feelings of civic pride. At last they chanced to pass by the Municipal Lodging house.

"What's that place?" asked the rural visitor.

"Oh, that's one of New York's home for cripples," was the reply.

"What kind of cripples?" was asked.

"Financial," was the reply, as the car sped on.—New York Herald.

His Coming Out.

A fond Chicago mother is to give a coming-out party for her son. Of course, we have no means of knowing the youth, but we fancy he must be exactly that kind of son—and we await with bated anxiety a full description of his coming-out costume.

What will be done with the gentle youth after this severe social ordeal isn't stated, but it can be believed that he is to be rushed around to all sorts of society functions—and, of course, carefully guarded against the matrimonial designs of fortune-hunting females.

A Swift Transformation Briefly Described.

About food, the following brief but emphatic letter from a Georgia woman goes straight to the point and is convincing.

"My frequent attacks of indigestion and palpitation of the heart culminated in a sudden and desperate illness, from which I arose enfeebled in mind and body. The doctor advised me to live on cereals, but none of them agreed with me until I tried Grape-Nuts food and Postum.

"The more I used of them the more I felt convinced that they were just what I needed, and in a short time they made a different woman of me. My stomach and heart troubles disappeared as if by magic, and my mind was restored and is as clear as it ever was.

"I gained flesh and strength so rapidly that my friends were astonished. Postum and Grape-Nuts have benefited me so greatly that I am glad to bear this testimony." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

HANDS BURNED LIKE FIRE

"I can truthfully say Cuticura Remedies have cured me of four long years of eczema. About four years ago I noticed some little pimples coming on my little finger, and not giving it any attention, it soon became worse and spread all over my hands. If I would have them in water for a long time, they would burn like fire and large cracks would come. I could lay a pin in them. After using all the salves I could think of, I went to three different doctors, but all did me no good. The only relief I got was scratching.

"So after hearing so much about the wonderful Cuticura Remedies, I purchased one complete set, and after using them three days my hands were much better. Today my hands are entirely well, one set being all I used." (Signed) Miss Etta Narber, R. F. D. 2, Spring Lake, Mich., Sept. 26, 1910.

From 40 to 50 Years of Age. How It May Be Passed in Safety.

Odd, Va.:—"I am enjoying better health than I have for 20 years, and I believe I can safely say now that I am a well woman. I had hemorrhages which would last for weeks and I was not able to sit up in bed. I suffered a great deal with my back and was so nervous I could scarcely sleep at night, and I did not do any housework for three years.

Woman's Power Over Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart-agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and cured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful remedy for woman's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weaknesses and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it. No honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

ST. HILAIRE SPECTATOR.

VOLUME XXXI. ST. HILAIRE, MINNESOTA, SATURDAY, APRIL 6, 1912. NUMBER, 39.

MISSISSIPPI ON A RAMPAGE

GREATEST VOLUME IN HISTORY SWELLS BANKS OF FATHER OF WATERS.

ALL SOUTH IS ALARMED.

Thousands Homeless, Vast Areas Under Water—Armies of Men and Teams Fight to Strengthen Levees.

St. Louis, April 3.—The greatest volume of water to the history of the Mississippi river is held between two hundred miles of levees. They have broken in several places and flooded large areas. Breaks at Hickman, Ky., opposite on the Missouri side and at Memphis have made thousands homeless and done untold damage. Warnings have been given, however, and to date only two lives have been reported lost. Two thousand persons, marooned at Hickman are suffering privation while trains with food supplies cannot be run into the city.

From Cairo, Ill., to Helena, Ark., persons living near the river are abandoning their homes and moving their effects and live stock to higher ground. Further breaks in the Kentucky and Tennessee levees are expected and it is feared the water will force its way through those of Arkansas and Mississippi.

Big Rise Is Looked For.

In the district between Hickman, Ky., and Helena, Ark., an average further rise of two feet is expected. Heavy rains fell on the watersheds of the Ohio, Tennessee and Cumberland rivers and predictions made so far may fall short of the mark.

As far south as New Orleans precautionary work is being done. Governor Sanders of Louisiana has issued special instructions to all state levee board members to press every available workman into immediate service in strengthening the levees of that state. Thousands of men and teams are working all along the flooded stream and special trains, wherever available, are carrying supplies.

Traffic on the Mississippi is practically paralyzed. Government steamers and ferry boats are the only craft in operation. Hundreds of thousands of dollars damage has been done in the towns along the streams which are pouring their flood into the Mississippi. As far away as Middlesboro, Ky., the effect is felt. There a large part of the city is under from one to three feet of water and flooded mines in the district will keep hundreds of miners idle for several days.

Thousands of Acres Flooded.

Memphis.—In the Memphis district the river front is giving the greatest concern. This levee is below the standard size and in many places new. The water is near the crest of the embankment and before the highest stage is reached it is probable the levee will be topped. Modoc, Ark., 30 miles south of Helena sent in an alarming report of sloughing banks and aid is being hurried to that point. In Tennessee the levy in Obion county, which protects Rolfoot lake from flood water, is already being topped and sand bags are being stacked on the levee in an effort to hold back the flood.

Memphis proper is facing a serious situation. In North Memphis backwater from Wolf river, a tributary of the Mississippi, has overflowed Bayou Gayoso. Several hundred families have been driven from their homes and a score or more of industrial plants have been forced to suspend. Along Wolf river only two of the numerous saw mills are in operation. The city's gas plant is surrounded by water. Train service is demoralized.

Wisconsin Streams Swollen.

Durand, Wis.—Turned from the channel by the largest ice jam ever experienced in the lower Chippewa valley, the rushing, flood-swollen waters swept all obstacles from their path in a disastrous race across the river flats and the right of way of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad. Six miles south of the city several hundred feet of track and roadbed have been destroyed.

Nebraska Situation Better.

Omaha.—The flood situation in eastern Nebraska was greatly relieved when 2,000 passengers who had remained in Omaha for 40 hours were able to continue their journey westward.

The Union Pacific railroad was able to start 15 overland trains westward, and 23 trains held up in Fremont east during the night. The Burlington, Missouri Pacific and Rock Island roads also were in better condition and were able to establish limited service.

Floods Inundate Kentucky Mines.

Middlesboro, Ky. — Yellow creek overflowed and inundated part of the city to a depth of from one to three feet. All business was suspended. The mines in Mingo and Stony Fork hollows were flooded. The water receded after a few hours.

Ordeman Downs Romanoff.

Fargo, April 3.—Ordeman threw Romanoff, the Cossack giant, here in twenty-three and nine minutes, respectively. The first fall was gained by a straight toe hold, and the second by a combination toe and arm hold.

TOBACCO REPORTS ARE MADE

MAJORITY AND MINORITY TAKE ACTION ON FINDINGS.

House Passes Bill Creating Children's Bureau in Commerce and Labor Department.

Washington, April 3.—Majority and minority reports on the adverse action taken by the senate judiciary committee upon the Cummins bill to give independent tobacco companies the right of intervention and appeal to the supreme court of the United States from the federal decree, approving the reorganization of the American Tobacco company were made public.

The majority contends that congress has no right to intervene from the decree of approval by the circuit court for the Southern district of New York, which approved the reorganization plan, as it would reverse the court's action; would direct the court to enter an order allowing an intervention already denied, and would reverse previous decisions of the supreme court of the United States and that state attorneys generals and private persons could not be parties to an anti-trust suit.

The minority report in which Senators Borah, Culberson, Nelson and Brown join with Senator Cummins declared that "the whole business formerly under the control technically of the American Tobacco company is now under the control of same persons who then controlled that corporation and in the same proportion."

It charges that some of the corporations found to be violating the law have been left without any change and the court which approved the dissolution plan is criticized.

The minority added that if the circuit court's decree were to be accepted finally congress must amend the anti-trust law so that it would accomplish its purpose more effectively.

The house passed 173 to 17 a bill creating a children's bureau in the department of commerce and labor. The measure already had been passed by the senate and it will now go to the president for his action.

TORNADO HITS CAMDEN.

Big Buildings Demolished and Hundreds of Houses Are Unroofed.

Philadelphia, April 3.—Two women were fatally injured, scores of houses were unroofed and more than twenty-five buildings were demolished by a windstorm of cyclone velocity which passed over that portion of Camden known as Coopers' point, and swept down the Delaware river to the center of this city doing heavy damage.

Camden was in darkness, all the electric lights having been turned off, while streets in the northern section of the city were filled with debris from ruined buildings and telephone poles. Mrs. Anna Cleary, of Camden, and Miss Annie Behrend, of Philadelphia, who were riding in a street car in Camden, were caught beneath a building which was demolished and so badly crushed that physicians say neither can recover.

In the section of Camden where the storm was most severe, entire blocks of dwellings were unroofed and the occupants driven to the streets in terror.

TROUBLE AT CALGARY.

Rioting Expected When Railroad Strike-Breakers Arrive.

Calgary, April 3.—Rioting is expected when 5,000 men sent out from Winnipeg reach here to go to construction camps on the Canadian Northern railway to break the strike that has tied up work. Ten thousand strikers are pouring into Calgary as a result of the agitation of the Industrial Workers of the World, a militant labor organization.

Vancouver.—Six hundred strikers, many of them armed with shotguns, rifles and clubs, drove station men off the Canadian Northern grade at Yale. No arrests were made. The station men hitherto have refused to listen to the appeals of the Industrial Workers' leaders and yielded under threats of violence. Work along the line is at a standstill.

MAROON PLAYER BARRED

Pitcher Prindiville Played With Semi-Pro Team and Is Ineligible.

Urbana, Ill., April 3.—Pitcher Francis Prindiville, of the University of Illinois, has been declared ineligible to compete in conference meets. The conference eligibility committee refused to reinstate him after the Illinois board of athletic control had petitioned it to declare him eligible. He played a few innings with the Chicago Red Sox last year, although he received no remuneration for his work.

Where is He Risen?

By Wilbur D. Nesbit

"And go quickly and tell His disciples that He is risen from the dead."—Matthew xxviii, 7.

I like to think that bud and bloom
And grass and leaf
Are symbols of the empty tomb,
Of ended grief.
I like to think of Him that He
Is risen here,
And that His presence we may see
Each waking year.

For Heaven is so very far,
We cannot reach
The nearest little guarding star
By sight or speech—
But when the day is gladdened by
This clearer blue,
Then Heaven is not far and high
From me and you.

I fain would think He breathes above
The grass and trees;
His heart that throbs with human love
Awakens these;
And lilies pure as acolytes
Their censers swing,
While all the meadowlands and heights
Are worshipping.

So in this thought of mine I find
In stone and clod
And hedge and lattice blossom-twined,
The breath of God.
And yonder in the growing wheat
And fallow lands
I see the path that knew His feet—
Work of His hands.

And so from every bird that sings
I hear the voice
That one supernal message brings:
"Arise! Rejoice!"
I like to think of Him that He
Is risen here,
And that His presence we may see
Each waking year.

The Delinquent Rabbit

By Wilbur D. Nesbit

THEY said last year when Easter was, an' me an' brother John
Got lots o' eggs with names an' lots o' little pictures on,
That rabbits laid the Easter eggs, an' pa he showed me where
Th' paper had a picture of th' rabbit nest, an' there
Was colored eggs all roundabout, an' rabbits hoppin' round

"An' Pa, He Showed Me Where th' Paper Had a Picture of th' Rabbit Nest."

As if they's glad, their Easter eggs by little boys was found.

An' so I got a bunny now; I had it for a week,
An' it ain't cackled none at all, although I go an' peek
Inside its little house an' look if I can find some eggs—

"I've Showed It Pictures Like I Want Put on My Easter Eggs.

But it just sits up when I come, an' begs an' begs an' begs
For lettuce leaf an' cabbage leaf, an' shivers with its nose—
I wonder if a rabbit flaps its wings some when it crows!

I'm tryin' to encur-ridge it; I've give it lots o' straw—
But it don't build a nest at all, it wants to sit an' gnaw
Th' cabbage leaves, an' hop around an' scare at dogs an' cats,
An' turn an' jump a foot or two when I look through th' slats,
An' when it's night th' rabbit won't get up there on th' roost,
An' doesn't like it when I try to help it with a boost.

I've showed it pictures like I want put on my Easter eggs—
I guess it understands me, 'cause it took them with its legs

"Just Sits—an' Begs an' Begs."

In front, an' held them up, an' tried to eat them, too;
Then let them drop an' looked at me as if to say it knew
Just what I meant—but still it's mighty queer;
It hasn't laid an egg at all, an' Easter's nearly here.

It just sets 'round an' spends its time a wriggel-in' its ears
An' jumpin' sidewise, 'fraidlike, at each little sound it hears.
I got some corn an' stuff like chickens eat, an' throwed it in,
An' told my rabbit that it's time egg-layin' should begin;
I got a nice big nest egg an' I've put it in th' nest
An' told my rabbit to sail in an' do its level best.

Make Your Own Easter Bonnet.

How few women realize the possibilities of things that are ready to hand for making an Easter bonnet that shall be beautiful, unique and individual! The ordinary clothes line lends itself readily to a most artistic creation. Take one that is about worn out and coil it into a brim. Soak this overnight in glue to fix it flatly. Then for the body of the hat shred about ten feet of the rope and arrange this upon graceful loops of the remainder, dyeing it all in different tints to suit your complexion or your taste.

Fasten it on with clothes pins.

A PASSING THOUGHT.

Life is like an Easter egg,
We shatter many a lively dream,
And when we've reached the useful part,
We've spoiled the decorative scheme.

ALBERT LEA FLOOD

ALL LOW PARTS OF CITY ARE SUBMERGED AND $100,000 DAMAGE SUSTAINED.

DAM BREAKING IS CAUSE

Residents Flee Homes After Asking Help—Passengers Are Carried From Incoming Trains in Boats.

Albert Lea, April .—With one-third of the city covered with from a few inches to several feet of water, damage conservatively estimated at $100,000 has already been done in Albert Lea as the result of the breaking of about 100 feet of the dam between Fountain and Albert Lea lakes.

The water is rising at the rate of two inches an hour and it is expected that half of the city will be covered before it reaches its level.

The Rock Island railroad yards are submerged and passengers are carried from the trains of that line into the city in boats.

The bridges of the Rock Island and Milwaukee railroads over the channel between the two lakes are also submerged and if the ice in Albert Lea lake gives way both bridges will be washed out. These bridges are valued at $25,000 each.

Residents in the low parts of the city are fleeing their homes. This morning they addressed an appeal to the mayor asking assistance in the moving of their belongings. The whole north end of the city and the country beyond that is cut off.

Residents of the city are greatly excited. The water has crept up slowly until it has reached the paved streets in the center of the city. It may take two days for the water to reach a level if the ice in the upper lake holds.

FARMING AT ITS BEST

Badger Agriculturist Advises Southern Minnesota Tillers and Sons to Remain on Hand.

Mankato.—F. H. Scribner of Rosendale, Wis., special agent of the department of agriculture, in addressing the Better Farming convention held under the auspices of the commercial clubs of Mankato, St. Peter and North Mankato, said:

"The present time is the best ever known for farming. Never before has there been such a period of advance in farming methods, and this is just the time for farmers and their sons to stick to the farms. There is no better place to live and rear families than on Southern Minnesota farms. We are just beginning to learn how to farm. Farmers are not satisfied in these days unless they know the whys and wherefores of things. It is up to us to raise twice what we have done in the past on the same land, and we can do it."

The speaker said farmers no longer are looking upon the soil of their farms merely as dirt, but by soil study, crop rotation and diversified farming, land is again becoming so rich that commercial fertilizers fail to add to its productivity. He strongly advocated raising live stock on farms so as to give back to the soil what is taken from it in crops. He said that seed selection and a careful preparation of soil are necessary to procure best returns and that farmers must use their heads more.

GOOD POULTRY SHOW

Shaw and Flint Talk About Good Farming and Success.

St. John.—The second annual poultry show and farmers' institute at St. John was a success from every standpoint. The display of poultry was the finest ever seen in this section, and exceeded last year's exhibit by fifty per cent. The grains and vegetables displayed were of the best and Professor Shaw, one of the speakers, made favorable comments on their quality, which helps to prove the contention that the soil fertility of the Turtle mountains is second to none in the state.

Professor Shaw spoke on better farming and censured the farmers who are robbing the land of its fertility by the one-crop system of farming. R. F. Flint, state dairy commissioner, made an eloquent plea for the dairy interests.

MASONS CONFER WORK

Scottish Rite Bodies Will Open Four-Day Spring Reunion Monday.

Minneapolis.—The Minneapolis bodies of Scottish Rite Masons held their spring reunion at the Masonic temple beginning Monday morning and continuing four days in which degrees from the fourth to the thirty-second were conferred. Reunions of the Scottish Rite bodies at Duluth and Winona took place at the same time.

$3,000 FOR SON'S DEATH

Woman at Luverne Recovers From Brick Company.

Luverne.—In district court the jury awarded Mrs. Maud Carver, administratrix, against Luverne Brick and Tile company, $3,000 damages for accidental killing of her son, Kenneth Carver, in an elevator shaft at the company's plant last June. The boy's head was caught between the elevator floor and wall, and the body drawn to the upper floor in this manner.

RIVER FLEET IS READY

Government Boats Repaired and Many New Barges Built.

Wabasha.—The government fleet, which has been in winter quarters at Fountain City and South Stillwater, has been repaired, and many barges built. At South Stillwater ten barges have been built and eight others commenced. At Fountain City four barges have been completed and good progress made in the construction of one building, and one inspection boat. Extensive repairs are under way on the dredge Vesuvius, and towboats, Alert, Fury and Elsie. By the time the river opens everything will be in readiness.

The government dam across the river used as a road to the ferry, will be extended 260 feet. This will cut the channel down to about 600 feet, and will make ferrying much easier. Work will be completed early in May.

Miss Clara Hess of Wabasha and Walter Gorke of Chicago were married by Rev. Thomas Billing.

OLD ELEVATOR SOLD

Rochester One First of a Long Chain in the Northwest.

Rochester.—The Van Dusen elevator of this city has been sold to Thomas Boler and Michael Scanlon of Olmstead county the sale marking the passing from the Van Dusen interests of the first elevator started by G. W. Van Dusen, and which led to the formation of the chain of Van Dusen elevators in the Northwest.

It was in the seventies that G. W. Van Dusen commenced the buying of grain in Rochester on a small scale, opening a small elevator here. Gradually he extended his operation until elevators were established along the main line of the North-Western road. The increasing business necessitated the removal of the company offices from Rochester to Minneapolis.

Later the Van Dusen elevators were sold to a British syndicate, G. W. Van Dusen remaining as manager for ten years. This was followed by the acquirement of the interests by the Van Dusen-Harrington company.

METALS AT NORTHOME

Northern Minnesota Men Said to Have Pierced Vein Worth $150 a Ton.

International Falls.—Much excitement has been caused by the discovery of gold and copper in paying quantities in Section 21, township 151, range 28, near Northome, on the property of the Koochiching Vermillion Iron company, which was being drilled for iron ore.

The gold-bearing quartz was struck at a depth of 100 feet below the surface. The drill has bored 60 feet in the quartz and assays show the quartz to be worth $150 a ton.

Practically all the stock in the company is owned by J. E. Cowan of International Falls, Ed. Feeney of Maple Lake and business men of Northome.

The gold-bearing rock is believed to be a part of the rock ledge which runs diagonally through this county from International Falls to Northome, from which many nuggets have been picked up at various points the past ten years.

SOO TRAIN WRECKE

Six Coaches of Passenger No. 106 Derailed Near Belgrade, Minn.

Belgrade.—Passenger train No. 106, eastbound, on the Soo Line, due in Minneapolis about 7 a. m., was wrecked three miles east of Belgrade. Six cars left the track on a twenty-foot embankment, and some of them rolled into the ditch below. Two sleeping coaches, the diner, a day coach, smoker and baggage car were derailed.

A dozen persons were injured, but only one seriously—A. Linderholm, a stock buyer of this place. He was badly cut and bruised about the head, and will probably lose the sight of one eye. Conductor Anger of Minneapolis was slightly hurt. The baggageman happened to be out of his car or otherwise he would probably have been killed.

The accident is supposed to have been caused by a defective rail. The track was torn up a distance of a quarter of a mile.

SUES SALOON MAN

Case Involves Killing of Man While He Was Drunk, Near Wadena.

Redwood Falls.—The administrators of the estate of the late John Choudek have brought suit against saloonkeepers at Wanda for $10,000. The case will be tried here at the spring term of court next month. John Choudek was killed about a month ago near Wanda, by an automobile while he lay in the road stupid with drink.

The case will be tried under the 1911 laws, which give action to certain persons or their heirs and at least will establish a precedent for this locality. If the case is won by the plaintiff it will be a hard blow to saloonkeepers.

Cupid As Booster.

Virginia.—The thing that is retarding the devolpment of the fine agricultural country known as the Little Fork region, north of Virginia, is not pine stumps nor a rigorous climate, according to H. B. Ellsworth of Cook. Mr. Ellsworth is a homesteader, a mill owner and a progressive pioneer. He says the most crying need of the country is to get the hundreds of bachelors who live alone on homesteads, mated with good women, and the problem of the development of the country is solved.

WHAT INSURANCE COMMISSIONERS SAY

Insurance Commissioner Wm. H. Hotchkiss of New York, chairman of the executive committee of the National Convention of Insurance Commissioners, prior to the last Head Camp of the Modern Woodmen of America, gave the following official notice to that society:

"Pursuant to action of the national convention of state insurance commissioners, at its adjourned session in December last, I write you this expression of views as to the necessity of your order—as well as all other fraternal benefit societies—placing itself on a firm foundation as to rates. An insurance society which in these days does not recognize that the cost of insurance is fixed by laws other than man's laws—namely, the laws of nature—or prescribes for its members either a flat rate, irrespective of the age of its members, or any other rate that is not scientifically safe, is deceiving both itself and its members and approaching the time—perhaps slowly, but not the less surely—when it must fail and its contracts be repudiated. The fraternal spirit is a good thing; but the rates and management of fraternal societies must also be such that the beneficiaries of the last member to die will receive every dollar that such member's certificate calls for."

State Insurance Commissioner Ekern of Wisconsin has issued an official interview in which he says: "Fraternal societies generally have come to recognize that their business must be conducted on a sound basis. This means a re-rating for nearly every society, and members who do not fully understand the situation are often inclined to complain of increases in their rates. They should understand that with a re-rating on a sound basis they have a much more valuable insurance than before. All are benefited by getting a permanent insurance for what was uncertain before. The Modern Woodmen of America, by reason of its long experience with a large membership, is permitted to make a rate upon its own experience, which is even lower than that based on the National Fraternal Congress table, which new societies must adopt. The cost of this insurance is not a matter of mortality tables or rates charged, but depends upon the actual deaths in the society. A re-rating merely means that each member shall pay his real share of that cost. Members who think of dropping their insurance will do well to take enough time to study the question before doing anything which may bring regret to both themselves and their families."

The Chicago Inter Ocean says:

"It is unpleasant for the members of the Modern Woodmen Society to have to pay more for their insurance, but let them think how much more unpleasant it would be for those 5,000,000 women and children, or any of them, to be deprived of that protection because their husbands or fathers got angry. That is what all Woodmen should think about."

Facetious Operator.

"I say, mister," said the cadaverous man, entering the telegraph office, "could you trust me for a telegram I want to send my wife? I pay you tomorrow."

"Sorry, sir," said the operator, "but we are terribly rushed these days and there isn't a tick in the office that isn't working overtime as it is."—Harper's Weekly.

The Willmar Tribune conducted a straw vote of Kandiyohi county. Roosevelt received 932 votes, La Follette 624, Bryan ran ahead of Wilson. Eberhart received 565 votes, Gordon 344, Lee 283, and Lobek, prohibitionist, 274.

A convention of ninth district socialists was held at Crookston last Wednesday evening for the purpose of picking a candidate for congress. The choice is between M. A. Brattland of Ada and Dr. Cowles of Detroit the choice to be decided by a referendum vote of the members of the party thruout the district.

The presidential preferential primary plan was turned down at a meeting of the state republican central committee Tuesday. On a motion to table a resolution providing for the plan, the vote stood: Ayes, 28; nays, 7; not voting 2. The state convention will be held in Minneapolis May 16.

Every candidate for governor this year should guard carefully against paralysis. Impudence and arrogance sometimes frighten the timid and drive them into positions where it is difficult to extricate themselves. All of us have the same right to the highest office in the realm, but all are not brave enough to fight for our inalienable rights.—Cass Lake Times.

New York state held a primary election last Tuesday to determine the choice of the "mob" for president of the United States. The results where overwhelming for Taft, and Teddy was turned down hard in his own state. It may be as regular as political parties usually do things, but Teddy is already howling fraud and "steam roller." La Follette was not interested in that election, he is a western man, not well known in the Empire State. There's fun ahead, plenty of it, not far away. —Cass Lake Times.

The real estate men are all very optimistic about the present outlook for the year 1912 and we shall see many new settlers come to Pennington county. Already a great many have come and have settled upon farms which they have already purchased. All the newspapers of the Red River valley tell every week of new settlers arriving. The prosperous years of the past have stimulated the demand for real estate and there will be no better opportunity than the present to become the owner of a good farm home—the safest investment on earth.

Senator La Follette carried the North Dakota primaries and this is giving his candidacy a fresh start and courage, but no matter how he may exert himself, and his friends for him, he can only carry a very limited number of northwestern states. This is the reason why thoughtful progressive republicans are attempting to draft Colonel Roosevelt again into service. There is no one who is fair but what will acknowledge that Senator La Follette is a mighty good man, but as a matter of expedience, the progressive republicans of today are looking for a man who can carry the election.

The other day a merchant in a nearby town saw a farmer receiving goods at the station from a Chicago mail order house, says an exchange. The goods were in his line and the same had been carried in his store for years. He approached the farmer and said: "I could have sold you every article you have there for less money than you paid the Chicago house and saved you the freight besides." "Then why on earth didn't you say so?" answered the farmer, "I have taken the local paper for years and have never seen a line about you selling these goods. The Chicago house sent advertising matter to me, asking for my trade and they got it."—Bemidji Pioneer.

CATCHING UP WITH COL. ROOSEVELT

Taft Trying to Have Supreme Court Decision Recalled.

CHIEF JUSTICE WITH HIM

Mimeograph Case, Gives Special Point to Columbus Speech—Administration Wants Congress to Overthrow Court's Action.

On February 21 Colonel Roosevelt delivered before the constitutional convention of Ohio an oration on "A Charter of Democracy," in which he denounced the doctrine of the infallibility of the courts as a grave danger menacing American institutions, and advocated a simplified method for the recall of court decisions by the people. At once he was assailed by the representatives of Big Business and of Monopoly as an advocate of virtual anarchy and a living threat against the safety of property.

Of course, at the time he was speaking more particularly of state courts, but in less than three weeks—on March 11, to be exact—the Supreme Court of the United States handed down a decision, coupled with the dissent of three members, including that of the chief justice, vindicating Colonel Roosevelt's attitude in every particular. The Supreme Court caught up with Roosevelt. And the severe comments drawn upon himself from the advocates of special privilege ought now, in all justice, to be passed on to the Supreme Court and especially to Chief Justice White. For if ever a human being voiced a demand for the recall of a decision of the courts, Chief Justice White did so in his dissenting opinion.

The Case in Point.

The case was that of Sidney Henry et al vs. the A. B. Dick company. The Dick company owned the patent on a rotary mimeograph. It sold one of the machines to Miss Christina B. Skou, of New York, under a stipulation that the ink, stencil paper and other supplies used with the invention must be bought from the Dick company. The Henry company sold Miss Skou ink for the mimeograph that was not Dick ink, and the Dick company sued the Henry company and Miss Skou for infringement of the patent on the mimeograph. On March 11, with only seven members of the United States Supreme Court sitting, four of them, constituting a majority, decided the case and held that when the Henry company sold the non-Dick ink to Miss Skou and she used it, this constituted an infringement of the patent.

In a dissenting opinion, in which he was joined by Justices Hughes and Lamar, Chief Justice White denounced this extraordinary opinion in the most biting language. Stating that the patent did not cover the ink in any way, he demanded that the legislative department of the government amend the law so as to make it impossible for the precedent established by the decision to be maintained; and then he cited some of the weird and ridiculous lengths to which this decision, if it were maintained, would reasonably lead.

Views of Chief Justice.

"Under this decision it is now the law," declared the chief justice, "that when a patentee sells an engine, "that has a right to bring under the patent laws all coal or electrical energy used to work the machine, or even the lubricants employed in its operation. Take a patented carpenter's plane, The power now exists to confine the carpenter buying it to the use of lumber sawed from trees grown on the land of a particular person or sawed in a particular mill. The owner of a patented cooking device can now hold the buyer to use it in connection with no other food supply than that sold by the holder of the patent. The purchaser of a patented window frame may now be compelled to use no material in his house not bought from the holder of the patent on the frame. It is now established that by putting on a sewing machine, in addition to the notice of patent required by law, a notice called a license restriction, the right is acquired as against the whole world to control the sale of all the materials used in the operation of the machine by the person who has bought it. These illustrations are not imaginary.

"The ruling now made is in effect that the patentee has the power by contract to extend his patent rights so as to bring within the claims of his patent things which are not embraced therein, thus virtually legislating by causing the patent laws to cover subjects to which they could not reach, the result being to multiply monopolies at the will of an interested party."

The decision caused a laugh of derision throughout the national capital. The advocates of the doctrine of the infallibility of the courts were overcome with chagrin, while the supporters of Colonel Roosevelt inquired with sarcastic emphasis whether the people at the polls, so frequently denounced as a "mob" by the advocates of special privilege, could ever do anything worse.

Applying the Recall.

In the meantime, the attorney general and other administration opponents of Colonel Roosevelt fluttered about in flabbergasted haste to find some speedy way to recall the opinion: for if sustained this opinion will take the life out of some of the most spectacular trust busting suits the administration has in its incubator. The attorney general notified the defeated litigants that if they were game to try to secure a rehearing of the case before a full bench of the Supreme Court, the administration would be glad to lend all the assistance of which the Department of Justice was capable. At the same time the attorney general commenced the preparation of a bill for the amendment of the patent law, with the intention of setting congress loose at the Supreme Court. Other steps for the recall of the decision were inaugurated by the commissioner of patents, who also began to work on a bill to be handed to congress.

While this was going on in the executive end of the government, the scene on Capitol Hill was equally lively. Apparently every legislator in congress wanted a copy of the decision, some for the purpose of enjoying themselves and others to study it in the search for a way to recall it. The supply of copies was only normal and was soon exhausted, but the demand was so insistent that the court officials bowed to popular clamor, at the risk of being charged with having been swayed by the mob, and had an additional supply printed.

This is the second piece of sensational legislation perpetrated by the United States Supreme Court within a few months, but this later instance could not better serve as an endorsement of Colonel Roosevelt's plea for the recall of court decisions if it had beed made to order for that purpose.

The Supreme Court has indeed caught up with Colonel Roosevelt.

SPOILS SYSTEM USED FOR TAFT

Machine Hard at Work to Override Will of Republican Voters.

DEBAUCHERY IS THE RULE

Disgraceful Tactics Observed in Indiana, Kansas and Other States to Prevent Real Popular Expression.

Washington.—Outrages more flagrant than any that ever disgraced Republican politics have characterized the fight in behalf of the renomination of William Howard Taft to date.

The brutal force of organization, backed by the tremendous influence of the spoils system and the debauching and intimidating effects of corporation activities in politics, have produced, in a number of recent instances, results which cannot fail to arouse the general indignation of the voters everywhere.

By the sheer force of organization methods, the Taft men are seeking to override the will of the people, obviously believing that the people will submit supinely and fail to resent an open denial of their rights in their own system of government. Some of these instances make plain why the Taft supporters have so persistently and so stubbornly resisted the election of delegates by a direct vote of the people.

Kansas as Example.

This is what happened recently in Kansas. Twenty-seven members of the state committee, which is composed of one hundred and five members in all, met and refused to permit a presidential preference primary in that state—notwithstanding almost unanimous Republican sentiment for the primary—and declared in favor of the renomination of Taft. This action was effected in this way: Fifty-one members of the state committee, less than a quorum, met and without any right to transact business of any kind, held this meeting. The state committee is made up of the chairmen of the different counties who are regularly elected in primaries. Under the law, no member can give his proxy to another member. He must represent his county in person. In the meeting of the committee held, twenty-four of the members present were Roosevelt men. They raised the point of no quorum, and to meet this the Taft men presented several federal office holders, not members of the committee, who presented what they claimed were proxies from absent committee members.

Playing the "Game."

These proxies were without value. Notwithstanding this, the proxy holders were seated by the Taft organization men, until a bare numerical quorum but not a legal quorum was established. Then they proceeded to take the action set forth. There was not a semblance of legality in the proceedings, yet under the circumstances the public was powerless to prevent the outrage. Its effect is to deprive the voters of Kansas of the right to choose their national delegates, and leaves the selection to the discredited bosses of a machine which was supposed to have been wrecked long ago.

Debauching Oklahoma.

Another illustration is furnished by the third district of Oklahoma. In this district when the convention assembled the Roosevelt delegates numbered 646 and the Taft delegates 170. The Taft men controlled the chairman and other officers of the district committee. When the latter found they were outnumbered they withdrew with the other 170 Taft delegates and held a convention of their own. The Roosevelt men, outnumbering the Taft supporters nearly four to one, proceeded to elect delegates pledged to support Theodore Roosevelt. The bolting minority elected two delegates pledged to Taft. Under no principle of right or justice could the Taft delegates establish the slightest claim to seats in the convention. But under the organization system, merely because the district committee was controlled through federal office holders by the Taft administration, the Taft delegates are heralded to the country as the regularly elected delegates and the men chosen by the overwhelming majority of regularly chosen district delegates and directed to support Theodore Roosevelt must appear before the national committee at Chicago as contestants.

If the national committee pursues organization methods, they will be refused admittance to the convention.

Cantata at M. E. Church

A cantata, entitled, "The Easter Light," will be givin at the Imperial hall Sunday evening, April 7, at 8 o'clock, by the Sunday school of the M. E. church.

All are cordially invited.

Consolidation of Schools

A meeting was held yesterday to consider the question of consolidation of districts 54, 178, 237, and 24 with the St. Hilaire district, under the new law. Prof. Hay of the Thief River Falls schools and Supt. Selvig of the state experiment station at Crookston addressed the meeting. C. H. Martz acted as chairman.

Much surprise was expressed at the small attendance and apparent lack of interest. The reason was not far to seek. A change in school methods of so radical and sweeping a nature should have been discussed pro and con in these columns for weeks before any attempt was made to take any action. But the Spectator was not even informed that such action was contemplated until a ten line local was brought in last week at the last moment. When the churches want to give a program they give it more notice than that.

LOMBARD PIANOS
The Pianos With The Sweetest Tone

Praised by Press and Pulpit

No Piano has ever been more enthusiastically endorsed. The Artistic Case, the Easy, Responsive Action, and above all the deep, sweet, rich Tone, captivates performer and listener. The united verdict is that

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairny County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.
